FATAL FALL

For Mr. William E. Dayman— Fell From Barn Floor to Cow Stable

Port Hope and surrounding country were shocked on Thursday to learn of the sudden death of William E. Dayman, one of the most highly esteemed residents of the Township of Hamilton. Mr. Dayman was doing some chores about the barn when he fell through a trap door to the cow stable about eight feet below. The floor in the stable is concrete and it is expected that he fell headlong to this. He was able to walk to the house and when it was suggested to bring a doctor he not think it necessary. Medical aid however was at once summoned and before the doctors arrived Mr. Dayman had lapsed into unconsciousness. Everything possible was done but without avail and Mr. Dayman died Thursday morning at six o'clock without regaining consciousness. The only mark on the body was about the right eye. The eye was completely closed and the flesh about very much inflamed.

To mourn his loss he leaves a widow, three sons and three daughters and his aged father, Mr. Thos. Dayman. Mrs. Dayman is a daughter of the late James Curtis of this town. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

BADLY SCALDED

Mr. Chesher's Youngest Son The Victim of a Painful Accident.

Harold, the 19 months old son of Mr. A. J. Chesher at the Town Hall, was badly burned on Thursday. Mrs. Chesher had been frying pork and had placed a cup of the drippings on the window ledge and the little tot unnoticed, walked over to the window and reaching up, pulled the boiling contents over him. His head, face, ears and arms were badly scalded, and he suffered intense pain.

SERIOUS ASSAULT

Upon Clarke Resident, and He Had to be Removed to the Hospital

The Accused Has Been Arrested

(From Thursday's Daily) A resident of the Township of Clarke is in the Hospital to-day suffering from a very painful injury to his head. He and a friend had a room at a local hotel and during the night trouble arose and in the scuffle which followed the friend is alleged to have struck the Clarke resident over the head with the chamber. The blow caused a long deep cut and the injured man upon his arrival at the hospital was unconscious from loss of blood. To-day he is resting comfortably and no serious results are expected. The man accused of the assault was arrested by Constable Richards this morning.

CONSTABLE AND KEYS

Mr. Royce Must Turn Them Over to Acting Chief Richards

Our policemen, when out of office, seem to have a strong desire to retain the keys. It took several weeks to persuade A W Gummerson to loosen up, and now acting Chief Richards is without keys. On Thursday he had to wait about the corridors of the Town Hall until Mr Chesher arrived and opened the jail.

PETERBORO MAN

LOSES AN EYE

The friends of Mr R. R. Hall, ex-M. P., regret to learn that after weeks of suffering, caused by a cinder received in an eye, whilst attending a funeral at Fenelon Falls, he had to be taken in Bellegem's private ambulance to Nicholls Hospital. Here the eye was removed during the afternoon. It is understood that the missing eye has been blind for some years, owing to being accidentally injured by being struck by a twig.

WATER IS CHLORINATED

And Perhaps Unnecessarily— Board of Health and Water Commissioners Should Work Together

Mr. Gray Says He is Unable to Receive Any Report

Have you tasted the city water lately? Of course you have and you didn't like it; and we don't blame you. The trouble is more chlorine and yesterday we imagine it had an overdose. When interviewed by the Guide, Mr Gray, secretary of the Water Commissioners, stated he was unable to secure any information regarding the water and in order to be on the safe side he had ordered the water to be chlorinated. If Mr Gray writes to Toronto for information they refer him to the Board of Health and this body informed Mr Gray that they would look after the quality. Mr Gray has no reason to believe that anything is wrong with the water and his action of chlorinating is merely as a safeguard. He does not enjoy the chlorinated water any more than other citizens.

Dr Dickinson was interviewed by the Guide on Tuesday. He stated if Mr Gray wanted a report of the water analysis he could easily obtain it by writing to the Provincial Department in Toronto. The Dr was not sure when the last analysis was received, but, whenever it was, the report had been submitted to the Board of Health. The Guide visited the Town Hall and went over the minutes of the Board of Health for this year but found no trace of water analysis and the Secretary, Mr J W Sanders tells us that he has none in his possession. When later interviewed, Dr Dickinson made the statement that the last report in the analysis was received about the 20th of March, and at the time, the condition of the water was suspicious.

We understood that either by a resolution of the Council or Board of Health, that a monthly report of the analysis of the water should be posted up in Secretary Gray's office. Dr Dickinson might at least furnish Mr Gray with a monthly report and thus relieve the water consumers of a great deal of anxiety.

JUDGE WARD

Was Sworn in on Thursday.

Col. H. A. Ward was sworn in on Thursday as senior judge for the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. It is quite in order now to drop the "Col." and address our esteemed friend as "judge."

St. Paul's Choir Gowned

Generous Gift of J. A. Culverwell, C. E., Port Hope

Next Sunday (Easter) the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will appear in gowns, the lady members wearing caps of the mortar-board style. The gowns and caps are a gift generously donated by Mr. J. A. Culverwell, C. E., of Port Hope.

This is not a new departure on the part of Mr. Culverwell, as he has already presented similar gifts to St. John's Anglican Church, Port Hope, and to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Cobourg. In writing to the pastor of St. Paul's, Mr. Culverwell very graciously said that, having received many kindnesses from Bowmanville in the past, he wished to show some gratitude. Mr. Culverwell has been interested in choirs all his life, having as a boy sung in a vested choir in Toronto, at one time being a soloist. The thanks of the pastor and the resolution of the session, board of managers, and choir of St. Paul's were forwarded to Mr. Culverwell, the pastor stating that the gowns would be worn for the first time for the special services on Easter Sunday—a suggestion which met with Mr. Culverwell's most hearty approval.

The Garden Hill Woman's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. Hillard Caldwell, Perrytown, on May 7th, at 2.30 p.m.

TOWN COUNCIL

Had A Quiet and Brief Session ---Three Members Not Present

There is always a lull after a storm and the meeting of the City Fathers last Tuesday evening was peaceful and calm. The large audiences which have graced the Council meeting for several meetings had dwindled down to about half a dozen.

In the absence of His Worship Mayor Bush, Reeve Hayden occupied the chair, and Councillors Sheriff and Perry were the absentees.

Mr. Charles Floody requested the Council to build a walk from his new residence on Elgin street to Mr. N. Gill's.

Mr. Trinsley Lowe, secretary of the Town Baseball League, requested that the grounds at the park be put in shape.

The Fire Brigade recommended that Harold Bassett be appointed a member to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Arthur Elm.

George Jenan applied for the position of Night Constable. He had been connected with the British and Canadian armies.

Mrs. H. Hales complained of the cattle pen erected by the C.N.R. near her property. The odor was very offensive to her tenants, and she had been obliged to reduce the rents.

Lingard Bros. presented an account for $4.25 made up as follows, Mrs. O'Doherty to and from the hospital $2.00; cab to hospital $1; cab from hospital $1.00; cab to train 25c. This was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. A. J. Brown complained about the 5 per cent being added to his taxes on account of the same not being paid until after the 14th of Dec. Mr. Brown explained that he was out of town until Dec. 13th and the 14th being Sunday he was unable to make a settlement. The following day he paid the taxes and he thought the additional 5 per cent was an injustice. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

Total $291 70

He further states that interest will be added at the rate of 6 per cent per month on overdue accounts.

This was put away with other communications which do not require attention.

A bylaw to provide for the removal of night soil and the contents of cesspools received its several readings and was passed. The cost of such work being the sum of ten cents for each dry earth or ash box per month.

ATTENDED THE BALL GAME.—In the opening game at Detroit, Tuesday, between Detroit and St. Louis, the home team won after a thirteen innings struggle, before an attendance of 20,142. Mayor Bu-h, Mrs. Bu-h and Mr. and Mrs. Wayman witnessed the game.

Miss Southby, who has been visiting her brother, Mr R E Southby, Ridout street, left Tue-day for her home in Clifton, England. Miss Southby will return to Port Hope again in August and make her home here. Her many friends here will be pleased to welcome her upon her return.

GOOD FRIDAY CONCERT AT METHODIST CHURCH

The performance of Gaul's "Holy City" at the Methodist church Friday evening was a record breaking one. The large choir of nearly 60 voices presented an imposing and pleasing appearance and were ably supported by the orchestra and piano which together with the organ, provided the instrumental part of the performance. The soloists were all good and immediately attracted the interest of the large audience.

Mrs. Allen of Belleville, the soprano has a powerful and excellently trained voice well under control, and won unstinted applause from her singing of "These are they" which was rendered with great delicacy of feeling. The contralto Miss H. Martin, of Bowmanville, was heard to great advantage in her two solos "Eye hath not seen" and "Come ye blessed," her rich and mellow voice giving a fitting and sympathetic rendering of the music. Mr. S. Dixon maintained his reputation as one of the most popular singers who visits Port Hope: his voice has gained in flexibility and culture. His rendering of the solos allotted to him being a leading feature of the performance. Mr. Dixon also sang with Mrs. Allen at the opening of the concert the beautiful duet "Love Divine" from Stain's Daughter of Israel with great expression and good taste, the two voices blending well together.

The chorus singing of the choruses was on all hands declared to be exceptionally good and fully came up to the expectations aroused by the previous efforts of this choir. The very creditable performances they have given include the "May-day" in February and prove that Port Hope can hold her own in choral singing with many of the larger cities of Ontario. We trust that they will persevere in their good work and continue to give to the public the beautiful works of the great masters of musical composition.

The playing of the orchestra added just the needed instrumental support to the voices required, their accompaniments being played with great taste and discretion. The intermezzo for the instruments called "The Adoration" was one of the most taking numbers in the work and was made very attractive by the addition of the piano very ably played by Miss Viola George. Three other members of the choir, Mrs. Hawkins, Miss Garnett and Mrs. Pomfret took individual parts in the concluding chorus contributing materially to the success of this splendid number.

Too much praise cannot be given to Mr Pridham who is not only a perfect master of the organ but one of the best choir masters in the Province. After the performance, at the invitation of the following ladies, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Rosevear, Mrs. Garnett and Mrs. Roskelly, the performers were invited to a banquet in the school room, where the tables were tastefully and sumptuously laid for about 80 guests. Felicitous speeches were made to the encouraging progress the choir and music of the church were making, by Mr. H. White, chairman of the occasion, Messrs. T. Wickett, A. Fulford, J. H. Rosevear, T. Garnett, W. B. Perry and E. E. Pridham.

Governor General's Visit

His Worship Mayor Bush received the following letter on Monday: Government House, Ottawa, April 11, 1914.

To His Worship the Mayor of Port Hope.

DEAR SIR.—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th ultimo and to say that His Royal Highness's visit to Port Hope will probably be on the afternoon of the 1st of June. I shall let you know as soon as I can, the exact time at His Royal Highness's disposal. Her Royal Highness, the Princess Patricia will accompany the Duke. I am dear sir,

Yours faithfully,
ARTHUR H. SLADEN,
Private Secretary.

TRENT VALLEY TRAP SHOOTERS' LEAGUE

Was Formed at Meeting in Cobourg on Good Friday—Four Towns Represented and More Expected

At a meeting held in the Dunham Hotel, Cobourg, on Good Friday, trap shooters from Campbellford, Peterboro, Belleville and Cobourg formed a League to be known as the Trent Valley Trap Shooters' Association. The League proposes holding friendly shoots from time to time during the summer at the various towns represented. Any teams in this district not represented at the meeting who desire to join the association are requested to send their names to the secretary, Mr. F. C. Bonnycastle, Campbellford.

POLAR BEARS

Powerful, but Timid, They Very Rarely Attack Human Beings

Observations made throughout a number of years by the officers of the United States revenue marine prove that the polar bear's limit of range is St. Matthew Island in Behring Sea.

The Eskimos are very partial to the meat of the white bear, but the blubber they reject, and even the dogs, unless they are very hungry, turn up their noses at the oily mass.

Deer Licenses

Raised to $50

"Deer and dog licenses have been the cause of much dissatisfaction in the older parts of the country," declared E.A. Dunlop, M.P.P., before the Fish and Game Committee at the Parliament Buildings Tuesday.

"In the open season I am constantly hearing of the killing of some deer," said Dr. Reaume, chairman. "We have special men on the go all the time, and you would be surprised to find out the information we get. The game laws are violated, the same as the liquor law wherever there are 'blind pigs.'"

"The professional trapper must pay a license, but how are we going to distinguish between him and the settler, who, perhaps, during the winter months, makes a business of trapping?" asked Mr. Pratt.

"Is it agreed that we should raise the license to foreigners for trapping up to $50?" asked Dr. Reaume. Those present assented, and it was also decided to recommend that fur dealers be licensed.

In reply to a suggestion that Americans should be taxed $50 instead of $25 when coming over to shoot feathered game, Dr. Reaume deprecated any alteration during the present year.

It was stated by Mr. Black that more deer were killed by wolves than by legitimate hunters. The bounty, he thought should be increased from $15 to $25.

Dr. Vrooman complained of fish poachers, and Dr. Reaume said endeavors had been made to cope with the evil all over the province, but people would break the law.

WAS A SPLENDID SUCCESS.

The choir of Knoxville and friends of Balleboro and Bewdley are to be heartily congratulated on the glorious success which attended their united efforts at the concert and entertainment given at the church on Wednesday night, the programme was well rendered and very interesting although the roads were very bad, the church was filled. One of the features of the evening was the violin solos given by Mr. Halton, a young gentleman from Hamilton, who was visiting in town. He was much appreciated and heartily encored, as was Mr. Wheatles, who seems a favorite with the Knoxville people. The ladies fully maintained their well known reputation of knowing (how to do things in serving a lunch), as there was an abundance of good things to eat.

No surgical operation is necessary in removing corns if Holloway's Corn Cure be used.

Money Urgently Needed!

Their lot was never an easy one, even under favorable conditions. They had to struggle along through sheer hard work and hand-to-mouth pinching and scraping. Then came the blow. The husband was stricken down with tuberculosis. The wife was left with four little ones to keep. But she faced the future bravely, buoyed up by the hope that some day her husband will come back. In the meantime, she has to go out washing and cleaning every day, and then force her tired-out body to do her own work at nights.

Cases of this kind are numerous. They always call for prompt relief. For unless consumption is quickly treated its terrible effects hurt many beyond the first victim. At this moment money is urgently needed so that medicine, nourishment, and treatment may be taken to sufferers. We implore you to contribute something NOW. Please don't delay; the situation is serious. Contributions to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives will be gratefully acknowledged by W. J. Gage, Chairman Executive Committee, 84 Spadina Avenue, or R. Dunbar, Secretary, Treasurer, 347 King Street West, Toronto.

A Plumber's Valiant Effort

There was a rare spectacle in South Kensington the other night—that of a plumber at a loss how to enter a certain item on a bill to a customer. The plumber had been called in to locate the source of an unfortunate odor. He promptly mauled the house about, but he failed to find a dead rat, or anything else to cause the trouble. Then he put the place together again, and departed to build the bill. What could he charge? He had discovered nothing, achieved nothing, yet a charge must be made. This is the bill, just received by the householder: "To looking for smell, 8d."

JAP BOY SLAYS WOMAN.

After Murdering Mistress He Kills Himself in the Cellar.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 11.—Mrs. Ellis R. Harbert, wife of a prominent physician and surgeon of this city, was shot and killed by a Japanese servant while she was in one of the upper bedrooms of her palatial home in the suburbs.

After killing Mrs. Harbert, the slayer locked the door to the room and busied himself gathering up silverware and other valuables. The crime was not discovered until night, when Dr. Harbert returned home. Finding no one about the living rooms, he made a search of the house, only to find his wife's body, still and cold, stretched upon the bedroom floor.

The servant later took refuge in the basement of the house, where he killed himself as he was about to be taken.

Worms feed upon the vitality of children and endanger their lives. A very simple and effective cure is Mother Grave's Worm Exterminator.

Miss Rose Burford is spending the week-end with friends in Peterboro.

ON SALE EVERYWHERE.—There may be country merchants who do not keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil though they are few and far between, and these may suggest that some other oil is just as good. There is nothing so good as a liniment or as an internal medicine in certain cases. Take no other. The demand for it shows that it is the only popular Oil.

Mr. E. H. Barnes, of the Bank of Toronto, is spending the week-end in Toronto.

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child is troubled with worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. The best application that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfying.

Mr. Earl Gillies, of Toronto University, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gillies, Walton street.

HOPE FOR THE CHRONIC DYSPEPTIC.—Through lack of consideration of the body's needs many persons allow disorders of the digestive apparatus to endure till they become chronic, filling days and nights with suffering. To these a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended as a sure and speedy way to regain health. These pills are especially compounded to combat dyspepsia and the many ills that follow in its train and they are successful always.

