Mrs. F. W. Rous notified the Mission that she would allow the use of her home for a tea to be held on Tuesday, May 29th.

Secretary's Report

Madame President and Ladies—
I have the honor to present to you the Eighteenth Annual Report of the Women's Hospital Mission.
As in the past, the reports of our work for the year just ended show satisfactory results.

Our meetings are held from month to month, when reports are brought in regarding the needs of the hospital, so that this special work of the Mission has been carefully carried on.

We have solicited from the women of the town upon three occasions only, in the past year, nevertheless the treasurer's report will show that our bank balance is not depleted, but that there has been the usual steady flow of money into the treasury.

This year as formerly, the first event was the Hospital Birthday Party, which was celebrated June 29, on the hospital grounds. The citizens always avail themselves of the opportunity to take a present of groceries or linen or money and the net results are surprisingly large.

It was decided early in the year to concentrate our energies upon one big affair, instead of making numerous calls upon the people. Saint Valentine was again chosen as our Patron Saint, and as in the past, he continued to favor us, so that the Valentine Bazaar proved to be the same outstanding success, which record it had established in previous years. Mrs. J. L. Westaway was the general convener of the Bazaar and to her and her assistants we are indebted for the great enthusiasm shown, which produced such splendid financial results. Upon this occasion, it may be said nearly every woman of the town did her duty for the hospital.

Our greatest work and responsibility, as you know, is supplying all furnishings and articles necessary for the successful operating of our hospital, such as linens, china, cooking utensils, blankets, sheets, etc., and thus supplementing to an enormous extent the maintenance of the hospital. It is indeed something of which to be proud, to have an institution so well equipped to alleviate pain and suffering, and to increase the comforts of patients, and save many lives. You will agree with me, I am sure that much of this has been attained by the unceasing and untiring efforts of our President, Mrs. Edgar, and I should like to pay special tribute to the faithful leadership of our President. She constantly visits the hospital and performs in her quiet, unassuming way, many acts of service, love and mercy.

Again I should like to direct your attention to the conscientious and efficient work of our Superintendent and her assistant, Miss Bell. You may gain some little knowledge of the magnitude of their work and responsibility when you learn that during the past year there were 497 patients treated in the hospital, 160 X-ray examinations and 72 births, 3 pairs of twins. In addition to this Miss Elliott has charge of eight nurses in training and one probationer. There is also a night supervisor.

Miss Bell, who has charge of the X-ray machine, states that it is a great asset to the hospital; all fracture cases are taken there; the dentists have their problems solved and the doctors diagnose many cases in this department.

We are pleased indeed to know that the Hospital Trustees have under their consideration, the advisability of building the new wing this year. It is very much needed as there could be an isolation ward to do preventative work in contagious diseases, the new wing would also relieve the crowding and congestion which has been so evident during the past year. It would also be an incentive to every member of our Mission to help in furnishing what is our most popular institution in town—the hospital.

We feel that the citizens of the town are interested in our work and we wish to extend our thanks and to express our appreciation of the ready response of the citizens generally to the demands made upon them.

I regret exceedingly to have to report the loss to our Mission of one of our oldest, and most esteemed officers, the late Mrs. James Reid. She had been our faithful treasurer for nearly eighteen years and I should like today to pay tribute to her efficiency as an officer and also to the help she gave everyone with whom she came in contact. She was indeed a loyal friend.

We wish to thank Mr. Chesler for his attention in preparing the Council Chamber for our meetings; also the Press for their unflinching courtesy and kindness.
To the women of the town we extend a cordial invitation to attend the monthly meetings and become members of the Mission. All of which is respectfully submitted.
J. D. SNIDER, Secretary.

PAIGE TURNS OVER AT WELCOME

Early Morning Accident Smash—
Fine Sedan But Injured
No One

At three o'clock this (Wednesday) morning, a large Paige sedan, proceeding west, turned over just after rounding Welcome corner, but no one was seriously injured.

The accident had no eye witnesses at that hour in the morning, but the indications are that the car turned over several times, as the road shows skid marks some distance above where the broken glass was found and one side and the top of the car are so badly damaged that it is doubtful if it will be repairable. Despite all this and the fact that all the windshield and door plate glass was broken, it is said that the occupants escaped with only cuts and scratches which is nothing short of miraculous.

The car is said to have been driven by Mr. Knox of Toronto, who apparently did not observe the sign of the Highways Department pointing out a sharp curve ahead and neglected to slow down, so it didn't turn out just right for them below Welcome Corner.

