

PRISONER IS BROUGHT BACK

Charles Bright, who formerly resided near Port Hope, who escaped from the county jail at Whitby last fall while awaiting trial on a serious charge of committing a crime against the young daughter of a well known Pickering township farmer, was brought back to Whitby Friday night from Orillia where he was arrested. Chief Gunson and County Constable Charles Martin brought the man back and he now faces a second charge of escaping from lawful custody. Bright is also wanted in Cobourg on several charges of a serious nature. When he made his escape from Whitby Jail several months ago he walked out of the front door in broad daylight, taking the governor's raincoat with him. He had not been seen or heard from until his arrest in Orillia.

Mr. Arnold Wiseman 'has' left for Camp Borden, Ont., where he has enrolled for a course.

Mr. Ernest Wells spent the week end with friends in Toronto.

ROTARIAN TELLS OF RECENT TRIP

Interesting Address By E. M. Thurber At Rotary Club Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Port Hope Rotary Club at the Queen Hotel Friday evening, the Rotarians were delighted to hear of the recent trip of Mr. E. M. Thurber through the Southern States. The address proved very interesting and profitable and was listened to with keen interest. Mr. Thurber was accompanied by his wife.

I am not going to speak about the first part of the trip, as it was through country such as you have all seen.

We arrived in Kansas City on Monday morning and were all day crossing Kansas, flat prairies with groups of oil wells in places. In the evening we first saw the Rockies and commenced to climb and passed over the high part (over 7000 feet) in the night. We couldn't see anything of the mountains and in the morning we were dropping down in the Colorado desert. The foot hills were covered with a low growing spruce which was the last sign of what looked like live vegetation, we saw, until we arrived in California, except around the stations. It was snowing a little in the mountains and this was the first snow we had seen since leaving Canada.

The desert itself is altogether different from anything seen around here. It is an irregular plateau in the mountain ranges, at the lowest point about 4500 feet above sea level, sand, gravel, stone and boulders outcroppings of rock, one and two hundred feet high, worn into fantastic shapes by the sand and wind. Sand storms are unpleasant things to be in. My brother was caught in one that took the paint off his car and cut the wind shield so he had to have it replaced, the hood and front of the car were polished.

The only vegetation is sage brush, mesquite, and grass all brown and grey in color.

The principal industry is cattle raising. The brown grass is nourishing and the cattle appeared to be in fairly good condition. Water is scarce, some obtained by drilling and there are a few streams a long distance apart but the cattle will travel 20 or 30 miles to get a drink and then drift back to the feeding grounds.

I understand that one head to the acre is all the land will support.

There was a range of mountains to the south of us covered with snow and we passed south of another peak that is snow capped all the year.

There are river beds from the mountains into the desert, dry most of the time but full when the snows are melting or after heavy rains. Most of these streams flow into the desert and disappear in the sand.

In the track of these streams, water can be obtained by drilling and pumping. Albuquerque is the only town of any size, it is on the Rio Grande, the only river through the desert.

Most of the railway stations consist of a station and the agent's house, a small hotel, possibly ten rooms, a general store and filling station, a trail leading back to the ranches and mountains. Very few ranch houses are in sight of the train.

The Transcontinental Highway is parallel with the railroad in places and there were filling stations with out other habitation in sight.

We were all day crossing the desert and in the night crossed the Colorado Canyon. The rim is 7000 feet altitude and the river bed about 4500 feet lower. It was too dark to see the canyon when we crossed. From this point there is a rapid drop of 6500 feet to needles in the Mojave Desert.

The Mojave is not as large as the Colorado Desert but much worse. The lowest point is 200 feet below sea level, Death Valley, with an average day temperature of 140 degrees in the shade. There is no grass here only sage and mesquite. The sage gets its name from its color and grows from 18 inches to 2 feet in height. The mesquite is about the size of Japanese Barberry and there were no leaves on it at that time of year. Each plant grows by itself with no other within four or five feet. There is so little moisture that each plant has a large root system to

CAR STOLEN SATURDAY

And Roy Yeo Is Arraigned in Court—Charge Was Reduced

A Studebaker touring car the property of Chas. Wickett, King Street, was stolen from John St. early Saturday evening and as a result Roy Yeo was arraigned in police court here this afternoon before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell. The charge read: "That on May 19th at Port Hope did steal one Studebaker touring car the property of Chas. H. Wickett, contrary to Section 377 of the Criminal Code."