Mr. J. Lagrow and Miss Wheeler, of Peterboro, spent the holiday in town, the guests of Miss Nellie Ashton, Ellen street.

SLEEPLESSNESS.—Sleep is the great restorer and to be deprived of it means vital loss. Whatever may be the cause of it, indigestion, nervous derangements, or mental worry, try a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. By regulating the action of the stomach where the trouble lies, they will restore normal conditions and healthful sleep will follow. They exert a sedative force upon the nerves and where there is unrest they bring rest.

DEAL IS OPPOSED

Liberals Protest Against Buying Timber Limit.

PROPERTY TOO EXPENSIVE

Chief Liberal Whip Charges That Transaction by Which Government Purchases Property to Add to Algonquin Park is Simply to Help Friends of Administration—Measure is Passed.

TORONTO, April 9.—A high state of tension prevailed in the Legislature last evening when Hon. Mr. Hearst crossed swords with Chief Liberal Whip Charles Bowman regarding the proposed addition to Algonquin Park.

The trouble started when the North Bruce member, in attacking the Government purchase of the Pembroke Lumber Co. timber limits, declared that the whole deal was for the benefit of political friends of the Conservative party.

"We desire to protest," declared Mr. Bowman, "in the strongest possible manner against this transaction, and claim that it should not be consummated, that the principle is entirely wrong and that this old, worked-out limit should not be purchased from active political friends of the Government for $185,000."

Mr. Bowman moved in amendment that the purchase price be reduced to $25,000, which he considered a reasonable price for the limits.

"If this bill becomes law," he declared, "it means a most deliberate looting and plundering of the Provincial Treasury for active political friends of the Government."

This brought the Minister to his feet with a rush. "I am not at all surprised at the remarks with which the member has brought to a close his speech," he declared, "but if any man, either inside or outside the House, should not have used such language, it is the member for North Bruce."

Mr. Bowman instantly demanded "an explicit statement" of what was meant.

"Why does he ask when it is a matter in the public records of the House?" was the retort.

Again Mr. Bowman came back. "I presume that when the hon. member says it is a matter of public record that he refers to my connection with the Algoma Central Railway Co., and I want to say that if my connection had anything to do with the loan of two millions to the Soo company granted under the legislation of the Ross regime, all I have to say is this: that if I had anything to do with it, it was a most fortunate thing for the member from St. Marie and the Province of Ontario."

"And more particularly the member from North Bruce," retorted the Minister.

"I have nothing to apologize for in that matter, and I repeat it was a most fortunate thing, and there is in that city to-day the largest and most successful company in the province, and if it were not for that the hon. Minister would likely be sitting in a deserted village with the green grass growing around him."

In reply to the charges which the Liberal whip preferred, the Minister said that the best timber cruisers in the north had been engaged in the appraisal of the land in question, and that persons from both political parties had agreed on the quality of the timber, and the value of the bargain. He quoted some of those in the House to back his argument.

Messrs. Proudfoot of Huron, Hart of Simcoe, and others joined in the debate before the second reading was carried on division.

When W. K. McNaught asked the privilege of special expedition in handling Toronto's bill to enable the city to go ahead with its postoffice square scheme yesterday afternoon, Hon. Messrs. Lucas and Foy demurred until full explanation had been given. Permission was sought in the bill to allow the negotiations of the City Council with the Federal Government for the new postoffice square. The measure was allowed to go direct to the private bills committee.

Evidence Taking Ends.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Taking of testimony by the Interstate Commerce Commission or the application of eastern railroads for a five per cent. increase in freight rates was concluded yesterday so far as the present phase of the proceeding is concerned. Protestants against any increase in the lake and rail rate closed their case with the testimony of Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, who urged that the lake and rail carriers were not entitled to an advance in rates, because their service was antiquated and unnecessarily expensive to shippers.

Near-Centennial Studies Music.

ST. MARY'S, April 9.—Thomas Collins of the first concession of Bidulph township, who is ninety-nine and a half years old, has just commenced taking music lessons and is making good progress. He has lived in the reigns of six British sovereigns and is a remarkable individual in many ways.

On Nov. 12, Mr. Collins will be one hundred years old. His mind is clear, his memory almost a marvel. Nor is he bereft of agility and vigor.

U. S. To Pay $25,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Twenty-five million dollars is the amount the United States agrees to pay to Colombia for the partition of Panama and the acquisition of the canal zone, in the treaty signed in Bogota by American Minister Thompson and the Colombian authorities. This was stated here yesterday at the Colombian legation.

GIFTS TO SEALERS' FUND.

King and Queen Head London List—Canada Gives $10,000.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 9.—Premier Morris of Newfoundland cables from London that King George and Queen Mary have headed the subscription list in The London Times for the sealing disaster fund, with a donation of $750, and that generous contributions from other sources are being received.

The acting Premier has contributions of $2,000 each from the Dominion and Nova Scotia Steel Companies.

The steamer Kyle sent a wireless yesterday, when 240 miles south of Cape Race, reporting she had seen nothing of the Southern Cross. She spoke yesterday morning to the Gloucester schooner John Hammond, on the banks 190 miles south of Cape Race, which reported seeing no steamer.

Canada Gives $10,000.

OTTAWA, April 9.—When Parliament met yesterday afternoon Premier Borden announced that he had been in communication with Hon. John R. Bennett, acting Premier of Newfoundland, in respect to the recent disaster to the sealers and had volunteered to give practical evidence of Canadian sympathy by a grant to assist the families of the lost. He would accordingly ask Parliament for a grant of $10,000 for the purpose.

"The action of the Government in this matter is worthy of commendation," commented Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "and will have the hearty support of this side of the House."

Toronto Gives $3,000.

TORONTO, April 9.—A grant of $5,000 was made by the City Council to the survivors of those lost in the recent disaster of Newfoundland when a large number of sealers were caught in a blizzard.

MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

Local Police Have No Clue To Murderer of Robt. Hayde.

MIDLAND, April 9.—A post-mortem examination on the body of Robert Hayde, the grocer at Tomahawk Point who was found murdered, was held here yesterday. He was killed by a charge from a shotgun, the charge entering at the base of the skull at the back of the head, and lodging on the inside of his left cheek. The inside of his head was riddled in a frightful manner, and the left jaw was broken. An inquest will be held at Port Severn to-day. When the body was found the pockets were turned inside out, and the money all gone, which is an indication that robbery was the motive for the crime. His watch had not been meddled with. No clue to the assassin has yet been discovered, but a provincial detective has been applied for to work on the case.

ANALYZES TREATY.

Senator Works Spends Hours Speaking Against Repeal.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Formal consideration of the administration bill to repeal the tolls exemption provision of the Panama Canal Act will begin on the Senate side of the capitol to-day, with hearings before the Inter-oceanic Canals Committee, to continue for 15 days.

While the committee's preparations were under way yesterday, preliminary debate on the tolls issue occupied the greater part of the session in the Senate, where Senator Works of California held the floor for hours, concluding his analysis of the treaties involved, and his argument opposing the repeal.

Asserting that the United States had the right under the treaty to prescribe such tolls as it sees fit for its own vessels, Senator Works vigorously criticized the position taken by the President.

THE CAN WENT OFF.

Unwary Lad Badly Injured by Harmless-Looking Tin.

TORONTO, April 9.—Peter John Bolahood, aged 12, of 123 York street, kicked a tin can in his back yard yesterday afternoon, and since then Peter John and all his family have been wondering what was in that can. Following the kick there came a tremendous explosion, which knocked the lad on his back, tore the left side of his face open, and cut open his leg from the knee half way to his thigh. He was conveyed to the General Hospital, where it is stated he may lose the sight of one eye.

Although careful search was made for any part of the tin can, or of a particle remained to tell the police what had been placed inside. It is thought it contained explosive of some kind, but how it got there is a mystery.

Churchill To Aid Spain.

LONDON, April 9.—Winston Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, is expected in Madrid, Spain, to-day. In official Madrid circles it is stated that he is coming to confer with Premier Dato in reference to the projected construction of a second squadron for the Spanish navy.

The correspondent adds that as Spain is practically attached to the triple entente, Great Britain's advice in the reorganization of her navy is very important at the present time.

Cabarets Fight For Life.

MONTREAL, April 9.—An array of legal talent has been engaged to put up a fight for the five Montreal cabarets, whose licenses have been cut off by the license commission. On behalf of the cafes writs of certiorari and mandamus have been applied for, the principal ground alleged being that the judgment of the commission was published in the evening newspapers before it was formally announced.

KRAPCHENKO SENTENCED.

Slayer of Bank Manager To Hang on July 9th.

MORDEN, Man., April 11.—On July 9, John Krapchenko is to be hanged at Winnipeg for the murder, on Dec. 3, of last year, of H. M. Arnold, manager of the Bank of Montreal, at Plum Coulee, Man. The close of a long and sensational trial came at four o'clock Thursday afternoon, when the court met after a two-hour intermission, which followed the jury's verdict of guilty. When the court resumed Krapchenko made a statement to the court, in which he did not deny that he had been concerned in the hold-up of the bank, but in which he asserted positively that he was not the man who killed Arnold. Then Chief Justice Mathers imposed sentence. From the moment of the reading of the indictment to the last scene of all, the prisoner preserved the same steady attitude, and he showed little or no emotion even when the death penalty was pronounced.

Another Cure for Tuberculosis.

CINCINNATI, April 11.—By breathing sulphurous acid fumes incipient cases of tuberculosis can be frequently cured, according to a public announcement made yesterday at the convention of the American Chemical Society, meeting here, by Dr. Edward Gudeman of Chicago. Dr. Gudeman stated that while this fact had been known for some time among certain physicians and chemists, yet the demonstrations along this line had not progressed far enough to make the announcement public, until yesterday.

Final Vote By June 1st.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Consideration by the Senate committee on inter-oceanic canals of the proposed repeal of Panama Canal toll exemption for American ships was interrupted by lack of witnesses and further postponed until Monday.

It was apparent last night that the tolls controversy probably would not get formally before the Senate for two weeks, and the general opinion prevails that the vote on the repeal will not be taken before June 1.

Two More Hindus Implicated.

FERNIE, B.C., April 11.—By the confession of Mohammed Kahn, made as soon as he learned he was to be removed to Cranbrook, where he had no fear of violence, two other Hindus are implicated in the murder of the two men who were done to death in the shack at Bull River some three weeks ago. The men implicated, Badghram Singh and Behr Singh, are under arrest, and another man, Ram Singh, is being held as a witness.

King of Sweden Improves.

STOCKHOLM, April 11.—The general condition of King Gustave of Sweden, who underwent an operation Thursday for ulceration of the stomach, continues satisfactory.

A bulletin issued by the surgeons in attendance last evening stated that the King was suffering less pain and that he was taking sufficient nourishment during the day.

Dowager's Death Announced.

TOKIO, April 11.—The body of the Dowager Empress, who died on Thursday at Namazu, arrived here about midnight. It was transported in a coach to the palace through streets lined with troops. Five hundred thousand persons stood uncovered while the body passed. An official announcement of the dowager's death was then made.

Trappers at Work.

LINDSAY, April 11.—Local trappers are getting busy making due preparation for the usual spring catch of rats and minks. The season for muskrats last from the first day of December to the first day of May, and for mink from the 1st day of November to the first day of May.

Mr Percy Peacock, of Welland, is visiting his mother, Mrs Peacock, Bramley street.

CHAPTER XXII.

WAITING FOR THE TRAIN.

Two days passed at Mulberry-tree Cottage in the quiet, peaceful routine which was fast becoming second nature to its inmates, when, on the afternoon of the third since Mr Lemaistre's departure, one of Mr Blantyre's boys came down between three and four o'clock with a telegram and a personal message from a friendly bailiff.

"Master's respects, miss, and he received this 'ere an hour ago, and he thought as 'ow you might like to go into Dartmouth to meet Mrs Freymuth. If so would you please be ready at five o'clock, and he'll call for you as he goes in."

The telegraphic message ran thus: "Send dogcart and both luggage carts to meet 5-45. Come yourself if possible."

ADA FREYMUTH.

Hermione smiled slightly to herself. The mistress of Pinehurst was evidently to create as much sensation as possible over her home-coming!

Should she go and meet her cousin's widow? The girl asked herself. They had exchanged a couple of letters during the six weeks' separation, which, if cool, had certainly been civil. Nevertheless, Miss Freymuth did not care, if she consulted her own inclination, to meet Ada. But there was Pitches to be thought of. Hermione had not any very real hope in her heart of ever establishing her claim to Pinehurst, and, if Ada was to remain the one power for good or evil in Pitches' life, Miss Freymuth felt that it was imperative for her to do all she could to further a kindly feeling on his stepmother's part. So she put her own inclination on one side, and, decking the little fellow out in his bravest finery of a white sailor suit, with a black band on his arm, she took him, perched in the high dogcart, between Mr Blantyre and herself, into Dartmouth at the appointed time.

"I felt pretty certain that a leddy we bath know wouldna send you a direct message," the bailiff remarked, as she drew up at the station. "She has the sense to know that, when your present, Miss Freymuth, she is only number two with the Dartmouth people."

For the moment Hermione felt sorry she had driven over, too, if any feeling of the sort was shown, it would increase Ada's bitterness. But the girl forgot her uneasiness the next instant in the hearty greeting of the station master.

"Mrs Thompson was only saying yesterday that you'd deserted us altogether, miss," he told her. "This is the first time you've been in the station since the day of the accident. And this is the little master? No lack of brain there, miss!"

Hermione smiled and signified assent; but, if she could help it, she never talked about the child when he was present; he had a knack of remembering everything so distinctly, and asked such difficult questions afterward.

They looked quite an imposing group as they stood there, waiting for the train. Two of the men in the Pinehurst livery were hovering just behind them, hoping for a chance word with the boy, who was greatly liked by the servants; but they straightened themselves as the locomotive steamed in, and automatically resumed their machinelike bearing. The two men and the station master were at the door of Mrs Freymuth's compartment first. Mr Blantyre followed more leisurely, and Hermione, with Pitches, came up last of all.

Miss Freymuth saw Ada the moment she stepped from the train; indeed, it would have been rather difficult to avoid seeing the lady of ample dimensions who wore her widow's weeds so conspicuously over her flaxen hair, who spoke so obviously determined to impress the onlookers with the fact that she was a person of considerable importance.

Ada was not alone. There was an exceedingly animated French maid, who came bustling up from a second-class carriage as soon as the train stopped; while with the widow were a lady and gentleman, also of foreign appearance, but with an air of boredom and languor about them which at once produced an unpleasant impression upon Hermione.

There was a great deal of talking going on when she went toward the arrivals. Ada was giving half a dozen directions at once to the already confused men, while the maid was giving vent to shrill ejaculations of fear as to the safety of this or the other parcel, varied with exclamations of relief as each in turn came in view.

Miss Freymuth held back a little, for, if Ada's desire was to make herself conspicuous, she was succeeding admirably. Here and there with unconcealed amusement, strangers were stopping to watch the fussy importance of the performance, and once more Hermione wished that she had not come.

The idea of making her escape unseen flashed through her mind for an instant, but it was dismissed at once as impossible. It was the male member of the party who at last drew Ada's attention to her.

"Who is ze statuesque English beauty vis ze white skin and ze blue eyes? he inquired, without any attempt to lower his voice, and with a cool, insolent stare, which, unknown to herself, set the girl's lip curling in quiet contempt.

"Dear me! Is it you?" cried Ada, evidently more surprised than pleased. "Did you come down to meet me? Well, really it was very civil of you."

"I came because I thought you might like to see Pitches," Hermione replied.

The widow had not offered to shake hands with her, and the foreign-looking lady and gentleman continued to stare at her as they might have done at an unusually good-looking housemaid.

"Oh, I could have managed to wait until to-morrow," Ada said, with an unpleasant laugh. "I don't profess to be so attached to the child as all that. Dear me, Felice," she exclaimed, turning suddenly to the maid and dropping her voice to a loud stage whisper, "there is that mysterious man again who took so much pains to discover my address on the luggage at Liverpool Street. He is still watching us, for all the world as if he thought we were dynamite people or something of the sort."

Miss Freymuth turned and saw a tall man, with a small satchel in his hand, walking away down the platform. There was nothing noticeable about him, except that he had a decided stoop, which reminded her in some way of Doctor Deane.

Felice sniggered and shrugged her shoulders.

