The Tri-Weekly Guide is published every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at $3 per annum, payable monthly, in advance, by Town subscribers, thus dividing the subscription into twelve payments of 25 cents each. The carriers collect the amount at the beginning of each month. Persons wishing to subscribe may leave their names at the Counting Room.

Subscribers are particularly requested to notify the Office of any irregularity in the delivery of the papers.

Advertisers will find it to their interest to advertise in the Tri-Weekly and Weekly Guide, the combined circulation of the two papers being double that of any other publication. Advertisements inserted in the Tri-Weekly appear in the Weekly without any extra charge.

ADVERTISING RATES.
Twelve lines or less take a square. For one square one insertion $0.80; for each subsequent insertion up to one week $0.20.

Advertisements in the Tri-Weekly will bear in mind that their advertisements appear in the Weekly Guide, which has a very large country circulation, without any extra charge.

Advertisements inserted in the Weekly alone are charged 7 cents a line for the first insertion and 2 cents a line for each subsequent insertion.

John P. Keenan of every description is executed at the Guide Office with promptness and in the first style of the art. The office has been lately supplied with one of Ruggie's Engine Power Presses, acknowledged to be the best Press for Jobbing purposes yet manufactured. This Press gives a much clearer and finer impression on dry than any other Press can on wet paper, an advantage, which Bankers, Lawyers and others who are constantly using printed blanks will at once appreciate.

The Tri-Weekly Guide.

PORT HOPE, FEBRUARY 9, 1858.

Such a Clear Head as he has.

The Atlas attempts to answer our remarks about Mr. Swain's statement, that Mr. Burton was one of the originators of the Cavan meeting against Separate Schools. Our friend smooths the Reeve down beautifully; if he were an Irishman, as he is not, and had kissed the "blarney stone," he could not have laid the flattery on more scientifically. He speaks of Mr. Swain as a man "whose incorruptibility and honesty are well known and appreciated." We do not deny that in ordinary transactions the Reeve of Cavan is a perfectly honest man. But we do not believe, the Atlas to the contrary, notwithstanding, that in an election contest he is not "incorruptible." We judge the free by its fruit.

Our contemporary heads his remarks "in fact and fact." He thinks our position was not sustained; and in a few sentences at the commencement, that require an interpreter, accuses us of obscurity. For his benefit we will state the case again:

On the hustings, Mr. Swain said that Mr. Burton was one of the originators of the Cavan meeting, that he had written from Toronto to induce him and others to enter upon the work. Mr. Armstrong replied that the Reeve did not get the letter until the day after the meeting was held, and that Mr. Burton consequently could have had no hand in getting it up. To this Mr. Swain answers, "false! false!" Mr. Burton being called upon to decide between the two gentlemen, alleged that after his return to Toronto from attending a meeting at Crawley's, he wrote to Mr. Swain, asking him to call together the inhabitants of Cavan and obtain a public expression of their opinion on the Separate School question, and that acting upon such request the Reeve got up the gathering. Such is the substance of the assertions that were made on the hustings. The facts and the assertions do not agree.

1st. The Crawley meeting was held three weeks after the Millbrook or Cavan meeting, consequently Mr. Burton must have been mistaken—of course he did not intend to utter a "deliberate falsehood"—when he boldly said he wrote to Mr. Swain after the Crawley gathering. Put a pin there Mr. Atlas.

2d. The first intimation that Mr. Burton had of the Cavan meeting was from a handbill announcing it, forwarded to Toronto by some of his friends. On receiving this handbill Mr. Burton wrote to the Reeve to get up a meeting, but the letter did not reach its destination until after the meeting was held. Keep that in mind Mr. Atlas.

3d. The Reeve received the letter the morning the Township Council met to petition, according to the instructions of the meeting, the Legislature against Separate Schools, and on reading it Mr. Swain expressed his regret, in presence of a number of gentlemen, that it had not come to hand earlier so as to have been read at the meeting. Do not forget this Mr. Atlas.