W. F. McMahon represented the accused while Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., of Cobourg, appeared for the crown.

The charge was reduced to "joy riding" under section 285 section 3 upon agreement of the police authority and a plea of guilty was accepted by the Crown. Accused elected to be tried summarily.

The defendant was remanded until Saturday, May 26th, and bail was granted.

gather all the moisture in the vicinity.

The mesquite roots are so large they are used for fire wood and is about all the fuel they get in the desert.

By the middle of Wednesday, forenoon, we were climbing the coast range of mountains and dropped down into California.

On the western slope of the coast range, we first saw real vegetation, peach and cherry trees in blossom, oranges on the trees, daffodils, roses and other flowers in bloom.

Lower California is also a desert, nothing grows without irrigation.

It is odd to see a 10 or 20 acre farm all green with vegetables and fruit trees and all around it the desert.

The cultivated places become more frequent until the desert disappeared in vegetation.

Many of the trees sleep in January and February in tropical countries the same as here. It was odd to see an orchard of nut trees with out a leaf and across the road an orange orchard full of fruit and rows of pepper in bloom along the roadside.

Under the orange trees there was a cover of plants to hold the moisture. Geraniums were frequently used. They grow wild where there is water.

Californians say that April or May is the time to see the country. There is some rain then and the trees are all out and the deserts are covered with flowers and the sand disappears under the green and bloom of the desert plants.

The nut trees and grape vines are planted in the sand and gravel and it is a dreary sight to see these apparently dead and stumps of the grape vines sticking in the drifting sand without any signs of vegetation near them. In one place the sand drifted up into the branches of the trees. Snow plows are used to move the sand from the roads.

The orange trees with their thick foliage which is perennial, present an altogether different appearance.

The train would sometimes cross on a high concrete bridge over what looked like a gravel pit 20 to 30 feet deep and 300 to 400 feet wide. This is called a wash and when it rains in the mountains it is full of water for a few hours.

There is so little rain in California that storm sewers are not needed but streets leading to the washes which go through the cities, are made with high curbing and these take off the water.

Storms do not usually last long but are very heavy.

From 10.30 Tuesday night to 1.30 Wednesday morning we dropped from 7000 ft. elevation to 480, climbed to 2580 and dropped to 620, climbed to 3820 and dropped to 820 at Pasadena, with many ups and downs, twists and turns through the mountains. Los Angeles, 10 miles away, is 270 feet, only 20 miles from tide level. This gives you an idea of the roughness of the country and the closeness of the mountains to the ocean.

From Pasadena, mountain peaks over 10,000 feet in height can be seen, snow capped all the time, and 35 miles away is the ocean where there is pleasant bathing all the year.

In the winter when the snow is

OPPORTUNITY AWAITS US HERE

Rev. J. O. Watt of Waterloo, Spoke At Both United Church Services

Large congregations attended both services at the United Church on Sunday when Rev. J. O. Watt, of Waterloo, Ont., delivered the sermons.

In the morning Mr. Watt gave a short talk to the children which left them a lesson which they will easily remember. His sermon was based on the 30th and 31st verses of the ninth chapter of the Gospel according to Luke, the story of Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration. This was one of the three greatest crisis which occurred in His life and Mr. Watt showed how Christ had turned down the temporary glories to go by way of the cross to be our eternal Saviour.

In the evening his sermon was quite different yet he pointed out a great truth from John 6:37, that God would bring big or important opportunities to us here for service and it is up to us to make use of them every day. We do not have to go to some large city or be in a crowd to achieve something; this is our place of opportunity if we would only recognize it.

Besides two anthems beautifully rendered, Mrs. Ward Rowland and Mr. James Thomas sang solos with appropriate thoughts and a double quartette of young people gave an excellent selection.

OBTUARY

MRS. JOSEPH MILLER

The death occurred at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. H. H. Wilkinson, Bloomsdale Ave., on Saturday, May 19th of Mrs. Joseph Miller, in her 79th year. The funeral was held from the above residence on Monday afternoon at two o'clock and was well attended by friends and relatives of the deceased. Interment was at Knoxville cemetery.