BANKERS SWAMP GANERASKAS 23-5

Interesting Game for Three Innings
But Bankers Run
Wild in Fourth

The first scheduled game between the Bankers and Ganeraskas at the Viaduct Park Tuesday night proved an interesting contest for the first three innings but the Bankers ran wild in the fourth session and twelve runs were brought in. Numerous errors were made and although at times some good features were exhibited, the large attendance of softball fans were not treated to the same brand of ball exhibited in Monday night's tussle between the Sanitary and Mathews Conveyer.

McConnell went the route for the Bankers and the losers corralled but six hits off his delivery. He registered three strikeouts, The Ganeraskas brought in two runs in the fourth stanza. Graham singled to right and crossed the plate on Buckley's slashing triple to the same quarter. Mitchell secured a life when Martin let Winfield's throw get away from him and Buckley counted.

In the fifth frame the losers scored the balance of their evening's allotment. Bailey led off with a hit through short and Palmer hit safely. Curtis socked a triple to deep left centre and two runs came in. Graham reached first on an error at second and Curtis counted.

The Bankers secured at least one counter in every innings. One run came in the first, second and sixth frames, with three in the third and five in the fifth. The big blow-out came in the fourth session when twelve runs were brought in and from then on the game developed into a fiasco. Sixteen men went to bat and seven hits combined with errors, passed balls and what not, accounted for the dozen. Brock ensnared the stickers with four hits in five trips to the plate and Spicer and Smith each scored four runs.

Manager Palmer has the nucleus of a good team and a shift-up is promised for the next game and better results are looked for.

On Thursday night the C.N.R. and File clash in a scheduled game.

The teams—
Ganeraskas—Palmer cf and p; Curtis c, p and cf; Hunt p; Rowden c; Graham 2nd; Buckley 1st; Mitchell lf; Austin 3rd; Goodman ss and Bailey rf.

Bankers—Spicer 3rd; Smith 2nd; Brockenshire c; O'Neil rf; McConnell p; Winfield ss; Wade cf; Munro cf; Melville lf; and Martin 1st.

ALL MERCHANTS WILL OBSERVE HALF HOLIDAY, WEDNESDAY, STARTING JUNE

Enthusiasm Displayed At Meeting of Retail Merchants Association Tuesday—Half Holiday Settled—Other Items Of Interest Discussed by Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Port Hope Retail Merchants Association was held Tuesday night in the Council Chamber, Town Hall. "Enthusiasm" was the key note of the meeting and a big program of activities was carefully considered.

Weekly Half Holiday.
It will be remembered that some time ago it was agreed that all merchants would observe a weekly half holiday during the months of June-September. Last night the day decided upon was Wednesday, and accordingly all merchants will observe this half day, beginning with the first Wednesday in June. This action was taken following reports received by the meeting to the effect that Peterboro and Cobourg are also observing Wednesday as their half holiday this year.

It was also decided on motion that those stores already observing the half holiday remain open on Wednesday, May 23rd, on account of Victoria

Day, May 24th.

Public Lavatory
This question was considered by the meeting; it being felt that the erection of a public lavatory would be in the best interests of the people of the town and the travelling public who visit Port Hope. Various plans were discussed with the result that a committee consisting of Messrs. H. Fulford, G. T. Hancock and Ben Oliver will confer with the Parks Commission at their next meeting, and report back to this organization.

Other items of interest were also seriously considered, among them being co-operative advertising, the appointment of a Trade Commissioner, Credit Bureau, co-operative buying by the various branches of retail trade, etc.

Altogether the meeting was most profitable and the executive are going to be very busy getting matters lined up before the next regular meeting of the association.

WESLEYVILLE PLAY GOOD

"Go Slow Mary" Presented With Pep and Received With Enthusiasm

The young people from Wesleyville put off their play "Go Slow Mary" under the auspices of the United Church Y.P.S. in the Sunday School Hall Tuesday night and very much pleased their audience.

They just seemed to be picked for their parts and put on the play in the way it should be presented, with a team play and energy which made no individual "stars" because each role was acted with such skill that a critic would be bound to say that "Go Slow Mary" was presented by an "all star cast."

The story was splendid and with the few local touches they added put it over with a realism which made it appeal to all those present and we are certain if they had been here for a two night engagement they would have had to turn many away the second night.