Now, the plain English of the whole matter is simply this: Mr. Burton found that there was a strong feeling in this Riding against Separate Schools, and learning that a meeting to petition the Legislature against them was actually to be got up in Cavan, he, like a prudent man, determined to make a virtue of necessity, and appear to lead when he in reality followed. The letter that reached Mr. Swain, after the meeting had come off, was merely a move on the chess-board; and the statement of both on the hustings, that the letter was received previous to the meeting being called, was an attempt to checkmate, at the expense of truth, those real friends of good government who desired to see Mr. Burton elected to stay at home. The facts we have adduced justify these conclusions; and those facts—facts that can be proved by a dozen gentlemen of Cavan, are in direct opposition to the assertions of Mr. Burton and his friend Mr. Swain on the hustings. Are we understood?

The Atlas wanders off into a prelection on faggots and the stake, the ten commandments, and the Guinea's doctrine, but we confess our inability to discover any connection between it and Mr. Swain's "incorruptibility and honesty," or Mr. Burton's wriggling on the hustings. Nor can we see any necessity for the very learned essay on "Thought" which winds up his article; an essay, by the way, which enunciates such important discoveries as that, "Thought must be free, and will be free;" and again, that, "truth will prevail in spite of all the Smiths and Greas in Christendom." We entertain the strongest belief in the doctrine contained in Campbell's words,—

"Truth, crushed to earth, will rise again," but have grave doubts as to truth, in her efforts to elevate herself, ever having received any assistance from the Editor of the Atlas.

What his friends think of him.

The Montreal Transcript, a Ministerial Journal, speaks of the new Post Master General in the following language:—Poor Sydney, the thirty pieces of silver, the wages of sin, will yet burn a hole in your pocket, if not in your conscience.

As to the vulgar brawler Sydney Smith, the significant Atlas, or otherwise called "staid and deliver Smith"—is an expressive and appropriate summary of his claims to be made a Minister, not that we suppose that Mr. Smith would rob the mail or cut the throats of rich and gentle travellers—but we suspect, that politically speaking, he would look mainly to the spoils, and not to better his lot by getting at them. We think his nomination is another pitiable and fatal error on the part of the Premier. What strength will Mr. Smith bring? How many votes? How much individual character—how much ability? One vote besides his own; and as to the character and ability they speak for themselves in the following words:—"staid and deliver Smith."

What is to be done with goosey Cayley? Is he going to be kept on? Is this new-mouthing old dandy going to be retained, in the vain, the delusive hope that he will find some accommodating member and pliant constituency after the House meets? Does our Premier really mean to meet Parliament, with his Inspector General loafing about the lobby of the House, and without a seat in it? with an Inspector General rejected by one constituency, and having been wholly unable to cajole any other in Upper and Lower Canada? And this is Responsible Government, is it? Yes, and if continued it will become sheer corruption, degeneracy and anarchy.

Further by the "Edinburgh."

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF THE FRENCH EMPEROR.

INTERESTING PARTICULARS.

The fresh news brought by this arrival is derived from telegrams to the evening Glasgow papers. It consists chiefly in particulars of the late attempted assassination of the Emperor Napoleon.

Just as the carriage drew up to the peristyle of the Opera House, a large hand grenade, thrown, it is supposed, from one of the windows, opposite, fell upon the pavement within a few inches of the vehicle, burst with terrible force, and flung deadly projectiles in all directions. Two or three seconds after, another shell of the same kind struck the roof of the Imperial carriage. Before the Emperor and Empress had time to alight, a third quickly followed, launched with deadly aim, and bursting as effectively as the former two. This closed the murderous campaign.

The following statements and reports are from the correspondence and journals received from Paris on the morning of the 16th ult.

"The gas pipes running along the facade of the Opera House, were blown off by the explosion of the projectiles, and for a time the street was in darkness."

