Arlie Marks was assessed $10.00 and costs for speeding in the Township of Darlington, while John Isbell of Toronto paid $5.00 and the costs for crossing intersections at an illegal speed.

Rev. A. Boomhour of Pontypool, donated $5 and costs to the coffers of the Traffic Court for failing to come to a full stop while entering the Provincial Highway at Newcastle.

PETITION IN CIRCULATION

Petition Resents Heavy Sentence Imposed on Local Hotel Proprietor

It is stated that a petition is in circulation in Port Hope which will be forwarded to the Attorney General, containing a list of some local people, who resent the heavy sentence imposed on L. K. Bosheff, proprietor of the Ontario Hotel. Mr. Bosheff suffered considerable loss due to the flooding of his premises by two floods during the first part of April, and it is understood that this is the grounds for the petition.

Mr. Bosheff recently was arraigned in local Police Court on a charge of selling and a sentence of two months in the Counties Jail at Cobourg was imposed.

Rev. W. E. and Mrs. Honey will be at home at the Parsonage at Welcome on Wednesday, May 23rd, from three to six o'clock in the afternoon and half-past seven to ten o'clock in the evening.

TO TIGHTEN UP L.C.A. ACT

Improvement in Enforcement is Also Sought in Effort to Curb the Bootleggers

The discovery by Government secret service agents of contraband liquor, may lead to some drastic legislation at the next session of the Legislature, Chairman Sir Henry Drayton, K.C., of the Liquor Control Board, stated Friday that as the suggestion of padlocking hotels that offend, is a matter of law enforcement, with which the commission has nothing to do, he declined to discuss the subject.

For some time there have been indications that bootlegging on a fairly extensive scale does exist in connection with some hotels, and legislation will be directed against this, as well as for more stringent regulations for brewery warehouses and breweries which assist bootlegging enterprises. Legal phases of the Liquor Control Act have been engaging the attention of Sir Henry and some conferences with the Attorney-General have resulted in more activity in connection with law enforcement. Changes are understood to be pending in the matter of the Commission's policy for more direct supervision both as regards permits and running down of the sources which supply to hotel guests, brands of liquor not carried by the Commission stores.

ARREST GYPSIES AT COBOURG

Cobourg Police Hold Tourists After Theft of $60 From Trenton

This week Chief Ruse and Provincial Constable Storey stopped 3 carloads of gypsies while on their way through Cobourg on instructions from Chief Bain of Trenton. That morning while the gypsies were going through Trenton one of the "ladies" of the party, one weighing close to 200 pounds, by a sleight-of-hand trick, stole $60 from the cashier's desk of a garage in Trenton, the theft not being discovered until the cashier balanced his cash. The money was recovered by Chief Ruse, who allowed the gypsies to keep on their way. They had three big touring cars, containing camping outfits and about twenty children all told, the children and the bedding occupying the back seats of the cars. All three cars had Quebec licenses.

RADIUM VICTIMS MAY NOT DIE

Expert Reports That Five $1,250,000 Plaintiffs May Improve in Health

In a report of Dr. Frederick B. Flynn of Columbia University, it was disclosed Thursday that the five women suffering from radium poisoning, who are suing the United States Radium Corporation for $1,250,000, may not die and may regain a certain measure of good health.

The report, which was written at the request of Chancery Court, made clear that all the women had been poisoned by radium, as they claimed. This was shown by the reduction of the normal white corpuscles count of their blood, a condition which lowers the normal body resistance to infection and causes softening of the bones.

Dr. Flynn said that radium poisoning does not necessarily cause death, though persons suffering from the disease may become weakened and possibly maimed.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Good morning! It keeps foggy!

We will hope it lifts for Sunday and that Old Probs, favors us with a lovely warm sunny day.

This and next Sunday will conclude the afternoon sessions of the United Church Sunday School; beginning with Sunday, June 3rd, the sessions will be held in the morning, opening at 10 o'clock. This will be continued until Rally Sunday, which comes the second week in September.

Mr. John Douglas has purchased the house on Julia street, belonging to Mr. McBride.

