The reserved section of the grandstand was sold out at one o'clock and the largest opening game crowd was on hand.

The outfield fence at the stadium has been moved in considerably and home runs will now be made easier.

Premier Ferguson pitched the first ball with Mayor McBride at bat. Con troller Gibbons was catching. "Sam" lined the second pitch to left field, knocking Premier Ferguson out of the box.

HARSH METHOD IN PALESTINE JAILS

Alleged Flogging and Ill Treatment Subject of Protest

Recent cases of the flogging of a political prisoner and of the ill-treatment of others in Palestine jails give special point to the appeal of the Palestine workers for aid in their endeavor to remedy the glaring evils of the prison system there.

The disgraceful regime which now prevails, says Ben Gurion, secretary of the Executive Committee of the Jewish Labor in Palestine, retains the spirit and methods of the pre-war Turkish regime.

"Workers arrested on even minor charges are led through the streets to their trial and back to prison in chains, as an edifying example to all. Brutal force is used on the slightest provocation—even without any provocation at all. The dispersing of pickets is usually a most savage and bloody onslaught of policemen on defenceless workers. Prisoners are beaten with sticks and clubs, smacked in the face, pushed and maltreated in every possible manner.

"The general conditions of the prisons, especially of those used for temporary imprisonment, as regards sanitary arrangements, food, sleeping accommodation, etc. are simply dreadful.

"It would suffice to say that the facts have come to our knowledge of people with malignant diseases being allowed to mix freely with the rest, drinking water from the same utensils, using promiscuously the same blankets, which are collected in the morning and distributed in a haphazard fashion in the evening."

"Flats and Sticks."

"This regime, invariably enforced by a free use of fists and sticks, applies equally to people guilty of heinous offences, to ordinary street thieves and pickpockets, as well as to people imprisoned for debt—the days of Micawber have not yet passed in Palestine—and last but not least."

THREE TEACHERS SALARIES RAISED

Fourth Book Teachers Granted Increase of $100 Per Year

The salaries of three fourth book teachers at the Central School were increased $100 per year dating from May 1st, 1928. This decision was made at the regular meeting of the Port Hope Public School Board held at the Town Hall Tuesday evening. The resolution favoring the increased salaries was moved by Trustee Hayden, seconded by Trustee Rowland. Those receiving the increase are Misses E. Thompson, P. Smith and M. Strickland. The reason for the increase was due to extra work.

Those present at the meeting were Chairman M. S. Hawkins and Trustees R. S. Hayden, Jas. S. Thompson, W. A. Meadows and W. Rowland. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Another resolution regarding the teachers' salaries was sponsored by Trustee Meadows and seconded by Trustee Hayden. It read that the present scale of teachers' salaries be amended to read instead of $1000 as the maximum as at present, it shall read $1100, as the maximum.

School Attendance Report
The following school attendance report was submitted by the School Attendance officer, Mrs. F. B. Davis. It reads as follows:

2 cases of measles in homes where 3 children are ill.
1 case of irregular attendance, and notice was sent to parents.

1 case of non-attendance and child was sent back to school.
1 case where child took employment without a permit. The parents were notified of the breach of school law.

1 case of persistent irregular attendance. The Chief of Police warned parents that the school law must be respected.
1 case where mother complained that children had no shoes or clothing to wear. The Benevolent Society was notified.

In all, seven cases were reported by the teachers and investigated.

There are many absentees from school due to illness and these cases were not reported to the Attendance Officer as teachers know the reason for these children being absent.

Inspection on Friday.
Principal D. L. Somerville notified the Board that the annual inspection of the Public School cadets will be held on Friday afternoon at 1:30 and asked that members of the Board attend if possible.

Attendance Report.
U. L. Somerville presented the attendance report for April which showed 717 pupils on the register. In the fourth book there are 156; in the third 188; in the second 115; in the first 97 and in the primary 161.