The street in which the Opera House is situated would have been filled by the crowd, but a squadron of Paris mounted Guards soon galloped up from their barracks. None, except the residents, were allowed to enter the street.

At the barracks on the Quay d'Orsay, the cavalry, armed to the teeth, mounted their horses, and remained ready for any emergency.

Four projectiles were flung under the carriage, but one did not explode. It was intended that twenty should be used.

About thirty persons are said to have been arrested.

Only one Frenchman, it is said, is said to be implicated.

The Paris correspondent of the London Herald telegraphs on the 15th:—"An Imperial carriage drove up to the main entrance of the main entrance of the theatre, and as one of the footmen was in the act of opening the door three percussion shells, filled with fulminating powder, were flung from the top of one of the houses opposite among the cortege, and exploded on reaching the ground. The first fell just in front of the carriage. Its fragments killed one horse, wounding the footman, and piercing the hat of the Emperor about an inch above his head. The other shells burst among the crowd and escort. An eye-witness says there was an interval of a few seconds between the second and third explosions. The Emperor had alighted; he then carried the Empress in his arms to the steps of the Opera-house, but scarcely had he done so when a third shell burst under the carriage and shattered it to pieces. The houses opposite were immediately taken possession of by the police, and in one several Italians were arrested, one having a loaded revolver. The shells must have been large, containing a great quantity of gunpowder, as the report broke all the windows on the opposite side of the street. It is supposed the attempt was believed certain of success, for the death of the Emperor was a current report at the time of the outrage. At the opening of the Bourso, the cry of "Vive l'Empereur!" was universal. Two hundred persons have been taken, and arrests continue; even some of the police have been arrested. The indignation against the assassins is increased, because they must have known that the Empress and other ladies would be present. The explosions were heard at a quarter of a mile, and placed the immediate spot in darkness for a short time. The Emperor's hat was torn in two places. The collar of the cloak he wore, and that part which covered his shoulder, was rent open."

NOTICE: TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—We hereby give notice that the honorable title of "Mail Bags," so long applied to the late Postmaster General, must not be transferred to Mr. Sydney Smith, the present incumbent of the Post Office. Mr. Spence carried the leathern wallets on behalf of the province with much success, and though dangerous and unsuccessful as a politician, has gained a very general approval as the head of the Post Office Department. Spence and "Mail Bags" are inseparable, and the distinctive and honorable title we had the distinguished privilege of conferring on him, must not be prostituted to designate any ordinary muff, whom the exigencies of politics, or the wiles of a trickster, may hush into a temporary official position. Mr. Smith is mistaken if he anticipates to be hailed by the title of "Mail Bags." He may be called His Majesty's Postmaster General if he chooses, or our contemporaries may call him "Macdonald's Dummy" if they please; but the time-honored title which has been so generally accorded to Mr. Spence must be kept unsullied, till, after having undergone a penitential course for his political misdeeds, and received full absolution from that great political Pope—the people—he will trudge on with his load as merrily as before, whistling to keep his courage up, the tune of "Walker the Two-penny Postman." We do not disguise our feelings when we say that we hope the day may come.—Free Press.

A small printing-office was dispatched a few days ago, from Paris for Constantinople. This press is to be worked entirely by the ladies belonging to the harem of one of the great Pashas residing on the Bosphorus. The books intended to be printed are works of amusement, translated from French and English. The wife of Ribouly Efendi is already preparing a Turkish translation of Thackeray's Newsmongers.

