From Dicken's Household Words,

"I can scarcely hear," she murmur'd ' For my heart beats loud and fast, But surely, in the far, far distance, I hear a sound at last." As they carry home their sheaves;
And the evening breeze has risen,
And rustles the dying leaves." "Listen! there are voices talking."
Calmly still, she strove to speak,
Yet, her voice grew faint and trepbling, Below, now their work is done. And they laugh that their eyes are dazzled By the rays of the sening sun," Fainter grew her voice, and weaker, As with anxious eves she cried, Down the avenue of chesinuts, I hear a horseman ride."

"It is only the deer that were feeding
In a herd on the clover grass,
They were startled, and fied to the thicket As they saw the reapers pass." Now the night rose in silence, Birds lay in their leafy nest, And the deer couched in the forest, And the children were at rest;

There was only a sound of weeping

From watchers round a bed, But rest to the weary spirit, Peace to the quiet dead!

Loss MENTIONED AS £57,000.
On Sunday morning, about four o'clock, the large retail dry goods establishment of Messrs. J. & D. Lewis, Netre Dame St., was discovered to be on fire-the wind blowing strongly from the north-west. The devopring element soon communicated with the adjoining premises; in a short time the whole block, four story cut-stone building, was in flames. The stores destroyed are as follows :- Messes. J. and D. Lewis' splendid dry goods store, insured for £16,500 in the Britannia and Ætna Offices, which it is sup-posed will about cover the loss; Mr. Soloman's fur store, and dwelling above, the estimated loss £4,000, insured for £1,200; Messrs, Schwartz and Co.'s millinery and fancy store, and dwelling above-we did not hear the amount of their s but it must be seems derable being that a short time in business in the city, and their stock was very valuable—their insurance, we believe, was only $1560; Mr. Rice Sharpley's fancy store, and dwelling above, was the last in the block, and at this point the fire was checked. Mr. Sharpley's establishment was the largest of the kind in the city; his stock is estimated at from £15,000 to £20,000, and is insured only for £5,000. The whole amount of property destroyed, is estimated at from £40,000 to £50,000. This is the most disastrous fire that has occurred since the great conflagration of 1852. Nothing at all was saved, either from the stock or furniture of the three first named establishments, and only a very small portion of Mr. Sharpley's stock was rescued, and mostly in a damaged state. The extensive retail dry goods establish-ment of Messrs. Benjamin, and S. S. Boudreau, and the wholesale boot and shoe store of Messrs. Brown and Childs, opposite the burnt block, were in imminent danger, but by the well directed exertions of the fire companies, the ened by the crackling of the flames, and discovered the drapery part of the establishment all in a blaze. The alarm was immediately given, and the fire brigade was promptly on the spot. The supply of water at first was rather deficient, but in a short time a plentiful supply was obtained, and the firemen exerted themselves in a manner beyond all praise. The The engines left the ground about eight o'clock, A. M., but we observed Mr. Bertram, the inc fatigable chief engineer, on the ground the whole day, and this gentleman is deserving of something more than a mere passing notice, from the fact that he was compelled to change his apparel several times during the day, having been thoroughly drenched and frozen. The ruins were visited by immense crowds on Sunday, but as some danger was apprehended from the walls, Northumberland and Sudertised to men stationed to prevent persons passing. The large building is a complete wreck; scarcely flames were prevented from crossing the street. Miss Clark's fancy store, adjoining store, near

Sharpley's, was also in danger, but sustained no damage; the goods, however, were removed.

The property belonged to the estate of the late

Hon. Joseph Masson, and was insured for £7,000 in the Globe and Royal Offices. Of the origin of the fire nothing has yet been ascer-

When to my earnest suit delay'd,
A thousand times and one,
So condescendingly you said,
At last your hear was won?

And, Fanny, we were wedded once, Ay, to my arms you came, A wild and winsome creature, Fan, Too beautiful to name; And then, of all the charms possess'd, Cooldingly and free, pillow'd on thy gentle breest,

I, pillow'd on thy general Did dream of heaven and thee. But, Fanny, you are ugly now,
Your cheek hath lost its hue.
And though your eye is gentle, Fan,
It dinns look so blue;
Your form no more with grace accords,
Your time to win is o'er,
And when I hear thy music words,

Their muste charms no more. Poor Fanny! (for I sung this lay, Not meaning aught on earth,
Than just to give my fancy play,
And give thy nonsense birth;
Poor Fanny turned away at this,