The deceased whose maiden name was Agnes McMahon, resided in this vicinity for a number of years. She contracted an illness about a month ago and her condition gradually weakened.

Left to mourn her passing is one daughter, Mrs. H. H. Wilkinson, Port Hope and one son Bruce, two brothers, G. A. McMahon of Bellingham, Washington and T. McMahon of Palmerston, also survive.

In the lower peaks, one can take a swim in the Pacific in the morning and throw snow balls in the afternoon.

While in Pasadena, we motored around the country, the roads are excellent and there are many pleasant trips to the shore and through the mountains. They are very strict in enforcing highway regulations. My sister driving one of our cars did not notice a stop sign and was promptly haled into court and fined three dollars. I don't know how this compares with Cobourg, perhaps Stan can tell us. One trip we took was to the Gay's lion farm.

The Gays raise lions to supply public parks, menageries, etc., but they get a greater income from the tourists and the movies. There were about 200 visitors the day we were there at $1 each. They had about 200 lions from three days to four years old. We were fortunate in being there during the dinner hour. The lions are fed on horse meat and when fed each lion is put in a cage by itself to keep the peace. Sometimes a lioness will not care for its young and then they are brought up on a bottle. Mrs. Gay took one about ten weeks old on her lap and fed it; the cub putting its paws on each side of the bottle.

PLEADED GUILTY OF ALLOWING INTOXICATION ON HIS PREMISES

Jonas Friar Fined $50.00 and Costs For Allowing Intoxication on His Premises on April 28th—Selling Charge Against Him is Dropped as Well as Intoxication Charge Against John Moore.

Jonas Friar, Toronto Road, was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell in Police Court here this afternoon, after G. N. Gordon, counsel for accused, pleaded guilty to the charge of unlawfully permitting intoxication on his premises on April 28th. The evidence in this case was taken on May 11th and the defendant then pleaded not guilty. Mr. Gordon pointed out that in view of the evidence, it was decided to enter a plea of guilty. He told that the degree of intoxication was not serious and there was no disorderly conduct on the premises.

Magistrate Campbell averred that when so many men were present there were indications of something more than the ordinary party of friends. There were nine people present of various positions in life and from widely separated places.

E. A. Cooper of Belleville enriched the coffers to the extent of $5 and costs for speeding over intersections in Newcastle.

and this, said the Magistrate, supported the contention that there was something more than an ordinary party of friends.

Selling Charge Dropped

The selling charge against Friar was not pressed owing to the fact that the principal witness could not be located. The intoxication charge against John Moore was also dropped.

A Style That Suits
Any Age Or Figure

Young or elderly, large or small, the smartly dressed woman can be becomingly attired in this chic frock and feel assured that she looks her best. It has the soft feminine lines that are expected of the new summer frocks. The lingerie touches at the long V-shaped collar and turned back cuffs are becoming features, too, of the new mode. The problem of slender hips is solved by the shirring in front and snugly fitting yoke of the skirt. With a tie at the collar and tiny tucks at either shoulder to complete the trimming, this design is particularly nice made in plain or printed cotton materials which are again coming into vogue. Plain or printed silks, voile or batiste also make the frock cool and charming for any informal occasion that summer may bring. (Copyright, 1928, by Bostwick)

THE GUIDE STORY

"Typhoid!" exclaimed Olwen incredulously. Then her tone changed to one of irritation. "You silly child, it is nothing of the kind, and I don't believe one word about there being more illness than usual. This new man will make the worst of everything."

"Well, we shall see," answered Firefly. "Anyway, for Miss Granby's sake, I am glad there is a medical man still in Woodlands. In a few minutes he will be here. I hurried to give you warning."

"Did you hear any other news in the village?" asked Olwen.

"Yes. The Briars is closed and deserted. Yesterday morning Mrs. West left by train—the same train as doc went by. No one knows when the other people left, or how they left, but they all vanished. The Ramseys received this morning, with the key of the house, a note, in which Mrs. West said she had been unexpectedly called away, but would return or write before long. The rent is paid, so that is all right, and she has left all her things behind her, therefore she is, I suppose, really coming back. It is funny, though, isn't it?"