RACHEL'S LAST HOURS.—PARTING WITH HER JEWELS.—In the early stages of Rachel's final illness, her fondness for gold and jewellery did not desert her. She frequently had her jewels and rich garments brought to her bed, and bequeathed the weary hours in looking them over; and on one occasion, after taking one long, lingering look at them, she exclaimed with a sigh of heart-felt distress, "Il faut donc quitter tout?" (Must I then abandon all?) Her death-struggle was long and severe, and her last hours are described as agonizing. Cannes, the town in which Rachel breathed her last, is, as a French journalist assures us, "a paradisaical resort in the south of France, the honor of whose discovery belongs to Lord Brougham, who has for years had his country seat in it, and recommended to his countrymen as a winter residence." This winter Cannes has been overflowing with visitors. Since the occupation of Nice by the Russians, such of the English as formerly wintered there have resorted to Cannes. The recent reports of the improving health of Rachel—for up to a few days previous to her death hopes have been entertained of her recovery—attracted crowds of consumptives to the charmed spot.

A Row in Congress.

WASHINGTON, February 6.

The House was in session all night mainly engaged in taking the yeas and nays on motions to adjourn, eating, smoking, sleeping, &c., until about half-past one, when a serious affray occurred which is thus narrated by a member and a witness. Mr. Grow objected to Mr. Quintana's making any remarks.

Mr. Keith said, "If you are going to object return to your own side of the House."

Mr. Grow responded.—"This is a free hall, and every man has a right to be where he pleases."

Mr. Keith then came up to Mr. Grow and said, "I want to know what you mean by such an answer as that?"

Mr. Grow replied, "I mean just what I say; this is a free hall and a man has a right to be where he pleases."

Mr. Keith, taking Mr. Grow by the throat said, "I will let you know that you are a—d black republican puppy."

Mr. Grow knocked up his hand saying, "I shall occupy such place in this hall as I please, and no nigger driver shall crack his whip over me."

Mr. Keith then again grabbed Mr. Grow by the throat, and Mr. Grow knocked his hands off, and Mr. Keith coming at him again, Mr. Grow knocked him down.

The reporter adds:—"The respective friends of both parties rushed to the rescue. Various members on each side engaged in the fight which took place in the area, fronting the clerk's desk."

Mr. Washburn, of Illinois, was conspicuous among the Republicans dealing heavy blows.

The Speaker loudly and imperatively demanded order, and called on the Sergeant at-Arms. That functionary (carrying his mace of office) together with his assistant, hurried to the scene and crowded into the thickest of the fight, in which, at least, a dozen members were engaged. Some minutes elapsed before this truly fearful contest was quieted.

Further difficulties are apprehended.

Steamboat Explosion.

25 TO 50 PASSENGERS REPORTED AS LOST.

LOUISVILLE, Feb'y 6.

The steamboat Colonel Crossman from New Orleans to St. Louis, burst her boiler a mile above New Madrid, Mo., last evening, and then caught fire and burned to the waters edge. She had on board 20 passengers and 25 to 50 of these are reported to have been lost. Among the saved is the captain, mate, and fire ladles. These are all the particulars we have as yet.

A few days since, a rough, country-looking fellow entered a room of the Near York Bank, and marching up to the counter, he exclaimed, "Here I am. You've got to take a four dollar note." Without a word further he strode out. The next day the same customer appeared, uttered the words, and again disappeared. The third day, about the same time, he walked in, and advancing to the teller's desk, threw down a draft payable three days after sight. "Now," said he, "you've seen me three times, I want the money for it?"

"More Ruffianism."

