POLICE COURT

Magistrate White Convicted Proprietor of Queen's Under Third Offence

Case Will be Appealed

Our report of the Police Court proceedings last week, in which it stated that Magistrate White changed the information from a third offence to a first, was incorrect. The Magistrate informed the Guide next morning that he found the proprietor of the Queen's Hotel guilty of a third offence and imposed the minimum penalty.

Clause 92 section 1 of the Liquor License Act reads as follows.—

After three several convictions within a period of two years for offences against sections 54, 55 or 56 of the Liquor License Act or section 26 of this Act or against any section of the Liquor License Act for the contravention of which the penalty or punishment is provided by section 72 or section 86 of the said Act, whether such convictions were for the same offence or for different offences so long as a second of such convictions was for an offence committed after the first of such convictions, and the third of such convictions was for an offence committed after such second conviction, the Board shall within one month from the date of the last of such convictions; or in the event of an appeal from such convictions and the confirmation thereof upon such appeal, by resolution declare that the license held by any license holder is cancelled and such license holder shall thereafter for the full period of three years be disqualified from obtaining or holding any further or other license under this Act; provided that nothing in this section contained shall affect the liability to forfeiture of a license in any other case provided for by this Act; nor relieve the offender from any other penalty imposed by this Act.

Subsection 2 of this clause reads: In case the Board refuses or neglects to declare such license cancelled after having been notified in writing so to do by the minister or by any municipal elector of the municipality in which the license premises are situate, the members of the Board shall severally be liable to a penalty of $100.00 which may be recovered with full costs of suit in an action to be tried by a Judge without a jury in any court of competent jurisdiction by any person who may sue therefor, and one-half of every penalty so recovered shall be paid to His Majesty for the uses of the Province and one-half shall be paid to the person bringing such action. Provided that no member of the Board shall be found liable for such penalty and costs, who shows to the Court at the trial of such action that he voted for the cancellation of such license or did all that could be done by him to procure such cancellation.

The aftermath of the Queen's Hotel case was heard in the Police Court, on Saturday. The bartender was charged with assaulting night constable McAvoy. The evidence showed that when McAvoy took the parcel of six bottles of lager, the bartender demanded their return. Upon the night constable's refusal, the bartender endeavored to secure them, and a slight mix-up followed.

McAvoy denied pulling a revolver and threatening to shoot. He stated that the bartender tried to strike him with a bottle.

The defendant was committed for trial and bail fixed at $1,000 which was furnished.

"DAVID S. K. BYRNE" IS HEARD FROM AGAIN

Has Procured Proof Necessary to Identify Him as Person Named in Will

Montreal, July 9.—The heir to two and a half million dollars left to him in gratitude for rescuing the daughter of a millionaire from a Chicago dive six years ago, David S. K. Byrne, formerly David S. Kidd, of 855 Bloomfield avenue, has now procured the proofs necessary to identify him as the person named in the late Mr. Byrne's will. Mr. Kidd was left the fortune on condition that he should change his name to that of the testator.

The will must be proved in 84 months, this time being allowed in order that a sworn list of the estate, which is valued at nine million dollars may be compiled, but Mr. D. S. Byrne has had a difficult task in establishing his identity to the satisfaction of the law, which requires proof of his parents' marriage and his birth. No records being available, proof of the marriage was obtained from one of the bridesmaids living at Cobourg; a hundred signatures from persons who knew Mr. Byrne in his childhood were also necessary.

The establishing of the identity of the many beneficiaries has been a difficult task. Mr. Byrne, of this city, in order to prove his identity had to gather together proof of his parents' marriage and his birth. This was exceedingly difficult, owing to the fact that no records were kept in Ontario prior to 1869.

He got proof of the marriage and his birth from one of the bridesmaids, who resides in Cobourg. He had to get 100 signatures from the townships of Hamilton, Hope and Port Hope, from persons who knew him in his childhood and proof of his past life and reference from all his employers to prove that he was capable of managing a large institution. He also had to get, under the terms of the will, two photographs of the dive from where he rescued the daughter of Mr. Byrne in Chicago.

"Everything is now settled," said Mr. David S. K. Byrne, "and very soon I hope to hear of everything being settled in Australia."

Appeal Dismissed

Neal Wins Case Against The Town.

The appeal of the Town against the decision of the arbitrators in the case of E. B. Neal against the Town has been dismissed, and the award as made by the arbitrators will have to be paid by the corporation and also the costs. In the Osgoode Hall news, Thursday, the Toronto World says:—Re Neal and Town of Port Hope—J. G. Smith and D. H. Chisholm (Port Hope), for the town, appealed from award of two of three arbitrators, W. T. Kerr, (Cobourg) for two Neals. Judgment: I think the proceedings are properly under the former Municipal Act. In my opinion the two arbitrators were quite correct in coming to the conclusion they reached. Appeal dismissed with costs.

A PRETTY JUNE WEDDING

A very pretty wedding was celebrated on Wednesday, June 24, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Beatty, of Hope, when their eldest daughter, Clara May, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Lambert Henry Gibson, only son of the late Wm. Gibson and Mrs. Gibson of Cavan. The Rev. Wm. Johnston of Millbrook, performed the ceremony, the bridal party standing under an arch of evergreen and roses. The bride was given away by her father and was attended by her sister; Miss Maggie Beatty and Mr. Chas. Beatty acted as best man.

The bride wore a dress of blue paillette silk with lace and net trimming, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. After the reception Mr. Gibson and bride left for their home in Cavan. The bride's going away suit was dark blue diagonal serge with white hat.

Many useful and handsome presents were received.

Mr. Geo. Hancock left Tuesday for Niagara, to attend the convention of the Grand Masonic Lodge.

ANOTHER CLEAN SWEEP

For Candidates at the Entrance Examinations

A good slogan for our Centra School would be that "you may tie us but you can't beat us." Mr. Gillies this year sent thirty-five candidates to the entrance examinations and all were successful. Of course Mr. Gillies' record for the past fourteen years has been such that Port Hoppers look for a clean sweep every year and they would be just as disappointed as the candidate should a failure occur. We once more extend hearty congratulations to our esteemed friend Mr. Gillies and his efficient staff of teachers.

BLAKELY RETURNS TO NEW YORK

Engagement Awaiting Him —Is Still Very Sore

W H Blakely, the aviator, who met with the accident while making his second flight at the Town Park on the afternoon of July 1st, left for his home in New York, by the flyer Wednesday. The trouble now, is all in his feet and legs, and it is with great difficulty that he is able to walk at all. He is obliged to use crutches, but these do not assist very much.

This aviation must certainly be some business. A few days ago Blakely received a wire from his manager in New York, that he had an engagement for him to fill and asked how soon he would be able to report. Blakely replied that in three weeks he would be on the job, and he informed the Guide that the accident had not bothered him at all as to future flights. He had been in the business four years and this was his first real accident and might be his last.

Blakely is very grateful to the kind treatment tendered him by the Dominion Day Committee, the Hospital Officials, and the public in general. He says he will show Port Hope a real flight some day.

PICK-POCKET AT LINDSAY.—One pick-pocket was operating during the festivities at Lindsay, yesterday and it was through the instrumentality of a Peterboro man that he was caught. The thief relieved an old man of a ten dollar bill, but he was not clever enough to evade the eyes of those around him. After an exciting chase he was caught by Mr. Chester Mowry of 497 Bolivar street and landed safely in the Lindsay jail.—Peterboro Examiner.

ECHOS OF THE 12TH

Three thousand and ninety-two Orangemen, by actual count, marched in Lindsay Monday to celebrate the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, and packed along every street to see the parade were the population of Lindsay, reinforced by the twenty thousand visitors. Never in the history of Scugogville town has there been such a gathering for any purpose as resulted Monday in the Orange celebration. The people literally filled the main streets from noon till early in the evening, and while every effort possible was made to accommodate the crowd of Lindsay people and visitors in the way of meals and lodging, the result was decidedly inadequate owing to the very large number who poured into Lindsay via steamer, train, automobile and carriage.

NINETY YEARS AN ORANGEMAN.

In a cab that played a prominent part in the parade was John Scholer an Orangeman of ninety years of age. He has attended Orange celebrations since he was a child and Monday was the first time he was forced to ride in a hack. He hails from Manvers.

Another vehicle hove in view with a large streamer on it bearing the following "One flag, one language, one nation." Seated in that vehicle was John Cook of Cameron who declined to give his age but a friend stated it is 91. Mr. Cook has attended every Orange celebration in the district for years back.

THE SPEECHES

Joseph Thompson, former publicity commissioner for Toronto and grand treasurer of British America lodge, delivered a striking address. "If I had resided in Manitoba regardless of the fact that I am one of the strongest Conservatives I know of in the province, I would have voted against the administration. Why? Because Sir Redmond Roblin attempted to tamper with the principles I support. This is the fourth Orange celebration I have attended since Saturday. Saturday morning in Toronto we had the finest turnout in our history. Saturday afternoon I had the pleasure of mingling with 700 Orangemen at Aurora. Sunday at Toronto I attended church service in the ranks of the greatest church service the Orange Order has had in my home city and to-day ladies and gentlemen, I am pleased to be in the good city of Lindsay to help you to celebrate, and enjoy the affair all through."

Mr Thompson continuing stated that it was not the Roman Catholic that the Order had to fight or consider. It had no quarrel with that church. But, it was the Protestant who was content to lie idle and enjoy the freedom the order had given him, who the order had to contend with. He urged everyone to keep working. Some had said the order had lost its effectiveness but such was foolish statement. "We showed them in Manitoba whether we have lost any of our effectiveness. The Conservative party there trifled with Protestants and Orangemen and, you know the result. The Orange order is not affiliated with any political party. It stands for principle. The order has had a good year. They say that the order is going back. From the rugged shores of the Atlantic to the peaceful shores of the Pacific the order is thriving. Every Orangeman is doing her share. She is just as good as the Orangeman. We are praying that the little shore from which many of us come will not be torn in strife, but remain part and parcel of the British Empire. We should carry our Orange spirit and enthusiasm the year round. Do not let it diminish or lag after to-day."

DESTROYED 4000 HOGS TO CHECK CHOLERA

Loss Will Be Thousands, But Disease Must Be Stamped Out.

Ingersoll, July 14.—Their whereabouts having been traced and every animal of the big shipment from western Canada destroyed, together with others with which they came in contact, it is believed that the outbreak of hog cholera in Dereham township has been effectually checked. Dr. Tennant of London, Government Inspector, who conducted the investigation, strictly enforced the regulations, and in the neighborhood of four hundred hogs have been destroyed. The inspector was fortunate in tracing every hog that was sold in the district from the western shipment and the car has also been located and quarantined.

The premises of twenty owners have been quarantined, and they will not be allowed to keep hogs for three months. The financial loss in the aggregate will be heavy. Fifteen dollars is the maximum valuation allowed by the Government for any one hog not pure-bred, two-thirds of which is paid to the farmer. In some instances large sows, valued at from $50 to $60, have been destroyed, and the loss to the owners of these animals is therefore heavy. The largest number of hogs destroyed on any one place was forty.

COST OF LIVING IS STILL RISING

The Labouring Man Might Find Something of Interest in the Following

The June issue of the Labour Gazette, containing under the authority of the Minister of Labour illuminative articles on the cost of living and conditions of unemployment in Canada, should be carefully studied by Hon. W. T. White, who is in charge of the Government's fiscal policy.

The Department's index number showing the average wholesale prices of the 272 commodities entering into the cost of living, is given as 136.2 for the month of May. For the month of May last year, it was 135.4. There were some slight reductions during the month on dairy products which are of course, abundant at this season of the year. Fuel and turs were also lower. But a lower level on these two commodities for the summer months will hardly bring much relief to the average man whose buying power has been greatly restricted by the trade depression of the past year, or to the thousands who are now out of employment in practically every city of Canada.

The department's analysis of the cost of living during 1913 shows that the average weekly expenditure for the ordinary workingman's family in order to meet the bare cost of living, was $14.024. In 1912 it was $13.788, and in 1911, it was $13.002. Since the Laurier Government went out of power in 1911 on a policy which made for a reduction in the cost of living, there has been an increase of at least $1 per week in the workingman's budget of necessary expenses. Since 1910, there has been an increase of practically 10 per cent, in the cost of living. The trend is still upwards.

Compared with this increase in Canada, there has been, during recent months, a marked decrease in free trade Britain and in the United States where tariff revision downwards is now producing its logical effect. The index number, showing the cost of living in the United States, fell to 8,622 for last May, as compared with 9,139 for May of last year. In Great Britain it is down to 117.5, as compared with 122.4 in May of last year. In the United States there has been a reduction during the year of about five per cent. In Great Britain, there has been a reduction of nearly four per cent. In Canada, alone, has there been an increase. And in Canada, alone, have the tariff restrictions both on consumers and on producers been increased.—Brantford Expositor.