Inspector's Report
The playgrounds at the Central School are unsatisfactory according to a report submitted by School Inspector E. E. Snider. The report reads as follows:

The Central School playgrounds are very unsatisfactory both as to quality and extent. While it is known that it would be difficult to extend them it is also recognized that it would not be difficult to improve them by levelling and paving and the cost would not be prohibitive. This should be seriously considered without further delay.

The other following remarks were made: Organization, satisfactory; teaching, good as a whole; discipline, above the average; proficiency, above the average in nearly all the grades; progress, good and department good.

$500 DAMAGES AND COSTS AWARDED PLAINTIFF IN ACTION

Jury Deliberates Nearly Four Hours and Verdict is Returned Late Tuesday Afternoon.—Trial is Without Precedent in The World.

By a poll of eleven to one, a civil jury Tuesday rendered a verdict against W. T. R. Preston, the writer of the defamatory article which appeared on June 13, 1927, in the Port Hope Guide, entitled, "Mons," and against the publisher of the paper F. W. Wilson. The jury found that publication of this article was libellous and they awarded Sir Arthur Currie, who was the aggrieved party in the suit, damages in the sum of $500. The former commander of the Canadian Corps had claimed $50,000.

Case Without Precedent
Thus, in the county courtroom of the tranquil little town of Cobourg, was fought to its end one of the most sensational litigations in the history of Canadian jurisprudence. Lawyers are at a loss for a precedent to this case. Never before had a soldier, the leader of a national army, submitted his acts as a war commander to the adjudication of a jury of his peers and Sir Arthur Currie's peers in this instance were farmers and tradesmen from Northumberland and Durham counties.

In their article published in the Port Hope Guide, the defendants, Preston and Wilson, had charged that almost at the last minute before the cessation of hostilities the "Mad Idea" had been conceived that it would be a fine thing to say that the Canadians had fired the last shot in the war. An attack was ordered on the Belgian city of Mons, the defendants claimed, and this attack was directed solely for the glorification of the Canadian headquarters and staff. They charged that there had been a deliberate waste of human life in the war, but none so deliberate and useless as that attending the Mons operations. Furthermore, they asserted that when the Canadian headquarters entered Mons on Nov. 11, 1918, their life was in such danger from their own men that they had to flee out of the city in motor cars.

Witness after witness was called to the stand by the defendants, who claimed that their statement as to facts was true and that their comment upon these facts was fair comment. Those witnesses swore that they had entered Mons on Armistice Day and had seen the bodies of dead Canadian soldiers lying in the streets.

The crux of the case of the defence rested on the question as to whether Sir Arthur Currie knew, before Mons was entered, if the armistice had been signed or was likely to be signed.
Much was made of the general order requesting passage through the lines for the German negotiators. This had been issued from the headquarters of Marshal Foch around November 8 and the effort was made to prove the Canadian Corps having received word of that message, it was the humane thing to give a respite to the soldiers. Against that, however, was produced the order of Marshal Foch himself, which directed that there be no relaxation of pressure on the enemy. The commander of the Canadian Corps received his orders from General Horne leader of the First Army, in which the Canadians then operated, and these orders were carried out.

Directly on the front of the advance Mons was defended at several places by "stout-hearted German machine gunners," and for a while their opposition had the effect of holding up the Canadian movement. However, on the night of November 10 the 42nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Highlanders, succeeded in effecting a bloodless entry into the city at the railway station which is on the western outskirts.
The jury retired at 11:48 a.m. and for three hours and forty minutes they stayed in their room debating the trial. It was at 3:27 o'clock when the jury returned, and C. A. Anderson, the foreman, returned a verdict of "Guilty" against Messrs. Preston and Wilson. The verdict declared a finding of $500 damages for Sir Arthur Currie.

For a half minute the verdict was received in silence and then the tenseness was broken, some hand-clapping ensued, but this was quickly suppressed by the sheriff. Sir Arthur Currie was quickly surrounded by throngs of men and women and congratulated on the outcome of the trial. He would make no statement to the press, he said, nor would either Mr Preston or Mr Wilson.