CHAPTER XXV

Doctor Grey was a young, slight, wiry man, with a portentous gravity that was more a natural characteristic than a professional asset. He was not long in making a diagnosis of the servant's illness, and when

Olwen and Firefly received him in the library he left no room for doubt that the maid was suffering from a malignant form of typhoid, and must have skilled nursing at once.

"It will be a long case, Miss Ransome," he said, looking at Olwen with coldly critical eyes, "and I think it is my duty to warn you that in all probability there will soon be more cases in this house. It is a pity you did not send for a doctor sooner, or make some arrangements for the girl to have a room to herself. Now all you can do is to be prepared. You probably think that I am speaking strongly, but it is wiser to face stoutly what is inevitable. This village is on the verge of a very serious outbreak of typhoid."

"You must be mistaken!" exclaimed Olwen impatiently. "In this house, at any rate, we can't be in any danger—why, we are a mile from the village!"

"I gathered from your house-keeper that your milk comes from Stranock's farm. I have already two patients there suffering from typhoid; the water there is thoroughly contaminated."

"But those are Doctor Forrester's patients," cried Olwen indignantly. "He has long attended Mr. and Mrs. Stranock!"

"I understood as much," remarked Doctor Grey imperturbably, his gaze never wandering from Olwen's face. "But Doctor Forrester left the town unexpectedly, and early this morning the people sent for me. I am not taking an unfair advantage of my brother practitioner's absence, Miss Ransome. I assure you that if Doctor Forrester would return to-day I should be relieved, as there will be shortly more work than even two pairs of hands and two brains can cope with."

Doctor Grey spoke in such a monotonous tone that it was difficult to discover whether he was really offended or not, and while Olwen was hesitating Firefly rushed into the breach.

"We are thankful that you are here to help us, Doctor Grey," she said brightly.

"Does typhoid require much nursing, Doctor Grey?" asked Olwen.

"Certainly. I will send for a nurse, and probably she will be ready to take up the case this afternoon. In the absence of your medical man, allow me to suggest that it would be wise if you could move your aunt away from this neighborhood without delay. Even if you do not wish to leave home, your young friend," he added, glancing casually at Firefly, "would be better away during the next few weeks."

"Thank you, Doctor Grey. I will think over your advice."

The doctor rose, and departed. "What a detestable little man!" Olwen exclaimed, on returning to the library. "A raven's croak is better than his melancholy forebodings! I don't believe he understands the case."

"I believe he does," said Firefly. "He is an ugly little man, but he is intelligent. I do wish doc would come!"

"So do I," said Olwen. "Well, there's one thing certain: Off you and my aunt go today!"

"No, we don't," retorted Firefly promptly. "At any rate, if she does go, you must go with her. It sounds conceited, but I really think

I am the one to manage this business. If that dismal little man is right, and any more of us are attacked, the house will want reorganizing, and half of it isolated. You see, I know all about it, and should love the arranging. I am not afraid of taking the fever. That's settled, Miss Ransome. You take Miss Granby away. I will look after the house, and you shall send me checks."

Olwen began to grasp the fact that the events of the past few hours were realities, not myths.

CANADIAN PLAYS IN NOVEL WAYS

Mrs. W. H. Benson Read Own Poems At Women's Canadian Club Meeting

Mrs. E. M. Thurber's home on Dorset street, was the scene of a well attended drawing-room meeting of the Women's Canadian Club on Friday evening when two plays by Canadian authors were presented in a way quite new to local audiences and Mrs. W. H. Benson read several of her compositions, most appropriate for the occasion.

Mrs. W. Williamson played "O Canada" after which nominations were held for the officers for the ensuing year. The election will take place at the next meeting which will be held in the afternoon.

In the outset, the president, Mrs. H. M. Ryan told of the revival of interest in plays and how they were being brought to be read a great deal lately. She then called upon Mrs. W. F. McMahon to explain the method of presentation of the plays.

Mrs. McMahon told how this reading of plays in character while new here has been used to a considerable extent in connection with Toronto clubs during the past winter and involved the introduction of a new character in each play as director. The director is to describe the setting and explain the action. Mrs. McMahon also gave a brief sketch of the life and work of each of these authors: Mazo de La Roche, who wrote "Low Life" and Merrill Denison, writer of "Brothers-in-Arms."