The Cast

Billy Abbey—Wilfred Bee.
Mary Abbey—Ethel Vannatto
Mrs. Berdon—Mrs. E. Barrowlough

JUDGMENT RESERVED

His Honor Judge O'Connor reserved judgment Tuesday morning in the appeal of James Akey of Peterboro who appeared in Port Hope court a few weeks ago, against the sentence imposed upon him by His Worship Magistrate Langley, in the Police Court, Peterboro, for having liquor in his possession without a permit. The defendant was then fined $250 and costs, or one month in the common jail with hard labor.

J. A. O'Brien represented the accused and Crown Attorney Hatton, K.C., prosecuted for Provincial Officer Joseph Stewart. Mr. O'Brien, in his argument, reviewed the evidence and argued that the room in Akey's race horse stable was the exclusive residence of Milton Barnard, the owner of the eight bottles of beer that the Government officers had found. "Barnard at the trial had assumed responsibility for the beer," declared Mr. O'Brien. "But in this case we are not trying Barnard. He may have been wrong in keeping the liquor there, and action could have been taken against him, but the officers have preferred Akey. I submit that the magistrate has lost the point entirely in his judgment, for surely it is up to Barnard if it was not a residence according to the Act," said Mr. O'Brien.

Mr. Hatton claimed that a room where a man had not the exclusive right, which was not locked and where other men could pass through while going to put down hay for the horses, was not a residence under the Act. "A man can hardly call a place a residence where he has not eaten for a month and only lies down on a bed with his clothes on when he drops in at night when he has not some other place to go."

Mr. Hatton also argued that Barnard could not consume the amount of liquor that was shown on his permit and remain in his ordinary senses. He emphasized the fact that one officer who raided the stables found a glass in a room downstairs where four men were with a little liquor in it and that Barnard had never changed the address of residence on his permit from R.R. 3, Peterboro to the Brock Street number.

Stadium by 5 to 2 and until he eased the pressure in the ninth and permitted the visitors to escape a shutout, he was invincible, and almost complete master of the situation. It was the first time this season that the lanky right hander went the route.

The day was cold for baseball and the players showed signs of frayed nerves when decisions were given that they didn't like. Manager Bill O'Hara and Coach Fred Burchell said unkind things about the arbiters' vision in the fifth, following a play in which Captain Webb was retired at third base. In the next frame Clayton Shedy objected so strenuously when he was called out at first base on a remarkably close decision that he was ordered to follow his manager and coach into temporary retirement. He departed while the fans roared their disapproval.

But even with the manager, coach and one of their hardest hitters out of it the eafs went on to victory. Hankins was at this best in pinches and Bedore, who replaced Shedy, made two sensational catches in left and missed another by inches.

OFFICER IS FREED FROM ALL BLAME

Inquests Held Into Deaths Of Constable Maker And D. Montgomery

The coroner's jury which was empanelled to inquire into the deaths of Provincial Constable Maker and David Montgomery, Tuesday night found that the late officer was murdered by David Montgomery while carrying out his duty on the morning of May 3, and that David Montgomery met his death from a shot fired by Constable Leopold Mathews. Mathews was cleared of all blame, and commended him for his pluck under the circumstances.

J. F. Strickland acted for the Crown in place of Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., and the inquest was held before Coroner T. W. Young. Inspector Boyd of the Provincial Police, occupied a seat beside Coroner Young.

Many witnesses were called in the inquest but the jury were not long in coming to a decision in it.

Early on Thursday morning Constable Stewart was asked by Augustus Sawyers, who was in charge of the hotel in the absence of the manager, to come down and take a revolver from David Montgomery, who was making threats of shooting occupants of the hotel. Mr. Stewart immediately called Constable Maker and the two then went to the hotel. They conducted a search in Montgomery's room, but failed to find the revolver. On coming downstairs they met Montgomery. Maker asked Montgomery if he had a revolver and he said, "Yes, come with me and I will get it for you." The two officers followed him up the stairs to his room, and as they entered the hall on the third floor, Montgomery entered his room as if to get the revolver, and in an instant returned to the door and fired. The first shot went wild. The two officers turned to go down stairs. Montgomery followed them. A second shot was fired and then a third rang out, and Maker fell forward. Montgomery followed Stewart down the stair and continued to fire at him, one shot grazing his hand. Stewart rushed to notify the police and Montgomery followed him to the street, waving his revolver.

Disagreement Occurred

Augustus Sawyers told of a disagreement the night before between himself and Montgomery, when the deceased cursed him. The next morning another cursing followed and Sawyers then went to phone Stewart. Montgomery stopped him so Sawyers walked to Stewart's home and laid the complaint.