A Prince of Advertisers.

There died recently in England, says the Ottawa Journal, the man who, if he was not exactly the father of modern advertising, had probably a nearer claim to that repute than any other man. Probably no reader of this paper ever heard of Mr. Barratt, the head of the firm of A & T. Pears, the manufacturers of Pears soap. Mr. Barratt was the man who made the fame of the article. He reaped a fortune out of it.

The Pears' story is rather an illustrative one, as regards the effect of good advertising. Before Barratt was taken into the firm the concern had been in existence eighty years, conducted on good staid retail lines, spending latterly as much as $400 a year in advertising, and making an ordinary limited business profit. Before Barratt was done with it the firm was spending $600,000 a year in advertising, and its annual profit was about as great.

Like poets, great advertisers are probably born, not made. "I began by advertising apples, and I've ended by advertising Pears," Mr. Barratt said, telling the story of his first venture. This London-born boy was coming home from school when he saw a little card in a grocer's shop window bearing an unconvincing announcement of the price of apples. He thought he could do better, and went home and painted a card which he exchanged for the shopkeeper's apples.

Later he got work with the Pears firm. By and by, he got the firm to do more advertising, with steady success. In 1865 he was taken into partnership, and in 1892 the business was converted into a company with $4,000,000 capital. Barratt becoming managing director, a position which he retained up to the time of his death.

"Good morning! Have you used Pears Soap?" has become immortal in the literature of advertising. He got the idea of asking his staff to write down expressions used most often during the day, and "Good morning" was sent in by every one of them. All the London morning papers after that carried a double-column advertisement, putting the simple question. It could not be avoided; it cried out everywhere. Mr. Barratt invented many other catch-words, which with his lavish expenditure gave him an uncontested position as the greatest of English advertisers, possibly of all advertisers. The principle to which he attached most importance was this: "Advertising does not jerk, but pulls." Its effect is cumulative. Its value cannot often be gauged unless it is steady and continuous.

Newspapers like, of course to hear of a career like that. But let us be frank. Another of Mr. Barratt's principles was one that every business man needs to heed, namely, that advertising is a waste of money unless two things are right: first, the goods; secondly, the advertising. Usually, goods that get advertising are all right, but very often the character of the advertising is neglected; it is not clear; it is not attractive, it is not varied, or it is not catchy. "Advertising needs to be done with some brains," said Mr. Barratt.

KRAFCHENKO HANGED

He Insists to the Last That He Did Not Kill Arnold.

WINNIPEG, July 10.—John Kratchenko, convicted of murder, was hanged at 6.55 yesterday morning in the provincial jail. He died as he had lived, a man of iron nerve, and went to death unflinchingly. John Kratchenko died penitent. He proved to his spiritual adviser, Rev. Bertal Heeny, during the silent watches of Wednesday night, that had he wished he could have left his cell, could have broken out as he had out of the "old kitchen," and a bent, battered old teaspoon was the simple implement he used to pick the massive lock of his cell before the eyes of the astonished clergyman.

John Kratchenko died penitent. He proved to his spiritual adviser, Rev. Bertal Heeny, during the silent watches of Wednesday night, that had he wished he could have left his cell, could have broken out as he had out of the "old kitchen," and a bent, battered old teaspoon was the simple implement he used to pick the massive lock of his cell before the eyes of the astonished clergyman. Mr. Heeny entered Kratchenko's cell at 11 o'clock Wednesday night, and throughout the night he and the prisoner prayed every hour. At 6.55 he was brought from his cell to the place of execution by two guards. He mounted the twenty or so steps to the scaffold, and when half way up he sadly smiled and murmured to one of the guards that he did not feel very well. He took his place on the drop. In a moment the black cap was in and the noose adjusted. Mr. Heeny began to recite a last prayer, and within a few brief seconds and while the clergyman's lips were still moving, Arthur Ellis suddenly threw over the lever, the drop was sprung and Kratchenko died.

Kratchenko maintained his innocence of the actual murder to the last. At four o'clock Kratchenko stood up from the bench on which they were then sitting. Holding his hands even with his shoulders, he stood, every muscle tense and his face reddening with the strain. "Listen," he said, and for four full minutes he stood braced and taut. Then, "ready" was blurted out, and John Kratchenko collapsed unconscious on his prison bed.

From that moment up to within ten minutes of his execution he remained unconscious. Dr. Carscallan and several guards attending him.

A 'PRECIAN'

A New York physician who had recently transferred his activities to the Hub, tells of a Bostonian who, like most of his townsmen, is a precisian in the matter of English, and who had occasion not long ago to consult the aforesaid doctor.

After ascertainment of symptoms, the physician said: "What you need, more than anything else, is a tonic in the shape of fresh air."

Whereupon the Hubbitt waxed sarcastic, and inquired: "Before we proceed further, would you mind telling me what is the shape of fresh air?"

She—George, dear, here's a scientist who says the earth is wobbling on its axis. What do you suppose they can do about it? George (absently)—Open up the muffler, reverse the lever, shut off the power, lubricate the bearings and tighten the wheel cap.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Close Resemblance.

Professor Barry once amused Judge Ball by an application on behalf of a man who was a dealer in horses and sugar sticks. The incongruity of his avocation struck the judge, who remarked, "What a strange combination of trades." "I see a close resemblance between horses and sugar sticks," said the barrister. "In what way?" inquired his lordship. "The more you lick them the faster they go," was the reply.—London Tit-Bits.

BASEBALL

In one of the best games in the Town League this season the Beavers defeated the Black Diamonds, Thursday, by a score of 6 to 5. At the end of the regular period of five innings the score stood 4 to 4. The Diamonds added one in the first half of the sixth and in the Beavers half with two out and two men on bases Ben White laced out a nice two bagger scoring both runners and placing the Beavers in the lead by one run. It was a fine exhibition of ball and much enjoyed by the large crowd of fans.

The Diamonds during the season have displayed the best form as ball players and were picked by the majority as the league winners. They have however by their desire to kick and find fault lost the sympathy of many good supporters. The Diamonds seem to treat it as an offence against the rules of baseball should they meet with defeat. The Guide quite impartially would like to advise the Diamonds to get out and play the game on its merits. Don't always imagine because you can't win that the umpire or your opponents are handing you a raw deal. The Diamonds have a speedy well balanced team; Port Hoppers always admire good ball and if this team will only forget to kick and find fault they will rise much higher in the estimation of the public.

THE SCORE

B Diamonds	1	2	3	4	5	6	Total
Beavers	1	0	0	2	1	5	5
Batteries—B Diamonds, Pipher and Baxter.	0	1	0	1	2	6	6
Beavers—B Diamonds, Pipher and Baxter.	0	1	0	1	2	6	6

Struck out by Pipher 8, by Sleemon 5.
Bases on balls, off Pipher 2, off Sleemon 2.

Mr. S. O. Runnalls umpired the struggle and his decisions were quite fair and impartial. With a crowd forcing its way in on the third base line it is difficult for an umpire to see what is going on. His work however, was quite satisfactory and some of the over ardent supporters who found fault, would have been quite at sea in the same position.

A PLEASANT PURGATIVE.—Parnelle's Vegetable Pills are so compounded as to operate on both the stomach and the bowels, so that they act along the whole alimentary and excretory passage. They are not drastic in their work, but mildly purgative, and the pleasure of taking them is only equalled by the gratifying effect they produce. Compounded of only vegetable substances the curative qualities of which are fully tested, they afford relief without chance of injury.

PHILOSOPHY

Here is a bit of Walt Mason's philosophy: All men admire the cheerful gent who doesn't grumble twice a cent when things are going wrong; who doesn't nurse his trifling scores, but whistles as he does his chores, or splits the air with song. This worker hasn't much to say, as cheerily he toils away, and does his row of beans; he preaches to us by his acts, and not by handing helpful facts through books or magazines. Example is the stuff we need, for admonition's gone to seed, and precepts are a bore; we're growing tired of Sunny Jims who swing their jaws and wave their limbs and preach forever more. One man who does his little stunt without a grumble or a grunt, and beams with seemingly mirth, does more his brothers to inspire than all the bards who swat the lyre, or orators, on earth. One sorehead, working in a crowd, will act upon it like a cloud that threatens rain or snow, but one brave chap who gaily sings, the while his busy hammer rings, will dissipate its woes. The sermons that achieve the most are sprung by men who seldom boast of how they sing and dance, who wear the workman's sweat-stained clothes, and give their jaws profound repose whenever they have the chance.

Mr. Ross spent Saturday evening very pleasantly with friends at Bewdley.

Miller's Worm Powders not only exterminate intestinal and other worms, but they are a remedy for many other ailments of children. They strengthen the young stomach against biliousness and are tonic in their effects whenever the child suffers from loss of appetite. In feverish conditions they will be found useful and they will serve to allay pain and griping in the stomach, from which children so often suffer.

"Twelfth" Celebration Expected to Pass Quietly in Belfast.

FEARS FELT FOR DERRY

Strong Detachments of Police Have Been Despatched to Orange Stronghold to Prevent Rioting—Augustin Birrell Expresses Hope That Crisis Will Pass Without Serious Trouble.

BELFAST, July 13.—While it is generally anticipated that to-day will pass off peacefully in Belfast, there is some disquiet as to Londonderry. No special police or military precautions are being taken here, but strong police reinforcements have been despatched to Derry.

The religious services yesterday afternoon and evening were exceedingly well attended and files of Orange lodges filled the street during the afternoon.

Sir Edward Carson, discussing the statements of the radicals minimizing the result of Friday's meeting said: "I cannot say anything as to the proceedings at the meeting, but you may take it from me that the effect of its resolutions is to give us power to act at once when necessary to do so."

A hundred extra police have been drafted to Londonderry.

If the celebration of the battle of the Boyne passes without a collision between Orangemen and Catholics the Home Rulers of Ulster will have passed another critical danger point. The demonstrations will be marked here by a great procession, which will march to Drumbrag, four miles distant, to hold the customary celebration.

The Protestant section of Belfast is decorated more lavishly than in former years. Flags and banners bearing inscriptions defying Home Rule are displayed everywhere. The presence of Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, and armed guards surrounding his headquarters at Captain Craig's house, together with a review of battalions of volunteers, which several of the leaders held yesterday causes much excited talk, but despite such exhibitions of high feeling, men in closest touch with the people of both factions predict that the occasion will pass without any conflagration.

The Nationalists assert that the covanenters are working up a purely artificial crisis to frighten the Government into accepting the Lords' amendments for the exclusion of the whole of Ulster from Home Rule. Thousands of members of the constabulary have been brought north to preserve peace to-day, but this is about the number usually mobilized to repress the feelings of the wearers of the orange and of the green on the most contentious day of the Irish calendar.

Police Cowed by Volunteers.

LONDON, July 13.—The Londonderry correspondent of The Daily Express sends a sensational story of how 100 Ulster volunteers, on Saturday morning, recaptured the Enniskillen station a consignment of arms and ammunition which had been seized at Londonderry on Wednesday by the customs authorities. The consignment was being conveyed from Londonderry to Dublin, under an armed guard of ten policemen.

At the Enniskillen station the volunteers surrounded the guard with drawn revolvers and swiftly removed the cases and placed them in motor cars. The police were powerless.

Birrell Is Sanguine.

BRISTOL, July 13.—Augustin Birrell, Secretary for Ireland, Saturday attended a Liberal garden party where he made an address dealing with Home Rule. In the course of his address he said that while the situation in Ulster was undoubtedly grave, he never was more sanguine than at the present moment that a reasonable settlement would be reached.

It was admitted on all sides that Home Rule for Ireland was inevitable, the Chief Secretary continued. The only question at issue was to bring it about in such a way as to minimize the difficulties while uniting the whole of Ireland.

SAW LIGHT FLICKERING.

And Worshipper Found It Was Part of a Bomb.

LONDON, July 13.—A bomb was discovered last night in the famous old Church of St. John Evangelist, Westminster, at a woman named Annie Bell, who has figured several times in militant activities, was arrested. This church was damaged last March by a bomb which the suffragettes placed beneath the seat in the gallery above the pulpit.

A member of the congregation noticed a light flickering in a pew in the rear of the church, and on investigation found a candle so placed as to set fire to a fuse connected with a can of gunpowder.

The suffragettes have been active during the week end. They burned a railway station near Leicester in the early hours of the morning.

American Aviator Wins.