"Low Life" was presented by a group of High School teachers. Miss M. Buffin, the director, cleverly outlined the plot and made the play easy to follow. The actual characters were Miss Phyllis Farrar, Miss Margaret Tuer and Miss E. Foy. Miss Farrar took the part of "Benn" an English immigrant who lives on the earnings of his wife who is a char woman. Miss Tuer, "Linton," is an English gentleman fallen upon hard times (without far to fall) who has lived on the Bennis for the last eight months. Miss Foy, Mrs. Benn, is the wife of Benn and makes a valiant effort to get her unpaying guest off her hands, but finally consents to keep him out of pity and because of the splendid influence of his gentlemanly manners over her small daughter. The play was very humorous, presented cleverly to give a clear depiction of character.

Mrs. N. G. Johnston sweetly sang two numbers, "Daffodil Gold" and "My Little House," Mary Josephine Benson, wife of Dr. W. H. Benson read a group of her own poems, the subject matter being all Canadian. She opened with "The Gateway at Gaspé," her second poem "The Magog Looms" told of the whirl of industry in a Quebec town. "A Flight Through Fable Land" based on an aeroplane hop from Cairo to India was quite as interesting as "The Magic Carpet" of which we have all read. "When Heaven's Queen Surveyed the Bay of Quinte" gave a description of the vivid atmospheric condition which seemed to give the bay a most delightful hue of blue. "Three Port Hope Night Moods" gave a local color to her recital. She concluded with two contrasting Toronto studies, "Derelicts"—the loafers around St. James and "The Keeper's Garden" a beautiful world picture of High Park. Mrs. Benson made a charming appearance and gave the recital in a lovely voice so that her interpretation to the audience was enjoyed immensely.

Miss Hazel Burnham sang two most appropriate selections "Poor Man's Garden" and "Little Bare Feet" in her usual acceptable manner. "Brothers-in-Arms" by Merrill Denison was under the directorship of Mrs. W. F. McMahon. Mrs. H. Reeve read the part of Major J. Altrus Brown, a business man and ex-officer on a hunting trip in the wilds. Miss Kathleen Daley, as Dorothea, read the part of his romantic and light-headed wife. Mrs. D. W. Bews, (Syd.) a typical backwoods man and Mrs. H. M. Hawkins, (Chas.) another backwoodsman created a great deal of the fun that made this farce a roaring success and concluded an evening of delightful entertainment.

CROP CONDITIONS ARE VERY GOOD

Early Prospects in West Better Than for Several Years—Coarse Grains Are Sown

Ideal weather conditions exist over the whole of Western Canada, says the third weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways, and prospects for the period of the season than for several years. Wheat seeding generally is almost finished, and what little remains to be done will be completed this week. The sowing of coarse grains is proceeding rapidly, and at least 75 per cent of oats and barley should be in the ground by the end of this week. Early sown wheat is thriving splendidly, and is well above the ground in all of the three Provinces.

Manitoba is the farthest advanced of the three Provinces. Except in one or two isolated cases, all the wheat is in and the sowing of coarse grains is 60 per cent completed. The Province benefited from general rains during the week.

Soil drifting, which was causing some anxiety in Saskatchewan, has been stopped generally by beneficial showers. Seventy-five per cent of the wheat is in, and the sowing of coarse grains is from 25 to 60 per cent finished.

Alberta conditions are highly favorable. There is plenty of moisture in the ground, and soil drifting has been prevented by showers during the past week. Wheat is 80 per cent sown and the seeding of coarse grains well under way. All Provinces report an increase in the acreage sown to wheat. In the vicinity of Neepawa, Manitoba, a considerable amount of flax is being sown in an effort to combat rust conditions. More wheat than usual is being sown in this area also.

WHAT BEAUTY IS

What constitutes beauty? It isn't the face
That would to an artist seem perfect with grace,
Or might to a poet be truly divine;
It isn't the form for which sculptors may pine.

It isn't a Venus, no matter how fair;
'Tis not an Adonis, no matter how rare,
That makes us see beauty—the kind that imparts
Forever a joy to our minds and our hearts.

What, then, maketh beauty? A face may be plain
Or even be ugly, yet it may contain
A something that makes us, without knowing how,
See beauty entrancing and unto it bow.