What Galilee was to ancient Judea, the township of Arthur has become to the North Riding of Wellington. A large proportion of the freeholders of Arthur are peaceable, loyal and intelligent men; but unfortunately it has become the head quarters of a gang of ferocious Irish "Dogans;" and all peace has fled. No attack is made by these ruffians upon a dozen or more Protestants in a society: it is only when some unfortunate Protestant is found alone that the cowardly miscreants summon sufficient courage to attack. A few days ago, a man named Thompson, we believe, was brutally beaten by a number of them, and was nearly kicked to death. Large bodies of Papist ruffians, armed to the teeth, traverse the various roads at night, ready to pounce upon any unfortunate traveller whom they suppose to be a Protestant. People are beginning to inquire of each other, "What is to be done? We are suffering under a perfect Reign of Terror! The remedy is easy: Organize!" The Protestants of Arthur are nearly as numerous as their Roman Catholic foes, and should be able to hold their own. There is no law, properly speaking, in Arthur; and we fear that a keen spirit of retaliation will be evoked. Matters must not be permitted to remain as they now are. The Executive Council had better devote a small portion of their spare time to the state of affairs in this Township—a state of affairs, too brought about by their Popish supporters, if they do not, it is probable that a combined force from Minio, Peel, Maryborough, Garatona and Nichol, will ere long move upon Arthur, and give certain parties such taste of their vengeance as will be remembered for a generation to come. We call upon the Executive to take active measures; for we have good reasons for stating that, if a certain order be once issued, many of the Papists of Arthur may prepare to make their exit to the spirit land! Retenace is sweet, and there is no mark so fair as the breast of a foe.—Elora Backwoodman.

THE MEDITERRANEAN TELEGRAPH.—The Malta Times gives the following brief details of the laying down of the submarine cable from that island to Corfu, already announced by telegraph.—The Elba took three days to complete the operation. The route taken by Mr. Newall was that of keeping as near to the coast of Italy as possible, owing to the great depth in the direct course between Malta and Corfu. Opposite Mount Etna the profundity was found to be immense. The weather was very favorable, and the submergence was effected most successfully. As soon as the telegraphic communication was completed, the Elba fired a salute, and the crew cheered heartily. Mr. Newall and Mr. Liddell are expected to leave Cagliari in a few days for England. Commander Watson, of her Majesty's corvette Desperate, gave much able assistance to Messrs Newall in taking soundings, and performing other necessary operations.

Homœopathy.

Dr. Fyfe will lecture on Homœopathy in the Town Hall, on Monday evening, commencing at 7 1/2 o'clock.

Musical.

Mrs. Radcliffe, assisted by several Port Hope, Bowmanville and Colongue Amateurs, will give a Concert in the Town Hall, on Thursday evening. Mr. Chambers, the celebrated player on the Flutina and Piccolo-Whistle, who has in times past delighted the concert-goers of Port Hope, will add his quota to the evening's entertainment. Mrs. Radcliffe is said to be a superior vocalist, and a lady who deserves and requires the patronage of the public. Doors open at 7 1/2 o'clock.

Fire.

Yesterday, a barn and outbuildings belonging to Mr. J. Sarno, 2d. Division of the Township of Darlington, were destroyed by fire. The barn contained a considerable quantity of grain, hay, farming utensils, &c., all, or nearly all of which was consumed. The buildings are supposed to have been fired by a little boy ten years of age, son of the owner, while lighting his pipe with a match in the barn. The lad, although yet of tender age is said to be an inveterate smoker. A bad beginning he has made of it.

To the Editor of the Guide.

SIR:

With reference to a communication that appeared in your paper, on Saturday, signed "VIATOR" recommending the passing of a By-Law, by the Town Council, requiring the occupants and owners of property to clear the snow off the side-walks, in front of their lots,—I take the liberty of stating, for the information of the party, and of the Town Council, that they do not possess the power to make any such By-Law, and if they were to pass one, it would be illegal, as imposing a tax (or a duty equivalent to a tax) upon a portion only of the citizens, which the Law expressly prohibits, except in certain specified cases. The spirit, as well as the letter of the Municipal Corporations Act, require that all Municipal By-Laws should be general, and apply to all the taxable property of the Municipality. The Statute confers no express authority to compel parties to remove snow in the manner proposed. They could with the same propriety and with the same amount of Law, compel parties to construct the side-walks, as to keep them clean, and to form and grade one-half, or the whole width of the streets, in front of their lots, or either,—and yet no one would for a moment contend, that the law confers any such authority upon them. A much better plan, in my judgment, would be, for the Town Council to order the side-walks in the principal thoroughfares, to be cleared off when requisite, by the Street Surveyor. Every citizen participates in the benefit, and in that way every citizen would contribute ratably to the expense of the work.