Whether an admirer of Tom Mix or not, you will enjoy "Horseman of the Plains" at the Royal tonight. The story gets entirely away from the ordinary western style and includes a cross country race crammed with excitement and fun. Comedy is a strong feature of the production, a couple of darkies causing uproarious laughter. The whole picture is thoroughly entertaining and should please anyone.

A red reflector has been placed at the Welcome corner to aid in protecting the travelling public and advising them of the dangerous curve.

The men are busy laying water lines along the Highway north of Port Hope near Rossmount in preparation for starting the laying of paving. It is understood that considerable of the road and pit machinery will arrive here next week so that everything will be in readiness to start the following week.

The former Jordan building looks like a short story now, but our corner friend says "it's had a long history."

Something should be done to prevent big trucks from discharging cargoes on the main street, where there are lanes in the rear of the stores.

The Companions of the A.O.F., held an enjoyable Old Time Dance in the Town Hall Friday evening.

Tonight the Port Hope Band will parade to Sherman Gifford's garage at the corner of Ridout and Victoria streets, where a display of Dodge cars is being shown. W. J. Challis of Bowmanville is the authorized dealer, while Sherman Gifford is the local sub-agent.

Rt. Wor. Bro. G. M. Goodfellow, District Deputy Grandmaster of Ontario District, paid his official visit to Colborne Lodge A.F. and A.M. Friday evening and a number of Masons from Port Hope, Brighton, and Warkworth attended.

"Why, Father! What makes you think he is a bogus count?"

"He drank that cocktail I made without batting an eye, nobody but an American can do that."

THINKS HIMSELF ANDY'S ORIGINAL

Canandaigua Man Seeks $1,000,000 Damages

David A. Hoag, of Canandaigua, N.Y., is not the only man who has suffered embarrassment because of his resemblance to "Andy Gump," comic strip character, Sydney Smith cartoonist, said today.

Smith said he continuously received letters from persons who have been similarly annoyed. He denied, however, that any of them was the original of the chinless pen and ink creation. The artist when informed of Hoag's $1,000,000 damage suit, against the Syracuse Post-Standard, for printing the Andy Gump cartoon, and of Hoag's assertion that Smith knew him, said he did not recall the Canandaigua man. Smith believed Hoag had confused him with a brother, who lived in Canandaigua for several years.

Hoag lost his chin years ago, in an operation.

ST. JOHN'S PLAYS WELL PRESENTED

Local A. Y. P. A. Presented Two Interesting Plays At Newcastle

The two interesting plays, "Who Kissed Barbara" and "The Dress Rehearsal" were capably presented at the Anglican church in Newcastle Friday evening by the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church, Port Hope, and the large audience that witnessed the playlets were indeed pleased with the productions. A number of the members of the society and others accompanied the caste and an enjoyable evening was spent.

During the intermission fine solos were rendered by Miss Dorothy Fourn and Miss Margaret Milne and Jack Winfield put over a couple of comic songs in his usual capable style. Mrs. Gordon Cook of Port Hope also delighted the audience with a number of readings.

The cast, backed by recent experience in the presentation of the two plays, put both plays over in creditable shape. They knew the lines perfectly and rounds of applause greeted the various acts.

In "The Dress Rehearsal," Miss Cecily Hancock made a sweet and winning Nancy and played the part to perfection, but she almost lost her sweetheart Tom (Herbert Winfield), on account of that telephone. The other parts, Agnes, taken by Miss Claudia Gardiner, The Worried Aunt, by Mrs. L. Gibson, Dick, by Jack Mitchell who has been wiled into playing private theatricals by his sweetheart Agnes, and Mose, "Stanley Woods," the colored butler, were all exceptionally well done.

"Who Kissed Barbara" also was a decided hit with the audience. This play was rather a difficult one for amateurs as pantomime and facial expression were really necessary for its success, but the cast proved equal to the occasion. The difficult role of Barbara was cleverly taken by Miss Margaret Strong and that of her chum, Katherine, who helped her find who kissed her in the dark, by Miss Ivy Ansell. The role of Paul, Katherine's brother, by Jack Winfield, was nobly put over and Charles Fourn and Arnold Wiseman as Horace, the man who was to marry Katherine, and James, the Butler, were both good.

Following the presentation of the plays, refreshments were served.