With that ended a lawsuit without parallel in any country, one that has been followed with an intensity of interest throughout Canada, that perhaps no other litigation has attracted. There were 19 reporters occupying places on the floor of the courtroom, with wires leading from the courthouse, and over these wires the wordage sent ran into nearly one million.

Representing Sir Arthur Currie were W. Norman Tilley, K.C.; R. H. Parmenter, K.C.; D. H. Chisholm and Roy Wilmot, while Mr. Wilson's attorney was Frank Regan of Toronto, assisted by T. F. Hall and W. A. F. Campbell. Mr. Preston conducted his own case, cross examined witnesses and addressed the jury on his own behalf.

Asks Poll of Jury
Mr. Regan rose to his feet. "I ask that the jury be polled," he said, huskily.

"What?" asked Mr. Justice Rose. "Poll the jury," repeated the defence counsel.

"Oh, all right," said his Lordship. And so the man by man count began. Agreed; agreed; agreed—that is the way the count ran. A whisper played tag up and down the courtroom as the name of George A. Mouncey was called. Mouncey was one of two returned men on the jury an artillery man, who was twice wounded and then went back for more. All through the trial he had impassive-faced, apparently coldly interested in what was going on.

"No," he said, as his name was called.
The Clerk of Court looked surprised. A second time he put the question. "No," repeated Mouncey, and this time there was no doubt as to where he stood.

The jurors divided: For—W. H. Huycke, D. J. Sargeson, Isaac Whitfield, W. J. Norman Gummer, A. Beach, E. C. Ashton, G. A. Anderson, J. Swarbrick, W. J. Duncan, H. J. South, H. A. Patterson.
Against—G. A. Mouncey.

Judge Addresses Jury
Mr. Justice Rose spoke from 9:30 a.m. until 11:46 a.m., eastern standard time and two minutes later the jury retired to consider their verdict. His Lordship explained the operations of the Libel Act, explained what constituted defamation of character, and urged the jury to consider only the things that were relevant to the case.

Impression on Leader

There was one statement in the article regarding the flight of the headquarters staff from Mons, and it is said this did not concern the plaintiff because it was supposed to have happened at 11 o'clock on Armistice Day, and at that hour the plaintiff was not there.

pression, what was it? What would an ordinary reader think of the sentence that the 'headquarters staff' had to flee for their lives? Would an ordinary reader look up a history to see whether General Currie was or was not in Mons at that hour on Armistice Day or would he read it as an imputation that it was General Currie who had to flee?

His Lordship read the article 'Mons' to the jury. It had indicated that the capture of the city of Mons on November 11 was something 'that might well be allowed to pass into oblivion.' That was the comment and it had to be asked if this was fair comment.

Lordship confining the issue to November 11, for the defence took the ground that all the fighting prior to Mons centred on the city. Respecting Private Price's death, Mr. Regan said that the 6th Canadian Infantry Brigade war diary showed that two battalions, one of which was the 28th, had been ordered to attack after receipt of the armistice message.

Mr. Regan—That's what these fancy reports from Ottawa say. Mr. Regan found fault with His Lordship for having referred to a number of Sir Arthur Currie's witnesses by name and referring to the defendants' witnesses as 'these men who gave evidence some days ago.' Counsel was adamant that the war diary narratives were written with extreme care and accuracy and that it was not hearsay.

The court said he did not see anything in Mr. Regan's complaints to justify his recalling the jury.

LEAFS HOME

Bubbling over with enthusiasm, but not claiming any championships, Bill O'Hara brought his fast travelling Leafs home yesterday to open the International League season at Maple Leaf Stadium, Toronto, with the Newark Bears as the opposing team.

Manager O'Hara had nothing but praise for every one of his athletes, who made a fine showing on their first road trip, despite the miserable baseball weather encountered since the team left the Albany, Ga., training camp.

With the exception of 'Rip' Collins, Johnny Prudhomme and Jess Doyle, the pitchers have not yet reached anything like top form, with Clarence Fisher and Don Hankins being quite backward owing to illness.