Inspector Lougheed of Belleville was called to give evidence as to the duties of the two officers and he said it was perfectly within their rights to carry out such a raid as Mr. Stewart was classed as a Provincial Officer. Miss Alleta Young, a chambermaid in the employ of the Montgomery Hotel, saw the shooting and when Constable Maker dropped he fell at her feet. She said she heard Maker cry, "My God, I am shot," and Montgomery called out that it was Stewart he meant to get and that the whole thing had been forced on him as Sawyers was to blame.

Constable Puffer told of seeing Montgomery in the hall upstairs with his gun levelled on him as he was feeling for Maker's pulse. At the second inquest, that into the death of David Montgomery, Constable Mathews, the officer who fired the fatal shot, was the principal witness.

Maid Gave Warning

He, along with Puffer and Detective Carey, went to the hotel. At the hotel a search was made for Montgomery and while they were looking upstairs a maid called to them that Montgomery was going down a rope at the back of his room. Carey and Mathews immediately went downstairs and Carey went to the back of the hotel and noticed Montgomery enter an old paint shop. Mathews went to the front of the hotel, and as he went to enter the paint shop from the front came face to face with Montgomery who had his revolver out. Mathews shouted to him to drop it. Montgomery did not, and Mathews fired at Montgomery's shoulder, intending to wound him. As he fired, Montgomery moved and the bullet pierced his chest. Montgomery dropped back and as Mathews reached for his revolver he made a last unsuccessful effort to shoot the officer.

On charges of fleeing from an accident, Chicago woman driver was fined $100.

THE GUIDE STORY

"I'm sure that I don't know why we never thought of starting it at Greylands," resumed Hal, swinging along beside her. "Too slow, I suppose. I've promised to help her over the bonfire and torchlight part, although as she says, the Manor gardeners will, in all probability, be quite able to start them. I've advised her to push on the affair. I'm not sure that a change of weather isn't coming and for a night carnival on the ice, people won't mind short notice. What costume are you going to wear, Miss Fenton?"

"Are not the costumes to be kept a secret?"

"I don't see why. She's not going in for masks and all that foolery, though if I had a clew given to me I don't know that I should mind. At such short notice we shall have to use what costumes we have from the last fancy dress ball. What's the matter, Miss Fenton?"

Firefly had halted and was gazing at him.

"You are a very dense young man," she answered plaintively. "I stayed behind at The Briars to get rid of you; you refused to take the hint, so if I speak plainly now it is only your own fault. I want to walk home alone. I am dreadfully bored with you. I am in a downright bad temper and want to be by myself, and I will try and make up tomorrow by being extra nice. Now, please, do go away at once."

"Certainly."

"Hal raised his hat, stepped back a few paces and motioned to Firefly to proceed.

"Don't be cross, Mr. Pett?"

"Good night, Miss Fenton."

Firefly hesitated for half a second.

"You really should try and control your temper, Mr. Pett," she said, and then she walked on. Before Firefly went to bed night she had drawn from Olwen a description of the projected festivity, and satisfied herself that the idea had not been in existence more than a few hours.

CHAPTER XX

Telling The Truth

"Aunt Charity," said Firefly one morning, not long after a lengthy consultation with Olwen and Doctor Forrester had taken place in the library, "would you think Mr. Fortescue is a dishonest man or kind-hearted and greatly to be pitied?"

"Gracious!" exclaimed the old lady reprovingly. "You really should not say such terrible things. You know how very much I have been worrying lately over the idea that John Fortescue's son might possibly have lapsed into dishonesty."

"Have you put any questions about it to your visitor?" whispered Firefly.

Self-possessed young person as she was, she feared to touch upon the subject of this supposed visitor from another world.

"Yes, dear child," said the old lady softly, looking out of the window. "I told him my trouble. Sometimes he advises me, as you know, but on this occasion he merely smiled."

"Did he?" said Firefly quietly, leaving her seat on the window sill and coming close to Miss Granby. "He probably knows more about it than you do. You do not mind my talking like this, Aunt Charity?"

"No, dear. You are a good child, and I like to talk sometimes about my dear boy. Did I ever tell you how he first came to me, one night, many years ago?"

"I should like to hear," answered Firefly softly, though she had listened to it already several times.

"You see, dear child, very many years ago we were betrothed. He was a dear boy, and bright and cheerful. His profession—he was a sailor—took him over the great waters. His last voyage was to be just before the date fixed for our wedding day. The ship was never heard of again. He came to me one night and told me I was not to wait and long for earthly tidings of him, but to think of him as waiting for me on the other side. It was a great comfort, for some poor creature never knows what has happened. He comes to me still, and we hold communion together, so that, as he says, the time has not seemed long."