POSSIBILITIES OF NUT TREES

Practically All of Supplies Now Imported Could Be Grown In Canada

Large as a result of the activities of J. A. Neilson of the local Department of Agriculture, who has been an enthusiastic booster of nut culture in Ontario for several years, there are indications of growing appreciation of nut trees in Eastern Ontario. Mr. Neilson is the author of the Ontario Department of Agriculture bulletin on nut growing.

It is stated that some of the horticultural societies in the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham have been advocating the planting of nut trees, and a similar condition prevails in Prince Edward County, where W. C. Dempsey of Rednersville has for some time been growing Japanese walnuts on his farm with much success. Mr. Dempsey has this season offered a seedling Japanese nut tree to each school in Ameliasburg Township, and nearly all the fourteen schools have responded and will plant and care for these trees. These trees, it is stated, grow quickly and begin to bear nuts in about ten years' time. "Thus it would seem," concludes the article, "that beauty and utility are to go hand in hand in that district."

The culture of nut trees in Canada is one type of specialized agriculture in which it is not generally recognized that there are fine possibilities for profit, says the Department of the Interior, through its Natural Resources Intelligence Service. The culture of nuts is very similar to that of ordinary tree fruits; they may be grown in those sections of Canada where tree fruits do well, as, for instance, in Old Ontario, parts of the Maritime Provinces and Southern British Columbia. The tempering influence of large bodies of water is an advantage, for which reason the fruit belts of Ontario and British Columbia are attractive regions, and it is in those areas where the commercial possibilities of nut culture have been especially tested.

Can Grow Almost All

It is not generally known that most of the varieties now imported can be grown quite satisfactorily in Canada. In fact, if nut culture were taken seriously, there would soon be available more varieties than are at present offered for sale. Among those successfully introduced are the Persian (or English), Japanese and Chinese walnuts, European, Japanese and Chinese chestnuts, pecans, almonds, filberts and the Turkish tree walnut, butternut, hickory, sweet hazel. These, with the native black chestnut, beech and hazel, make a fair assortment.

Three very good reasons are advanced for growing nut trees in Canada. They supply food delicacies at present almost entirely imported; most of the nut trees are beautiful and can be more effectively used for and rural homes and along highways ornamental purposes around urban and streets than many varieties of trees now selected for these purposes; the timber possibilities should not be overlooked. Black walnut is, of course, an especially valuable wood for furniture, while the virtues of hickory for strength and resiliency in implement and carriage manufacture are too well known to need comment. For interior trim the sweet chestnut is highly prized.

Grow Quickly

An erroneous impression has certainly prevailed that nut trees are slow growing and that one would wait a lifetime to get a crop of nuts. In reality most nut trees bear at as early an age as fruit trees and are long lived, giving good results over a long period with very little labor in caring for them. The English walnut also comes into bearing at eight to ten years and produces steadily for a great many years. One of the oldest English walnut trees in Canada is near Vineland in the Niagara district. At about 70 years of age it was 3 feet in diameter and 60 feet in height. It has yielded as high as 30 bushels of nuts in a single season.

Imports in millions

Canadian taste in tree nuts in approximately 1,000,000 worth of nuts annually, but this figure includes peanuts, which are, of course, tubers and not tree nuts. In the last calendar year imports of nuts totaled $4,973,000 of which peanuts accounted for $1,450,000, leaving $3,523,000 as the value of other nuts imported. Walnuts, shelled and unshelled, valued at $1,457,000, slightly exceeded peanuts in importance. Imports of almonds totalled about $822,000. Filberts, hazels and pecans were imported in quantity, and these are also among the varieties of tree nuts which can be grown in Canada.

Canadian taste in tree nuts is principally for walnuts and almonds, walnuts being twice as popular as almonds. The imported almonds come principally from Spain and Italy but considerable quantities come from the United States. The almond tree is more delicate than the walnut, but thrives wherever the peach tree succeeds. It comes into bearing the second or third year so that results are quickly obtained.

Walnuts imported into Canada come from China, France and the United States; a few come from Rumania, Spain and the United Kingdom. The Canadian climate seems to be suitable for growing all varieties of this nut, which thrives where the heat is not too great nor spring frosts prevalent. Specimens of very large, soft shelled walnuts grown in Canada were exhibited at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley and were as fine a showing as one could wish to see.