Solicitor.

Port Hope, Feb. 8, 1858.

How to Execute a Will.

But not to trouble you with nice distinctions I advise you to make your will in the following manner:

Take care that, if written on several separate sheets of paper, they are all fastened together, and that the pages are numbered. Sign your name at the bottom of each sheet, and state at the end of your will of how many pages your will consists. If there are any erasures or interlineations put your initials in the margin opposite to them, and notice them in the attestation.—The attestation should be already written at the end of the will. The two persons intended to be the witnesses should be called in, and told that you desire them to witness your will, and then you should sign your name in their presence, and then they should sign their names in the attestation. Your signature should follow your will, but should precede the signatures of the witnesses, for if you were to sign after they had signed, your will would be void. When, therefore, you have signed, they should sign their names and residences at the foot of the attestation. You will observe, that according to the attestation, neither of the witnesses, although he has signed the attestation, should leave the room until the other witness has signed also. Remember that they must both sign in your presence, and therefore you should not allow them to go into another room to sign, or even into any recess, or any other part of the same room where it is possible that you may not be able to see them sign. If, therefore, you do not choose them to sign after you at the same table or desk, have a table placed close to you before they come into the room, so as to create no confusion at which they can and ought to sign before leaving the room.—If you were to send your servant, who happened to be one of your intended witnesses, out of the room, even for a table, he must have the room before you sign. If after your death a question were to arise upon the fact of your having signed in the presence of both of the witnesses present at the same time, the man would of course admit that he left the room before you did sign, and then imagine what reliance would be placed upon the fact in cross-examination, and in the address to the jury. The precaution which I recommend would prevent this difficulty from arising.—Lord St. Leonards' Hand-book.

The Latest Scheme of Plunder.

DEVELOPMENTS IN NORTHUMBERLAND!

From the Globe.