"Madame is bound always to attract attention!" she insinuated archly. "It is not ze poor man's fault."

"Don't be a fool, Felice!" Ada exclaimed sharply, but at the same time she looked exceedingly gratified. "Go on with the men and keep a close watch on the dressing case. Perhaps our mysterious follower has his eyes upon my jewelry. Now, my dear countess," she added, turning to the languid-looking lady behind her, who had stood motionless and silent during this little scene, "the carriage is waiting. Felice will see that your luggage is properly looked after."

"As they moved away, Hermione was for a moment uncertain whether to be amused or annoyed at such disdainful treatment; but a glance at Mr Blantyre's face, which was full of indignation, settled the question, and she had some difficulty to restrain her laughter as she followed between Pitches and the now angry bailiff. As they neared the door at the end of the platform, she saw the tall man with the stoop just inside, watching, as it seemed to her, the group on the pavement outside close to the Freymuth carriage. Remembering what Ada had said, this espionage struck Miss Freymuth as being odd. She would have liked to see the man's face; but that was impossible without turning round in the most marked manner after she had passed him—a piece of rudeness to which she was not equal.

Indeed, the party were scarcely outside the door before she forgot all about the observant stranger, for Squire Ballantyne was waiting there with his drag, and the moment he saw the girl he saluted her in his usual boisterous fashion.

"Hello, Miss Freymuth!" he cried. "I didn't expect to see you here to-day!"

Ada's friends turned to see who it was that the gentleman, with the handsome coach and splendid horses was hailing so familiarly, and looked a little surprised when they discovered that it was the young lady who had been treated almost like a servant by their hostess.

The Pinehurst carriage was immediately in front of the squire's, and his eyes twinkled as he looked first at the chattering group on the pavement and then back at Hermione, with an interrogative uprising of his brows. But the girl shook her head slightly in reply to his unspoken question, and he resumed his interested observation of Mrs Freymuth and her maid.

"I say," he called down again from the box seat as he saw some parcels put on the front seat of the landau, "there won't be any room for you and Pitches there. Won't you honor me by allowing me to drive you back? I came here to oblige Courtthorpe. He asked me, as he was busy to-day, to meet some people and drive them over to his place, and they haven't turned up — confound their impudence! Not but what I'd have been just as pleased to have your company if the coach had been full, you know, my dear," he added apologetically.

The squire had swung himself down to the ground while speaking, and one of the men proceeded to place the steps for Hermione to mount.

"Who is that sne has with her?" he growled, with a jerk of his head in Ada's direction.

"I've net been introduced," replied the girl.

"So much the better for you, judging by appearances!" She laughed a little, for the squire's grumpiness always amused her — it was, generally speaking, such a very harmless display.

"Run and say 'Good by' to mamma!" Hermione whispered to Pitches.

The child did as he was bidden, and Ada turned graciously toward Miss Freymuth. She was quite willing to be friendly with the squire if he would allow her. Perhaps, if she got hold of Hermione, he, too, would come and show her civility, and make her look a little more important in the eyes of her new acquaintances.

"Won't you spare a moment, Hermione?" she called out. "My friends would like to know you."

But the squire would not have it. "Too late now, ma'am! Another day, perhaps!" he called back, slipping his hand under Hermione's arm and hurrying her, a laughing captive, across the pavement, and up the steps. "My horses aren't fond of waiting. Now, then, where's the little man? In with the steps, Thomas! Let them go, Charles! Good day to you, Mrs Freymuth."

Looking back to bow her farewell to Ada, Hermione saw the man with the stoop standing in the middle of the pavement, looking, not at Ada and her party, but at herself, with such yearning in his face that she almost felt as if he were calling her back. What was this curious feeling that had seized her? Why had she not made a point of looking at this person's face when close to him? Why had he gazed at her so strangely?

CHAPTER XXIII.

STILL GREATER WONDER.

"I think I riled the woman a bit that time, my dear!" the squire chuckled, as they drove away. "What did she mean by trying to patronize you like that in the face of all Dartmouth? She's getting awfully fat. I hardly knew her till I heard her voice. Is she going to begin receiving visitors at Pinehurst already? I didn't think much of her friends — looked like a couple of Monte Carlo hawks! Hello! There's the doctor — coming along the pavement on the right. How bad he has looked ever since he lost those pretty little barns of his!"

"Yes," said Hermione, "he looks broken-hearted. Do you know if Mrs Deane is getting any stronger yet?"

"Not much," replied the squire. "But you ought to know more about it than I do, my dear."

"No; I never see any of them now. I've left off calling because Mabel was never at home to me. And, if the doctor sees me coming on the same side of the way, he crosses over to avoid meeting me. I suppose you haven't heard him say anything to account for this sudden avoidance of us, have you? It seems so strange. Of all our old friends, he is the only one who has given us the cold shoulder since our pride had its fall."

"It is not like him — is it?" queried Squire Ballantyne thoughtfully. "Possibly it's fancy on your part, Hermione."

"I wish I could think so," she replied. "I'd be only too glad if there was the least doubt about it."

The squire knew that well enough; he had known Miss Freymuth all her life, and she was not the sort of young woman to spend her time watching imaginary grievances.

"When are you going to give that mare of yours a breathing?" he asked, anxious to change the subject.

"You only have to say the word, you know. There's always half a dozen fellows hanging about the stables at the Hall with their hands in their pockets. It would be a mercy to give 'em a job. Charles behind there — the tootler — was accustomed to riding out with a lady at his last place. Let him come round with Haidee to-morrow and take you out for a spin. 'Twould do you a heap of good."

"Oh, I couldn't spare the time! I have scarcely a spare minute until five o'clock, and then I feel too tired for riding."

"Well, but how long is that sort of thing going to last?" he inquired, with good-humored impatience. "You know it's not possible that we can let you become a sort of grown-up Cinderella under our very eyes. The parson's daughter was telling me some of your little tricks the other day. She says that you slave away in that little hut of mine from morning till night because you can't afford a servant. Such stuff and nonsense, you know! I suppose now you'd laugh in my face if I asked you to bring your mother and come and keep those lazy beggars of servants up at the Hall in something like order!"

Hermione shook her head smilingly.

"Oh, no — I knew you wouldn't think of it for a minute," the Squire continued grimly; "it wouldn't be half independent enough for you! By the bye, I heard that the French man who behaved so well on the night of the fire was down here again. 'What's he up to — eh?'"

The girl looked a little conscious; but Squire Ballantyne was too busy with his horses to see it.

"Don't marry a foreigner, my dear," he advised, and turned back the conversation abruptly to the subject of the horse exercise. "But what about Haidee, now? She's too good an animal to waste her life between the stable and the paddock, you know."

"Yes," Hermione answered sorrowfully. "I'm weak-minded and keep putting off the evil day. She may as well be sold, soon as late. Keep her just one more week, and then if nothing happens, find a buyer for me."

"My dear girl, it's not a question of keeping her a week or a twelve-month!" the squire cried, as he pulled up at the little gate. "It's only a question of mercy to the beast herself. 'There don't worry about it now!' he added, catching sight of her troubled face. "We'll talk about it next time I call. Present my respects to your mother, and say that I will do myself the pleasure of seeing her the next time I pass — these brutes are too fidgety to leave standing now."

When Hermione got inside the cottage, she found Miss Pentony there, evidently in a state of the wildest jubilation.

"To think that I've been here for the last half hour, so that I might be at hand to cheer you up, after your encounter with that detestable woman!" she exclaimed, "and, behold, you come home like a conquering heroine! That dear, lovely old squire did right to choose this very afternoon to go into Dartmouth in full state. I hope Ada saw you drive off with him, 'Mione?"

"Yes, Priss, the whole business was as effective as even you could have wished," Miss Freymuth assured her. "Ada treated me in her own peculiar, ungracious manner at first; but, when the squire saw me, and made a little fuss over me, she wanted to do the same and introduce me to her friends; but Mr Ballantyne would not hear of it. He carried me off under her very eyes, and we made a triumphal exit with the horses prancing, the horn blowing, and all the good people of Dartmouth at the salute."

"Lovely!" ejaculated Priss, in ecstasy. "I'll give the squire a good hug the next time I see him! I wish you could make up your mind to marry him, 'Mione; you would be able to crow over Ada splendidly then."

"My dearest girl," remonstrated Hermione, much astonished, "who ever put such an idea into your head?"

"Squire Ballantyne himself —"

"But, Priss, dear," interrupted Mrs Freymuth, a little scandalized, "would he like to know that you had repeated it?"

"Oh, the information wasn't given confidentially, Mrs Freymuth! He and father were talking about you the other day, and he was saying how much he admired and respected our 'Mione. He said he didn't know another girl to come near her, as, to use his own words, she 'was a good twenty pounds in front of any other girl in the country for looks, stay, and temper. If I wasn't afraid of making myself look a confounded old idiot in her eyes, he said, 'I'd ask her to-morrow to come and be mistress up at the Hall.'"

Hermione hardly knew whether to laugh or cry.

"That is so like him!" she exclaimed. "He is so masterful in some things, and yet he's one of the most humble-minded of men as regards himself! I'm glad he didn't ask me, though, Priss. I shouldn't like the idea of having to refuse him."

Later in the evening, when Pitches, tired out with the excitement of his drive, had gone off, in the happiest frame of mind imaginable, to bed; when the sun had dipped below the horizon, leaving the garden in shadow, and Mrs Freymuth, afraid of the dew, had deserted her chair under the mulberry tree for her seat inside the old-fashioned garden door opening from the sitting room, Hermione stopped for a moment as she passed with her watering pot.

"The postman has just gone by," she said. "I am disappointed; I hoped to have had a letter from Mr Lemaistre this evening. I'm afraid the lawyers had not given him much encouragement, or he would have been eager to write."

Mrs Freymuth, who was knitting, dropped her hands upon her knees. "Don't crush me altogether, dearest," she said; "I am positively living upon hope, 'Mione!"

"But you musn't, mother dear!" the girl returned solicitously. "Think how great the disappointment will be if you count too much upon success! Is our present life so unendurable that you can't make yourself contented with it?"

"Mione, my own, you know it is not that! In one respect I can never regret this reverse, for without it, I should never have known the full extent of my dear daughter's unselfishness. But I cannot help grieving a little sometimes when I think of your passing all your life in mending linen, watering roses, dusting, and cooking my meals. How can I help grieving?"

"Mother," exclaimed Hermione solemnly, putting down her watering pot to come inside and lay her hand upon the tearful old soul's shoulder, "if you go on like that I shall have to rail at you in earnest! Surely you must know that my greatest happiness just now is the knowledge that I am necessary to your comfort? No music in the world ever gave me more pleasure than I feel when I see you eat and enjoy something I have cooked for you. Still, if you've made up your mind that I shall pine away for want of music, why I must dip into our reserve fund and buy myself a little piano! Hark!" she broke off abruptly; "there is somebody at the gate! Mr Lemaistre, by all that's wonderful!" she cried, as she saw him through the other window, coming down the front path. "Oh, monsieur, come round this way! A thousand welcomes! How and when did you come down? Not by the afternoon express, for I went to meet it!"

"No, mademoiselle," the Frenchman replied, as he passed on and shook hands with Mrs Freymuth; "I came down by the morning train, arriving here at three o'clock. But since that time I have been occupied with your own lawyer here — Mr Cartwright."

"Mr Cartwright? Have you told him of the extraordinary discovery we made?"

"Yes — we have been discussing the matter the whole afternoon."

"And what is his opinion?" asked the girl, watching his face narrowly. "Is it bad news you have to tell us?"

"No — it is certainly not bad; but it is not good, and it is something that it will be difficult for me to impart to you."

"How so?" inquired mother and daughter simultaneously.

"Well, ladies, it is awkward for me because, though I am desirous of serving you, you still know so little of me, beyond what I have told you myself, that you may feel inclined to doubt me when you hear what I have to say to you."

"Oh, monsieur!" exclaimed Hermione.

"Thank you, mademoiselle. Still it is really a terrible thing I have to divulge. We have all of us decided — the Foljambe people, whom I saw yesterday, and Mr Cartwright and myself — that if Leo Freymuth carried this fraud through by himself — if he had no confederate whatever — it will be a very long and expensive job to prove our case, as we shall have to get most of our evidence over from Australia. But — and this is where the painful part of my disclosure comes in — Mr Cartwright and I have also come to the conclusion that Leopold Freymuth was not unassisted — in other words, that he had an ally!"

"Proceed," said the girl calmly. "I can see that you have also come to a decision as to whom this confederate is."

"May I ask you a question, mademoiselle? You also, Mrs Freymuth?"

"A dozen!" replied the ladies in a breath.

Instead of speaking at once, he stepped across to where the cane chairs stood under the big mulberry tree, and brought one and set it upon the path for Hermione, then took up his position against the open doorway, half inside, half outside the room.

"Did either of you ladies ever know that our dear friend Ray had been badly bitten by a dog about six months before he left England?"

There was a short breathless silence before the two answers came:

"No!" — "Never!"

"Well, but he was. The brute was supposed to be mad, and he threw himself between it and a little child. But that part of the business has nothing to do with what I want to make you understand now. The main point of the story, so far as we are concerned, is that he went straight to Doctor Deane, after declaring to the child's mother that the dog's teeth had not gone through to his skin, and had the bite cut, cleaned out and his arm cauterized. The double operation left a deep scar, in shape like a T, on the outer side of the right arm just below the elbow. I've seen it scores of times when we have been working the cradle together at the mines. When Ray told me how he got the scar, he also informed me that he had kept the whole occurrence a secret from everybody but the doctor, and that he had bound him over to secrecy — a little nervous himself, perhaps, and anxious to save others anxiety."

"Yes, yes," whispered Hermione, "I can quite understand that. My uncle had a very great horror of a dog's bite."

"Was that so? Well, that of course would have had some weight with him. At all events, I had Ray's word for it that the matter was a secret between him and Doctor Deane up to the time of his leaving England."

"Yes!" said Hermione again; but this time the word was put interrogatively; and in the twilight, which was deepening momentarily, the Frenchman saw a sudden startled look, which seemed half doubt, half horrified belief, flash into her face.

When Mr Lemaistre resumed, there was a half note of hesitation in his voice, as if he were almost afraid of putting their faith in him to too great a trial.

Why Some Mails Go Astray

A section of the postal service report gives some important facts about mail matter. People often blame the post office for letters and articles lost, when the fault is with the sender. Letters and packages that are improperly addressed or those having their addresses illegibly written, will not likely reach their destination. Of all things about a letter or a mail package, the address should be plainly written.

The dead letter branch during 1912 to 1913 handled in all 3,768,525 pieces of mail, varying from postal cards to valuable packages. The letters contained money to the amount of $33,529, checks for sums amounting to $1,226,000, and debentures, coupons, drafts, money orders, to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars. Deeds and other legal and valuable documents figured in the total, while the miscellaneous articles included almost everything portable, from accordions and baby clothes to waistcoats and yarn. The officials managed to get most of the packages to their destined recipients; but in many cases they failed.

There are address puzzles even too hard for their experienced intelligence, and they are not always made by illiterates. A characteristic scrawl may be an accomplishment, but it is a distinct disadvantage in securing the safe delivery of mail matter.

Are You Going West This Spring?

If so, exceptional opportunities are now being offered by the Grand Trunk Railway System in connection with Homeseekers, Settlers and Colonist excursions.

Homeseekers' round trip tickets are issued from stations in Canada to points in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, at very low fares, and are in effect each Tuesday until October 27, inclusive, via Chicago, St. Paul or Duluth. Tickets will also be on sale on certain dates via Sarnia and Northern Navigation Company. Through Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars are operated to Winnipeg each Tuesday, leaving Toronto at 11 p.m. No change of cars. Tickets are valid returning two months from date of issue.

Settlers' one-way second tickets are also on sale each Tuesday during April from stations in Ontario, Kingston, Renfrew and west to points in Alberta and Saskatchewan at low fares.

Colonist one-way second-class tickets are sold at very low fares from stations in Ontario to certain points in Alberta, British Columbia, Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Texas, Utah and Washington and are in effect daily until April 15, inclusive.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is the shortest and quickest route between Winnipeg-Saskatoon-Edmonton, with smooth roadbed, electric lighted sleeping cars, through the newest, most picturesque and most rapidly developing section of Western Canada.

Through tickets sold and reservations made by all Grand Trunk Agents. Costs no more than by other routes. Trains now in operation Winnipeg to Saskatoon, Edmonton and Regina; Yorkton and Canora, Sask.; Camrose, Mirror, Edson, and Calgary, Alberta; also to Jasper, Tete Jaune and Prince George, B.C.