STUDENTS LIVE ON $1 PER WEEK

Considerable Nourishment In Oatmeal At Little Cost

John Lafene, freshman at Ohio State University, has something of interest to tell housewives. John and his buddy are working their way through school. They cook all their own meals on Lafene's hot plate. And the cost of their food per person (draw close all parents who are complaining about the high cost of college) is exactly $1 per week.

John gives a valuable tip to the thrifty housewife when he explains that oatmeal forms the backbone of their breakfast. The two boys have no doubt, never taken a course in home economics budgeting, but they have learned one of the most important things such courses have to teach, namely, that there is no food from which we get as much nourishment at so little cost as oatmeal.

DON'T BE DISCOURAGED

It sometimes seems as if science and industry had conspired of recent years, to impress on the individual man the idea of his unimportance.

Biologists and anthropologists have made extended researches and are crying that the progress of the race is all that matters. The individual, in the light of their investigations, is nothing. The mass, alone, counts.

Industry has followed the same path. Technicians keep turning out new machines to replace individual workers. More and more, the work of a factory tends to become automatic.

Historians, too, have fallen into line. They proclaim that history is made by vast tides that are out of our control. Reversing Carlyle's maxim that history is only the story of the lives of great men, they say there are no great men. All of this may be extremely scientific but it is rather discouraging. We are all egotists. We have to feel our own particular corner is the one especial bright spot in the universe. It unsettles us to hear this kind of talk.

Yet the remedy, after all, is not hard to find. Forget the books for a while. Get by yourself and let the simple forces of nature reassure you. These things speak the language of the ages. They tell us that we are imperishable, that the individual life is eternally significant. They buttress our faith in our own enduring importance. We know that the individual does count—Kitchener Record.

The report of the Canadian Club meeting at Mrs. E. M. Thurber's home Friday night, at which nominations were held and two Canadian plays were read in character, will be published in Monday's night's issue.

Edwin Weis, Jr., aged 10, of New York, has life insurance for $200,000.

SKULLS FOUND IN FLORIDA.

Calusa Indians Were Extraordinary Healthy Lot.

Prehistoric inhabitants of southern Florida may not have known the fountain of youth that the Spaniards sought in Florida, but they were an extraordinarily healthy lot, judging by bones which have been taken from a burial mound near Fort Myers. Only one diseased bone was found in the mound, according to H. B. Collins, Jr., anthropologist of the United States National Museum, who excavated at the site.

Mr. Collins brought back eighty skulls from this mound. The skulls are pronounced those of the famous Calusa Indians, the tribe which first greeted Ponce de Leon and routed the youth-seeking Spaniard with a shower of arrows. The Calusa had the reputation of being cannibals and fierce warriors, but they were among the first Indians to be wiped out by the white man and by the time of the American Revolution they were practically extinct.

"Remains of these extinct Indians have been extremely rare, and very little has been known about them," said Mr. Collins, in describing his expedition. "The skulls show that the Calusa were not particularly large or powerfully built people, as were tribes of northern Florida."

A strange discovery from the mound was that only half a dozen of the eighty burials were children. Whether this means that these Indians were more successful than most tribes in raising their children, or whether babies who did not survive were disposed of in some other way, cannot be determined, Mr. Collins said.

No Indian possessions were found in the burial mound, with the exception of some fragments of pottery. These broken pieces of pots and jars had been stuck in the ground all around the heads of most of the Indians, probably with some magic rite.

THE GUIDE STORY

Olwen felt that something had gone wrong, and, during the consultation in the library that morning she was so distrust and indifferent that Squire Pett really ceased trying to draw her into the discussion. Finally she sat listlessly looking out of the window, while Kremp tried to discover some clue to the mystery.

Evidence pointed to the conclusion that some unknown man had gained entrance to the house, and had acted as waiter; and that when the plate and jewelry disappeared he was missing, too. Of his coming or going not a trace could be found. No one who answered to the description had arrived at the Woodlands Station, no one had left it on the evening train. The thief had evidently rendered himself as much like the two hired waiters as possible. One of the servants thought he had seen him, but was not sure.