LONDON, July 13.—An American, Walter L. Brock, Saturday captured first honors in the aeroplane race from Hendon to Paris and return. Brock out-distanced his nearest rival, Raoul Garros, a French aviator by more than an hour. His flying time for the distance—502 miles in a direct line was seven hours, three minutes, six seconds.

A thrilling incident of the race was a plunge into the English channel which Baron Carberry suffered when his aeroplane fell from a considerable height, when half way across on the return trip. Lord Carberry kept aloft with the aid of a life belt until picked up by a passing steamer.

DUKE SEEING SIGHTS.

Many Interesting Incidents Mark Trip to Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 11.—The Duke of Connaught had an interesting experience Thursday evening and yesterday forenoon getting a first real insight into the cod fishery industry, as prosecuted by the Newfoundlanders. At Blanc Sablin he saw a cod trapper's large enclosure of netting, used extensively for fishery purposes nowadays, hauled in by the fishermen, and its catch removed, the fish being then brought to the curing houses, washed, salted, dried and packed for market. He realized the hardships the Newfoundland fisher folk endure in earning their bread by constant battle against fog, ice and storm.

At St. Anthony yesterday morning he saw another aspect of the life of the fisher people; the assistance provided for them in the way of medical, surgical and educational relief through the efforts of Dr. Greenell, assisted by the generosity of well wishers in Britain, Canada and the United States. The herd of 1,200 reindeer were of especial interest to the party. They are to be distributed in a year or two along the Labrador coast, their advent to be marked by a wholesale slaughter of the dogs now used, reindeer being substituted for the dogs.

The duke is now on the way to Botwood, in Notre Dame Bay, where he arrives to-day. He will then proceed to Greenland farms, where the Harmsworths have their big paper mills.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stephens, of Woodstock, celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary yesterday.

Mrs. Isaac J. Mansell was attacked by dogs near her summer home near Brockville, and before the animals were driven off she was severely bitten.

The Swedish battleship Tapperhelton was relocated yesterday after being aground for six months near Sandham, where she went ashore on Jan. 28.

A special despatch from Cairo, Egypt, says the Anglo-Egyptian members of the Ulster volunteers have received cablegrams calling them back to Ulster.

It is rumored that one of the four new Senators, to be named shortly, from Ontario will be Harvey Hall, of Toronto, Parliamentary representative of the Order of Railway Conductors.

Another death from the bubonic plague in New Orleans was announced yesterday by the public health officers, making a total of four cases and three deaths since the outbreak of the disease on June 27.

W. J. Curie, for many years superintendent of the B. & W. Railway at Brockville, a branch line of the C.N.R., has been promoted to a similar position on the Toronto-Port Arthur division of the C.N.R.

An order for the release from custody of the president and members of the Serbian Students' Club in Berlin, Germany, who were arrested on Wednesday on suspicion of being engaged in a pan-Serbian conspiracy, was issued yesterday.

BIG TRUCK RUNS AWAY.

Eight Persons Are Injured In Disaster In Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 11.—Eight persons were injured, two seriously, the plate glass window of a saloon was smashed and a score of people narrowly escaped injury yesterday morning when a motor delivery truck, driven by W. Bibeau, owned by H. Letourneau, became unmanageable, the brakes refusing to work while descending the steep hill on St. Lawrence boulevard, near Ontario street.

Ben Ostell and Jenny Ostell, aged 5 and 22, respectively, brother and sister, were hit by the mud guard of the machine and thrown a distance of six feet. They were picked up unconscious and taken to the General Hospital along with A. Lupino, who was struck by falling glass. At the hospital it was found that the Ostells were badly bruised and probably suffering from internal injuries.

The truck crashed through the plate glass window of Ladour's saloon.

West Kent Recount Started.

CHATHAM, Ont., July 11.—The recount of ballots in connection with the recent election in West Kent was started yesterday morning before Judge Bell. George Lynch Staunton of Hamilton is appearing for Geo. W. Sulman, the Conservative candidate, declared elected by 18, and J. A. Walker, K.C., of Chatham, represents R. L. Brackin, who disputes the official count. The recount will not be completed for a few days.

Cadets Inspected.

LONDON, Ont., July 11.—Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, paid a short visit to the city yesterday when he inspected the annual cadet camp at Carling's Heights. Fourteen hundred lads took part in the march past, and their soldierly bearing drew glowing commendation from the Minister. Col. Hughes said that the camp this year in numbers, discipline and enthusiasm was the best yet held.

Steamer Invermore Is Aground.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 11.—The steamer Invermore of the Reid-Newfoundland Railway Co. is ashore near Brig Harbor, on the Labrador coast. She carried passengers, mail and freight from this city. No reports of her condition have been received.

Russian Diplomat's Death.

BELGRADE, July 11.—The Russian Minister to Serbia, N. Hartwig, died suddenly yesterday while conversing with the Austrian Minister at the Austrian legation. He was appointed to that post in September, 1909.

MANY ARE DROWNED

Several Tragedies Are Recorded During Week End.

BELLEVILLE HAS THREE

Thomas Ketcheson, Aged 23, Loses Life In Trent Canal, Near Frankford, and Gladys Bougard and Unidentified Man Lose Their Lives In Bay of Quinte—Two Lads In Welland.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 13.—Gladys Bougard, aged nine, and James Comrie, ten years of age, were drowned in the Tenmile Creek Saturday afternoon while bathing. The current in the stream from the Cataract Power House at Decew Falls carried the lads off their feet, according to the story of a younger brother of the Elmalls lad who view the accident from the bank. The bodies have not been recovered.

The remains of Fred Gauthier, aged 16, who was drowned in the old Welland Canal Friday night have been found. Gauthier dived from a raft while in an overheated condition.

Three Drowned Near Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, July 13.—Everett Ketcheson, aged 24 years, son of Thomas Ketcheson, of Sidney Township, was drowned in the Trent Canal near Frankford Saturday. The victim was an assistant to the engineer on that part of the canal and was in bathing with Fred Harrison and Ross Thurlay. Harrison and Thurlay were brought around about fifteen or twenty minutes after they had been taken from the water, having been overcome in attempting to rescue Ketcheson.

Gladys Bougard, a girl of 15 years of age whose parents reside in this city, was drowned Saturday in the Bay of Quinte from off Mississauga Park, where the family are summering. The victim in company with another girl, was bathing on a shoal when she slipped from a log into deep water and did not rise. The body was recovered some minutes after.

An Italian whose name could not be learned was yesterday afternoon drowned whilst bathing in the Bay of Quinte on Burch's Island. He had been engaged on sewer construction work in this city.

Toronto Lad Drowned.

TORONTO, July 13.—While bathing in Lake Ontario at Woodbine Beach on Saturday afternoon, Bert Carr, 15 years old, of 21 Donlin avenue, stepped beyond his depth and was drowned. With him at the time was Zurl Blackwell, a playmate of 17 Donlin avenue. Neither could swim. Both had been playing in the water for several hours when the Carr boy stepped into a hole. Efforts by the life-saving crew were made to resuscitate him, but to no avail.

Uxbridge Almost Costs Life.

UXBRIDGE, July 13.—James E. Fugman, a home boy, 15 years of age, was drowned in Jackson's Pond about a mile south of here Saturday evening. The lad was learning to swim and ventured beyond his depth.

Mr. Trenworth, with whom he lived, jumped in after him and he in turn was nearly drowned, having to be pulled out by his wife with a pike pole.

Took Cramps and Sank.

HAMILTON, July 13.—Yesterday afternoon about one o'clock, while swimming at the foot of Ottawa street in the inlet, John Gravers, a Pole, who resided at 27 Imperial street, was seized with cramps, and with a cry sank. Others who were bathing near him heard his cries, but were unable to reach him, the body for nearly an hour later. The pulmotor was obtained and an effort made to resuscitate him, but without avail. Dr. Hopkins was called and has ordered an inquest. The deceased was seventeen years of age.

Lake Rosseau Claims a Victim.

ROSSEAU, Muskoka, July 13.—Leo Hopps, a high school student, of Grimsby, and formerly of Braceburg, was drowned in Lake Rosseau Saturday afternoon. The accident occurred at Rossmoyne, which is about three hundred yards from Rosseau.

ENGINEER IS KILLED.

Murdoch Lloyd Fatally Scalded at Mine In Haileybury.

TORONTO, July 13.—News reached Toronto last night of the death of Mr. Murdoch Lloyd of this city at Haileybury, as a result of a boiler explosion at Haileybury on Saturday afternoon. From the meagre facts obtainable it seems that Mr. Lloyd, who was interested in Tough Oaks Mines at Swastika, undertook to do something to a boiler at the mine, and while he was at work it exploded, scalding him so badly that he lingered in intense agony until four o'clock Saturday afternoon until 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was relieved by death.

Mr. Lloyd was a mining engineer by profession. He was born in Aurora about 45 years ago. He was married to a Miss Smith of Pembroke, who predeceased him about five years ago, and is survived by one child, a little girl.

Arbitrator To Settle Dispute.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 13.—Creece and Turkey have requested Switzerland to designate an arbitrator to settle the differences existing among the members of the mixed Greco-Turkish commission which is sitting in Smyrna for the purposes of arranging the emigration question.

Famous American Jurist Dead.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 13.—Associated Judge Morance Harmon Lurtou, of the U. S. Supreme Court died suddenly at a hotel here yesterday from heart failure superinduced by cardiac asthma. He was 70 years old.

HEAVY LOSS.—John Burns, in moving the second reading of the British Shipping Act, said that within twenty years 4,700 vessels, totaling 3,000,000 tons, have been lost at sea with the drowning of 18,474 passengers and crew.

CERTAIN NOW.—I always knew that Murphy was a quitter. "What's your evidence?" This paper says while the catcher was fighting with the umpire, Murphy was caught trying to steal home.

A WHALE STORY.—The Grimsby, G. B., trawler Lord Wolmer arrived home on Wednesday week in a sorely battered condition as the result of an encounter with a school of whales in the North Atlantic. One whale became entangled with the propeller, and when the trawler got clear she had left two blades in the whale's body.

OUR STORY

Gilder pressed the electric button on his desk. At the same moment, through the octagonal window came a blinding flash of light that rested for a second, then vanished. Burke, by no means a nervous man, nevertheless was startled by the mysterious radiance.

"What's that?" he demanded, sharply.

"It's the flashlight from the Metropolitan Tower," Gilder explained with a smile over the policeman's perturbation. "It swings around this way about every fifteen minutes. The servant forgot to draw the curtains." As he spoke, he went to the window, and pulled the heavy draperies close. "It won't bother us again."

The entrance of the butler brought the Inspector's thoughts back to the matter in hand.

"My man," he said authoritatively, "I want you to go up to the roof and open the scuttle. You'll find 'em down here."

The servant's usually impassive face showed astonishment, not unmixed with dismay, and he looked doubtfully toward his master, who nodded reassuringly.

"Oh, they won't hurt you," the Inspector declared, as he noticed the man's hesitation. "They're police officers. You get 'em down here, and then you go to bed and stay there till morning. Understand?"

Again the butler looked at his master for guidance in this very peculiar affair, as he deemed it. Receiving another nod, he said:

"Very well, sir." He regarded the Inspector with a certain helplessness indignation over this disturbance of the natural order, and left the room.

Gilder himself was puzzled over the situation, which was by no means clear to him.

"How do you know they're going to break into the house to-night?" he demanded of Burke; "or do you only think they're going to break into the house?"

"I know they are." The Inspector's harsh voice brought out the words boastfully. "I fixed it."

"You did!" There was wonder in the magnate's exclamation.

"Sure," Burke declared complacently, "did it through a stool-pigeon."

"Oh, an informer," Gilder interrupted, a little doubtfully.

"Yes," Burke agreed. "Stool-pigeon is the police name for him. Really, he's the vilest thing that crawls."

"But, if you think that," Gilder expostulated, "why do you have anything to do with that sort of person?"

"Because it's good business," the Inspector replied. "We know he's a spy and a traitor, and that every time he comes near us we ought to use a disinfectant. But we deal with him just the same—because we have to. Now, the stool-pigeon in this trick is a swell English crook. He went to Garson yesterday with a scheme to rob your house. He tried out Mary Turner, too, but she wouldn't stand for it—said it would break the law, which is contrary to her principles. She told Garson to leave it alone. But he met Griggs afterward without her knowing anything about it, and then he agreed to pull it off. Griggs got word to me that it's coming off to-night. And so, you see, Mr Gilder, that's how I know. Do you get me?"

"I see," Gilder admitted without enthusiasm. As a matter of fact, he felt somewhat offended that his house should be thus summarily seized as a trap for criminals.

"But why do you have your men come down over the roof?" he inquired curiously.

"It wasn't safe to bring them in the front way," was the Inspector's prompt reply. "It's a cinch the house is being watched. I wish you would let me have your latch-key. I want to come back, and make this collar myself."