H. H. COOK IS DEAD

He Was Liberal Member of Parliament For Several Years.

WANTED TO BUILD C. P. R.

He Was In the Lumber Business Most of His Life, But Found Time to Give Up Several Years to Politics — Sat In Legislature and In Commons — Left Party Because of Senatorship.

TORONTO, April 13.—In the death of Henry Herman Cook, which occurred yesterday at his late residence, 20 Dowling avenue, Canada loses one of its most conspicuous political figures.

Born in Williamsburg, Dundas County, Ont., on April 27, 1837, Mr. Cook entered the lumber business in 1858 and was at the time of his death president of the Ontario Lumber Co. He was one of the syndicate which offered to build the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1880? His family has been prominently identified with the lumber trade for many years.

Mr. Cook first entered Parliament in 1872 for North Simcoe, which constituency he represented as a Liberal in the Dominion House until 1878, when he entered the Ontario Legislature. He resigned his seat in the Legislature in 1882 when he returned to the Dominion House as member for East Simcoe, which seat he held until 1890. During this period he contested no less than eleven elections, winning six and being defeated five times.

He afterwards entered the House of Commons as a follower of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1896, and a few years later he came prominently before the public when he made a break-away from his party owing to the refusal of Sir Wilfrid to appoint him to the Senate, an honor he frankly believed to be due him. His criticisms of the Laurier administration created no small sensation at the time.

Mr. Cook's death came quite unexpectedly to his relatives and friends. He maintained his usual good health until Monday last, when he took to his bed with some slight ailment. On Friday he was quite well again, although still confined to his room. At three o'clock Saturday morning he was seized with apoplexy and never regained consciousness, expiring at 7.15 last night.

He is survived by two daughters and four grandchildren, the daughters being Mrs. Frank E. Macdonald and Mrs. Norreys Worthington, wife of the late Col. Norreys Worthington. The funeral will be held privately on Wednesday.

NEW BUREAU PLANNED.

Canada Will Adopt U. S. Scheme For Analysis of Foods Says McGill.

CINCINNATI, O., April 13.—That the system of the United States Bureau of Chemistry will be adopted by Canada was the statement made yesterday by Dr. A. McGill, chief chemist of the Canadian Inland Revenue Department, with headquarters at Ottawa. Dr. McGill, who was one of the delegates to the convention of the National Chemical Society, is in this city on an inspection tour. He called upon Chief Chemist Leo Forst of the local Bureau of Chemistry in the Federal building Saturday and inspected the laboratory.

Dr. McGill, in announcing that he expected to follow the system in this country in the matter of brand laboratories, said that he is preparing to establish branch laboratories in Canada to facilitate the handling of imports. He stated that he intended establishing laboratories at Halifax, Vancouver, Winnipeg, and possibly Montreal.

ROCKFORD, Mass., April 13.—Miss Sophronia Lowe hadn't been able to utter a sound since last Thanksgiving, a few days after her 65th birthday. This was because of a throat affection caused by a heavy cold.

But Miss Lowe can talk now — high or low, shrill or soft. She rented and occupied half of a large house. Not long ago a tenant was found for the other half. Miss Lowe didn't know it. Saturday she started to go to the attic of the house and met the other tenant.

He was a man. And Miss Lowe was so shocked, besides being pent up since Thanksgiving, that she screamed. And right from that instant she has been able to talk volubly. And has.

Will Teach Bulgarian Nurses.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Miss Mabel T. Boardman, head of the American Red Cross, announced yesterday the selection of Miss Helen Scott Hay, an elected American Red Cross nurse, now in charge of the Western Suburban Hospital at Chicago, as superintendent of the proposed school for trained nurses at Sofia, Bulgaria.

The appointment is the result of an appeal made to the American Red Cross by Queen Eleanora of Bulgaria, who is

Exclude Youngsters from the Movies

Legislation is being proposed by the Provincial Government in the Statute amendment act, now before the Legislature, to place a curb on the tendencies of juniors to seek enjoyment at moving picture shows without the consent of their parents. Youngsters with the necessary change in their pockets have been in the habit of pocketing strangers standing in the loyers of the moving picture theatres and asking them to see them past the doorkeepers. Complaints have been made by different organizations to the Attorney-General, with the result that legislation will be brought in providing that no child under the age of fifteen can be admitted to these shows unless accompanied by a parent or adult guardian who is a member of the family or a relative. The onus will be on the theatre people to be satisfied of the status of the party accompanying the child.

RENDER AID TO COUNTY POLICE

Legislation now being entered upon the statutes of the Province will do away hereafter with any complaint that the wheels of justice turn too slowly in the case of serious crimes in the counties. There have been instances during the year when the county police, attempted to handle criminal affairs alone, and at the last hour the Provincial body was called in to co-operate. This sometimes meant a serious delay and difficulty in securing prosecutions, yet, by the law, only on the request of the county crown attorney, was any outside assistance warranted. Now, however, by a statute law amendment, power is granted the attorney general to send in Provincial officers at any hour he deems fit. Provincial men may be on the scene as soon as the local officials.

LATE EDGAR HANSMAN

Formerly of Port Hope Was One Of New Liskeard's Best Citizens

New Liskeard Speaker.

The death of Edgar A. Hansman has created universal sorrow in New Liskeard and community. He passed away at the Lady Minto Hospital here on Saturday morning last, following an operation for gall stone, from which he appeared to rally quite as well as could be expected. However, shortly following the operation, his stomach failed to perform its natural functions, and the young man gradually succumbed to the hand of death.

For years "Eddie" Hansman has been known throughout Temiskaming. There is not an Oddfellows' Lodge Room in this District which has not been visited by him, and many of the Lodges owe much to the deceased for assistance rendered when they were first being organized.

Coming to New Liskeard in his late "teens," some twelve years ago, and with the energy with which he was so well supplied, Ed. quickly made friends with every person he met, and was the life of almost every undertaking which was organized in the pioneer days. Besides his deep interest in the work of the Oddfellows, he was a member of the Masonic craft, and his interest in the work of both organizations was of the kind that counts, as he worked energetically for the success of every thing he became attached to.

When New Liskeard was a struggling community, the deceased was one of the first to take up the idea of the athletic organization, and during the past ten years he has been an active member of the various base ball, lacrosse, hockey and curling teams which have so widely advertised the town of his adoption. He was a member of one of the curling rinks which took part in the Sudbury bonspiel two months ago, at that time apparently enjoying the best of health.

Our departed citizen was the possessor of an excellent musical voice, and for years he and his brother, Milton, have been members of the various male quartettes which have so effectively assisted in the various church and social entertainments so that it will be readily seen that the sudden taking off of our departed citizen will leave a gap in the life of the community which only time will efface, and the departed will be held in loving remembrance for years to come by those with whom he was intimately acquainted.

This is the third death in the Hansman family within the past two years, the mother and father having passed away within that time, and the remaining members of the family are extended the heartfelt sympathy of all in this their third severe trial.

The deceased was in his thirty-first year, was born in the town of Port Hope, in which town the family had resided for many years, and leaves three sisters and three brothers to mourn his loss: Mrs. C A Byam, Mrs. D. Stewart, Miss Hansman, Milton G. Albert, all of New Liskeard and Horace, of Montreal. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, under the direction of the local Oddfellows' Lodge, the attendance being exceedingly large, the various places of business being closed out of respect for the deceased. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, many friends taking this method of showing their sympathy. Revs. Barker and Coumans conducted services at the residence, and at the grave, while the Oddfellows' services were conducted by Past Grands Ough and Woodward.

INSPECTING HOTELS

License Commissioners Have Ordered a Number of Changes

The License Commissioners continued their inspection of the hotels last week and in several instances ordered improvements to be made before the 22nd of this month.

Following the tragedy at the Woodbine Hotel fire in Toronto, the provincial license department are now giving special attention to the matter of fire escape appliances on the smaller hotels throughout the country towns and villages. One particular manner in which the act has been generally infringed upon has been brought to their attention but new orders are being issued to all the inspectors to have this point carefully watched. Commercial travellers who cover Ontario pretty thoroughly have pointed out that it is customary in the country hotels for storm windows to be attached to hotels, but that these are nailed or screwed to the sashes in such manner that in case of fire the only means of escape would be to break the window away and run the risk of being injured in doing so.

Would Receive 13 Other Ministers

As Ministers of the Presbyterian Church in Canada Was Notice of Application to the General Assembly

A meeting of the Presbytery of Peterboro was held Monday morning in St. Andrew's church, Peterboro, at which Rev. Mr. Brown of Warsaw presided. An interesting notice was that received regarding the intention of the Presbytery to make application on behalf of other presbyteries to the General Assembly for permission to receive as ministers of the Presbyterian church, four Baptist, two Methodist and seven Congregationalists, and three Presbyterian ministers other than members of the Church in Canada.

Rev. Mr. Keith and Mr. Shurter gave an account of their visit to Omeme, Bethany and Mount Pleasant and sanction was given to the formation of Mt. Pleasant and Omeme into a pastoral charge, of which Rev. Mr. Keith will be moderator during the hearing of candidate for call. Rev. Jos. Skene, Havelock. Mr. J. E. Roxburgh, Norwood. A Fairfair, Lakefield, Rev. Mr. Rollins and Rev. Robert Pogue were among those present.

A GREAT SUCCESS

The "Made in Port Hope," exhibition at the Willing Worker's sale in the Baptist School room on April 7th, was a decided success. Many expressed agreeable surprise at the large variety and splendid quality of the goods produced in our own community. And the ladies under whose auspices the exhibit was held are very grateful to those who responded so generously to their requests for exhibits.

The program in the evening was listened to with evident enjoyment by an audience that packed the school room to its utmost capacity and the whole day's proceedings were such as to greatly encourage the energetic band of workers.

CARD OF THANKS

We appreciate very much the many expressions of sympathy on behalf of our baby who was so severely burned, and we are pleased to state that he is improving nicely.

Sincerely yours,
 MR. AND MRS. A. J. CHESHER.

THE LATE PIERSON LOUIS WOODCOCK

Mr. Pierson Louis Woodcock, one of our most highly esteemed and respected business men, passed away on Saturday morning last after a long illness.

He was born in Yorkshire, England, sixty-two years ago and when only two years of age came with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. George Woodcock, to Canada. After residing in Port Hope for a time Mr. Woodcock came to Cobourg and for more than twenty-five years was connected with the grocery business. In later years he has devoted his time to insurance work and has represented the Prudential Insurance Co. of Newark, N. J., in Cobourg and district.—Cobourg World.

CANT ENFORCE AWARD

Mr Justice Middleton dismissed the action brought by R. F. and Isabel E. Massie against the Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Company (C.P.R.) to recover $15,951.90 under an arbitrators' award for lands expropriated by the company. His Lordship said, much to his regret, he could not sustain the plaintiffs in getting their money. He had carefully studied the submission made to the arbitrators, but there was nothing in it that would permit the majority to make the award.

It appeared that two of the arbitrators favored the amount named but the other opposed it, therefore their award was not valid and binding. Where a reference was made to three persons, in the absence of a clause in the agreement to the effect that the decision of the majority should rule, there must be a unanimous decision for their award to be binding.

SPORTING SKITS

BASEBALL

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Town League Wednesday evening, April 8th, and from the enthusiasm displayed the league should be a big success this year. Four teams have been admitted,—Alerts, Beavers, Black Diamonds and Ontarios and the following officers were elected to guide the affairs: Hon. Pres. S O Runnalls President. C Rowden Vice President. V Wakely Sec. Treas. B Lowe Executor Committee P. Nixon, M Hewson, A Hills and V Wakely. Mr S O Runnalls has very kindly donated a cup to the league and the team winning it twice in succession is entitled to hold it as their property.

Our Town League this year should receive every encouragement. The teams are composed of local boys and it will be their aim to give the baseball enthusiasts a season of good sport. The Council should be the first to lend assistance by having the grounds put in proper shape. For several years past these grounds have been a disgrace to any park and one hesitates at inviting an outside team to town. We feel sure, however, that with the enthusiasm shown already by the ball tossers that the Council will provide them with an up-to-date diamond. One mistake we fear the League has made and that is in connection with the election of their Executive. We notice that this is composed of one representative from each team. In our experience with Town Leagues this was always the cause of trouble. The representative of a team can never see anything wrong with his own, while the representative of the team protesting looks at it in an altogether different light and it is generally a case of which representative has the most friends on the Executive. It is early now and the players will tell you that there will be no protests. But it is one of the unfortunate things in sport that no league can run along without its ups and downs. We would suggest for the interest of the league and all concerned that the Executive be composed of three or four young men independent of any team. They would have no axe to grind and their decisions would be impartial and in keeping with the evidence submitted. Think it over, boys, it is all for your own benefit.

Youthful Burglars Confess to Crimes

Both Pleaded Guilty and Were Remanded for Sentence

Lindsay, April 8.—Smith and Wilson, the two burglars arrested in Peterboro, appeared before Magistrate Jackson, pleaded guilty and were remanded to jail for sentence on Tuesday, April 14.

The prisoners confessed to robberies in Bracebridge, Orillia, Gravenhurst, Midland and Penetanguishene, and gave full particulars to the authorities. All the information given by them has been found to be correct.

THEY WERE ONLY "SAND HOGS"

Nine men lost their lives in Memphis, Tenn., on Monday says the Guelph Mercury. The telegraph despatch telling of this fatality used only a few lines of copy. There was no bulletin sent ahead to editors telling them of the event. There were no scare heads in the front pages. These nine men's lives were snuffed out and this is all that was said:

"Trapped in the murky depths of a caisson used in the construction of a big bridge here, nine workmen known as 'sand-hogs' were smothered to death by a gas explosion. All were dead when brought out."

These men had bodies and souls, probably wives and children who will mourn for them as truly as any person could. But they had accumulated no fortune; they had never cornered the wheat market; they had not endowed a college chair for scientific research, nor had they been able to do things that the world reckons as great.

They were only "sand hogs." Away in the depths of the bridge construction work they probably worked at unsanitary and distasteful occupations. They didn't sit in offices and draw plans of the bridge; they would never have been heard of on the day when the ceremony was performed declaring the structure open.

They were only "sand-hogs." If the foundations of the bridge had been well built, these men would probably get no credit for it; had the bridge shifted and collapsed, the papers would probably have said that gross neglect had been found on the part of these men. The explosion of gas came, the sand and dirt poured in. When the rescuers had hauled the poor bodies out, life had gone. The press records the fact that nine "sand-hogs" were killed. There will be nothing more heard of the incident. Probably nine more will take their place, and run the same chance with death in order to keep up the battle for existence.

The nine under men shuffle off. There is a brief note. The man who corners the grain market and forces a hundred others to the wall—there are columns about him. Money does not make the man—oh, no, but it has a mighty lot to do with our estimation of him.

THE TEACHER PROBLEM

The last report of the Minister of Education for Ontario indicates that the problem of providing an adequate supply of qualified teachers has not yet been completely solved, points out the editor of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, who has been looking up government statistics. For the year 1913, he continues, there were between 1,700 and 1,200 teachers in training in the normal schools, and about 350 in the faculties of education.

The Minister of Education says that under ordinary circumstances this would be a supply ample enough for the openings created by the establishment of new schools and withdrawals from the profession, but there are other influences at work. Apparently a considerable percentage of those who qualify themselves for the teaching profession are still attracted to other occupations, or leave the province altogether. The Minister points out that the salaries in Ontario are much higher than they were, but he is compelled to admit that they have either not kept pace with the scale of remuneration in other callings, or they started on a lower level.

The raising of the salary standard, especially in the rural sections, has been a slow process, but even in this respect there is evidence of improvement. The average annual salary for male teachers in the public schools of the Province for last year was $788, representing an increase of $21. The average annual salaries for female teachers is $543, representing an increase of $25. The average experience of male teachers was a little over eleven years; that of the female teachers a little over seven years.

In one important respect there has been no improvement. The number of male teachers in the elementary schools does not increase, nor do young men attend the professional schools in appreciably larger numbers. The male teachers in the elementary schools constitute only about fourteen per cent. of the total. The reason, no doubt, is not far to seek. It is a matter of salary.