During the examination, Mrs. Symonds rose, and tearfully declared that the servants had deputed her to explore their mistress to grant permission to have their rooms and their boxes searched, as some relief to their feelings. Olwen stated anew that, having no doubt of their honesty, she could not allow such a course.

"Well, Miss Ransome," said the inspector at length, "for the present there is nothing more to be done. You may send those two men back to London. I had a good report of them from their employer this morning. I sent him a prepaid telegram and feel convinced that they have had no hand in the robbery. You vouch for your servants, though I repeat that I should have preferred to have searched their rooms. No one could suspect either Mrs. Symonds or Jacob Smiles. I have sent information far and wide, and announced your reward, therefore I hope we shall catch the thief or thieves, for the fellow must have had accomplices. No one, except two or three well-known men, left by the evening train. There is a remote chance that Doctor Forrester or Mrs. West might have seen something of the fellow, but till they come back we must wait."

"The Doctor and Mrs. West!" exclaimed Olwen. "But they have not gone away!"

Squire Pett and his son glanced inquiringly at the inspector.

"Yes, miss. Mr. Wood said as how Mrs. West came pretty early for the twelve-ten train yesterday morning, and seemed sort of put out, as though she didn't want to talk. He's a sociable sort of chap, and always ready for a chat, but he said good morning, and left her alone. As the train was about to start, the doctor hurried into the station, shouted to the ticket collector that he'd pay at the other end, and got aboard as she moved out."

"Wonder where he was going?" remarked Hal meditatively. "Rather awkward for you, isn't it, Miss Ransome; as you've got sickness in the house? You will have to try the opposition doctor."

"The opposition doctor?" said Olwen, standing her voice as she realized John Kremp's eyes were watching her curiously. "I did not know that he had arrived."

"Yes, he settled a day or so ago," explained Squire Pett. "I fancy he has found work already. As I told Forrester the other day, he'll spoil his business over his water fads and such follies. Well, good day, Miss Ransome. I am afraid that we have not done much good."

Five minutes later, while Olwen was still trying to decide what had best be done, and fighting against the words still ringing in her ears: "The doctor and Mrs. West." Firefly, looking unusually serious, rode up the drive and hurried in.

"Doctor Forrester is not at home," she said quickly, "he went away yesterday morning by train, very hurriedly, but was expected back in the evening. He has neither come back, nor written, and,"—Firefly hesitated, then continued boldly—"I hope I have not done wrong, but I rode round and asked the new man, Doctor Grey, to come, telling him the case was serious."

"Firefly! You shouldn't have done that!" exclaimed Olwen. "What will he think? He will never forgive us. Besides, the girl is not fit enough to warrant that course. We could have waited a little longer."

Firefly looked perturbed. "Have you good nerves, Miss Ransome? I am rather proud of mine, yet even I was startled in the village this morning. Have you been there lately to talk to the people?"

"No—why?"

"Only that I believed that, after all, doc is going to prove right. There is a good deal of illness, and, what's more, some of the victims have begun just like Jane Horseman, getting a little queerer every day. They told me at the post office how people have refused to believe it was serious, yet it has ended in typhoid. That's why I asked Doctor Grey to call, remembering that, after all, doc said the epidemic would come. I believe it has come."

TORONTO NEWSPAPER BUILDS IMPRESSIVE MODERN PLANT

Star Presses Will Print 180,000 Huge Papers Per Hour—
Canada's First Newspaper Skyscraper—
Ready by Christmas

109 COLUMNS OF WORLD NEWS DAILY BY WIRE
And Staff of Seventy-Five Reporters to Gather Local News—
Trucks Line Up Sixteen at Time

The twenty-two storey newspaper plant and office skyscraper now being built by The Toronto Star, whose graceful stone tower will look down on the heart of the city's financial and business section. It will contain nearly double the floor space of Toronto's next largest office building.

A new era in newspaper publishing in Canada is marked by the magnificent new plant and premises of The Daily and Weekly Star in Toronto, now rising against the Queen City's down town sky line.