The scenes enacted in the town of Cobourg during the past ten days throw a very strong light on the motives of those who formed the new ministry, and the objects which they have in view. The town of Cobourg, as most of our readers know, is somewhat involved, in consequence of the assistance which it rendered to the Cobourg and Peterboro' railway—a road which is not yet finished, and is not in a position to pay a cent of interest for the moneys advanced to construct it. The town do not provide the interest on the debtors which it issued, and the road is in danger of being closed for want of the necessary funds to complete the intended bridge across River Lake. As Cobourg forms a considerable part of the county of West Northumberland, and influences so largely the public opinion of the remainder of the county, it will be readily understood that an unscrupulous man like Sydney Smith, appointed a member of the Cabinet, had very good materials in the financial position of the town, for working out his re-election. He proceeded to take advantage of it in the most efficient way, immediately after he had decided to take office under John A. Macdonald. In joining the Coalition, Smith reckoned with confidence on the support of his late antagonist, Asa Braham, and the troop of Coal-tomists in Cobourg, but he had to secure the aid, if possible, of the Oppositionists who had supported him during the previous contest, but were certain to be opposed to his appointment to office. A meeting was called of many of the leading citizens of Cobourg, including most of the active Liberals, and the advisability of using the position of advantage in which Smith found himself in reference to the Government for the benefit of the town, was freely urged. Mr. John D. Armour, Mr. Smith's late prisoner in business, and an intimate friend took a prominent part in the meeting, and drew up a letter addressed to Mr. Smith, which was ultimately adopted. This document set forth that Cobourg had been very much injured by the grant by the Government of £25,000 from the Consolidated Loan Fund to the Town of Peterboro', to be used in building the Millbrook branch of the Port Hope and Lindsay road, (a competitor of the Cobourg and Peterboro') that the town had a right either to a grant of money from the Government sufficient to finish its railway, or else that the road should be designated with the Grand Trunk! If these conditions were not complied with, the signers of the letter gave Mr. Smith the assurance that they would support him if and the Government! We hope that the letter will be published verbatim et literatim, and we have no doubt that it will be, ere long; but, in the meantime, we give its contents as they are reported by several persons who were asked to sign it. As we have said, there were many oppositionists present, but, to their shame be it said, only four refused to sign the infamous document. Among those who signed were anti-corruptionists of the strongest kind, strenuous opponents of the Government, warm supporters of the views of the Opposition, hearty rejoicers over the great victories recently achieved. They saw a distant chance of benefiting Cobourg by the sacrifice of their principles, and they hardly appear to have hesitated! They threw aside their most cherished convictions and stooped to barter their votes for so much cash to lighten their taxation. There may be a difference between this act and that of the miserable wretch who takes a five dollar bill, and marches up to the pool to deposit the vote which he has valued at that sum, but we cannot see where it lies. And let the reader observe the kind of proposition made. That Mr. Cayley and his colleagues committed a gross wrong in granting permission to the town of Peterboro' to issue debentures under the terms of the consolidated fund, is undoubtedly true; it was a fraud upon the whole people of the Province, deserving of reprobation; but how do the signers of the letter treat the perpetrators of this act? they promise to support them, if they do a thing doubly as bad in their behalf! If the Government are to grant £50,000, which is the amount required to finish the Cobourg and Peterboro' road, of course the Ottawa and Prescott, the Brockville and Arnprior, the Brighton and Armora, the Port Hope and Lindsay, the Whitby and Georgian Bay, the Ontario, Simcoe and Huron, and all the other little roads of the Province will ask for sums proportioned to their various needs, and, equally of course, they must be given. Because the people of Cobourg are willing to sell their votes to Sydney Smith, they are not, therefore, to have a monopoly of railway grants, as Mr Smith will find when he comes to fulfil his pledge to his constituents to get this money. Every ministerial supporter in the house will have a demand; and if all are granted, it is perfectly safe to say that the Province will become bankrupt in the end, and, in the meantime, that we shall have a tornado of corruption much worse even than what we witnessed in last Parliament. Citizens of Cobourg who have for years protested against corruption, have asked Mr. Smith to enter upon a new career, having nothing but corruption in view.

This proposition to sell their votes was made at the instigation of Mr. Smith, and he was, of course, glad to accept it, so far as he was concerned, for he not only wished the votes, but would also like the money for the railway. All that he had to do was to procure the assent of his new colleagues, and in the strait in which they found themselves, this was not difficult to get. At all events, Mr. Sydney Smith now claims the votes of the people of Cobourg, because the Government of which he is a member is pledged to give either the £50,000, or get the road joined to the Grand Trunk. We say that the straits in which the Government were placed induced them to give their consent to the arrangement, and no doubt they were very glad to gain Sydney Smith, and give him the means of securing his re-election. There was no man in the ranks of the opposition mean enough to be bribed but Sydney Smith, he could be secured by assisting the Cobourg road, and the Cabinet was formed to carry out the arrangement. Was there ever anything more disgraceful than all this? Who can wonder that even journeymen living upon soap cannot hold their peace, but cry out in anger. Are we never to have done with this vile system of corruption? Mr. Cayley has not even the wherewithal for the daily wants of the Government; he is about to issue shin-plaster to pay salaries and other mere trifles; the revenue of the coming year will be insufficient to pay the bill, and will run far below the actual expenditure, and yet Mr. John A. Macdonald and his colleagues coolly resolve on a new scheme of plunder and settle their plans accordingly. Such proceedings are enough to raise a rebellion in the country. We want economy and careful management to restore the finances of the Province to something like a creditable position, and the new government is actually formed upon a basis of wholesale extravagance and speculation. What shall we come to if these intamies are not stopped!