The owner of the house obediently took the desired key from his ring and gave it to the Inspector with a shrug of resignation.

"But, why not stay, now that you are here?" he asked.

"Hub!" Burke retorted. "Suppose some of them saw me come in? There wouldn't be anything doing until after they saw me go out again."

The hall door opened and the butler re-entered the room. Behind him came Cassidy and two other detectives in plain clothes. At a word from his master, the disturbed Thomas withdrew with the intention of obeying the Inspector's directions that he should retire to bed and stay there, carefully avoiding whatever possibilities of peril there might be in the situation so foreign to his ideals of propriety.

"Now," Burke went on briskly, as the door closed behind the servant, "where could these men stay out of sight until they're needed?"

There followed a little discussion which ended in the selection of a store-room at the end of the passage on the ground floor, on which one of the library doors opened.

"You see," Burke explained to Gilder, when this matter had been settled to his satisfaction, and while Cassidy and the other detectives were out of the library on a tour of inspection, "you must have things right, when it comes to catching crooks on a frame-up like this. I had these men come to Number Twenty-six on the other street, then round the block on the roofs."

Gilder nodded appreciation which was not actually sincere. It seemed to him that such elaborate maneuvering was, in truth, rather absurd.

"And now, Mr Gilder," the Inspector said energetically, "I'm going to give you the same tip I gave your man. Go to bed, and stay there."

"But the boy," Gilder protested. "What about him? He's the one thing of importance to me."

"If he says anything more about going to Chicago—just you let him go, that's all! It's the best place for him for the next few days. I'll get in touch with you in the morning and let you know then how things are coming out."

Gilder sighed resignedly. His heavy face was lined with anxiety. There was a hesitation in his manner of speech that was wholly unlike his usual quick decisiveness.

"I don't like this sort of thing," he said, doubtfully. "I let you go ahead because I can't suggest any alternative, but I don't like it, not at all. It seems to me that other methods might be employed with excellent results, without the element of treachery which seems to involve me as well as you in our efforts to overcome this woman."

Burke however had no qualms as to such plotting.

"You must have crooked ways to catch crooks, believe me," he said cheerfully. "It's the easiest and quickest way out of the trouble for us, and the easiest and quickest way into trouble for them."

The return of the detectives caused him to break off, and he gave his attention to the final arrangements of his men.

"You're in charge here," he said to Cassidy, "and I hold you responsible. Now, listen to this, and get it." His coarse voice came with a grating note of command. "I'm coming back to get this bunch myself, and I'll call you when you're wanted. You'll wait in the store-room out there and don't make a move till you hear from me, unless by any chance things go wrong and you get a call from Griggs. You know who he is. He's got a whistle, and he'll use it if necessary. . . . Got that straight?"

And, when Cassidy had declared an entire understanding of the directions given, he concluded concisely. "On your way, then!"

As the men left the room, he turned again to Gilder.

"Just one thing more," he said. "I'll have to have your help a little longer. After I've gone, I want you to sit up for a half-hour anyhow, with the lights burning. Do you see? I want to be sure to give the Turner woman time to get here while that gang is at work. Your keeping on the lights will hold them back, for they won't come in till the house is dark, so, in half an hour you can get off the job, switch off the lights and go to bed and stay there—just as I told you before."

Then Inspector Burke, having in mind the great distress of the man over the unfortunate entanglement of his son, was at pains to offer a reassuring word.

"Don't worry about the boy," he said, with grave kindness. "We'll get him out of this scrape all right." And with the assertion he hustled out, leaving the unhappy father to miserable forebodings.

CHAPTER XVII.

OUTSIDE THE LAW.

Gilder scrupulously followed the directions of the Police Inspector. Unwillingly, he had remained in the library until the allotted time was elapsed. He figured from place to place, his mind heavy with distress under the shadow that threatened to blight the life of his cherished son. Finally, with a sense of relief he put out the lights and went to his chamber. But he did not follow the further directions given him, for he was not minded to go to bed. Instead, he drew the curtains closely to make sure that no gleam of light could pass them, and then sat with a cigar between his lips, which he did not smoke, though from time to time he was at pains to light it. His thoughts were most with his son, and ever as he thought of Dick, his fury waxed against the woman who had enmeshed the boy in her plotting for vengeance on himself. And into his thoughts now crept a doubt, one that alarmed his sense of justice. It occurred to him that this woman could not have thus nourished a plan for retribution through the years unless, indeed, she had been insane, even as he had claimed—or innocent! The idea was appalling. He could not bear to admit the possibility of having been the involuntary inflicter of such wrong as to send the girl to prison for an offense she had not committed. He rejected the suggestion, but it persisted. He knew the clean, wholesome nature of his son. It seemed to him incredible that the boy could have thus given his heart to one altogether undeserving. A horrible suspicion that he had misjudged Mary Turner crept into his brain, and would not out. He fought it with all the strength of him, and that was much, but ever it abode there. He turned for comfort to the things Burke had said. The woman was a crook, and there was an end of it. Her ruse of spoilation within the law was evidence of her shrewdness, nothing more.

Mary Turner herself, too, was in a condition utterly wretched, and for the same cause—Dick Gilder. That source of the father's suffering was hers as well. She had won her ambition of years, revenge on the man who had sent her to prison. And now the joy of it was a torture, for the puppet of her plans, the son had suddenly become the chief thing in her life. She had taken it for granted that he would leave her after he came to know that her marriage to him was only a device to bring shame on his father. Instead, he loved her. That fact seemed the secret of her distress. He loved her. More, he dared believe, and to assert boldly, that she loved him. Had he acted otherwise, the matter would have been simple enough. But he loved her, loved her still, though he knew the shame that had clouded her life, knew the motive that had led her to accept him as a husband. Moved by a sublime audacity, he declared that she loved him.

There came a thrill in her heart each time she thought of that— that she loved him. The idea was monstrous, of course, and yet— Here, as always, she broke off, a hot flush blazing in her cheeks. Nevertheless, such curious fancies pursued her through the hours. She strove her mightiest to rid herself of them, but in vain. Ever they persisted. She sought to oust them by thinking of any one else, of Aggie, of Joe. There at last was satisfaction. Her interference between the man who had saved her life and the temptation of the English crook had prevented a dangerous venture, which might have meant ruin to the one whom she esteemed for his devotion to her, if for no other reason. At least, she had kept him from the outrageous folly of an ordinary burglary.

Mary Turner was just ready for bed after her evening at the theater when she was rudely startled out of this belief. A note came by a messenger who waited for no answer, as he told the yawning maid. As Mary read the roughly scrawled message, she was caught in the grip of terror. Some instinct warned her that this danger was even worse than it seemed. The man who had saved her from death had yielded to temptation. Even now, he was engaged in committing that crime which she had forbidden him. As he had saved her, so she must save him. She hurried into the gown she had just put off. Then she went to the telephone-book and searched for the number of Gilder's house.

It was just a few moments before Mary Turner received the note from the hands of the sleepy maid that one of the leaves of the octagonal window in the library of Richard Gilder's town house swung open, under the persuasive influence of a thin rod of steel, cunningly used and Joe Garson stepped confidently into the dark room.

A faint radiance of moonlight from without showed him for a second as he passed between the heavy draperies. Then these fell into place, and he was invisible, and soundless as well. For a space, he rested motionless, listening intently. Reassured, he drew out an electric torch and set it glowing. A little disc of light touched here and there about the room, traveling very swiftly, and in methodical circles. Satisfied by the survey, Garson crossed to the hall door. He moved with alert assurance, lightly balanced on the balls of his feet, noiselessly. At the hall door he listened for any sound of life without, and found none. The door into the passage that led to the store-room where the detectives waited next engaged his business-like attention. And here, again, there was naught to provoke his suspicion.

These preliminaries taken as measures of precaution, Garson went boldly to the small table that stood behind the couch, turned the button, and the soft glow of an electric lamp illumined the apartment. The extinguished torch was thrust back into his pocket. Afterward he carried one of the heavy chairs to the door of the passage and propped it against the panel in such wise that its fall must give warning as to the opening of the door. His every action was performed with the maximum of speed with no least trace of flurry or of nervous haste. It was evident that he followed a definite program, the fruit of precise thought guided by experience.

It seemed to him that now everything was in readiness for the coming of his associates in the commission of the crime. There remained only to give them the signal in the room around the corner where they waited at a telephone. He seated himself in Gilder's chair at the desk, and drew the telephone to him.

"Give me 999 Bryant," he said. His tone was hardly louder than a whisper, but spoken with great distinctness.

There was a little wait. Then an answer in a voice he knew came over the wire.

But Garson said nothing more. Instead, he picked up a penholder from the tray on the desk, and began tapping lightly on the rim of the transmitter. It was a code message in Morse. In the room around the corner, the tapping sounded clearly, ticking out the message that the way was free for the thieves' coming.

When Garson had made an end of the telegraphing, there came a brief answer in like Morse, to which he returned a short direction.

For a final safeguard, Garson searched for and found the telephone bell-box on the subbase below the octagonal window. It was the work of only a few seconds to unscrew the bells, which he placed on the desk. So simply he made provision against any alarm from this source. He then took his pistol from his hip-pocket, examined it to make sure that the silencer was properly adjusted, and then thrust it into the right side-pocket of his coat, ready for instant use in desperate emergency. Once again, now, he produced the electric torch, and lighted it as he extinguished the lamp on the table.

Fourthly, Garson went to the door into the hall, opened it, and, leaving it ajar, made his way in silence to the outer doorway. Presently, the doors there were freed of their bolts under his skilled fingers, and one of them swung wide. He had put out the torch now, lest its gleam might catch the gaze of some casual passer-by. So nicely had the affair been timed that hardly was the door open before the three men slipped in, and stood mute and motionless in the hall, while Garson refastened the doors. Then, a pencil of light traced the length of the hallway and Garson walked quickly back to the library. Behind him with steps as noiseless as his own came the three men to whom he had just given the message.

When all were gathered in the library, Garson shut the hall door, touched the button in the wall beside it, and the chandelier threw its radiant light on the group.

Griggs was in evening clothes, seeming a very elegant young gentleman indeed, but his two companions were of grosser type, as far as appearances went; one, Dacey, thin and wiry, with a ferret face; the other, Chicago Red, a brawny ruffian, whose stolid features nevertheless exhibited something of half-sullen good nature.

"Everything all right so far," Garson said rapidly. He turned to Griggs and pointed toward the heavy hangings that shrouded the octagonal window. "Are those the things we want?" he demanded.

"Yes," was the answer of English Eddie.

"Well, then, we've got to get busy," Garson went on. His alert, strong face was set in lines of eagerness that had in it something of fierceness now.

But, before he could add a direction, he was halted by a soft buzzing from the telephone, which, though bell-less, still gave this taint warning of a call. For an instant, he hesitated while the others regarded him doubtfully. The situation offered perplexities. To give no attention to the summons might be perilous, and failing to respond might provoke investigation in some urgent matter; to answer it might easily provide a larger danger.

"We've got to take a chance," Garson spoke his decision curtly. He went to the desk and put the receiver to his ear.

There came a faint tapping of some one at the other end of the line, signaling a message in the Morse code. An expression of blank amazement, which grew in a flash to deep concern, showed on Garson's face as he listened tensely.

"Why, this is Mary calling," he muttered.

"Mary!" Griggs cried. His usual vacuity of expression was cast off like a mask and alarm twisted his features. Then, in the next instant, a triumphant gleam from his face, in a loud whisper as the irregular ticking noise sounded again.

"I shall be there at the house almost at once. I am sending this message from the drug store around the corner. Have some one open the door for me immediately."

"She's coming over," Griggs cried incredulously.

"No, I'll stop her," Garson declared firmly.

"Right! Stop her," Chicago Red vouchsafed.

But, when, after tapping a few words, the forger paused for the reply, none came.

"She don't answer," he exclaimed, greatly disconcerted. He tried again, still without result. At that, he hung up the receiver with a groan. "She's gone—"

"On her way already," Griggs suggested, and there was none to doubt that it was so.

"What's she coming here for?" Garson exclaimed harshly. "This ain't no place for her! Why, if anything should go wrong now—"

But Griggs interrupted him with his usual breezy cheerfulness of manner.

"Oh, nothing can go wrong, now, old top. I'll let her in." He drew a small torch from the skirt-pocket of his coat and crossed to the hall door, as Garson nodded assent.

"God! Why did she have to come?" Garson muttered, filled with forebodings. "If anything should go wrong now!"

He turned back toward the door just as it opened, and Mary darted into the room with Griggs following.

"What do you want here?" he demanded, with peremptory savagery in his voice, which was a tone he had never hitherto used in addressing her.