Praises Prudy

'Both of Rip Collins' games were fine efforts,' said O'Hara yesterday afternoon, and Prudhomme against Reading was very effective. Prudy will win a lot of games for the team and is almost sure to go to the big show next year.

'That also goes for Alexander,' continued the Toronto-born pilot. 'The Toronto club cannot expect to hold the slugging first baseman beyond this season. He is hitting the ball very hard, his batting at Newark, Jersey City, Reading and Baltimore creating tremendous enthusiasm amongst the fans of those cities. Alexander is going to prove a very fine investment for the Toronto club.'

O'Hara also had plenty of fine words for Joe Rabbitt, whom he claims is the fastest man in the International League, while he said that the fans would see a different Jacobson than pastimed in the outfield during the 1927 campaign. Jake is a satisfied player this season and has rid himself of the worries that prevented him showing top form in 1927.

Shedy Will Be Favorite

Then there is the hard hitting Shedy who may not be the greatest outfielder in the game, but nevertheless far from the worst, and any deficiencies in that line are more than made up for by his timely batting. Shedy promises to be a big favorite in Toronto this season.

According to Manager O'Hara and Captain Billy Webb, Warren Cote, last year with Toledo in the American Association, is going to be the idol of the Toronto fans. He is a finished fielder and undoubtedly the clearest shortstop the Leafs have had since Frank O'Rourke passed on to the majors. Cote is a great ground coverer and has a fine arm in addition to having the ability to get the ball away fast and accurately from any position.

CROSS COUNTRY DERBY

Gavuzzi Increases Lead

Great Britain's hope in C C Pyle's coast-to-coast foot race, Peter Gavuzzi, Tuesday increased his lead over Andrew Payne of Oklahoma, when, with Seth Gonzales of Denver, he led the 70 surviving runners in the 59th control. Gavuzzi's and Gonzales' time for the 31.6 miles from Springfield was 3:52.24. The bristle-bearded Britisher has traversed the 2230.7 miles from Los Angeles in 366.15.15; 5 hours, 26 minutes and 45 seconds faster than Payne. The Oklahoman ran a dead heat with Roy McMurtry of Newhall, Cal., and Phillip Granville, Hamilton, to finish in 4:58.55.

Harry Rea of Long Beach, Cal., outpaced John Salo of Passaic, N.J., but the Easterner held on to third place with an elapsed time of 4:03.41.39. Rea finished third in 3:54.28 and Salo fourth in 4:12.02.

The other leaders in the transcontinental race and their elapsed time are:

- Fourth—Phil Gravelle, Hamilton, 4:07.11.57. Fifth—Mike Joyce, Cleveland, 4:17.39.49. Sixth—William Kerr, Minneapolis, 4:18.38.09. Seventh—Ed Gardner, Seattle, 4:19.09.45. Eighth—Giusto Umek, Trieste, Italy, 4:23.36.31. Philip Granville, Hamilton, finished eighth on Tuesday in the Bunton Derby lap of 31.6 miles from Springfield in 4:38.55. He retains fourth place through 2230.7 miles, with an elapsed time of 4:07.11.57.

John Cronick, Saskatoon, was 13th in 5:13.0—4:27.06.39. Andrew Constantino, Toronto, tied Cronick in 5:13.01—4:64.23.31.

Other Canadians:

- George Liebergall, Bellevue, 6:56.50—4:80.07.02. Eugene Germain, Montreal, 10:40.05—6:04.49.29. David Davies, Sandwich, 9:24.27—5:89.59.43. S. Steveno, Calgary, 9:14.00—5:87.10.45. Thos. Ellis, Hamilton, 10:36.42—6:14.57.24.

SOFTBALL

Managers of the teams in the Port Hope softball league are asked to have the certificates of all signed players in the hands of the secretary as soon as possible.

C.N.R. Have Strong Line Up

The C.N.R. team, a new entry in the local softball loop will give the other contestants a merry chase for the McMahon shield and a fine array of players compose the roster of the railroaders. The team participated in an exhibition game with the File at Vinduct Park last evening and although nosed out by a few runs, a splendid practice was enjoyed.