Chasing Poachers On Pigeon Lake

Game Warden Parker Had an Exciting Time

Bobcaygeon, April 8.—Mr. H. B. Parker, our efficient Game Warden, had quite an escapade last week, with Red Men of the Indian reserve Chemung lake. Harry was on the lookout for those who slip down to the lake on a nice bright day, cut a hole in the ice at a good point, and yank out a few good lunge before they are seen. As he rounded Grassy Point on Pigeon Lake, he espied a gang on the northwest side of Grenadier Island, and he made all haste till he reached the scene of operations, and to his dismay he was face to face with seven Indians who had cut holes in the ice, got a good supply of fish and were eagerly trying to get more. Harry attempted to seize the outfit, but no, the red men had the goods, and they were determined to keep them, and keep them they did, for Harry had to return empty handed and report the whole affair to the government. No doubt he will receive instructions soon as to what he should do, but in the meantime the Indians have the fish and their fishing apparatus.

AN INCORRECT VISION

Visions can be interpreted in various ways, according to the idea of the mind readers. A young farmer who had been converted and was chock full of zeal, went before a conference and asked for a license to preach. I had a vision, he said, solemnly, I saw up in the sky these letters enlined: P. C. I think it meant Preach Courageously, and I want to try it.

Young man, said an old wise pastor, let me tell you a truth. There's many a good farmer spoiled in making a poor preacher. Those words meant this, brother: Plow Carefully, I'm sure of it.

In later years the young man was also sure of it.

Law Protects Shade Trees

A newspaper paragraph tells how a man in Collingwood secured a verdict of $93.97 against the water and light commission of that town for the damage done to some shade trees by the agents of the hydro-commission. The paragraph adds that, according to the law as interpreted by the courts, nobody, even when backed by the authority of the municipal council, has a right to cut down or mutilate any shade trees without the consent of the owner of the property in front of which the trees are standing. It is well that this should be kept in mind. One can never tell when such information may prove useful.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Swat The Fly, Says Commercial Club

Will Undertake Campaign to Exterminate the Pests in Community—"Call to Arms" is Issued

Warning! Kill flies now! Flies cost the United States $350,000,000 annually. The present is the time to kill flies; before the weather becomes warm and the "hold-overs" begin to propagate. One fly now means innumerable billions later on.

The extermination of the winter fly is the duty of the housewife and of every one. Don't let one escape. Catch and kill them all before spring for the winter fly is the parent of summer's destructive swarms.

The time to destroy the fly is before it has had a chance to lay its eggs. Now is the time. Capture every one of the fifty little pests you can find.

A single fly is capable of depositing 150 eggs at one time, and of producing five or six batches during its short life.

The progeny of a single pair of flies, assuming that they all live, if pressed together at the end of the summer would occupy a space of over 14,000,000 cubic feet.

This would be equivalent to a building as large as the Woolworth building.

These figures show the incalculable possibilities of a single fly, and how vital it is to destroy the winter flies.

Don't think because the flies do not annoy you now that they should not be "swatted." Now is when "swatting" is most effective.

FATHER VISITED YOUTHFUL BURGLAR

Lindsay Post.

Mr. Wilson, of Hamilton, father of the unfortunate youth who is awaiting sentence, with Frank Smith, for burglary, was in town Good Friday to see his son, who is in the county jail. The meeting of father and son was a most affecting one, the boy bursting into tears when he looked upon his heart-broken father. They both spent considerable time together, and Mr. Wilson visited the jail last night again before leaving for home.

Mr. Wilson feels keenly the position in which his son is placed. The boy is of good parentage, was given good training, and his waywardness has caused his parents many pangs of sorrow.

BUILDING OF ARMORIES

A story is told by the Ridgetown Dominion of a farmer who said they were going to petition for an armory. As there was no militia in the neighborhood he was asked why they wanted an armory and he replied: "To hold our grain and poultry show in." This would not be a bad use for such buildings says the Stratford Beacon, but it is questionable whether the Dominion Government should expend money on a building which will only be used once or twice a year. Is the principle adopted by the present Government that money must be expended in various parts of the country to gratify their supporters and thus bribe the people with their own money? It looks like it in some instances as far as the erection of armories is concerned.

ELEVATOR AT REABORO DESTROYED BY FIRE

Last night about 11 o'clock the grain elevator at Reaboro, owned by Thos Skuce, was discovered to be on fire, and in a short time it was a veritable fiery furnace. Fortunately very little grain was in the structure at the time. Mr Skuce had shipped a large amount a few days ago, and had only a few oats stored for his own use.

The structure burned fiercely, and lighted up the heavens for miles around.

The elevator, which is a total loss, was built about ten years ago by Jos Eyres, of Toronto, and formerly of Lindsay. Mr Skuce had the building and contents insured in the Perth Mutual. Besides the building and oats, the elevator machinery was also destroyed. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The sectionmen were burning grass near the elevator during the day, but it is not supposed that this caused the destruction of the building.—Lindsay Post.

SEVEN KILLED IN FIRE

Early Morning Blaze Occurs in Beacon Apartment House.

BOSTON, April 15.—Seven persons were killed, sixteen were injured more or less seriously, and twelve families, totaling more than seventy-five individuals, were endangered in an early morning fire that wrecked the Melvin, a five-story brick apartment house at the corner of Commonwealth and Long avenues, in the Allston district, yesterday. The loss is estimated at $60,000.

The dead: Mrs. Alice Shackford, wife of C. L. Shackford; Mrs. Edith Bemis, wife of H. E. Bemis; Mrs. F. C. Beharrell, a sister of Mrs. Bemis; James R. Power, Mrs. Power and their infant son; Miss Mary Connors, a maid in the Power family.

Mrs. Shackford and Mrs. Bemis met death by jumping, one from the fourth floor and the other from the fifth. The bodies of the other victims were found on the fifth floor two hours after the discovery of the fire, and the medical examiner expressed the opinion that all had been suffocated.

NEW REVOLT BEGINS

White Wolf's Forces Said To Be Strengthened by Mutiny In Army.

LONDON, April 15.—Another revolt is threatened in China, according to an Exchange Telegraph Co.'s despatch from Shanghai yesterday. It adds that feverish excitement exists in official quarters at Nanking, where there is a reign of terror among the populace.

The regular troops at Sianfu, capital of the Province of Shen-Si, are said to have mutinied, and are believed to be in league with the brigand White Wolf, who with his followers has captured and looted many towns in the vicinity, killing hundreds.

Indications of grave unrest are reported from Wu Chang and Canton, says the despatch, and six provinces are said to be affected.

Train Bandit Is Shot

ABERDEEN, South Dakota, April 15.—Harry Matthews, one of three bandits who held up the Great Northern express near Bellingham, Washington, last month, killing two trainmen, was in turn shot and killed Monday night at Lemmon, S.D., by George Schlong, a special railroad detective, and Deputy Sheriff Fred Artell, of Perkins County. He was found in a box car, and opened fire on the officers, who killed him instantly by a return volley.

Pailroad Knight Was Seventy-One Years of Age.

BUILDER OF THE WEST

Word Comes From California of His Death From a Complication of Diseases—Rose From Brakeman to Vice-President of the C. P. R.—Had Full Control of Road West of Great Lakes.

MONTREAL, April 15.—Word reached C. P. R. headquarters yesterday afternoon of the death of Sir William Whyte at Coronado Beach, California. Sir William was for years vice-president and a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The death of one of the pioneers of the C. P. R., and one of the best known men in Canada, came as a shock to his friends, as messages received up to a few hours previously were to the effect that Sir William's health was improving and that he would return to his home in Winnipeg quite restored in health. A special car has been sent to California to bring the body back. Lady Whyte will accompany it.

A message from San Diego says death was due to pyelitis and a complication of diseases.

Sir William Whyte had a quite remarkable railway career, which was characterized by gradual but steady evolution rather than by meteoric rapidity. He was born in 1843 at Charleston, in Fifeshire, Scotland. He was educated in the schools of his native place, and his first business appointment was that of clerk for two years in the factor's office of Lord Elgin's estate in Scotland. After spending a year in the service of the West of Fife Railway, he came to Canada in 1863, and was from that date till 1883 continuously in the service of the Grand Trunk Railway. During those twenty years he worked as brakeman, freight clerk, and afterwards freight foreman at Toronto, as yardmaster and station agent at Toronto, as station agent at Stratford and London, and as assistant superintendent of the central division.

Leaving the service of the Grand Trunk in 1883, he was appointed general superintendent of the Credit Valley Railway, to which were afterwards added the Ontario & Quebec and the Toronto, Grey & Bruce. As the Canadian Pacific Railway system in Ontario became consolidated his office became more and more important and responsible until it included the general superintendence of all the company's sections in Ontario and the provinces farther to the east. His great opportunity came when he took over the western division and became general superintendent and afterwards manager of all the lines west of Lake Superior. From 1886 till his retirement in 1911 he spent in the west twenty-five years, rising to the post of vice-president.

In 1871, he married Jane, daughter of Adam Scott, in Toronto, and he leaves four daughters and one son; Margaret, Christina Methven, Edith Jane, Gladys Helen, and William Whyte.

EVANS ON WAY BACK

Union Life Promoter To Stand Trial Says E. A. DuVernet.

TORONTO, April 15.—According to the statement made by Crown Prosecutor E. A. Du Vernet, K.C., at the opening of the spring assizes at the City Hall yesterday afternoon, Poliman Evans has sailed from France in order to stand his trial on a charge of conspiracy to defraud in connection with the affairs of the defunct Union Life Insurance Co.

This information came as the result of Erie Armour's request that the charges against his clients, Harry Symons, K.C., and Geo. Millinchamp should be proceeded with at once. To this Mr. Du Vernet objected, and when pressed by Mr. Justice Middleton for his reason, he declared that Evans would be in Toronto probably by next week.

Government Votes Down Bar Abolition Once More.

OFFER OF AID REJECTED

Hon. Mr. Hanna and Conservative Majority Defeat Resolution For Clearing Up of Worst Phase of Liquor Evil—Provincial Secretary Reaffirms Policy of Doing Away With Treating

TORONTO, April 15.—For the third time in as many years the Liberal proposal to abolish the bar in Ontario was submitted to the Legislature yesterday, and was again rejected by a straight party majority. Not even the offer of the leader of the Opposition to join hands with the Government and by united effort eliminate entirely the one institution that was more responsible than any other for the recognized evils of the liquor traffic was accepted.

Mr. Rowell began by declaring that all in touch with the social problems of the province stood behind the temperance movement. It was recognized that the prohibition of importation or manufacture was not feasible, but the proposal of abolishing the bar held forth no legal difficulties.

Local option had proved "one of the most valuable instruments for fighting the liquor traffic and would always get the support of the opposition," but it was insufficient in the places where it was needed most.

"Under the local option law as it stands, I venture to say that it would be impossible to carry it in any of the larger cities of the province," he declared, stating in the same connection that in every contest of the kind the measure had been overwhelmed.

The Opposition leader called attention to the excellent work of the Provincial Secretary on the prison farms, but urged that a better thing would be to remove the stumbling block of liquor from the feet of those who populate these institutions.

Mr. Rowell then dealt with the reason why shops are not included in his measure, and explained that his party had gone as far as the organized temperance party asked them to go. He pointed out that his measure left this part of the reform entirely to the community. Under the act it would be possible for each district to abolish the sale of liquor in shops should they think it advisable.

It had been said, and rightly, Mr. Rowell concluded, that some who had hitherto stood by them had now departed, but even so there was more to offset this loss. In all English-speaking countries the tide was running against the open bar and the organized traffic and the vote on the Scott Act in Ontario counties showed the determination of the people.

In his introductory remarks Hon. Mr. Hanna referred to the deputation of young Conservatives and the argument that the Government should accede to their request, and that in such a case the Opposition, with their leader, would walk across the floor to the Government benches. The old Liberal Government had enjoyed a request from 152,000 people in a plebiscite and had not hearkened. For long years they had waited and no response came, and yet in all that time not a man in the Government was condemned by the present leader of the Opposition. If to-day there was any moving along in temperance lines the Whitney Government was largely responsible.

The Minister drew a comparison between the actual legislation placed on the statute book by the respective Governments. That of the Ross Government was summed up in the regulating of druggists' licenses, the arranging of brewers' licenses and other minor affairs. They were years of silence, with no progress, and then came Sir James Whitney with a pledge to the province, a pledge which had been steadily redeemed from the first day of power. The licenses had been cut from 2,516 to 1,383 and $1 shop licenses had gone forever.

A recent meeting in a northern county, where a peculiar document, either ballot or funeral notice, had been circulated to a large extent. It bore the words, "Rowell and Reform or Whitney and Whiskey."

"Some one is responsible," said the speaker, "and the idea has been carried into politics in a fashion to be regretted."

Mr. Hanna then moved an amendment to the resolution declaring that the House recognized the necessity for curbing the liquor traffic, commending the local option laws and reaffirming belief in the efficacy of abolishing the treating habit.

Albert Grigg (Algoma) moved an amendment to the amendment, complimenting the Government on their administration.

Attacks On Protestants.

LONDON, April 15.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Irish despatches received yesterday tell of a number of outrages that have been committed upon members of the Protestant Church. Two Protestant farmers, Joseph McCartney and Andrew Agnew, of the Ulster volunteer force, were set upon near Ballygawley on Sunday night and severely beaten by a crowd returning from the Gaelic football match. Agnew was thrown into a ditch, and two men held McCartney, while two others beat him unconsciously.

TWO MEN ARE DEAD

Third May Not Live as Result of Collapse of Wall.

CLEARING AWAY FIRE DEBRIS

Two Foreign Workmen Are Crushed to Death and Five Badly Injured When Disaster Caused by Carelessness of Men Occurs in Independent Cloak Company's Building in Toronto.

TORONTO, April 9.—Two are dead, one is dying, and three workmen were seriously injured yesterday afternoon by the collapse of part of the west wall of the Independent Cloak Co.'s building on Richmond street west, near Bathurst street. The building had been gutted by fire in February and those killed and injured in the collapse of the wall were engaged in cleaning away the ruins before starting to tear down the walls.

The dead are: Harry Cohen, aged 26, 130 William street; identified by means of a civic employment card.

Jacob Sanders, aged 23, 4 Danvers avenue; identified by a man with whom he worked at the above address. The injured are: Benny Finkler, address not known; now at Western Hospital in a critical condition with terrible head and internal injuries; Antony Visconsky, at the Western Hospital, fractured left arm; Mike Kernitsky, at the Western Hospital, scalp wounds; Benjamin Blatrocky, at the Western Hospital, fracture of the knee cap and scalp lacerations; Max Najmal, at the Western Hospital, bone of the face fractured and other injuries about the body.

Part of the wall fell across a lane on the roofs of two adjoining houses, caving in the roof of 539 Richmond street west and filling the bath room with tons of debris. In a room at the rear of the house an infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sniderman was sleeping on a couch and narrowly escaped injury from falling plaster. Mr. and Mrs. Sniderman were working in a room at the front of the house, but were not injured. Bricks from the falling wall flew through windows on the ground floor of the house.

The cause of the catastrophe is not known, although acting City Architect Price and his employees, who were on the scene shortly after the accident, are of the opinion that it was caused by careless workmen. The Saturday following the fire Mr. Price and his men spent many hours in the ruins. They placed timbers and guy ropes on the building to prevent such an accident as this. Mr. Price thinks that some of the workmen, none of whom he could identify, must have pulled a joist from the ruins, causing the wall to cave in on them. His opinion is shared by members of the fire department.

On Tuesday eight men were employed in the building, and yesterday several more were taken on. They were all foreigners working on the third floor of the building save two who were on the east wall. But for a warning hoisted by Mr. J. A. Lendreville, 618 Richmond street west, the toll of death might have been greater. He was standing in front of his house when he saw the wall swaying gently. He realized the serious position of those in the building and shouted to them. The workmen heard him and endeavored to escape. Many of them reached safety, but seven of the men were caught by the falling wall and carried into the basement when the charred flooring on which they stood was unable to stand the weight of the falling debris.

NOTHING FOR MANITOBA.

Rates Decision Is All for Good of Sister Provinces.

OTTAWA, April 9.—The decision of the Railway Commission in the western freight rates case has elicited less comment and discussion than might have been anticipated. There was no reference to it in the House yesterday, and members of Parliament outside of the House were quite reticent.

Generally speaking, the judgment extends the principle established in the Regina rate case, and places the shippers of Saskatchewan and Alberta upon an equality with the shippers of Manitoba and main advantage distributing points, like Regina, Moose Jaw, Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge, which heretofore have been discriminated against by the railways in favor of Winnipeg.

But if some relief is afforded Saskatchewan and Alberta, no advantage is gained by Manitoba, which, indirectly at least, is injuriously affected.

Was Dead When Taken Out.