"When you told him you were worried about Mr. Fortescue he smiled?" suggested Firefly kneeling down beside the chair.

"Yes, and I feel rather perplexed as to what he intended me to understand."

"I think I know," said Firefly. "What do you think, Aunt Charity? I admire Mr. Fortescue very much, and your niece, Miss Ransome, too."

"What has Olwen to do with my orphanage scheme?" Miss Granby's eyes lost their dreamy introspective look and grew alert and attentive.

"What do you want to tell me, child?"

"Just this, that you have been putting two kind hearted people in a fix. Mr. Fortescue and your niece had a harmless little secret between them which concerned you, and you worried them so dreadfully that they can't keep it any longer and have commissioned me to tell you. Tell me honestly, however shocked you may feel at the question, would you rather think Mr. Fortescue a dishonest man, one who has got rid of the money or as a kind hearted man whom you hold in great esteem?"

MOTHER AWAITS SON'S RETURN

Mme. Nungesser, Mother of Aviator, Still Anxiously Awaits News

In her apartment at Paris a white haired woman still waits for the war hero son who flew into the west a year ago Tuesday. Although hope was given up months ago for the safety of Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli who left Le Bourget in their white bird by all the world, yet Madame Nungesser, mother of the ace, still waits and hopes.

"I am still expecting news. One year is not too long if Charles came down on an island or far from civilization," she says hopefully.

Madame Nungesser is greatly changed since the day her son flew proudly away into the fog of the English Channel. Many famous fliers, Lindbergh, Levine, Chamberlain, Ruth Elder and others have visited her, the mother of one of the /traders. She is always glad to welcome them though she remains retired from the rest of the world, locking herself in her apartment. Some day, she says, her boy will come to her too

These tours will leave Toronto July 4th, returning to this city July 26th and 30th, respectively. They will be personally conducted and the prices are "All Expense" charges, covering transportation, sleeping car, steamer and hotel accommodations, meals, sight-seeing drives and gratuities.

For descriptive booklet containing full details of itinerary and cost, write to Mr. Martin Kerr, 4 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, Ont.; Mr. A. E. Bryson, 44 Silverthorne Ave., Toronto, or to General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Ry., Toronto.

"ACROSS CANADA" TOURS VIA CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

This summer there will be two "Across Canada" tours via the Canadian National Railways. Both of them will include the best known scenic features of Western Canada, the Canadian Rockies and the Pacific Coast. The most outstanding of these will be the stop over at Jasper Park Lodge in Jasper National Park, and the famous Triangle tour of British Columbia, thirteen hundred miles by rail and five hundred and fifty miles by steamer through the most wonderful mountain scenery in the world. The second tour will include in addition a side trip by steamer to Alaska, that mysterious land of glaciers and totem poles.

Strangled with Asthma is the only expression that seems to convey what is endured from an attack of this trouble. The relief from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is beyond measure. Where all was suffering there comes comfort and rest. Breathing becomes normal and the bronchial tubes completely cleared. This unequalled remedy is worth many times its price to all who use it.

CHARLIE'S BACK!

Eager to see "The Circus" and so are hundreds of Port Hoppers, young and old, for Charlie's tremendous popularity has never waned, and never will as long as he makes pictures as funny as this one. Booked at heavy expenses which necessitates a slight advance in prices, it opens a four day engagement at the Royal Theatre to night.

An Oil That Is Prized Everywhere. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish over fifty years ago. It was put up to meet the wants of a small section, but as soon as its merits became known it had a whole continent for a field, and it is now known and prized throughout this continent. There is nothing equal to it.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Are you coming to the Euchre tonight?

The thirsty may now quench their thirst at the fountain which has been put up for the summer. It is not much, yet a great asset to the town.

The new bill-board in the centre of our business section, facing Geo. T. Hancock's Hardware on Ontario Street is certainly not "a thing of beauty nor a joy forever."

The following cadets were presented with pens for being the best in their platoons, Edmund Gallagher, Wilfred Johns, Frank Southby and Donald Rutherford. Jack Pethok won a pen also for being the smartest cadet in the Bugle Band.

Mr. Sam Palmer has purchased and moved to a house on Ontario st., north of the Ontario Gardens across from Lingard's formerly owned by Mr. J. Harcourt. Mr. Chislett, King street, is moving into the house vacated by Mr. Palmer.