'Red' Sherry, who unfortunately broke his arm at the opening of the season last year, is slated for the mound, and Manager Bird is in search of another capable hurler. Francey will do the backstopping with Manager Bird stationed at first. 'Deed' Hills will hold down the keystone sack with Frank Guy, well known in hardball circles, stationed at shortstop. O'Neill and Douglas will guard the hot corner.

Cook, Jones and Hamilton are the proposed players for the outfield while there are others who may try out for positions. The team looks good on paper and the railroaders promise to furnish plenty of opposition.

not least, to political and industrial prisoners."

As a typical instance of the brutality exercised towards prisoners, Ben Gurion cites the case of Idelson, the secretary of the Petch-Tikvah Labor Council.

He was arrested on December 16 in connection with the forcible dispersing of pickets during a strike. He was tried on December 28 and ordered to be released at once. But as the trial terminated at a very late hour, the magistrate expressed his regret at the impossibility of an immediate release, adding that "the prime authorities would have to extend their hospitality to Mr. Idelson for another night."

'Cruelly Beaten.'

"Next morning," says Ben Gurion "6 o'clock a policeman entered the room, crowded with prisoners, shouting for 'the man who is to be released today' to step out. Mr. Idelson responded to the call, whereupon he was led out into the yard and ordered to carry one of the water pails.

"He refused to do so, explaining that he no longer considered himself a prisoner.

Men and women from the United Kingdom are always pleasantly surprised, when visiting Canada, to find in Red Rose Orange Pekoe a tea which the best teas in the Old Country cannot surpass. They prefer Red Rose Orange Pekoe because it is a blend of the finest teas grown—put up and packed under the supervision of men trained in the London tea markets. 4-E

THE GUIDE STORY

"Dec, Dear: I expect you were a bit wild this morning—weren't you—when you went to see the eleven-thirty-five a.m. start? Never mind, we are coming back tonight! Isn't this real friendly of me to put you out of suspense? I don't suppose it will really be necessary to go to Paris for a French maid for Miss Ransome. I told you some lovely things last night, for, you see, I just didn't want you bothering round that evening as there was rather an important conclave in the drawing room, concerning certain purchases for a certain ball, at which a certain person will probably be finally vanquished. If you want the key to the above, ask Miss Granby. I say, dear, as we have known each other some years, could you beg, borrow or steal for me an invitation for the ball? If I can't go my heart will break, and Mrs. Renfrew hasn't grasped the fact of my existence yet. If you will do your best, I'll keep silent about the pretty widow,

Yours affectionately,
"Firefly."

By the time John reached the end of the note he was scowling to such a degree that Miss Charity got into a nervous flutter. "Don't be unforgiving, doctor!" she said. "The child said she was afraid you would be dreadfully angry with her—in fact, she implored me not to read the note, because, she said, she had eaten such—excuse the expression doctor, she is still young—she had eaten such a terrible amount of humble pie!" "I am not cross," answered Doctor Forrester, with an effort, "but—there, it is no good saying anything with such a—when she is a pet of yours. She mentions, by the bye, that you can give me the clew to—let me see—something connected with Miss Ransome's purchases, a ball, and a certain person. It is all very vague, but perhaps you can understand the riddle?" "Ah, the dear child!" exclaimed Miss Granby, in high delight, "I expect she knew that I should wish to talk over the matter with you. Well then, as you are a friend of the family, I will confide in you and I am sure that you will respect my confidence. A certain person is paying considerable attention to my great-niece and—without her knowing anything about it, in the least—Firefly and I have a little plot in hand by which dear Olwen is being persuaded into discarding her eminently unsuitable style of dress for something more becoming to her. If you take my advice, doctor, you will attend this ball on the thirtieth, and you will see my great-niece looking very different! Firefly has been clever and tactful in bringing about this change and she was afraid lest your coming in last night might in some way cause my great-niece to change her mind. As Firefly remarked to me when I was reproving her this morning, even an amused smile from a friend like you might have been sufficient to cause Olwen to declare that she would not alter her dress. It is most important, as Firefly remarked, that at a country ball a girl should be well and suitably dressed and the dear child does not spend enough money, nor take enough trouble over herself."