NIAGARA FALLS, April 9.—Mrs. C. E. Sanborn, of No. 445 Parkdale avenue, Buffalo, committed suicide in a sensational manner at the third St. Peter Island above the Falls at noon yesterday. She walked into the water and threw herself into the swift current, but was caught on a ledge of rocks.

Charles Martin, a policeman, who witnessed the woman's act, succeeded in drawing her to the shore with a pikepole after about ten minutes' effort. She was dead, however.

Saved Man From Drowning.

KINGSTON, April 9.—Norman Johnson saved George Simmons from drowning yesterday when he broke through the ice in the harbor. Simmons went on the ice to release a punt which had been frozen in all winter. When he went through Johnson crawled out on the thin ice and with a long pole succeeded in getting Simmons out.

KILLED BY STREET CAR.

Toronto Woman Falls From Seat Behind Motor-cyclist.

TORONTO, April 11.—While riding on the rear of a motor-cyclist driven by William Thompson, 90 1-2 Markham street, Mrs. Emma Belz, aged 19, of 90 Markham street, fell or jumped off the machine at the corner of Markham and Arthur streets at seven o'clock last evening and was killed instantly by eastbound Dundas car No. 2,000, driven by Motorman William Goodenough of 107 Laughton avenue. Both Goodenough and Thompson were arrested by the police of No. 3 division after the accident, and are being held on charges of criminal negligence. The accident occurred while the motor-cyclist was going south on Markham street, when at the corner of Arthur it was almost struck by the eastbound Dundas car.

The woman's body was dragged 100 feet beneath the car trucks before Motorman Goodenough brought his car to a stop.

One eye-witness to the accident gave his opinion to the police that the girl purposely fell off the machine, which she believed was about to be struck by the car. He said he thought he saw her push herself off the back seat, and prepare for the fall on the roadway. Instead of toppling backwards, however, she fell forward, directly across the north rail of the south track, and the next instant was lost to view beneath the car.

The dead woman was formerly a Miss Cosgrave, and after her marriage to Belz less than two years ago, the couple occupied rooms in her mother's apartment house at 90 Markham street. She leaves a 10-months' old baby.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

STRIKERS TO RETURN?

Referendum of Calumet Copper Miners Will Be Taken.

CALUMET, Mich., April 11.—Copper country locals of the Western Federation of Miners decided yesterday to take a referendum vote next Sunday on the question of calling off the strike which has been waged since July 23, 1913.

The action of the locals resulted from reports of the district officers which were submitted to five meetings held in various parts of the strike zone. It was said that the district officers informed the men that no more concessions could be expected from the copper mining companies.

It was also stated that the union rank and file would lead the companies have established a substantial eight-hour day and have arranged to bear grievances once a week. Recognition of the union, they said, had been steadily refused.

It was reported that some of the union members criticized the officers for not proposing the referendum a month ago when there was better chance of obtaining work.

Suffragette on Rampage.

LONDON, April 11.—With a butcher's cleaver, which she had concealed under her cloak, a suffragette started Thursday afternoon to demolish a glass case and its contents, consisting of valuable porcelains, in the Asiatic gallery of the British Museum. At the time there were few visitors in that section, and on this the suffragette doubtless counted for long enough freedom from interruption to complete the work of destruction.

But the sound of splintering glass carried far, and before she had struck many blows two attendants reached the spot and seized her and turned her over to the police.

Chatham Again Visited by Fire.

CHATHAM, Ont., April 11.—Starting from an explosion, the cause of which is unknown, fire yesterday morning completely destroyed the plant of the Canadian Wolverine Brass Co. on St. Clair street, causing a loss that is estimated by officers of the company at from $25,000 to $30,000. The fire is the most disastrous that has occurred in Chatham since the Planet disaster almost a year ago, but unlike that catastrophe, no lives were lost.

POLICY REAFFIRMED

Australia Will Keep to Her Ideal of a Home Navy.

CHURCHILL IS CRITICIZED

Hon. E. D. Millen, Minister of Defence for the Commonwealth, Says Admiralty Has Violated the 1910 Compact Without Notifying Australia—Japan Alliance Is No Solution of Problem.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 13.—Hon. E. D. Millen, Australian Minister of Defence, has issued on behalf of the Commonwealth Government an important and comprehensive statement on the whole question of Imperial naval defence, in which he severely criticizes Mr. Churchill's recent speech and emphatically defends the Australian policy.

Australia, declares the Minister, is irrevocably committed to an Australian navy policy and needs her own ships. If Churchill's references to battle cruisers mean that the British Government thinks such vessels are unnecessary in the Pacific, then a most startling departure has been made by the Admiralty from the agreement of 1910 between Australia and the Mother Country.

It is impossible, he proceeds, for the Commonwealth Ministers to accept the existence of the Japanese alliance as a reason for this departure. Mr. Millen cites instances in which the Admiralty has violated the 1910 compact without acquainting the Australian Government, and declares that while the Imperial aspect still cordially commends itself to the Australian people, the latter are also wedded to the local control and defence system, as determined five years ago. He insists that until the Australian unit is placed on a thoroughly sound foundation Mr. Churchill's suggested Imperial squadron will not appeal to Australian sentiment.

In concluding, Mr. Millen says that Mr. Churchill suggests a reversion to the discarded policy of a contribution. He quotes Admiral Sir Reginald Henderson, in his report with regard to the establishment of an Australian navy, who said that continuity of policy was essential. "Yet almost before the foundations of the policy inaugurated in 1909 have been laid we are urged to adopt a radical modification."

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

An international congress on the blind is planned for London, Eng., this summer on a date not yet fixed.

Abandonment of the British steamship Crocydon, which went ashore on April 6 off Barbuda Island, B.W.I., was decided on yesterday.

Gen. Carranza, his military staff, members of his Cabinet and a large number of clerks have left Juarez for Chihuahua, the new provisional capital.

Fire broke out Saturday in the Algonquin Hotel, at St. Andrews, N.B., owned by the C.P.R., and it was feared that the building would be destroyed.

That an application for clemency will be made on behalf of Jack Krafchenko was the statement made yesterday by J. P. Sunfield, counsel for the condemned man.

James Loveside, aged 32, was to have walked out from Toronto jail Saturday evening a free man, after serving a twenty-day sentence, but he died during the afternoon.

The American Surgical Association at its closing session Saturday in New York decided to hold the next annual meeting at Rochester, Minn. Dr. G. E. Armstrong, Montreal, was elected president.

Woodbridge ratepayers on Saturday passed a $6,000 bylaw to take one hundred horsepower of Hydro-Electric energy by a majority of 102, the vote for being 106, and the vote against four.

Attracted by muffled cries from the express car on a train at Little Rock, Ark., railway employees found the express messenger, William Ahning, locked in a trunk, bound and gagged and the safe in the car looted.

READY FOR STRIKE.

Italian Government Will Employ Army and Navy on Wednesday.

ROME, April 13.—In addition to the army the whole fleet will be employed to facilitate communications and maintain order in case a general strike is inaugurated by the railway employes on Wednesday next. In this way the Government hopes either to check the strike or minimize its effects.

In its attitude the Government appears to be supported by public opinion, which is not favorable to that section of the railway men which is adopting the employment of strong coercive measures.

The various organizations of civil service employes have already planned at what points to erect barricades and are in readiness to take possession of various offices. They believe that they have some of the army officers are under orders to join their regiments. Detachments have been concentrated at those places considered the most dangerous, especially in Milan and in Rome.

To Disbar Hagel.

WINNIPEG, April 13.—At a meeting of members of the Law Society of Manitoba, a resolution was passed that the solicitor to the society be instructed to take immediate steps to have Percy E. Hagel's name struck off the rolls of the society. Hagel is now serving a prison term for having, as counsel for Krafchenko, assisted the latter to escape from custody.

Bamford Goe To Asylum.

COBOURG, April 13.—Wm. Bamford, the lunatic who last week ran amok and tried to shoot up a town, was Saturday, on a warrant issued by the Lieutenant-Governor, transferred from Cobourg jail to the Hamilton Hospital for the Criminal Insane. As Bamford's insanity is hereditary it is not likely that his condition will improve.

Put Head In the Way.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 13.—For "placing an obstacle on the rail, thereby causing the train to stop," a peasant of Nijni Novgorod was fined $5. He was trying to commit suicide. The obstacle was his own head.

SISTERS IN DUNGEON.

Tragic Story Comes to Light in Italy After Eighteen Years.

NAPLES, April 13.—Investigation into the incarceration of the two sisters of Baron Domenico Camarda shows that the young women were placed in a dungeon in the Camarda castle by the father of the baron, who was arrested Friday, and that the latter on his father's death continued the treatment meted out to the girls because they had dishonored the family name.

The girls were placed in a dungeon in the family castle eighteen years ago, and one of them died after fifteen years' torture, while the other was found insane a few days ago.

It appears that Teresina Camarda was in love with an army officer, and that their child was killed by the order of the baron's father. Isobel, the other sister, also had an illicit love affair, but the father of her child is not known.

Both sisters were incarcerated in the dungeon of the castle near Mairato and ill-treated, being supplied with just enough food to keep them alive.

After the death of the old Baron Camarda, his eldest son, the present baron, took upon his hands the torturing of his erring sisters. In this he was abetted by his brother, Francesco, and his sisters Antonia and Garcia.

It was not until last February that rumors of the tragedy came to the ears of the police authorities. When the latter heard about the matter they demanded the keys to the castle or threat that if the keys were refused they would break down the walls. The police found Isobel in the dungeon completely nude and looking like a skeleton. There was at the time some plausible explanation of her condition, because she was handed over to her relatives with nothing more than a severe reprimand.

The investigating judge of Monteleone went to the place afterwards and found that Isobel had been again locked in the dungeon. She was taken from the castle and sent to the hospital of Girifalco, and the investigation into the whole circumstances of the case was begun. The physicians at the Monteleone hospital are endeavoring to ascertain from the woman in their charge the origin of the affair.

FEDERALS BEATEN

Villa Reports Another Victory at San Pedro, Near Saitillo.

GUILLOTINE AT THE FRONT

Gen. Gutierrez of the Constitutional Troops in San Luis Potosi Has Perfected a Machine for Execution of Huerta's Supporters When He Gets Them—Hard Battle at San Pedro.

JAUREZ, April 11.—As a climax of the second campaign of the Coahuila country the Federals, under De Moure and Maas, were driven out of San Pedro de Los Colonias and back to Saitillo. This information was relayed from the front last night by Gen. Villa, who has sent his chief commanders to San Pedro to overwhelm the Federal forces. After an eight days' battle between the Federal reinforcements from Monterey and Saitillo and the joint commands of Ortega, Hernandez and Benavides, the Federals were driven from the streets of San Pedro after the most severe hand-to-hand fighting, back into the desert beyond the irrigated district of San Pedro to the east. The losses on both sides were heavy, and the rebels suffered from lack of supplies and ammunition.

Ortega and Hernandez were twice forced to withdraw to their base at Sacramento, but renewed the attack with the receipt of supplies from Torreon, and finally drove the Federals out of their well-fortified positions.

Velasco, in command of the Torreon column and Hidalgo, who commanded at Saitillo, have formed a junction, and are now near Saitillo, having slipped around the San Pedro command of rebels before the battle started. They are preparing for an offensive campaign against Torreon, and will make an effort to drive Villa out of the town. They have the necessary elements, and with the supplies that are at Saitillo they can accomplish much against Villa's exhausted army.

The campaign against Saitillo has not yet been undertaken by Villa, who is holding his main column in Torreon and Gomez Palacio.

TORREON'S FALL ADMITTED.

MEXICO CITY, April 11.—The first admission that Gen. Villa and the rebel army have occupied Torreon was made by The Mexican Herald on Thursday. The newspaper, however, states that Gen. Aureliano Blanquet declares that Gen. Jose Refugio Velasco, the Federal commander, has not evacuated the city in the full sense of the word. The Minister of War says the Federal commander has made a strategic move which is expected to give the best results on the arrival of the Federal columns now on their way to Torreon.

WILL USE GUILLOTINE.

ELPASO, April 11.—Gen. Eulalia Gutierrez, who is in command of the San Luis Potosi district, held by the rebels, and is now in Juarez conferring with Carranza, was advised yesterday that his troops surrounding the city of San Luis Potosi Thursday killed 200 Federals, who attempted to make a sally out of the city against him.

Gen. Gutierrez yesterday described a guillotine which he has constructed for use on Federal prisoners when captured. "We tested it on sheep," he said, "and it worked beautifully." Asked if he had used it yet on a human being, he said, "No, not yet, but there are plenty of Federals and there is plenty of time." He said the machine was portable and would be carried on a flat car with his army.

TWO HUERTISTS EXECUTED.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, April 11.—Standing blindfolded on the brink of their open graves, Francisco Fimbres and Jose M. Canoba, members of a Huerta junta on the American side of the line, were executed in the cemetery yesterday. Fimbres was captured several days ago while carrying a message from the junta to Canoba, who was then at Monteruma.

TWO KILLED IN FALL.

Aviator and Woman Passenger Fall 200 Feet.

DRESDEN, April 11.—The German aviator, Reichelt, carried a woman passenger with him on a flight last evening. At a height of 200 feet the motor exploded and the monoplane shot blazing to earth. The woman was dead when extricated. Reichelt died in a hospital.

On several previous occasions the deceased aviator had narrow escapes from death. Once, in 1913, with a passenger aboard, when at a height of 6,000 feet, his motor stopped and he had to plane downward through a heavy fog in the darkness. He landed on a house, crushing the roof, but he and his passenger escaped injury.

Coin in Letters Permitted.

OTTAWA, April 11.—The recently issued order by the Postoffice Department that all letters containing coin which were transmitted through the mails were to be sent to the dead letter office unless registered has been suspended.

The new regulation caused much adverse criticism in the country, and a day or two ago the deputy minister, Dr. Coulter, stated that amounts up to one dollar would be accepted unregistered. An order has now been given out that letters containing coin are to be forwarded in the regular manner.

Old Paris Resident Dead.

PARIS, Ont., April 11.—Paris lost one of its oldest residents yesterday morning in the person of John Armstrong, who died, aged 90.

VILLA IN TROUBLE?

Hasty Departure For Scene of Battle Indicates a Crisis.

EL PASO, Texas, April 13.—Ciudad Parras, the Manchester of northern Mexico, is the battleground of the Federal and rebel forces. Communication has been cut from all directions, and only the most meagre details of the battle there have drifted through the censor at Torreon, who is holding every detail of Villa's troop movement away from the world. The situation is considered a serious one for the revolutionists. This is indicated by the departure of Villa from Torreon in a high-power limousine automobile at a time when he was most needed there to straighten out the tangle which resulted from the collapse of the Federal civil government and the substitution of military rule under rebel control. Parras is 58 kilometres southeast of Torreon, and all of the available men and elements are being rushed in that direction to crush the escaped enemy by weight of superior arms. The censorship is so strict that nothing of a military nature has been permitted to pass by telegraph, and only the most general descriptions of the battle at the Coahuila factory town can be obtained.

The one great fear of the rebels is that the Federal columns which left San Pedro after the rebels occupied it have swung about and are marching to the relief of Parras from the northeast with sufficient men and means to overwhelm Benavides' brigade before Villa's reinforcements under Gen. Angeles can advance to support the mounted brigade.

MADE AMENDS FOR ARRESTS.

MEXICO CITY, April 13.—Assurances were given last night by Minister of War Blanquet that the incident growing out of the arrest at Tampico Thursday of several American marines had been "satisfactorily arranged," although he did not say in what manner.

No information has been received here since Friday concerning the incident, and the members of the American embassy staff and American flag were saluted in accordance with the demands of Rear-Admiral Mayo.

URNS DOWN SUBSIDY.

Pelletier Refuses to Aid in Establishing British Shipyard.

QUEBEC, April 13.—While the Borden Government is ready and desirous to give every reasonable encouragement to the promotion of the shipbuilding industry in Canada, and will insist that all vessels for the Canadian service must be built within the confines of the Dominion in future, it has no intention of establishing a precedent by subsidizing wealthy and powerful British concerns to enter the Canadian field and compete with this added advantage against the companies already established. This was the substance of Hon. L. P. Pelletier's reply on Saturday to a delegation of Quebec and Lewis citizens who interview him with regard to the establishment of a branch of the Armstrong firm at Lauson, where the new drydock is to be built.

Mr. Gravel, president of the Lewis Board of Trade and member of the Quebec Harbor Commission, put the case for a subsidy before the Minister, telling of the negotiations which are being carried on with the Armstrongs and urging that a steel shipbuilding plant would be almost a necessity to the drydock, as the repair of damaged vessels would call for the permanent employment of a staff of experienced shipwrights and a well-equipped plant.