That the new House of Assembly will reject this scheme and the men who framed it, we verily believe, and, in the meantime, the Government are pressing on the election of Mr. Smith with this powerful instrument of corruption in their hands. Sydney Smith goes through the streets of Cobourg, saying, "I will get you this money," and, like drowning men, the townspeople catch at straws. They will be disappointed. The Ministry will never live to work out its vile schemes, but, in the meantime, men who a day or two ago stood fair before the world as men of principle, have bartered their consciences for gold, have commenced that downward course which brings men to the level of a Rolph and a Spence. When will there be honest rulers if the people are so corrupt? It is enough to sicken one to witness such vile treachery and wickedness as that now being perpetrated in Cobourg. The men do not profess to say that they think well of the Ministry, they say they detest them, they even despise and condemn the man that they have made at once their tool and their master. All they say is, we want our property improved in value and our taxes reduced. There are men in Cobourg who have not bowed the knee to the Moloch which has swallowed up so many victims during the past few years in Canada, and there are four townships in the county, which will act independently of the town.

THE HANDKERCHIEF MANIA.—The handkerchief mania is prevailing violently in New York, in consequence of which, every lady is forced to carry two—one for use in the pocket—and the other for display in the hand. They are edged with lace. Price 500 francs, or $1,200 a dozen. To carry the more expensive articles, boxes of pearl have been expressly invented. These are worth from $50 to $75. From these figures it will be seen that it will soon cost as much to keep a woman in handkerchiefs, as it does to keep the rest of the family in boots, buttons and household.

ADVERTISE.—Dull times are, perhaps, the very best for advertisers. What little trade is going on they get, and whilst others are tumbling they pay their way, and with the newspaper as a life-preserver, swim on the top of the water, while others are sinking all around.—Free Press.

Ex-President Fillmore is to be married on the 11th February to a Mrs. McIntosh, whose former husband made a fortune in the crockery business in Albany, and was President of the Albany and Schenectady Railroad during the last three years preceding the consolidation.

MAKING MAPLE SUGAR IN JANUARY.—Some of the farmers in Michigan, deeming the present extraordinary weather for the season favourable to the running of sap have recently tapped their maple trees to try the experiment, and succeeded in making quite a quantity of maple sugar! The fruit trees budding in New England—the rivers and lakes navigable in the West—and making maple sugar in Michigan—in the middle of January! Does the "oldest inhabitant" remember the like occurring before?—Chicago Journal.

MR. HENRY
 WOULD take this method of thanking the Ladies and Gentlemen of Port Hope and vicinity for the liberal patronage they have kindly bestowed upon him, and would beg leave to inform them that he is still taking Likenesses at his Rooms, where he will be happy to see them in the execution of any of his various style of Pictures for themselves or friends. My PICTURES are pronounced by good judges to be unsurpassed. Particular attention is invited to the clear and life-like expression of the eyes; the richness of tone, and especially to their PERMANENCY. From my personal knowledge of this wonderful Art, I would say to those who have neglected to procure Likenesses of themselves or friends, that the present arrangement affords an excellent opportunity of securing a connection. Copies of Pictures may be taken three or four times larger than the original without in the least injuring its sharpness, roundness or beauty. Copies taken of
DAGUERRETYPES, ENGRAVINGS,
PAINTED PORTRAITS, STATUARY, &c., &c.
 Likenesses of individuals and deceased persons taken at their residence on reasonable terms.
 Old Daguerretypes cleaned and Repainted gratis. I have also several new and beautiful styles of AMBROTYPES TAKEN ON PATENT LEATHER,
 Paper, Iron and Silver Plates, very suitable for sending by Mail without any extra postage. Should you decide to favor me with your patronage, you may rely upon your orders being gratefully received and promptly and faithfully executed. No person will be required to take a picture from my Gallery unless they are perfectly satisfied, as it is my desire to let no work leave my Rooms unless it is a credit to myself and the Art.
 Please call and examine specimens. Hours of operating from 9 A. M., to 4 P. M., IN ANY WEATHER.