"Who is he?" asked the doctor abruptly.
"Ah, I don't think I ought to answer that question!" said Miss Granby, in a flutter of agitation between desire to tell and fear of betraying an unspoken confidence. "I may, however, give you a hint. The Greylands household have been very friendly of late."
"Well, it's no business of mine," remarked Doctor Forrester, with a constrained laugh "but whatever happens, I wish your niece happiness and prosperity. Now, Miss Granby, to business. How have you been since I saw you last?"
Thereupon Miss Granby plunged into a vivid description of her symptoms.
"Besides all that, doctor, I have been terribly worried the past two days about my orphanage," she added.

"Where is the hitch now?" asked John kindly, being well posted up in all the phases of the project.
"Well, doctor, I have been sorely puzzled over the way in which my lawyer has brought objections to meet all my most reasonable suggestions. I have now come to the painful conviction that the poor man—you will never repeat this?"
John gave the necessary promise.
"I am sorely afraid that the poor man has embezzled my patrimony, and that though he contrives to send me the interest when it is due every half year, he is unable to refund my capital. You do not know how this has troubled me. I cannot account in any other way for the manifold objections he places in the way of carrying out my wishes. The jewels, too, I fear he has pawned!" Miss Granby's face grew pink over the uttering of the terrible word. "Now, you see, if I knew this were the case, and that it were not a mere supposition on my part I could settle down; but as it is I am afraid to put my real thoughts into words. I have no means of proving to myself whether I am misjudging the poor man, or whether these tedious delays belong to the legal business which I have always understood is difficult for the ordinary mind to follow. This is why you find me a little perturbed."

The hotel manager, at that time and Tom Wilson, the famous Rocky Mountain guide, then put their heads together and decided to invite up the whole Stoney Indian Tribe from the Morley Reserve to make friends with the visitors.
What is today the main road to the hotel was on that occasion staked off as a race track, the winning post being placed at the hotel entrance. Every form of race and sport known to the Indians was held, in addition to many suggested by the white spectators. Altogether the visit of the Indians was a marvellous success, and it ultimately led to the establishment in 1907 of an annual Indian Day, which in time grew into the continent-wide advertised Indian Days. The Indians look forward to these days with the greatest enthusiasm and early on in the year start counting "only so many days now till we go to Banff". The Indian village of a hundred tepees is, as said before, located at the foot of Cascade Mountain for this festival, and is semi-circular in form, each band of the tribe having a section to themselves. Rations are served directly the Indian village is in shape. The Government donates three buffalo annually to the Indians, and the first one of these is then shot by a game guardian and quickly cut up by the redskin butchers employed, that within thirty minutes after the shot is fired, there is not a vestige left of what was once a lordly animal weighing approximately one ton.

THE PORTALS OF THE HEREAFTER
I sat by the wayside watching The motley moving throng, As with eager and hurried movement, They pressed their way along.
Unlike were their thoughts as their faces But each with some intent Close following the one just before him, On his own purpose bent.
Away, far away in the distance, The long procession passed, Through an ancient and time-worn portal Where ended his journey at last.
With curious questioning motive, I walked toward the gateway old, To learn of these travellers' future, If aught of it there was told.
Then close by the wide wide entrance, I watched as each went through, But whither so quickly they vanished, No watcher ever knew.
The gates of the great hereafter Stand open evermore, But no one may see aught behind them Till he reaches the other shore.

Indian Day Celebrations at Banff

Upper—The day of the parade when Indians of all tribes mass for the inspection. Lower left—Squaws receiving their food rations. Lower right—An Indian of today depicting one of a hundred years ago.