Three years ago there was no newspaper building in the Dominion even remotely comparable with the palatial homes of a dozen metropolitan dailies in the United States. Then, in rapid succession, the Montreal Gazette, Vancouver Province, Winnipeg Free Press and other Canadian papers blossomed forth into fine new quarters. And now The Toronto Star is added to the list with a building which in beauty and impressiveness and in the completeness and modernness of its equipment will hold its own with anything in the world. Overshadowing the business and financial section, with a frontage of 170 feet on the city's main east and west thoroughfare King St., between Bay and York, The Star building will extend 188 feet northward, or the depth of a whole city block; will rise 22 storeys to a height of 321 feet from foundation, and will contain almost twice as much floor space as Toronto's next largest office building. A lane 13 feet wide will extend along one side of the building and a 105 foot frontage adjoining the west end of the building, remains unoccupied for future use.

Granite and Limestone
The first six floors will cover the ground floor area, and will have a substructure of reinforced concrete. Above this lower part will rise a tower of graceful and imposing outlines, 96 feet wide and 65 feet deep, supported by structural steel. The exterior of the building will be clad to the third floor windows in solid gray Stansted granite, and above that, on all four sides, in beautiful Indiana limestone. The lofty entrance lobby is to be lined throughout with polished marble, with entrance and elevator doors in bronze.

Perhaps the most fascinating feature for the public will be the tremendous battery of presses, visible from a gallery that looks down on the great press room, 105 by 80 feet. Presses will be the heaviest and fastest yet designed. Their 28 units will print 180,000 fifty-six page papers in one hour, with an ultimate capacity of 350,000 per hour.

The first five floors of the building's

Seven Seas Traversed

We passed in luxurious comfort, free from any care or irritating responsibility and absolutely without one disturbing incident from continent to continent," stated Lady Williams-Taylor on her return from a world cruise on board the Canadian Pacific liner, the "Empress of Australia," during which tour five continents, twenty-one countries and twenty-six ports were visited and seven seas traversed.

"With sheltered ease," continued Lady Taylor, "we had unfolded to us the soul-penetrating magnificence and the somewhat repellent fanatical conditions of India and distraught, yet ever thrillingly interesting China. We steamed up and down the dangerous Pearl River, and saw first-hand the devastation of Canton. Mysterious Java, and almost untouched Sumatra, held us spellbound. Singapore and its ever-growing docks amazed us, and lovely Ceylon enchanted us. But Hawaii wound itself about our hearts and, to its haunting 'Aloha Oe,' we saw it fade away through regretful tears. Not only are the islands more than fascinating, but the Royal Hawaiian Hotel would tempt any traveller to return.

"After such a wonder tour of 133 days," concluded Lady Taylor, "we 'Lotus Eating Tourists' have once again to face the realities of ordinary existence without the untiring supervision and perfect organization of the mighty and far-reaching Canadian Pacific Railway and Steamship's protection and care of us. It was, indeed, with hearts full of gratitude and appreciation for our splendid captain, his staff, and for the constant and devoted attention of the cruise directors, that we finally bid farewell to our floating home—the 'Empress of Australia.'"

STAMP STAYS.

Freaks Very Often Fetch Fancy Prices.

Printers are blamed for many things, but their latest little "error" may cause much annoyance in the Republic of Panama, for some of their postage stamps have been printed with the head upside down!

On the other hand, these freaks very often fetch fancy prices, for some philatelists make a special hobby of them.

Mistakes in stamps are by no means an unusual occurrence. In a certain Portuguese issue, for instance, a ship was shown with its sails swivelling in one direction and its flag streaming out the opposite way! Belgium also had a freak some time ago. In a two-centimes stamp a lion was quite a normal animal, but when the five-centimes stamp came along, the same lion had in some mysterious manner equipped itself with another tail!

Cause of Earthquakes.
Modern geological science holds that earthquakes are due to "faulting." "Faults" are breaks in the strata of the earth's surface, the broken edges slipping past each other so that the same rock is found at different levels on opposite sides of the fault. These breaks create weak places in the earth's crust, and from time to time more slipping occurs. When this happens, an earthquake of greater or less violence is the result.

Leafs Win at Rochester

Manager O'Hara and his pace setting Leafs brought plenty of grief to the Red Wings and Rochester fans in the opening game of the series at Rochester Friday afternoon. The invaders won by 7 to 5 and blamed Dale Alexander for the reverse, this heavy slugger combining Vic Keen's offerings for a homer, triple and a single. Not a bad day's work that, even for the leading batsmen in the league.