Mary went swiftly to face Garson where he stood by the desk, while Griggs joined the other two men who stood shuffling about uneasily by the fireplace, at a loss over this intrusion on their scheme. Mary moved with a lissome grace like that of some wild creature, but as she halted opposite the man who had given her back the life she would have thrown away, there was only tender pleading in her voice, though her words were an arraignment.

"Joe, you lied to me."

"That can be settled later," the man snapped. His jaw was thrust forward obstinately, and his clear eyes sparkled defiantly.

"You are fools, all of you!" Mary cried. Her eyes darkened and distended with fear. They darted from Garson to the other three men, and back again in rebuke. "Yes, fools! This is burglary. I can't protect you if you are caught. How can I? Oh, come!" She held her hands pleadingly toward Garson, and her voice dropped to beseeching. "Joe, Joe, you must get away from this house at once, all of you. Joe, make them go."

Mary went a step forward. The cloak she was wearing was thrown back by a gesture of appeal so that those watching saw the snowy slope of the shoulders and the quick rise and fall of the gently curving bosom. The beautiful face within the framing scarf was colorless with a great fear, save only the crimson lips, of which the bow was bent tremulously as she spoke her prayer.

"Joe, for my sake!"

But the man was inexorable. He had set himself to this thing, and even the urging of the one person in the world for whom he most cared was powerless against his resolve.

"I can't quit now until we've got what we came here after," he declared roughly.

Of a sudden, the girl made shift to employ another sort of supplication.

"But there are reasons," she said, faltering. A certain embarrassment swept her, and the ivory of her cheeks bloomed rosily. "I—I can't have you rob this house, this particular house of all the world." Her eyes leaped from the still obdurate face of the forger to the group of three back of him. Her voice was shaken with a great dread as she called out to them.

"Boys, let's get away! Please, oh, please! Joe, for God's sake!" Her tone was a sob.

Her anguish of fear did not swerve Garson from his purpose.

"I'm going to see this through," he said, doggedly.

"But, Joe—"

"It's settled, I tell you."

In the man's emphasis the girl realized at last the inefficacy of her efforts to combat his will. She seemed to droop visibly before their eyes. Her head sank on her breast. Her voice was husky as she tried to speak.

"Then—"

She broke off with a gesture of despair, and turned away toward the door by which she had entered.

You Get Bilious

Because Your Liver is Lazy

You get a bilious attack when your liver refuses to do its work. The bile does not flow. You become constipated. Food sours instead of digesting. You have that "bitter as gall" taste. shamed pride, as if he exulted in the strength with which he had been able to maintain his will against her supreme effort to overthrow it.

"You can't go," Garson said sharply. "You might be caught."

"And if I were," Mary demanded in a flash of indignation, "do you think I'd tell?"

There came an abrupt change in the hard face of the man. Into the piercing eyes flamed a softer fire of tenderness. The firm mouth grew strangely gentle as he replied, and his voice was overtone with faith.

"Of course not, Mary," he said. "I know you, you would go up for life first."

Then again his expression became resolute, and he spoke imperiously. "Just the same, you can't take any chances. We'll all get away in a minute, and you'll come with us." He turned to the men and spoke with swift authority.

"Come," he said to Dacey, "you get to the light switch there by the hall door. If you hear me snap my fingers, turn 'em off. Understand?"

With instant obedience, the man addressed went to his station by the hall door, and stood ready to control the electric current.

The distracted girl essayed one last plea. The momentary softening of Garson had given her new courage.

"Joe, don't do this."

"You can't stop it now, Mary," came the brisk retort. "Too late. You're only wasting time, making it dangerous for us all."

Again he gave his attention to carrying on the robbery.

"Red," he ordered, "you get to that door." He pointed to the one that gave on the passageway against which he had set the chair tilted. As the man obeyed, Garson gave further instructions.

"If any one comes in that way, get him and get him quick. You understand? Don't let him cry out."

Chicago Red grinned with cheerful acceptance of the issue in such an encounter. He held up his huge hand, widely open.

"Not a chance," he declared, proudly, "with that over his mug."

To avoid possible interruption of his movements in an emergency, he removed the chair Garson had placed and set it to one side, out of the way.

"Now, let's get to work," Garson continued eagerly.

Mary spoke with the bitterness of defeat.

"Listen, Joe! If you do this, I'm through with you. I quit."

Garson was undismayed by the threat.

"If this goes through," he countered, "we'll all sick. That's why I'm doing it. I'm sick of the game."

He turned to the work in hand with increased energy.

"Come, you, Griggs and Red, and push that desk down a bit so that I can stand on it." The two men bent to the task, heedless of Mary's frantic protest.

"No! no! no! no! Joe!"

Red, however, suddenly straightened from the desk and stood motionless, listening. He made a slight hissing noise that arrested the attention of the others and held them in moveless silence.

"I hear something," he whispered. He went to the keyhole of the door leading into the passage. Then he whispered again, "And it's coming this way."

"It's Dick!" The cry came as a wail of despair from the girl.

At the same moment, Garson flashed his torch, and the light fell on young Gilder, bowed to a kneeling posture before the couch, half-throttled by the strength of Chicago Red. Close beside him, Mary looked down wordless despair over this final disaster of the night. There was silence among the men, all of whom save the captor himself were gathered near the fireplace.

Garson retired a step farther before he spoke his command, so that, though he held the torch still, he like the others was in shadow. Only Mary was revealed clearly as she bent in alarm toward the man she had married. It was borne in on the forger's consciousness that the face of the woman leaning over the intruder was stronger to hold the prisoner and to prevent any outcry than the might of Chicago Red himself, and so he gave the order.

"Get away, Red."

The fellow let go his grip obediently enough, though with a trifle of regret, since he gloried in his physical prowess.

Thus freed of that strangling embrace, Dick stumbled blindly to his feet. Then, mechanically, his hand went to the lamp on the table back of the couch. In the same moment Garson snapped his torch to darkness. When, after a little futile searching, Dick finally found the catch, and the mellow light streamed forth, he uttered an ejaculation of stark amazement, for his gaze was riveted on the face of the woman he loved.

"Good God!" It was a cry of torture wrung from his soul of souls.

Mary swayed toward him a little, palpitant with fear—fear for herself, for all of them, most of all for him. "Hush! hush!" she panted warningly. "Oh, Dick, you don't understand."

Dick's hand was at his throat. It was not easy for him to speak yet. He had suffered severely in the process of being throttled, and, too, he was in the clutch of a frightful emotion. To find her, his wife, in this place, in such company—her, the woman whom he loved, whom, in spite of everything, he had honored, the woman to whom he had given his name! Mary here! And thus!

"I understand this," he said brokenly at last. "Whether you ever did it before or not, this time you have broken the law." A sudden inspiration on his own behalf came to him. For his love's sake, he must seize on this opportunity given of fate to him for mastery. He went on with a new vehemence of boldness that became him well.

"You're in my hands now. So are these men as well. Unless you do as I say, Mary, I'll jail every one of them."

Mary's usual quickness was not lacking even now, in this period of extremity. Her retort was given without a particle of hesitation.

"You can't," she objected with conviction. "I'm the only one you've seen."

"That's soon remedied," Dick declared. He turned toward the hall door as if with the intention of lighting the chandelier.

NATIONAL PRIDE.—An old Scottish gardener was showing to a tourist the beauties of the loch and of the little village of Duddingston. It was evening, and as he expatiated on the lovely scene and on the glories of his country the moon rose over a hill. The old man stopped short in the middle of a sentence and gazed at the moon in admiration. Then he turned to the tourist and said:

"There's a man for ye! I tell ye, mon, we're a grand nation."

The Moon and the Weather.

NEW STALL COMES INTO FORCE

Passed Long Ago, but Will Take Effect First of August This Year

The Ontario Stallion Act and its amendments are now such ancient history that, their freshness having faded from the mind, it is timely to remind stallion owners that the Act comes into force on August 1st, and that any such owner who has not complied with the provisions of the act as to inspection and enrollment before that date will find himself liable to a penalty.

These certificates are of four classes: For pure bred horses that have passed or failed to pass inspection and for grades that have passed or failed to pass inspection. A stallion that has failed to pass inspection may still be travelled, but the mare owner can tell by a glance at the certificate whether any of hereditary malformations are present in the animal and whether such animal is pure bred or grade.

It will be seen that no sudden action has been taken. There is ample time for those districts at present content with the services of grade stallions to replace them. At the same time the county is assured that the present lax methods of horse breeding will in two years be partly and in four years entirely discontinued to the great betterment of the horse-breeding industry of the Province.

TO START STEEL PLANT

Mr. Hollingrake, representing the A. R. Williams Machinery Co., of Toronto, who recently purchased the plant and machinery of the Provincial Steel Co., and Mr. Cole, who is interested in forming a new company to work the plant were in town last Saturday looking over the prospects for re-starting the mill. Primarily they expect to start a rod mill and foundry. They ask the town to guarantee them exemption from taxation, except school tax, up to $50,000. They do not ask the town for any bonus, but may ask the town to guarantee bonds.

Lightning Bolt Passes Through Steamer

Passengers and crew had thrilling experience.

LINDSAY, JULY 10TH.—The Captain and crew and a few passengers on board the Str Lintonia had a thrilling experience last evening about 6.35 o'clock, as the trim little steamer was plying her course across Sturgeon Lake to Greenhurst, adjacent to Thurstonia. A fierce electrical storm was passing around futher north and the rolls of thunder appeared to be quite close, but Sturgeon and Pleasant Points were thought to be out of the danger zone.

Mr. Clarence Fisher, who was also on board, felt the effects of the lightning and was dazed for a short time. The wonder is that the bolt did not strike home and shatter the steamer. As it was, it was a very narrow escape and an experience that Capt. Grey and his men certainly do not wish to pass through again.

ROYAL FUNERAL SHIP

Dead Lovers Will Lie Together in Castle Grave

On Tuesday the dead heir and his duchess were embalmed. Then it was seen that the veins in the right temple and throat of the Archduke were torn open, and the bullet was lodged in the bone of the neck. From the Duchess's body a fatal missile was extracted.

A special edition of the "Official Gazette" issued in Vienna only announced the death of the Crown Prince, the death of his wife being referred to in a non-official supplement, as she was not a member of the Imperial family.

The Crown Prince's body will not be laid in the Imperial tomb at Vienna, but will be buried at his own castle of Arzstetten, in Lower Austria, so that the Duchess of Hohenberg can lie by his side.

Impressive scenes marked the removal of the bodies later from the scene of the assassination. They were conveyed by special train to Metkovich in Dalmatia, where they were placed on the naval yacht Dalmat to the tolling of bells and rolls of muffled drums.

The coffin of the Archduke was covered by a military banner and the Archducal standard, and that of the Duchess with a military banner only. Floral offerings literally covered the vessel.

Every little village along the River Narenta was draped with mourning, while the whole population, including the school-children of each, was ranged on the banks, both men and women bearing lighted candles. As the naval yacht passed all knelt, bells tolled, and the priests blessed the cortege as it passed.

At the mouth of the river the bodies were placed on the battleship Viribus Unitis, the after deck of which had been converted into a chappelle ardente hung with flags and banners. Thus the funeral ship sailed for the after deck of which had been taken ashore and conveyed by train to Vienna.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.—While James Bamsay was unloading tile from a car on Barrett's siding last Thursday, his team took fright and ran away. They proceeded along Barrett street and up Ontario, colliding with a telegraph post near Mr. Oke's residence. The front axle of the wagon was broken, but the horses escaped injury. A young daughter of Mr. James Arkless who was in the wagon at the time was slightly cut about the head and arm.

FIGHT FOR A COFFIN

Curious Idea of Three Claimants to Dead Pensioner's Property

Lloyd's Weekly
How three claimants to an old man's property had a fight for the coffin under the idea that the one who secured possession of the body would be entitled to the estate was related to the Chepstow Board of Guardians on Tuesday in London, England.

An old man named John Bird, of the village of St. Briavels, Gloucestershire, had been in receipt of relief of 2s. 6d. per week, granted, it was stated, upon the condition that the guardians should have the first claim to his estate upon his death. A deed was drawn up and signed by Bird to that effect.

But the old man was declared to have made a deed of gift to a man named Dobbins, who was to send him a hot dinner every day, and fetch his old age pension from the village post office, and whose wife was to do his washing.

An extraordinary scene on the day of John Bird's funeral was described by Mr. Wilkinson, a member of the Board of Guardians. He said he found three parties fighting for the possession of the coffin. Mr. Wilkinson said that ultimately he persuaded the disputants to release the coffin and the burial took place. Each of the claimants undertook to pay the money due to the guardians, the old man having expressed a wish before his death that all his debts should be paid.