Empire Day will be fittingly celebrated by the schools here on May 23rd when a special program will be carried out.

Mr. John Gray of Millbrook, had his home destroyed by fire early yesterday morning.

More visiting cars are seen every day now and it is about time there were signs on the outskirts of Port Hope to show tourists where they are. "Come on," men of Port Hope, attend to it now, rather than in the fall.

The water fountain has been erected at the corner of Queen and Walton streets.

Those who find it difficult to understand how Charlie Chaplin in "The Circus" can be shown in both Port Hope and Cobourg the same nights will be interested to know that it is playing Oshawa and Peterboro also, concurrently with its local run. The explanation is, that contrary to general belief, a large number of "prints" or copies are made of every photoplay, just as one can obtain any number of photographs from one negative, and there is no limit to the number of theatres in which a motion picture can be shown simultaneously.

Englishtown will soon have an up to date business section like down town with all the improvements which have been made so far this spring. The latest is the modern front to be put on Mr. R. C. Mann's shoe-repair shop.

"The old order changeth, yielding place to the new," the poet saith. Our corner friend is much reminded of that, as he sees the roof removed from the Jordan Block which has been a land mark here for many years.

A Milton business man and a resident of Campbellville came before Magistrate H. P. Moore there charged with having neglected to send to the proper officials, statements showing their incomes. The special war income act requires this. They both pleaded guilty and were each fined $25 and costs and also were required to fill out the returns and forward without delay. Other prosecutions will follow. (The Department may check up here, have you filled out your form or are you going to pay the fine and then still have to fill it out?)

Fire of an unknown origin totally destroyed the Rollins Block in Stirling at an early hour Tuesday. A jewelry store, occupied by Mr. Roblin, was gutted, as also the flour and feed store next door. The fire started in the jewelry store and spread both ways in the block. The Bell Telephone office was saved after a hard battle by the fire brigade and helpers. The loss will be in excess of $15,000, which was partially covered by insurance. The blaze was discovered by two near-

Tuesday H. H. Henschall, General Sales Manager of the truck and coach division of General Motors, Oshawa, placed the first call over Oshawa's five thousandth telephone, installed in his new residence on Park Road North. On Oct. 22, 1922, the city's two thousandth telephone was installed. On Feb. 14, 1927, there were 4,000 telephones in Oshawa. In a little over a year, Oshawa has gained a thousand telephones, certain proof of growth and stability.

The steamship Rein Dorgan, Norway, with a load of Scotch anthracite from Gainsboro, Scotland, arrived at Schuster Dock, Belleville, Tuesday after a voyage of three weeks. Captain Karl Johansen and First Mate Olaf Wraamann were in charge. There is a crew of 16. This is the first time that an ocean going steamer has arrived at that port and a large number of the citizens were on hand to witness the event. The boat landed 2,500 tons of coal. She was guided through the Bay of Quinte by the tug W. Davis, commanded by Captain Pete Cote.

What A Shock

"Yes," said the tall man, "I had many disappointments but none stands out like the one that came to me when I was a boy."
 "Some terrible shock, that fixed itself in your memory, I suppose?"
 "Exactly," said the tall man. "I had crawled under a tent to see the circe and I discovered it was a revival meeting."

NORTH MANITOBA ATTRACTS MINERS

Rush of Prospectors Expected Following Investments of American Capital

One of the largest mining rushes in recent years is expected to occur in the new mineral belt of northern Manitoba with the coming of spring, according to H. A. Dixon, chief engineer of the western lines of the Canadian National Railways has returned from an inspection of the branch line which is being built into the area.

The heavy investment of the Whitney interests of New York in the Flin Flon mining property and the introduction of much other American capital into other properties has stirred the imagination and ambition of prospectors so that even now claims by the hundreds are being staked all over this new northern field.

The line to the Flin Flon has been completed for 51 miles beyond its junction with the Hudson Bay Railway. Steel now reaches Cranberry Portage and here an important mining camp has sprung into being. Many claims have been staked in this section and some good minerals have been found. These are mostly copper and zinc. This point will likely be the general rendezvous of prospectors as from here all important routes to the north, west and south can be reached by canoe.
 Thirteen hundred men are engaged in building the Flin Flon branch line. By the end of May another 1200 men will be at work constructing the first 95 miles of the last portion of the Hudson Bay Railway to Fort Churchill. Steel now ends 150 miles from Fort Churchill and it is hoped to have the line ready for service by the end of next year.