Rochester fans were not too kind in their remarks about Keen's judgment the Rochester moundsman, star of the corps, flirting with defeat and disaster, when he grooved that ball for this heavy swinging Goliath. Alexander, as a result, took advantage of the opportunity to get his ninth homer of the season and fatten his batting average.

Keen was apparently under the impression that Alexander wouldn't be able to hit slow ball pitching and he followed this policy to the bitter end, even if "Big Dale" did get three hits and all on slow deliveries. Keen also used the same tactics with Clayton Shedy at bat, and the former Oriole collected a double and a homer.

Nationals Win

The Nationals won the opening game of the hardball season when they defeated Welcome by 4 to 3. The visitors had many chances to score but three fast double plays ruined their chances.

Following is the line up:
Nationals—Clement p; Rowcliffe c; Ough 1b; Goss 2b; Gallagher ss; V. Young 3b; Sherry lf; Phillips cf; P. Balowski rf.

Welcome—F McConnell ss; W Davison 2b; J Haskill 1b; F Austin 3b; D Davison c; G. Ward p; J Hall rf; R Dickinson cf; P McConnell lf.

Hardball Practice

All hardball players are asked to turn out for practice at the town park on Monday evening at 6.15. A team will be selected for the game with Cobourg on Victoria Day and all players desirous of a place on the team, are asked to be out Monday night.

SOFTBALL

Softball Monday

Softball fans are in for a good game on Monday night when the Mat hews Conveyer and C.N.R. play a scheduled fixture at Viaduct Park, commencing at 6.30 sharp. The winners will go into second position and both teams will be at full strength. It will be a battle royal so be sure to attend.

No Game On 24th

Owing to the holiday on May 24th, the Ganeraska-File softball game scheduled for that date, will be played on Friday evening, May 25th at 6.30. Players will please note the change in date.

BOXING

Gains Triumphs

After Larry Gains of Toronto, heavyweight champion of Canada, had outclassed "Sandy" Seifert of Pittsburgh for four rounds and part of the fifth in the main bout of the Shamrock A.C. at the Arena Gardens last evening, Referee Lou Marsh adopted the wisest possible course and declared the Canadian the winner. Seifert made such a poor showing that there was no dissenting voice from the fans when the referee waived him to his corner and raised Gains' arm in victory.

Throughout the bout, or what there was of it, Seifert failed to land solidly on the Canadian champion.

CREAM FLANNELS for tennis and sports wear 6.50

FRANK FLOOD

Distinctive Men's Wear

Gains, waging an aggressive battle, tried hard to make it a contest, but found it hard to land solidly on the clownish Seifert. The boxer from Pittsburgh would not lead but he had an awkward defensive style, which left Gains unable to land a really damaging blow. The only thing about Seifert's work worth praising was some very elusive head-weaving. That is all very fine in its place but it certainly does not win boxing bouts.

CAPITOLIANS TO CLOSE SEASON

Last Appearance of Al Stagg's Talented Entertainers At Royal Next Week

All good things must end eventually, and with the approach of summer, the Royal Theatre management announces that the Capitoliains, Port Hope's favorite amusement organization, will terminate their second successful season on Monday, and Tuesday. Though Al Stagg's clever outfit is right at the height of its popularity, vacation time necessitates discontinuation of the musical revues which for two years have been the outstanding theatrical events in town.

For their farewell appearance the Capitoliains are sparing no effort in preparation of a program that will be considered one of the best, if not the very best, they have ever presented. In addition to the regular members they will introduce Miss Dorothy Fount, a new soloist who is quite a "find," while little Dorcas Carruthers will do "The Varsity Drag" and Grover Newman-Jones, who made such a tremendous hit in the last revue, will sing another song as only he can. Al Stagg will appear in an instrumental duet with Walter Fraser and in one of his riotous comedy skits with Jim Thomas. Herb Winfield will sing "Mary Ann" and Jack, "Oh, My Operation!"—vastly different numbers, but equally pleasing, each in its own way. Jimmy Thomas has a humorous recitation that is sure to be a knockout, and the orchestra rounds out the program with three of their best selections, concluding with a comedy one that carries out the advice of the old saying "Always leave them laughing when you say good-bye."