LOSS IS CONFIRMED.

Wreckage Reported Indicates Sinking of Southern Cross.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 13.—Floating wreckage, believed to have come from the missing sealer Southern Cross, was reported by the sealer steamer Bloodhound, which arrived yesterday. The Bloodhound passed a large quantity of wreckage Saturday afternoon about 100 miles southeast of this port. It had apparently been washed from a sealer's deck, but as the crew of the Bloodhound had not heard of the loss of the Southern Cross no effort was made to identify it.

The steamer Kyle, which has been searching in the vicinity of Cape Race, was notified by wireless yesterday of the position of the wreckage, and started immediately for the scene.

OKUMA IS POPULAR.

TOKIO, April 13.—The selection of Count Shigenobu Okuma, Japan's foremost progressive, who is engaged in forming a Cabinet to replace that of which Count Yamamoto was head, has created a profound impression. All classes consider that it denotes the dawn of a new epoch in Japanese history in the direction of a more representative government.

Business men especially are pleased with the choice of Count Okuma by the elder statesmen, and the stock market is buoyant.

Postman Brother Visits Pope.

ROME, April 13.—For two weeks Pope Pius will enjoy the companionship of his brother, Angelo Sarto, who has abandoned his duties as a postman for that length of time that he may be near the pontiff.

After the first visit to the Vatican Signor Sarto said his brother appeared greatly pleased on seeing him, and with all cheerfulness and resignation remarked that he supposed this would be the last Easter they will spend together.

Montreal Greeks Celebrated.

MONTREAL, April 13.—In the little Greek Church on St. Lawrence boulevard, Greek citizens of Montreal yesterday celebrated the 92nd anniversary of the independence of their country, which followed the war of 1821.

Paralyzed Woman Nearly Perishes.
WINDSOR, Ont., April 11.—A fire which broke out in the grocery store of James Barker, on Howard avenue, yesterday, completely destroyed the building and almost resulted in the death of Mrs. Barker, who is a paralytic. She was carried to safety just as the flames reached the room in which she was lying helpless in bed. The conflagration resulted from the throwing of a match near a gasoline tank at the rear of the store by Mr. Barker, who had been attempting to thaw out a frozen water pipe.

A DIRECT AND MOST EFFECTIVE TREATMENT For Cold in the Head and Catarrh

Some internal remedies, such as Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linsseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, undoubtedly help a great deal in checking a cold in the head. But you get the quickest action from Fossal Balm.

This is applied directly and conveniently through the new nozzle-shaped end of the collapsible tube in which it is put up. This little nozzle reaches well up into the nostril, and a gentle squeeze on the tube discharges enough of the Fossal Balm to spread over the membrane lining the nasal passages, kill the germs of the cold or catarrh, soothe the smarting inflammation, make breathing through the nostrils free and easy, and check the cold or relieve the catarrh at once.

The fact that this new means of applying the Fossal Balm is so handy, and gets it right up where it is needed, adds much to the value of this splendid remedy.

An Eugenic Failure

Wisconsin's new Eugenic Marriage Law, the drastic nature of which has aroused so much comment, has been ruled as unconstitutional in the courts of the state, and is now a dead letter. A citizen of the state provoked the issue in the courts after being refused a marriage license because of his failure to produce the required health certificate.

The fate of this law carries with it a moral to all who insist arbitrarily upon drastic legislation to put into practice the principles of eugenics. The courts held that the discredited was unreasonable and a material impairment of the inalienable right of the fit to enter upon the marriage state. As a matter of cold fact, hardly more than one per cent. of the physicians of Wisconsin were equipped to make the health test laid down in this law as essential to legal marriage.

BUDGET IS LESSON

It Shows Canadians What to Expect, Says J. G. Turriff.

HOUSE TAKES A HOLIDAY

Last Debate on Budget Before Easter Recess Is Participated In by Western Member and Mr. Cocksbutt of Brantford—Senator Melvin-Jones Comes In For Some Caustic Comment In House.

OTTAWA, April 9.—The House adjourned yesterday for a week after hearing speeches by J. G. Turriff, the Liberal member for Assiniboia and W. F. Cocksbutt, the Conservative member for Brantford.

"A raw cold deal for the farmers and the common people, with everything for the interests," was Mr. Turriff's description of the budget. "The manufacturers get everything, and the rest of Canadians get nothing and pay more. However, I am not going to blame the Premier or Minister of Finance. They were not elected under false colors. They are protectionists and servers of the corporations. But the people are getting a serious lesson as to what it means to elect men of that ilk to handle their public affairs."

"The refusal of the Finance Minister to do anything reasonable or fair for the farmers in the matter of agricultural implements synchronized with the party flap-over of Senator Jones. If there was any man in Canada who had good reason to stand by the Liberal party it was this man. When some years ago the Liberal Government decided to make some reductions in the tariff he was granted a drawback, and last year the Massey-Harris Company, according to the Auditor-General's report, received some $165,000 in drawbacks. But because Liberalism believes that the time has come to grant free implements to the farmers, this man, who has had all the favors, turns upon them. He was made Senator and knighted by the kindly offices of the former Government. I don't know that the present leader of the Opposition put the hyphen in his name, but he did almost everything else for him.

Then the storm broke. Several Government members shouted sentences inaudible for the noise.

There was an avalanche of expressions. "Selfish," "spoiled sinner," was the alliterative comment of one western Conservative.

Mr. Cocksbutt followed in defense of the national policy. He said the farmer was never so well off as he is to-day. Mr. Turriff and other western Liberals were continually talking about the grievances of the grain growers, and demanding free wheat.

They seemed to forget that eighty per cent. of the farmers of the country lived in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and were a unit against removing the wheat and the flour duties.

The Liberal party, Mr. Cocksbutt declared, in conclusion, in attacking almost every industry was following a policy of destruction instead of a policy of construction. At this time, of all others, it was important to steady our business enterprises and encourage capital to invest. If the factories ran full time and the railways had plenty of traffic to carry, the farmer would benefit from a splendid home market, and better times and greater prosperity would soon return to Canada.

Premier Borden has gone to Atlantic City for the Easter recess and will not return until April 20. Hon. Martin Burrell and Chairman Drayton of the Railway Commission have gone there also. Col. Hughes has gone south and Hon. C. J. Doherty will go to Winnipeg in connection with the St. Peter's Indian Reserve case. It is understood that C. F. Fullerton, K.C., of Winnipeg, who was to have handled the case for the Government finds himself unable to act.

Hon. J. D. Hazen will go to St. John, Hon. J. D. Reid to Prescott, and the others will be in Ottawa most of the week. Hon. T. W. Crothers is still in bed. He has been dangerously ill of erysipelas, but is now recovering.

PROVINCE GETS CONTROL

B. C. Wins Suit for Ownership of Coastal Properties.

VANCOUVER, April 9.—Judgment favoring the Province of British Columbia, was handed down yesterday morning in the case of the Attorney-General of Canada vs. the Attorney-General of British Columbia, over the right to control the Spanish banks, by Justice Macdonald, in the Supreme Court. The case was dismissed with costs against the Dominion Government. In his judgment Judge Macdonald ruled that English Bay is not a public harbor and is, therefore, under control of the provincial and not the Dominion Government.

The matter is of great importance to local fishery and harbor affairs and means that the valuable deposits of Spanish bank will not go to the Silica Sand Co., to which the Federal Government gave a lease.

Nationalist Move "Big With Danger." LONDON, April 9.—The development of the Nationalist volunteers in Ireland is beginning to attract the attention of Unionist journalists.

After a tour of Nationalist Ireland one capable observer declares that the movement is "big with danger." The force has been organized since December by Sir Roger Casement, the consul who exposed the horrors of the slave traffic at Putumayo, and John McNeill, a professor at the Irish National University, who have spread the net so well that cities, towns and hamlets in all parts of Ireland are within its mesh.

LABELLED BY CARLYLE

The Tag He Plastered Upon a Famous English Historian.

In the "Letters of Charles Elliot Norton" is this amusing epistle, which was written by Norton in 1873:

The other day Froude said to me: "It's a great shame that some one shouldn't keep a record of Carlyle's talk. He never fails to say something memorable or admirably humorous. Why, he called somebody the other day 'an inspired red herring.'"

"Pray," said I, "who is it that deserves such a label?" But Froude had forgotten. * * * Some days afterward I asked Carlyle to whom he had applied the phrase, but he had forgotten and said he trusted he was not to be made accountable for all the extravagant phrases he had uttered in talk—there would be "terra many to rise in judgment" against him—but he wouldn't disown "the inspired red herring."

I told all this to Forster, abutting Froude at the same time, much to Carlyle's amusement, which was increased when Forster broke out: "By heavens, my dear Norton, I heard that previous utterance, but I, too, have forgotten to whom it was fitted. Mrs. Forster will remember." But when we went to the drawing room Mrs. Forster could not remember, and Forster called down wrath on her and himself. The next morning the post brought me a note from him at breakfast time, which contained only the name Henry Thomas Buckle.

ENGLAND'S BLACK MEN.

They Are Remnants of the Ancient Blue Painted Britons.

Practically every Englishman is Anglo-Saxon by blood, but there still are, according to scientists, one or two corners in England where there are colonies directly descended from the ancient Britons, the blue painted men who, according to the history books, inhabited England before the Anglo-Saxons killed them off.

If you came across them you would at once notice something curious about them. They do not look like Englishmen at all. They are short, as swarthy as Spaniards, with very narrow heads and with curiously cut profiles.

There are whole villages of these modern ancient Britons, though the villages are very few and very out of the way. It is this out of the wayness that has kept them so distinct from the country people around them.

Some of these villages have not even had road communication with the rest of the world till comparatively recent times.

One of these curious colonies is at Dunsfold, in Surrey, Bedfordshire, too, has some villages of "black men."—London Tit-Bits.

Confusion.

Three ladies as they shot in an observation car Californiaward through the superb scenery in the world fell to talking about dogs.

"I don't know a thing about dogs," said the first lady. "They're all just dogs to me. If I have a preference, though, it's for the cob."

"Cobs are nice—so affectionate," agreed the second lady. "But I'm no dog sharp either. Still I must say my choice of a dog would be a mustang. They're such good watch dogs, aren't they?"

"I don't know one dog from another," said the third lady. "I just divide them into big dogs and little dogs. I'm very fond of a hackney, though—I mean, of course, for a lap dog."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Her Superior English.

James Ross and his daughter Janet from Canada visited relatives in Chicago recently. Day after day Janet and her father went sightseeing, always together.

Janet's aunt, noticing this, one day suggested that she let her father go downtown alone some time, jokingly adding, "Men do not like to have women always tagging along."

"Aye, ahnty, but he wants me," explained Janet earnestly. "He canna thole to stir out o' the hoose his lane. Ye wadna believe hoo fast he is ony where wi'oot me. Ye see, father taak's sic braid Scotch that stranger folk dinna ken what it's a' about, an' I hae tae gang wi' him tae dae the conversin'."—Everybody's.

Not So Dutiful.

"Where will Mrs. Dobs go now that both her daughters are married—to her son-in-law's house in Birmingham or to that of her son-in-law in Leeds?" "One wants her in Birmingham, and the other wishes she would go to Leeds."

"What dutiful sons-in-law!" "I beg your pardon. The one in Birmingham wants her in Leeds; the one in Leeds wants her in Birmingham."—London Tit-Bits.

The Basis of Society.

Wrong Again.

"How about the antique furniture?" asked the Fool.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE OLD STAGE HERO.

He of the Mid-Victorian Age Has Gone From Us Forever.

The stage hero of the mid-Victorian age went on all the available articles of furniture when his manly heart was wrong. He was certain to observe a noble silence at exactly the wrong time, enabling the gay and glittering gentlemen who was more than suspected of being an atheist to get the girl. He was cross once in awhile, when he was keeping another's secret at the expense of his own character and somebody took him at his word.

But oh, how dependable he was! How sure to meet a train or make an excellent omelet if the fragile heroine had mislaid the cookbook! How strong he was and how fond of carrying people upstairs. How well he brought up his first wife's children if he was a widower, or the heroine if he was her guardian!

He will not come again—not he nor such as he. He has passed, always with a certain dignity, his heroine's drooping curls brushing his protecting arm, into the country of last year's snow, and year before last's presidential candidate, and all forgotten, irrecoverable things. And, as his favorite author, the Swan of Avon, said, "We shall not gaze upon his like again."—Atlantic.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

All the Land in Great Britain or Calico to Cover It?

If—and don't forget the "if"—you were offered as a present either all the land in the United Kingdom or a piece of cheap, common calico of the same area, which would you choose?

Probably, without a moment's hesitation, you would say, "The land" and would imagine that you had got very much the better of the bargain. From one point of view, of course, this would be so, for land lasts longer than does calico. On the other hand, however, you would be choosing very much the cheaper of the two offered gifts.

The land of the United Kingdom, including town areas, is estimated to be worth £2,500,000,000. A piece of cheap calico of the same size as the United Kingdom would cost more than £9,000,000,000.

Difficult to believe, isn't it? Still, the facts cannot be denied. Average agricultural land may be reckoned as being worth £20 an acre; building land, say, twenty-five miles from Charing Cross, £100 an acre; ten miles from Charing Cross, £500 an acre. Now, a common calico costs £121 an acre, a good calico £200, while a good quality flannel costs £750 and an ordinary Turkey carpet £3,600 an acre.—London Answers.

The Spy in the Reading Room.

An interesting story reaches me, says a London correspondent, of an agent of the Russian imperial police having been stationed in the reading room of the British museum for the purpose of noting the arrival of revolutionaries in England. The type of man who is driven out of Russia is generally the intellectual, and the reading room is probably the first place he seeks out after his arrival in London. My informant tells me that the spy used only recently to sit at a desk near the door, whence he could observe everybody that entered and used to work his way steadily through the monumental catalogue of the museum, taking out books which he opened, but did not read, in alphabetical order.

Welcomes a Whistle.

"It may be ag'in th' statoots," said "Big Barney" O'Toole as he lolled in the assembly room of a police station. "but when I'm poundin' th' pavement after midnight there's nothin' I like better to hear out 'f a laad than a good healthy whistle. A laad what's pipin' a tune about his love or th' Blue Ridge mount'n's o' Virginia is seldom up t' anny diviltry. When a crook has somethin' on his mind he ain't advertisin' himself so ye can loosen yer grip on th' locust. When ye hears th' laad wi' th' whistle he's yer fr'nd."—New York Tribune.

She Would Get Even.

Tired out with an afternoon's shopping, the mother sat back in her easy chair to recite in detail the afternoon's experiences to a sympathetic home circle.

"And to cap it all I met that horrid Annie Green, and she was very impudent to me as usual," she wailed.
"The mean thing," sympathetically snapped out six-year-old Ella. "Why didn't you impudent her right back?"—New York Sun.

No One to Lean On.

"What's the matter, Tommy?"
"Oh, I'm tired of school. I'd like to go to bed for a week."
"Why, how's that?"
"Well, you see, I'm in a very awkward position. I was next to the boy at the bottom of the class—and he's left."—Manchester Guardian.

TREATY IS RENEWED

Arbitration Between Britain and U. S. Goes On Five Years.

NO ALTERATION IN TEXT

Ambassador Spring-Rice and Secretary of State Bryan Exchange Ratifications and Finally Affix Their Signatures to the Document—Suggestion of Year's Notice Is Not Adopted.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Secretary Bryan and Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, yesterday exchanged ratifications of the arbitration treaty which will continue for another five years.

The original form of the treaty of 1908 was preserved without change.

Great Britain advanced the suggestion that there be incorporated in the terms of the treaty a provision similar to that contained in various commercial treaties by which the life of the treaty continues until one year after notification from one or the other of the contracting parties that that party desires to terminate the agreement. This proposition was not objectionable to this Government, but the necessity of sending the treaty to the Senate for ratification and the possible entanglements likely to arise in the present stress of feeling over the tolls question dictated the wisdom of adhering to the old form and not trying to attempt any new arrangement.

Secretary Bryan signed the treaty for the United States and Ambassador Spring-Rice performed the same function for the British crown.

MEAN ROBBER SENTENCED.

Wealthy Newark Man Specialized in Women's Jewelry.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Edward Mendel, a millionaire Jewell-Hyde, who was a respected iron and steel merchant in Newark by day and a thug in New York by night, was yesterday sentenced to spend the next eighteen years of his life in Sing Sing prison. Mendel, who in Newark was a member of many fraternal orders and clubs, lured Mrs. Pauline Koetzel to an upper west side freight yard in New York and there her diamond earrings from her ears. He was captured as he was running from the yard.