What it it makes beauty? The eyes do that shine
With love or affection or friendship divine,
The lips do that smile from a gladness inside,
The look that shows manly or womanly pride.

What constitutes beauty? The grasp of the hand
That tells you are welcome wherever you stand;
The ears do that listen with sympathy true,
The words that give comfort that our age renew.

What constitutes beauty? Good actions do all;
The hands that will help you to rise if you fall,
The voice that is honest and cheery and sweet—
These only make beauty—forever—complete.

Leafs Break Even

Toronto and Rochester each won a game at Rochester Sunday and each came from behind to snare its victory. The first game saw the Leafs leading 5 to 1 at one stage, only to have the Red Wings turn in a rally featured by Charlie Gelbert's eighth home run of the season with two on that tid up the count at 5 all, and eventually led to a 7-6 win. In the second encounter of 7 innings the Leafs were trailing by 3 to 1 when they scored twice in the sixth to tie, and two more in the seventh to win by 5 to 4. The Red Wings scored a run in the half of the seventh. The even break put Toronto three games in the lead.

More than 12,000 fans packed their way into the park for a view of the International League leaders in their first games at Rochester of the season. It was announced that both teams would use their best pitchers, and this Rochester did in Hal Smith and Herman Bell. It was Bell who lost the second game, the defeat being his first of the season in seven starts. So the Leafs have that to their credit. They were the first team to give the former St. Louis Cardinal hurler his initial drubbing in the International.

Hardball Practice

The management of the Intermediate Baseball team requests that a large number of players attend the practice at the Town Park tonight at 6.15.

Softball Tonight

The Mathews Conveyer and C.N.R. lock horns in a scheduled softball game at Viaduct Park tonight at 6.30 and softball followers are assured a good game. Both contestants are new entries to the league and are playing good ball. Tonight's winner advances to 2nd place in the standing.

Good Game Tomorrow

The Sanitary and Bankers clash at Viaduct Park tomorrow evening and a large following should be on hand to witness these two rivals. Last season keen rivalry existed between these two teams and some close scores resulted. Fans predict that tomorrow night's game will be the best yet.

No Game On 24th

Reigh Count Wins

Rain or shine, mud or slop—it was all Reigh Count. The big red colt, owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago, wife of the taxicab magnate, splashed to victory in the fifty-fourth Kentucky Derby Saturday, racing through a drizzling rain and mud ankle deep, in one of the most spectacular races in the history of Blue Ribbon event of the American turf.

Reigh Count, a son of Sun Reigh—Contessina, heavily played favorite, won just as his supporters said he would—finished three lengths ahead of Misstep. And trailing in fourth place came Jack Higgins, winner of the Louisiana Derby.

Why Not End Constipation?

"Fruit-a-tives" a sure remedy
If your tooth were aching I would you put painkiller in it all the time and let it get worse, or would you have it filled and made strong again? The same applies to correcting constipation. The only satisfactory remedy is one which, while relieving congestion, strengthens bowels, liver and kidneys to act without daily medicine. That is why Fruit-a-tives is the public favorite. Made only of fresh fruit juices and tonics, its whole effect on the system is natural and strengthening. Try it. 25c and 50c a box.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Did you get caught in the down-pour?

Many out in their Sunday best were quite taken by surprise by the sudden downpour yesterday afternoon.

No week end accidents were reported in this vicinity, nearly all the drivers of cars Sunday were driving with care and showed consideration for other motorists. Is this one of the good results of the Globe's "Just Kids Safety Club" or must the Department of Highways receive the credit?

We've heard of "oil on the troubled waters making it calm and smooth so the oil on our rough roads will smooth them out but oil on Johnnie's sole will have quite a different effect stirring up much trouble for him.

The oiling of the streets north of Ridout street commenced this morning. Now the house holders won't have dust to complain of and the oil has been applied somewhat earlier than usual so we will get more use from it.

Tomorrow afternoon the I. O. D. E. is holding a big sale at the home of Mrs. G. V. Strong, Pine street. Their perennial table as well as the home cooking promise to be most attractive.

Positively ridiculous! Outrageous the way young men let giant fire crackers off on the main street on Saturday night worrying pedes