GETTING BACK.—A countryman was enjoying his first visit to London. He strolled about the streets and gazed with wonder and admiration at the shop windows. Soon he came to a lawyer's office, where, of course, there was nothing for sale. This surprised him, so he opened the door and walked in. In the room sat two clerks hard at work writing. What do you sell here? asked the countryman. One of the clerks, thinking to get some fun out of the visitor, replied, Fools. You must have had a quick sale, then, to have only two left, retorted the countryman.

Forgather In Thousands In Lindsay

Lindsay, July 13th.—Rather threatening weather, punctuated by bright flashes of sunshine greeted the thousands of Orangemen who assembled in Lindsay to-day to celebrate the two hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

As was expected the demonstration was the greatest ever held in this part of the province, and never in the history of the town did so many Sons of William assemble in Lindsay.

All roads led to Lindsay to-day, and at an early hour the people commenced to pour in from all points of the compass. The shrill notes of the fife and the rub-a-dub-dub of the drum resounded in the air on all sides, relieved occasionally by the blare of a brass band.

The streets, which were gaily decorated for the occasion, presented an animated scene. Young men and boys gaily bedecked in ribbons and the regalia of their respective lodges and fair maidens in immaculate white dresses relieved by a dash of orange, mingled with hundreds of others as they watched the different lodges as they marched from the railway stations to the armory.

The immense crowd was a good natured and orderly one. The people had come to town to spend the day, and view the procession and enjoy themselves generally. Drunken men were as scarce as chicken's teeth and there was nothing to mar the day's celebration.

SOME OF THE TUNES PLAYED.

At early dawn to-day began the first faint sounds of fife and drums being tuned up for the great concert of stirring music that accompanied the honest footfall of the marching thousands. Instead of the twittering of birds, the shrilling fife roused the sleeping town. Orange men from his slumbers, said life being at the lips of an enthusiastic young Briton. But the music that honors the celebration of the Boyne and William of Orange of pious and immortal memory is not all provided by Orange musicians. The Twelfth is a great day for the many bandsmen of all stripes and colors that live in the districts celebrating here, and for the regimental bands as well, and for whose services the lodges pay willingly.

These bands selected their music from the following numbers, all of which were played during the march: "Protestant Boys," "Fermanagh Boys," "Rise Sons of William," "Orange Feather," "Croppies Lie Down," "Battle of Lisnadade," and the "Boyne Water."

A MONSTER PARADE

Lindsay has seen Orange parades but to-day's celebration was the most impressive and noteworthy.

It was the biggest Orange parade, probably, that Lindsay has ever seen. The Victoria County lodges, stronger than ever from considerable additions to their membership, were out in full force. They were reinforced by lodges from all over the Midland district. Altogether between 6,000 and 7,000 men must have been in line when the procession was fairly under way. Perfect weather helped the attendance a little, though the parade four years ago demonstrated the fact that enthusiastic Orangemen are not afraid of getting a little wet for the sake of their principles. Many anxious wives and mothers rose at dawn to-day to have a look at the sky, to make sure that sons or husbands ran no risk of catching cold. The men folk did not bother.

TALL HATS DIMINISHING

Some of the older men, of weight and dignity, found the heat a little trying. But, with the passing of the years, the number of black coats and tall hats is steadily diminishing. Most of the men were, so far as their clothes could be seen through the masses of gold and blue regalia, in ordinary clothes. The Orange Young Britons, in their orange or blue shirts, looked cool and comfortable, and their peg-top trousers stood out bravely, instead of clinging limp, as they did last year.

About two o'clock the procession, marshaled by Rt. Worshipful Sir Knight Wm Warren, Grand Master Royal Black Knights of Ireland, assisted by Dis. Master Burke, moved out to Victoria park. All along the line of march thousands of people were lined up to view the parade. The blare of brass bands, the shrill notes of the fife, and the skirl of the pipers were heard on all sides, while the brilliantly bedecked members of the different lodges, with their handsome banners, presented a scene not often witnessed. After the end of the parade had reached the park, speeches were delivered by prominent members of the order.

SENSIBLE ADVICE.—Bill: "What are you carrying a cane for?" Jim: "I'm having a deuce of a time with water on the knee." Bill: "Why don't you try wearing pumps."

HAD TEN MILLIONS

But Food Lived Was 44 Cents a Day—Lived Like a Miser and Died Without a Will

LEFT ALL HIS WEALTH TO HEIRS

Houston, Tex., July 10.—Frank A. Ogden, who was found dead in a small, poorly furnished room in a lodging house here recently, left an estate valued at more than $10,000,000 though only $10,000,000 has as yet been uncovered by the two temporary administrators Andral Vann and N. B. Knight by their examination of deeds and other private papers found in a safety deposit vault of the Union National Bank of Houston.

Ogden was miserly. One of his requirements was that his breakfast should not cost him more than 9 cents, his dinner not to exceed 20 cents, and his supper not more than 15 cents. His living expenses were kept down to a maximum of $25 a month, even when travelling. He was eighty-one years old when he died.

It was about ten years ago that Mr. Ogden first appeared here. He became a familiar figure upon the streets and in the offices of real estate agents. He was generally regarded as some poor and eccentric person. To lessen expenses he shared his little room at the Burnett Hotel with another lodger, who never suspected that the old man was wealthy.

FIRST CLUES TO WEALTH.

When, after his death, a battered old trunk in his room was opened, it revealed memoranda indicating valuable properties. The proper authorities were notified, a safe and a deposit box were opened and there came to light a mass of evidence of the vast estate which the man had left. He had been dead two days before his identity was established.

In his trunk and in the safe deposit box were found memorandum books filled with notations of land purchased in Texas, Louisiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, and other states. He owned, nearly 200,000 acres in Texas alone. One tract of 16,732 acres is near Galveston and is valued at $1,500,000. Another tract of 100,000 acres in the Panhandle is valued at upward of $1,000,000. Not long ago he paid $480,000 for a 48,000 acre tract near Lake Charles, La. He owned a five storey hotel in Madison, Wis., and also owned a large hotel in Superior, Wis., and large blocks of buildings in other towns of that state, and in Minnesota and Illinois. His property interests in Chicago were extensive. It is stated that he recently offered to pay $100,000 cash for a piece of property in Wisconsin for which he was negotiating.

His home before coming to Houston was in Madison, Wis. He left there because the municipal authorities declined his offer to donate a site for a public library, it is said.

NO WILL—LOTS OF KIN.

No will has been found. Judge Sam Streetman, of Houston, who looked after Mr. Ogden's legal affairs in Texas, says:

"In almost my last conversation with him, I suggested that he make a will. He seemed interested, but apparently let the matter drop."

Ogden was reared on a farm, in Central Indiana. He and his brother, with a small sum that they were able to raise, went to Chicago and invested it in property just after the great fire. He afterwards acquired his brother's property interests. He still owned some of the original holdings that he bought in Chicago in those early days. He was a nephew of William B. Ogden, the first mayor of Chicago.

LIBERALISM STRONGER IN ONTARIO

Halifax Recorder, July 15th.

The result of the Provincial elections in Ontario is a much greater gain for Liberalism than the Parliamentary returns show. In the elections of 1908 the Whitney government had a popular majority of over 90,000. Liberalism having received its death blow. In the Federal elections of 1911, Mr. Borden had a popular majority in the province of about 60,000. But Toryism seems to have reached high water mark and the tide has been receding ever since. In the Provincial elections which followed in the same year, Sir James Whitney's majority was reduced to something like 45,000, a tremendous shrinkage. In the recent elections that majority has been still more greatly reduced, showing that his party is greatly weakened compared with 1908 and 1911, and that the Liberal tide is rapidly and evenly rising. The final figures for the contest of last week have not yet been published, but in the city of Toronto the number of votes cast for the Liberal candidates was three times as great as the number polled in the Provincial election three years ago. This itself was a striking gain, and besides this, there were hundreds clipped from former Tory majorities in dozens of constituencies all over the province. With a powerful and firmly entrenched Provincial Government against him, with the Federal Government wielding all its great patronage influence against him, with the powerful Orange Order and the Licensed Victuallers fighting him with all their might, yet Mr. Rowell made a good gain in Parliamentary representation and an immense gain in the popular vote. Toryism has won its last Provincial victory in Ontario and the blundering and stupidity of the Borden Administration are fast weakening the Federal hold which the Tory party has upon the province. The Liberals have no reason to feel depressed over the results in Ontario.

"I'M LUCKY ALL RIGHT."

Had Been In Penitentiary Fourteen Years.

"Well, I guess I'm a lucky man all right," remarked Dillon, as he passed out through the big gate at the penitentiary, and was once more a free man. After fourteen years of confinement his joy at getting his liberty can well be imagined. He was taken in charge by a couple of guards, one of whom went as far as Cape Vincent with him. Father McDonald also accompanied him to the border.

In spite of his long term, Dillon is in good health and looks well. He appears to have taken on weight while in the "pen." He is a well-built and powerful man.

Very few people had the tip that Dillon was to be given his liberty and as a result there were very few who knew the stranger as he walked along the wharf with the guards to board the steamer America.—Kingston Whig.

STOLEN CARS OFTEN LOCATED BY FORD COMPANY.

Ford, Ont., July, 1914.—The stolen car voblexion, every day, is one the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is endeavoring to assist the authorities in solving. On account of the popularity of the car and its preponderance over other makes, naturally a larger percentage of the missing cars must be Fords.

The Ford Company is running a stolen car department in its weekly publication, the Ford Sales Bulletin. Any Ford owner whose car is stolen is invited to report the theft at once to the factory, giving the number of the car. This will be printed at once in the bulletin; and as this publication goes to all Ford dealers, their salesmen, helpers and assistants, throughout the Dominion, the publicity is bound to help in locating the missing machines.

To Hunt Deadly Parasite.

An interesting expedition is to be undertaken immediately by some of those who took part in recent Arctic exploration. Dr. E. L. Atkinson, the navy surgeon who was parasitologist of the Scott expedition, accompanied by Cherry Garrard, will start this month from London with a small party and travel across northern China in order to track to its large minute creature which is the cause of a serious malady.

It is supposed that this parasite spends a part of its life in shellfish found in the Yangtze and other Chinese rivers. At any rate, it is found in water and attaches itself to those who work in and about water. Then it penetrates the skin and if the attack is severe it may cause death. The discovery of the life history of the parasite, it is hoped, will lead to the discovery of a cure for the disease caused by it.

Wrestling For Recruits.

An extraordinary method of obtaining recruits for the army was practiced by a British captain in India some years ago. Capt. H. R. Holmes, an officer of magnificent physical bearing and sporting prowess, went the round of Sikh villages challenging all and sundry to a wrestling bout.

One of the conditions of every match was that if the native lost he should join the officer's regiment, the thirty-sixth Sikhs. The regiment, was then numerically weak, but by the time the officer had finished his tour it numbered 777, and the smallest man was 5 feet 8 inches in height.

GOOD ADVICE.—Archaeologists are looking for the fossil remains of the moropus said to have existed 1,500,000 years ago. If they do not find it in the agate fields of Nebraska, they might try the cold storage warehouses.—Toronto Star.

POLICE COURT

John Ashby, a young man twenty-one years of age, appeared in Court, Wednesday, on a charge of vagrancy. He told the Magistrate he came here from the States. Thirty minutes to leave town was the sentence of the Court.

STORY OF CREATION TOLD IN MOVIES

The greatest achievement in the simplification of Bible study since King James ordered the translation of the Bible from Latin into English, has been accomplished in the "Photo-Drama of Creation."

Through the efforts of the International Bible Students' Association, which has arranged this exhibition, it is now possible to study the Bible through the medium of forceful, dramatic moving pictures.

SHOW WITHOUT CHARGE

These pictures are now being shown all over the United States and Canada without charge, and no appeal whatever for funds. The Association is entirely supported by private voluntary donations.

NO OCCASION TO WORRY

The owner of a private lake was not a little agitated to see a man comported fishing in the pond, right beneath an immense sign prohibiting trespassing. With hasty steps the irate owner hustled to the waterside. "Look here!" he explosively exclaimed. "Can't you see that sign? Don't you know you are trespassing? I want you to distinctly understand that this lake is privately stocked and that fishing here is not permitted."

"Just a moment, my dear sir," was the calm rejoinder of the fisherman as he withdrew his line and rebaited his hook. "Would you mind telling me what kind of fish you stocked the pond with?"

"I stocked it with black bass," cried the excited owner, "and I don't propose"—

"That's all right sir," interjected the fisherman, casting in his line. "There's no occasion to worry, I am fishing for pike."