In court later three other women identified him as the thug who had similarly assaulted and robbed them. Many letters and petitions from Newark clubs and associations came to the judge who sentenced Mendel. All these insisted some mistake had been made.

RIOTERS ARE LIBERATED.

Twenty-Two More Vancouver Island Miners Get Freed.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., April 11.—Twenty-two Ladysmith miners, sentenced to varying terms in jail for participation in the riots on Vancouver Island last August, by Judge Ho-way, at Nanaimo, have been released from the Burnaby prison farm at Okalla, orders to that effect having reached the warden from the Department of Justice at Ottawa.

With the release of these men the last of those convicted of participation in the disorders are at liberty, save Joe Angelo, who was given a penitentiary term by Justice Morrison at the close of the special session here a fortnight ago, and five given penitentiary sentences by Judge Ho-way at Nanaimo.

APPROVES TURKISH LOAN.

France Is To Get Commercial Concessions In Return.

PARIS, April 11.—The French Government yesterday signed an agreement approving of a French loan to Turkey, according to a semi-official announcement. In return for the loan France is to be accorded certain economic advantages, the nature of which has not yet been disclosed. The amount of the new loan and the terms of which it is to be issued also have been kept secret.

David Bey, former Turkish Minister of Finance, who has been engaged in negotiations for the loan in Paris for the past six months is to leave shortly for Constantinople to arrange for the issue by the Sultan of a decree authorizing the transaction.

Stole To Help Sick Wife.

NEW YORK, April 11.—As he left the bedside of his wife in the Presbyterian Hospital, Sigmond Hauer, of 402 East 69th street was arrested on Thursday on a charge of grand larceny. His employers, Gottlieb Bros., of 22 and 24 West 27th street, alleged that he stole fur valued at about $600. According to Detectives Baner-schmidt and Tait the prisoner confessed, saying, "My wife was in the hospital and I needed the money for an operation."

Two British Cardinals?

LONDON, April 11.—According to Rome despatches to-day two British subjects are to be created cardinals at the forthcoming consistory next month.

Archbishop Bruchesi, who recently had an audience with the Pope and Archbishop Carr of Melbourne, are named as the most likely recipients of the honor.

Alaska Bill Signed.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—President Wilson yesterday extended what he termed the hand of real "helpfulness and brotherhood to Alaska" when he signed the bill authorizing the expenditure of $35,000,000 for the first Government-owned railway constructed by the United States.

WOMEN CLOSED BARS.

First Equal Franchise Poll In Illinois Hit Publicans Hard.

CHICAGO, April 9.—Women voting for the first time in Illinois Township elections demonstrated their power Tuesday by closing the doors of more than a thousand saloons outside of Chicago, adding 16 counties to the 30 already dry and barring the sale of intoxicants in approximately 200 of the 300 townships in which local option was an issue.

Their victory included 11 of the larger cities of the state, including Springfield, the state capital, which, until the votes were counted Tuesday, night were wet territory.

Approximately 70 per cent. of the women voters favored the anti-saloon ticket, while male voters divided approximately 60 per cent. wet and 40 per cent. dry.

Minnesota anti-saloon advocates were elated yesterday over victories in most of the cities of the fourth class, which held local option elections. Even St. Peter, where saloons have operated for more than sixty years, was swept into the dry column.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

A petition against Home Rule signed by adult Australians will shortly be presented to Premier Asquith; 75,000 signatures have already been received.

The election of Mederic Martin, M.P., as mayor of Montreal, will probably mean that he will have to resign his seat in the House of Commons at Ottawa.

The death has occurred in Montreal of Miss Edith Eaton, who wrote short stories of Chinese life in the United States under the nom de plume of Sin Sin Far.

Lord Joicey of Ford Castle, Northumberland, has just purchased 10,000 acres of veteran's lots in Northern Ontario. The sale was made through a large London firm.

The neighborhood of Richibucto, N.B., was visited by the worst storm of the season yesterday. There is four feet of snow in the woods and the banks about town are the highest for years.

Sir William Stephens is to be the Liberal candidate for West Salford division of Lancashire, succeeding Sir George Agnew, the present member, who intends retiring at the close of this Parliament.

Mme. Vitz, a prisoner in St. Lazare jail, Paris, was yesterday sent to an insane asylum, having become demented in consequence of her belief that favors were granted by the authorities to Mme. Caillaux.

Capt. Herre, a French military aviator, and a Lieutenant he was carrying as a passenger, were hacked to death yesterday near Rabat by insurgent Moors after they had escaped uninjured from an aeroplane accident in the desert.

WOULD BANISH BAR.

Petition Signed by 9,000 Conservatives Presented at Toronto.

TORONTO, April 9.—Requesting legislation to abolish all liquor shops, bar and club licenses in Ontario, and one year later the submission of the question of prohibition to a plebiscite of the people, a deputation of the Ontario Young Manhood Association, headed by Dr. H. A. McKim of Toronto, presented a petition containing 9,000 signatures to the Ontario Government yesterday. In an address accompanying the petition it was pointed out that unless the Government would in some degree accede to their requests, the signers of the petitions who said they were all Conservatives, would have to ally themselves with the opposite party.

Hon. Mr. Foy, as acting Premier, replied. The Government, he said, realized the evils of intemperance as well as anybody, and wished to minimize them and check the use of liquor as much as possible, but he did not think abolition of bars would stop drinking.

Hon. W. J. Hanna said that the Government had further restrictions under consideration which could not be announced as yet.

RACE IS HELD UP.

Carlow County Farmers Get Back at Curragh Camp Officers.

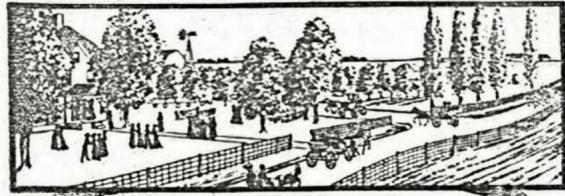

LONDON, April 9.—Announcement was made last night that the popular Irish race meeting, Carlow Hunt Sportsmen races had been abandoned under very remarkable circumstances. One of the prizes offered for competition at the meeting is a military cup. Notices were yesterday served on the promoters of the races of a resolution which was passed on Sunday last by the Tullow branch of the United Irish League. It read that "in view of the attitude assumed by military officers at Curragh in connection with the Home Rule bill, we farmers of County Carlow protest against their racing over our lands in the future and request that the military cup be withdrawn from the program of the Carlow Hunt Sportsmen's races."

Asquith Is Again In House.

LONDON, April 9.—Premier Asquith again became a member of the House of Commons yesterday, when he was returned unopposed by his old constituency of East Fife, Scotland. At noon, as no other candidate had put in an appearance, the returning officer of the constituency declared Mr. Asquith duly elected once more for the constituency he has represented in the lower House since 1886.

Sclater Succeeds L'Etart.

LONDON, April 9.—Lt.-Gen. Sir Henry Crichton Sclater has been appointed adjutant-general to succeed Gen. Sir John Ewart, who resigned with Field Marshal Sir John French because of the Ulster difficulty.

Good Roads Improve Social Conditions

NO matter what your station in life or where you live, a certain amount of your time must be spent in pleasure to make life worth the living, and to obtain that pleasure you go to town or to your neighbors—especially is this true when living in the country.

Good Roads enable you to get into town or to your neighbors quicker, more often and without you or your horses or vehicles being covered with mud, and without regard to weather conditions or season. They enable your family physician to get to you quickly in times of illness. They enable your children to "foot it" to school every school-day. They keep your boys and girls on the farm by giving them better conditions generally.

Concrete Roads

are "every-day" roads—they have no "closed season" because they are open to traffic every day in the year. They are the most economical roads because they reduce the cost of maintenance to the minimum. They are easy of traction, clean, hard and free of ruts and holes. They keep your road money out of the mud.

Let us send you, without cost, complete information about concrete roads.

SENTENCED TO JAIL.—Smith and Wilson, the two boy burglars, who operated in Lindsay, came up before Magistrate Jackson yesterday morning for sentence. Wilson got six months at Guelph Farm on each of the seven charges, the sentences to run concurrently. Smith received two years less one day at the same institution, on the charge of entering and robbing Britton's Jewellery store and six months on each of the other charges. The sentences in this case also to run concurrently.

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE.—A Cobourg man, named A Bell, passing through Brockville last night to Kingston, was flim-flamed out of $35 in making change of a fifty-dollar bill for a stranger at the Grand Trunk depot. Upon counting his money he found that he had only $15 instead of $50, and a hurried search for the bunco man, which followed, failed to reveal his whereabouts. The police have been furnished with a description of the artist, who is said to be 5 feet 7 inches tall, clean shaven and dark complexion.—Brockville Times.

WASN'T NEAR SCENE.

Gunman Made Anti-mortem Statement—Exonerates Becker.

ALBANY, N.Y., April 14.—Shortly before "Dago Frank" Cirofici went to the death chair in Sing Sing prison early yesterday, he told Warden Clancy that "Gyp the Blood," Horowitz, "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg and Harry Vallon, the informer, fired the shots which killed Herman Rosenthal, for which crime the four gunmen paid their lives.

The formal statement of the warden is in part as follows:

"About eight o'clock Sunday night Rosenberg asked me to save Frank, saying he had nothing to do with the shooting, as he was not there. I went over and asked Frank why he did not tell the truth. He replied that he did not know what was going on, but was not there when the shooting took place. I advised him to tell the whole story. He said if he did they would kill his brother. I asked whom he meant by 'they.' He replied that there were fifty men in New York he could name. He said, 'I don't care about myself; it's my family I care for.'"

"He finally made the following, among other statements, the presence of myself, Principal Keeper McInery, the chaplain, his mother and sister. They urged him to tell the whole truth. He hesitated and said: 'I don't want to make any statement for the public. I do not fear for myself, but I do fear for you.'"

"His sister replied: 'Don't have any fear for us; we will take care of ourselves; God will protect us.'"

"His mother and sister continued to urge him to tell the truth. He said: 'I did not do the shooting. The men who fired the shots were Gyp, Louie and Vallon.'"

"He said: 'I was five miles away at the time. So far as I know Becker had nothing to do with the case. It was a gamblers' fight.'"

The executions of the four men began at 5.27 yesterday morning and in forty minutes all were dead. The only statement at the last was made by Frank Seldenshner ("Whitney" Lewis), who declared that he did not shoot at Rosenthal.

DEATH CLAIMS BROTHERS.

Pioneers Who Gave Name To Davisville Die Almost Together.

TORONTO, April 14.—Two brothers, F. H. Davis, aged 74, 32 Joseph street, Davisville, and A. J. Davis, 76 years, 12 Imperial street, North Toronto, died within four hours of each other yesterday.

Both of them were old residents and well-known figures in North Toronto, their father, the late John Davis, being the first postmaster of Davisville.

The late A. J. Davis died from the effects of an accident which occurred on Saturday. He was crossing the corner of Shaftesbury avenue and Yonge street when he was run down by a wagon belonging to the Canadian Transfer Co. and so severely injured that death resulted yesterday morning at his home.

The late A. J. Davis was associated for many years with the pottery works in Davisville but had retired from business a few years ago.

F. H. Davis, whose death occurred at 7.30 yesterday morning had been living in retirement for many years, and previous to his death had been in bad health for about eight months. He is survived by one brother, four sons, John J., Fred, H., C. R. and H. B., all of Toronto, and two daughters, Alice, and Mary (Mrs. John Cook).

The funeral of F. H. Davis will take place on Wednesday at three o'clock to Mount Pleasant cemetery, and that of his brother on Thursday to the same place.

A Severe Sentence.

LINDSAY, April 15.—"Les" McGilvray, found guilty of dropping carbon bisulphide, a poisonous gas, in a glass of beer about to be swallowed by Jim Gostlin, his friend, was sentenced by Judge McMillan to two years. The purpose of the dose was to temporarily "knock out" Gostlin to permit of robbery.

POLICE COURT.—The resident of Clarke who was assaulted in the Ontario House last Thursday, is unable to leave the hospital yet. The man who it is alleged committed the assault, appeared in Court Saturday, but the case was adjourned until next Saturday, bail being fixed at $2,000.

LARGE PRICES.—A silver salt cellar from the late Lord Ashburnham's collection was sold for $28,000 at Christie's auction rooms, London. The treasure, which dates from Henry VII., is believed to be the earliest standing salt cellar in existence. Its height, with the cover, is 12 1/2 inches, but it weighs only 30 ounces. A pair of Charles II. bottles brought at the same sale $14,500.

THE RIGHT VIEW.—BUT A KNOCK.—And so Ottawa is going to drink filtered Ottawa water rather than pure water from the Laurentian Hills! Alas, poor Ottawa! And ultimately Ottawa will have to get its water supply from the same hills, and in all probability at greater cost than at present.

A WARNING.—Chief Constable Richards has received numerous complaints about young men loitering about the doorways of stores. This is against the law and the Chief desires that all persons guilty of the same take warning from this notice and discontinue the practice.

TAKEN TO THE MERCER.—Thursday Governor Balfour left for Port Hope with Hazel Reid, the unfortunate girl who was arrested some days ago in Lindsay, and who was sentenced to the Mercer. At Port Hope she was taken in charge by the Lady Provincial Bailiff who will take her to the Mercer Reformatory.—Lindsay Post.

PAINTED CANARIES.—Saturday night 100 homes in Hastings N.Y. rejoiced in the possession of a canary bird. Every bird had been bought that day from a travelling peddler and every one cost the buyer one dollar. Sunday the golden coats of the birds began to fade, and Monday morning each was a gray bird and the gray was that of the well known English sparrow. The pedlar who sold the painted canaries his left town and is not expected to return.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO MCGRAW'S SALARY WAS $360.—Twenty-five years ago John J. McGraw was just breaking in as a professional ball player. His contract was with the Olean, N.Y. team and for six months of service he was paid $360. Now he is about to set out on a journey which will wind up in October with a new record in copping four successive National League pennants and incidentally he will receive $5,000 a month while turning the trick.

APPLE PRICES.—Durham Co-operative Apple Growers' Association handled 8,000 barrels last season. Proceeds from the shipments made were divided among growers on the basis of grades. For No. 1 Spy, Snow, McIntosh, they received $3.90; for No. 2 of the same and No. 1 Baldwin, Greening, Stark and Wagner, $3.20; for No. 1 Bellflowers, Tolman, and No. 2 Baldwin, Greening, Stark and Wagner, $2.50; for No. 1 Ben Davis and fall varieties, $2.90; for No. 2 of the same, $2.20; for No. 3 Spy, King, Snow, McIntosh, $2; for No. 3 of all other varieties, $1.75.

"BOOST OR BUST."—Sarnia's new motto, "Boost or Bust," is working out to perfection, according to a report of the officials of the Board of Trade, who inaugurated a whirlwind campaign to strengthen the membership and secure a large amount of money for the further advancement of the industrial life of the town. Tuesday two committees started on the work of canvassing the town for subscriptions, and so far they have secured $3,000, and more has been promised. The campaign is aiming at $10,000. The donations were secured from the various manufacturers of the city and from business firms, the largest amount being a gift of $300 from the Imperial Oil Company, while the smaller concerns of the town donated sums ranging from $50 up. The membership of the Board has been increased from 200 to 600 in two days, and it will be boosted until it reaches the 1,000 mark.

GRASS FIRE.—Boys holidaying from school and dry grass everywhere in evidence is a combination that always makes trouble. Monday, a grass fire on Hagerman street gave the firemen a run, but no damage was done.

EASTER MONDAY DANCE.—"Practice makes perfect" is an old saying which held good in the case of the Easter Monday dance. Port Hope has been favored with many dances this season but the closing one Monday evening will be remembered by all as the very best. The crowd was large, the floor ideal and music simply grand. The large dance hall and the lunch room looked beautiful in their elaborate decorations and the Committee in charge are deserving of every praise.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—As John McManus was driving through the woods the other day a small branch was caught in some portion of the harness without his noticing it, and upon its liberation sprung back and struck him in the face across both eyes with such force as to completely destroy the sight in one eye and to severely injure the other, and upon consulting a physician he was recommended to go at once to Toronto Hospital for treatment. To add to this misfortune, the next day after Mr McManus went to the hospital his son, William, had one of his eyes nearly destroyed by the bursting of a gun when he was shooting a crow.—Newcastle Independent.