No section of Canada can claim a monopoly of Indian Summer, but, to Banff, Alta., belongs Indian Days. Indian Summer occurs in the fall and may last two or three weeks; Indian Days occur in July and are only three in number; but, for those for whom they are named, there is more real pleasure crowded into that short time than they experience during the other three hundred and sixty-two days of the year. For three days the Indian is "King of Banff". He pitches his tepees under the steep cliffs of Cascade Mountain, known to the Indians from ancestral days as "Stoney Chief". Close to "Stoney Chief" and still known by its original name stands "Stoney Squaw". The latter is a pretty mountain, much smaller than its neighbour, but with an appealing feminine dignity all its own. The reason, then, for the Indians' original choice of names is obvious to all.

For these three festival days the Indian is lord of all he surveys, and all through the village of Banff and in and around the famous Banff Springs Hotel the scene resembles a veritable monster Indian camp. The event that probably led up to the adoption of Indian Days occurred in July 1889 when rail traffic, both east and west of Banff was tied up for a period of ten days, as heavy rains had washed out the tracks in both directions. The Banff Springs Hotel, then but a small structure, was crowded with tourists who found time hung heavily on their hands.

SYSTEM DIFFERS IN AGRICULTURE

Canada and States Following Different Courses—Outlook for Dominion Farmer Is International

Canada and the United States seem to be destined to pursue entirely different courses in agricultural matters as well as in political activities. Dear F. M. Clement, of the British Columbia college of agriculture, points out that there are at present two distinct policies in farm production.

In the United States the aim of many of the organizations is to limit the output and in this way keep prices at a higher level. With the aid of a tariff wall the farmers are trying to hold their own market regardless of supplies that may be available from the other countries. While a measure of success has resulted from his policy, it has not always worked out according to schedule. At the present time Canadian cattle, hogs, cream and milk are going across the border in great quantities than ever before. The Canadian policy, particularly in the wheat growing has not been restricted but expanded with a view to supplying the world market. How successful this has been may be judged from the demand for our milling wheat and the export trade with the leading countries of the world. The outlook of the Canadian farmer is international, that of the United States farmer only national.

The funeral service will be held at the family residence, Bruton St., on Thursday afternoon, May 3rd, at 2.30 o'clock. Interment at Welcome Cemetery; funeral private.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Aren't you going to see the ball game today?

Quite a number of local baseball fans went to Toronto today to be at the opening game at the Stadium between Newark and Toronto.

Tonight is the night Mr. Fred Winfield is giving his recital for the Port Hope Music Club in the United Church. He has always been popular with music lovers here and we are sure he will be greeted by a large crowd this evening.

Both cadet corps, of High School and Public Schools are getting their drill in the best of shape for inspection, which is to be held on Friday. They show a fine training and the discipline will be good for the building of sound physical men who will do what they are told when they are instructed.

The boys have been out digging the garden not so much for the sake of preparing it to bring forth fruit as to get worms with which to lure the fish from the lakes and streams.

The timbers being hauled up our main street are to be used in building gravel bins and graders at the pit on the Cranberry Road in preparation of paving the highway north of here and between Welcome and Dale.

Those funny looking fellows with the high boots and riding breeches are anglers who have noticed that the season has opened and are now off after the poor fish.

The people who steal papers are pretty small but they will feel worse if action is taken against them.

Threatening to kill himself, Jas. Brand, a Dane, 318 Division street, Oshawa, rushed out of his garage shortly after midnight and put a bullet through his head. He died instantly. His wife and daughter heard the shot and found him on the floor of the garage. Coroner F. J. Rundle was called and, after an investigation pronounced it deliberate suicide.

Walker Francks, Brighton, stole $15 from a companion in Brighton early Tuesday and two hours afterward was arrested in Trenton. Pleading guilty to a charge of theft before Magistrate O'Rourke he was sentenced to fifteen days in the county jail and in another hour was on his way to serve his time.

Twenty five families were included in the group of four hundred immigrants which reached Winnipeg Tuesday for distribution in Western Canada. The newcomers were chiefly Germans and Ukrainians, many of whom are proceeding to farms already purchased for them. The families were brought to the Dominion by the Canadian National Settlement Association.