CANADA'S FIRST RAILWAY

There has recently been some discussion in the press as to date and locality of the first in first railway in Canada, and it seems somewhat odd that such an important event in the history of transportation should have any doubt in regard to its date. It is probable, however, that at the time, the momentous nature of the change was far from being fully appreciated, and hence no "white line" was made on the day. Dr. H. S. Poole, F. R. S. C., in a paper read some years ago before a gathering of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, said that in 1838 the first locomotive ran over a railway in British North America. The County of Pictou, N. S., claimed the honor, the line running from Stellarton down to the loading ground and known as the South Pictou Railroad. The old locomotive which hauled the trains on the line is still in existence and was exhibited at the World's Fair in the year 1893.

Quebec, however, claims priority in the matter of railroads. The line between Laprairie and St. Johns was opened for operation in July 23rd, in the year 1836. The first train of four cars were drawn by horses, but in the year 1837, steam locomotive power was adopted. The line was sixteen miles long. Quebec, therefore, seems to carry the prize of priority.

ANOTHER CAR FERRY

The Toronto Star has the following: Construction has just been started in the local shipbuilding yards of a new car ferry which will reach 5400 tons registered tonnage, and cost a half million dollars.

The ship is for the Ontario Car Ferry Company, and is a duplicate of the Ontario No. 1 now plying between Cobourg and Charlotte in the Grand Trunk service.

LARGEST ON LAKE

The new Ontario No 2 will have the distinction of being the largest ship on lake Ontario. Of 318 feet in length 54 feet moulded breadth, she draws sixteen feet of water and is therefore confined to Lake Ontario. She is of extra heavy construction, and on her train deck has room for 28 cars on four tracks. The car accommodation is the same as No. 1, and both boats are to be the largest ferries on the lakes.

The upper decks are for passenger accommodation and are sumptuously fitted with cabins. She will carry 1000 passengers on the short run between Cobourg and Charlotte. A third ferry without passenger accommodation is to be built for the route.

POWERFUL ENGINES

She is to be driven by two sets of triple expansion engines, the largest cylinder having a bore of 54 inches and a stroke of 30 inches. Her twin screws will develop a speed of over 15 miles.

Power will be furnished by four boilers 12 by 14 feet and will reach 4,500 horsepower. Her safety appliances will be modelled on the Government's new regulations now under consideration.

Launching will take place before the ice forms and delivery is promised early in the summer.

STURGEON CAUGHT AT SEVERN RIVER

The work of draining the river at Port Severn for the construction of locks in connection with the Trent Valley Canal that has been going on for some weeks back, has revealed many strange things and discoveries have been made at different points along the river bed. Some weeks ago a coffer dam was built across the mouth of the river to hold back the water of the bay and up the river about a mile a similar structure was placed to throw the water into another channel. Upon the completion of this work the water in that section of the river was pumped out and the bed of the river left dry thus exposing the fish that were entrapped. Among the many fish the workmen found in one of the pools was a sturgeon weighing upwards of two hundred pounds, which furnished a meal for the workmen in camp.

COULD IT HAVE BEEN PREVENTED

The Murder Mystery in Freeport, Long Island, is another case where some persons in respectable society have gone wrong. At the present time the mystery has not been solved, but one fact that shocks everybody is the murder. Until further developments have arisen it is difficult to make any specific criticism, but it seems, from the facts of the case so far learned, that the catastrophe could have been prevented by a little quiet missionary work. Too often people in refusing to speak a word of warning, allow the misdirected course of their friends' acts to carry their shocking lengths. There is to great a tendency to allow everybody to go their course and reap its consequences, when a quiet word would often change everything for the better. It is a most difficult and delicate thing to do, but if done judiciously, usually saves a world of trouble and shame.—Peterboro Review.

THE SCRAMBLE FOR CALGARY OIL.

Peterboro Review.
Western optimism has reached a record mark in the Calgary oil strike. In spite of the well-known highly speculative feature of oil properties, confidence in the oil-producing possibilities of the field remains unabated. It seems that the larger the margin of uncertainty the greater is the tendency to throw savings into the general gamble. Already stories of the stampede for oil shares are getting into the press and illustrate the senseless frenzy to squander, or at best, risk money in an undertaking, that has no guarantee of ever being a productive enterprise. Thus, crowds of brokers and speculators in the rotunda of the new million-dollar Canadian Pacific Railroad hotel suddenly stopped roaring when a man, hatless and perspiring, rushed up to the desk and demanded vigorously immediate possession of the building, tendering a cheque for $1,000,000. He was removed to the asylum in Ponoka, where he is now violently insane. He had just turned over for about $40,000 a batch of shares which cost him $500. He couldn't stand it.

Everybody's nerves are tense. Every pulse beat of the Discovery well is carefully measured. When the oil "gushes," a responsive throb is felt all down the line. The boot-black sleeps with his ten-cent certificate under his pillow, and Mr. Wallingford smokes longer and blacker cigars.

And everybody dreams of an estate like Rockefeller's with a standing army to repel the I. W. W.

What Came Up.

One Dennis Duggan was working in his potato garden in the County of Tipperary on a nice spring day, when an English tourist came that way on a jaunting car. Thinking so have a lark with him the tourist began.

Well, my dear fellow, what are you planting?

Praties sir, said Dennis. Why, I set onions last year in our garden, dontchenow, and carrots came up, said the Englishman.

Oh, said Dennis, I set an acre of turnips last year in that field over there and do you know what came up?

Bah Jove! I don't, replied the Englishman.

Mike Murphy's old black donkey, and ate them all, answered Dennis.

Why Debts Were Not Paid

It is said that recently a preacher, after his sermon, requested everyone in his congregation who were paying their debts to stand up. Instantly every man, woman and child with one exception, arose to their feet. He seated the crowd, and then said: "Let every man who is not paying his debts stand up." The exception noted, a careworn, hungry-looking individual, clothed in his last summer's suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position and leaned upon the back of a bench in front of him. "How is it, my friend," asked the minister, "that you are the only man in this congregation that is not able to meet his obligations?" "I publish a weekly newspaper," he meekly replied, "and my brethren here who have just stood up are all subscribers and—" "Let us pray," exclaimed the minister.—Newport Champion.

MORE HINDUS COMING?

Agitator in Bombay Is Negotiating for 500 More.

VANCOUVER, July 15.—Negotiations are now being carried on by an East Indian styling himself Behari Lal Verma, as secretary of the American Indian Colonization Co., with Towner, Jones & Co. of Bombay, for a vessel capable of carrying 500 third class Hindus via the Suez Canal to Halifax. Verma failed in chartering a boat in Hong Kong for the same purpose. The protector of emigrants, the Government official in Bombay, has not yet agreed to issue permits for the proposed 500 emigrants to Canada.

A call for 400 volunteers among the Hindus residents of Canada to go to India about the time the Komagata Maru sails back and to preach sedition there with the Maru passengers is now being issued here. Hindus have also gone east in order. It is said, to get into the United States and come west to the Pacific coast states, and raise additional volunteers there to make the total number 1,000.

JOURNALIST SENTENCED.

Englishman in Japan Guilty of Receiving Stolen Papers.

TOKIO, July 15.—Andrew M. Rooley, an English newspaperman, was yesterday sentenced to two years imprisonment and a fine of $100 on a charge of receiving stolen documents in connection with the recent Japanese naval scandals involving officers in the receipt of illicit commissions for influencing the allotment of contracts.

Rooley received the documents from Carl Richter, an employe of a German armament firm, who had stolen them, and was alleged to have used them for blackmailing purposes.

Two other prisoners also were convicted yesterday in the same case, Y. Herrmann, the Tokio representative of the German armament firm, being sentenced to one year in jail, and George Blundell, also connected with English journalism, to ten months' imprisonment. The sentences on these two men were suspended for three years.

Believes Carman's Story.

MINEOLA, N.Y., July 15.—The grand jury yesterday took up the case of Mrs. Florence Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, one of her husband's patients, who was shot in his office on the night of June 30.

Dr. Carman was on the stand nearly two hours. As he left the grand jury room he refused to say anything about the nature of his testimony. District Attorney Smith said he was satisfied with Dr. Carman's story, and had changed his mind about asking him to sign a waiver of immunity. Neither Carman nor the attorney would say whether Carman had in any important details altered the story told at the inquest.

EMMERSON IS DEAD

Prominent Liberal M.P. Passes Away Aged 61 Years.

DEATH NOT UNEXPECTED

Former Minister of Railways and Canals in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet Had Been Ill For Some Time—Was Premier of New Brunswick Before Entering Dominion Politics.

DORCHESTER, N.B., July 10.—The Hon. H. R. Emerson, former Minister of Railways in the Laurier Government, and at one time Premier of New Brunswick, died at his home here yesterday morning.

Mr. Emerson had been ill for some time and his death was not unexpected.

Hon. Henry Robert Emerson was of U. E. Loyalist descent and was born at Mangerville, N.B., Sept. 25, 1853. He was educated at Amherst Academy, Mount Allison Academy, St. Joseph's College, and Boston University.

Mr. Emerson practiced law here and was made a K.C. in 1899. He was at one time manager of the Merchants' Bank of Halifax, and connected with a number of other important commercial enterprises.

HON. H. R. EMMERSON.

was for long a power in politics in this province. He was a vice-president of the Maritime Liberal Association. He unsuccessfully contested Westmoreland for the House of Commons in 1887, and sat for Albert in the New Brunswick Legislature from 1880-1890, and was a legislative councillor from 1891-92.

He is survived by four daughters—Mrs. F. H. Deacon, Toronto; Mrs. Harry K. Bowes, Ottawa; Mrs. Julian Cornell, Amherst, and Miss Bernice. His mother, Mrs. Emerson, also survived. She is 83, and has been prostrated by the shock of her son's death.

The cause of Mr. Emerson's death was heart failure.

DESPERADO FOUND DEAD.

Body of Joseph Morand Discovered in Hut in the Woods.

QUEBEC, July 10.—Joseph Morand, the demented bandit, who since he ran amok with a gun and shot three men on Thursday, July 2, has been found dead yesterday in a hut in the woods, according to information received here yesterday afternoon by Provincial Police Chief McCarthy.

Morand's body was found by one of the posse of provincial police, who since the bandit did the shooting last Thursday, have been scouring the woods about Villoroy, armed with Ross rifles, and prepared to take the desperado dead or alive. Whether the fugitive took his own life or whether he died from wounds received in the fusillade which the police poured into a hut in which he was hiding on Tuesday, and from which he wounded Peter Brown, a guide, in the employ of the police, is not yet known.

New Two-Dollar Bills.

OTTAWA, July 10.—A new Dominion $2 bill will be issued today, in commemoration of the stay of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught in Canada. It will bear their portraits on either corner, with the figure 2 in the centre, and the word two on each side of it. The bill will be of a light olive green.

This is the fourth issue of $2 notes. The first bore the picture of Lord Dufferin, the second that of Lord Lansdowne, and the third of King Edward VII., when he was Prince of Wales.

TO TAKE CENSUS.

Study of Traffic Near Towns Is Part of Good Roads Scheme.

TORONTO, July 10.—The program of the Ontario Highways Commission is rapidly taking shape, and officials expect that by the end of the summer preliminary construction gangs will be sent out on the roads. In two weeks a temporary staff of traffic census-takers will be distributed among the cities of the province to study the demands of the different centres and to determine the share which each city should take in the support of the highways running out into the respective counties.

These men will be especially detailed to settle the size of the suburban areas containing roads which are of unusual importance to city business, and for which the civic councils will be expected to provide maintenance.

The staff of census-takers will be supplemented as occasion demands by a chief officer who will be stationed at commission headquarters to tabulate reports for final consideration. The census taken prior to the published plans was designed altogether from a rural standpoint. The idea in view was to gain information as to the needs of the farming community in the getting of their products to the nearest market centres.

In the tabulation no notice was taken of automobile traffic. This, however, is increasing daily in Ontario, and is being recognized as one of the most important factors to be dealt with.

As far as actual construction in the province is concerned, activities this summer will be slight, the energy of the regular Government Department and the commission merging towards the end of August.

NO PARLIAMENT PLANNED.

Ulster Provisional Government Not Meant to Be Permanent, Says Craig.

BELFAST, July 10.—The first meeting since it was formed of the Ulster provisional Government has been called for to-day at the request of Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader.

According to Col. James Craig, the result of the meeting will have an improved bearing on the Irish situation, but he declared that there is no intention on the part of the Ulsterites, whatever happens, to set up a Parliament for themselves in Ulster. They claimed the right merely to hold the province in trust for the constitution of the United Kingdom in order that Ulster should continue to be an integral portion of the British Empire.

The clauses of the constitution of the provisional government, which until now have not been disclosed, expressly provide that "upon the restoration of the direct Imperial Government, the provisional government shall cease to exist."

DUFFERIN TERRACE BURNS.

Spectacular Fire Destroys Almost All of Quebec Promenade.

QUEBEC, July 10.—Fire of a spectacular nature yesterday destroyed almost the whole of the Dufferin Terrace west of the bandstand and communicated itself to the house on the cliff above, doing considerable damage to the houses at each of the row, but leaving those in between practically untouched. This is accounted for by the fact that the dwellings on the extreme ends are old, wooden ones, while those in between are of more solid structure.

There was a strong east wind blowing and this kept the flames away from the Chateau Frontenac Hotel, which is situated at the east end of this magnificent promenade. Although the blaze broke out about noon it was not under control until three o'clock. The general alarm was rung in. It is thought that the fire was caused by some lighted cigar or cigarette ends which are thrown away by hundreds of promenaders.

Two firemen were overcome by smoke and had to be taken to the hospital.

Spring-Rice Joins R.N.W.M.P.

OTTAWA, July 10.—Private Spring-Rice, a near relative of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British Ambassador to the United States, and said to be the ambassador's nephew, is the newest distinguished recruit to the Royal Northwest Mounted Police.

Young Spring-Rice spent the winter in Ottawa, where he lived quietly, and was known to only a few by name, but was a familiar figure on the streets and in the Parliament Buildings, where he was frequently accompanied by three bull dogs.

ROYALTY AT EDINBURGH.

King and Queen Get Usual Fusillade From Militants.

EDINBURGH, July 7.—The suffragettes took advantage of the visit of King George and Queen Mary here yesterday to prepare the usual suffragette demonstration, in which the bombardment of the royal couple with suffragette literature was the feature.

Two women obtained possession of a balcony in a house opposite the station, and as the royal carriage emerged they threw down upon it a lot of suffragette appeals. Then two detectives seized them, spoiling their aim. Some of the handbills fluttered into the street and the royal carriage passed over them.

The King, looking up, saw the women struggling in the arms of the police station, the crowd along the way giving them a mixed reception of cheers, mingled with hooting.

The women gave the names of Lock and Owen. Among their missiles was a paper ball containing a message: "To show King George that women are being persecuted for defending their freedom."

Petition Premier.

LONDON, July 7.—Rev. Reginald J. Campbell, pastor of the City Temple; Rev. R. F. Horton, pastor of Lyndhurst Road Church, Hampstead; Rev. J. H. Shakespeare, and several other prominent non-conformist ministers, have sent a letter to Premier Asquith appealing to him to put a stop to the forcible feeding of suffragette prisoners.

The writers declare that the employment of forcible feeding is barbarous, cruel and disgusting and that, regarded as a deterrent, it has proved futile.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Edward Morris, 19, farm hand, was drowned while swimming in the Rideau Canal near Washburn yesterday. After making a dive he failed to come up.

The Empress of Ireland relief fund yesterday totaled $450,000. Exactly double this amount is required if relief is to be on the same scale as that of the Titanic sufferers.

Six hundred cadets went into camp at Barrieffe yesterday from Kingston, Napanee, Brockville, Renfrew, Athens, Williamstown, Perth, Smith's Falls and Ottawa.

Hon. J. J. Foy, who was partially overcome on Sunday, was resting quietly at his home yesterday, where he will be kept away from the worries of his office for a few days.

Archbishop Spratt laid the cornerstones of the new Regiopolis College at Kingston. The archbishop gave the site for it, valued at $4,000, and states if subscriptions fall short he will meet it.

Some unknown person threw a lighted package of firecrackers at Arthur Smith, aged 12, of Kingston, and the charge went into his face, seriously injuring his eyes. His right arm was badly burned.

A four-foot alligator escaped Sunday from the Imperial Garage at St. Catharines, and is now enjoying himself swimming up and down the Welland Canal. In the meantime bathing operations have been suspended.

CIVIL SERVANT MOVES UP.

Alfred Sheriff Appointed Deputy Minister of Fisheries.

TORONTO, July 7.—Official announcement has been made that Alfred Sheriff of the Ontario Civil Service has been appointed as Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries under the Department of Public Works. This post was created by special legislation introduced during the last session of the Legislature, and provides a new Department. The growth of the fishery interests in the province and the increasing demand for careful conservation of resources is responsible for the change.

Mr. Sheriff has for some years served as official secretary to the Minister of Public Works and of late has been giving considerable attention to the fisheries branch. He is an ex-newspaperman, having been for several years on the staff of The Mail and Empire.

Dr. A. R. Pyne Dead.

TORONTO, July 7.—Dr. Albert R. Pyne, 134 Carlton street, died yesterday morning after a long illness through paralysis. Dr. Pyne, who was born in Waterford, Ireland, in 1849, came to Canada when a child, and with his father settled in Newmarket, where he received his primary education, later obtaining a medical degree at the University of Toronto. He began his practice at 261 East Gerrard street, where he remained until 1904. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Miss Ester Robert Pyne. He was a brother of Dr. R. A. Pyne, Minister of Education for Ontario.

Killed By Train.

TORONTO, July 7.—Geo. Cootes, who gave his address as Pennsylvania, was killed by a train on the tracks at the foot of Ellis avenue on the Lake Shore road at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was found with both legs almost severed, his head crushed, and otherwise mutilated, by Thomas Trann, of Swansea, who secured police assistance and had him removed to the Parkdale Hospital, where he died an hour after being admitted.

Verdict on Thursday?

MONTREAL, July 7.—Expectations in the ranks of local counsel interested in the Empress of Ireland-Storet case are that Lord Mersey and his colleagues will hand down the finding in the course of the present week—most likely Thursday.

STRENGTHENING PACT.

Britain and U. S. Have Concluded New Peace Treaty.

LONDON, July 10.—American Ambassador Page, speaking at the Peace Centenary meeting in the Metropolitan Tabernacle last night, made reference to a new treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

Mr. Page said it was the policy of the American people to have an alliance with none; where there was perfect friendship alliances were not needed.

The old arbitration treaty between the two countries, however, had been renewed for another period, and he was free to announce that a new treaty was being concluded whereby a commission was to be set up, to which either Government could refer any question arising between them.

Both Governments, he added, promised not to begin hostilities until this commission had investigated matters and submitted its report.

That treaty the ambassador declared, was now virtually completed. The announcement evoked a great outburst of cheers.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Odina Guay, the victim of Morand's shooting exploit at Lewis, Que., died yesterday.

Confirmation of a victory by the Albanian insurgents was received at Athens yesterday. The fighting lasted three days, after which the Albanian Government's troops took to flight.

While roofing a steeple on the Roman Catholic Church at Ste. Eulalie, Nicolet county, A. J. Cote, of Quebec, fell to his death, some 125 feet below. He leaves a bride of eight months.

Men, women and children saved the west end of Kingston from a serious fire yesterday by forming a bucket brigade, when boys playing with matches set fire to an old ice house next to the Kingston Hosiery Mill.

Criminal prosecution of Sir Thomas Lipton and his co-directors in Liptons, Limited, was suggested by Sir Arthur Markham, a Liberal member, in the British House in connection with the "canteen scandals."

CHARGES DISMISSED.

Magistrate Cannot Believe Evidence Against Macklin and Elliott.

GODERICH, July 10.—Declaring that he could place no confidence in the evidence of J. B. Hunter, the informant, and that he could find nothing to support the charge, Magistrate Kelly yesterday dismissed the charges of conspiracy and bribery against Dr. A. H. Macklin and Rev. Joseph Elliott in connection with the Centre Huron provincial election contest.

M. G. Cameron, K.C., who appeared for Mr. Elliott, first raised the objection that the cases were not properly before the magistrate, as they did not involve an indictable offence.

Blackmail Demanded.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 10.—A woman, who was yesterday morning to find his garden destroyed and a card placed in a conspicuous spot threatening the members of his family with death providing he did not meet a demand for $1,000. Mike Paris, a prosperous west end Italian merchant, placed the matter in the hands of the police, who are now working on the case. The letter stated that the money must be placed at a spot designated on "the road to the cemetery," and unless it was done at a certain time his entire family would be wiped out and his property destroyed.

Two Months For Sailor.

MONTREAL, July 10.—Manuel Chute, the Storstad sailor who tried to cash money orders he picked up while rescuing the survivors of the Empress of Ireland, was yesterday given two months in jail by Judge Choquette in the Sessions Court. Chute will be deported after serving his sentence.

Second Wife Dies Tragically.

ROME, July 10.—The second wife of the distinguished Italian sculptor, Filippo Caffarello was accidentally burned to death yesterday through the explosion of a lamp.

Caffarello in August, 1905, shot and killed his first wife in a fit of jealousy. He was acquitted after a sensational trial.

MURDER IS CHARGED

Death of Patient Laid at Door of Doctor's Wife.

SHOT FIRED IN AT WINDOW

Mrs. Carman, of Freeport, N.Y., Is Locked Up on Charge of Having Killed Mrs. Louise Bailey White Latter Was Consulting Dr. Carman—Had Secret Telephone In Doctor's Office.

FREEPORT, N.Y., July 9.—Florence Conklin Carman, wife of Dr. Edwin Carman, was arrested yesterday, accused as the mysterious assassin who a week ago Tuesday night, murdered Mrs. Louise Bailey, wife of a Hamstead manufacturer, by firing a bullet through her heart while she was standing in the physician's office. Last night Mrs. Carman, at whom the finger of suspicion has been pointing since the discovery was made that she had installed a telephonic instrument in her husband's office so that she might hear what went on between him and his women patients, is locked up in Nassau County Jail at Mineola. There she will remain until Monday, when she will be taken out again and examined by the coroner, before whom she pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday. After her arrest in the room where Mrs. Bailey died.

Mrs. Carman's iron nerve is shattered, for as the steel-barred door of the Mineola Jail closed behind her she pulled her curly veil from her face and broke down. Her husband and the sheriff, who took her in an automobile from her home here to the jail, assisted her to the top floor of the building.

The immediate cause of the arrest was the testimony given yesterday by Ellwood T. Hardes, an insurance agent, whom the authorities called the single reliable eye-witness to the crime. Hardes is under lock and key also. He is being detained as a material witness, for his story is of so great importance that the authorities said they feared an attempt might be made to get him out of the jurisdiction of the New York courts.

Barde's story, briefly told, is this: At seven o'clock on the night of the murder, Barde's wife, he determined to pay a professional visit to Dr. Carman. He went to his home to dress a minor injury to one of his heels. He left his home and walked to the physician's house. Arriving, he decided he could dress the injury himself and worked past the house and then turned around to begin his journey home. At that instant he heard an explosion. He thought it was caused by an automobile tire, but when he looked for the machine, he could not find it. He turned his eyes toward the lawn at the side of Dr. Carman's home. A woman, tall, well built, hairless, wearing a light shirtwaist and a dark skirt, was moving away from one of the windows at the side of the physician's office toward the rear of the louse. She was not running, not casually strolling around the lawn; she was walking "in a hurry," the witness said.

BURNS' BIRTHPLACE SAVED.

Suffragette Plot to Destroy Cottage Stopped Just in Time.

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 9.—An attempt to destroy the cottage at Ayr, where Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, was born, Jan. 25, 1759, was made just before daylight yesterday, by two members of a militant suffragette "arsen squad."

The two women were surprised by a night watchman as they were in the act of placing bombs against the doors and windows of the poet's birthplace, which is venerated as a shrine by the Scottish nation. The man captured one of the militants, but the other escaped.

The women wore stockings over their shoes, in order to deaden the noise and hide their footprints.

The arrested woman gave her name as Janet Arthur. She created a noisy scene when arraigned at the police court, fighting the wardens and shouting quotations from Burns' poems. She was remanded.

At 72 Murdered Husband.

LONDON, July 9.—Jealousy and crime in declining years were described on Tuesday in an extraordinary case of the Chamber Assizes, where a woman seventy-two years old was sentenced to death for the murder of her husband. She excused herself by alleging a love affair on the part of her husband with another woman.

The jury strongly recommended the woman to mercy, and it is unlikely that the sentence will be carried into effect.

Carried Nitro In Auto.

FINDLAY, Ohio, July 9.—Charles Armstrong and F. B. Longbaugh, all well-shooters, were instantly killed yesterday morning by the explosion of several hundred quarts of nitroglycerine which they were taking to Buckland to shoot an oil well. The men were literally blown to atoms. Not a shred of flesh an inch square can be found, and the automobile in which the explosive was being transported, only a small piece of the axle is left.

Eight Miles of Net Seized.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 9.—George Toner, the fishery inspector who watches this district of the St. Lawrence river, had just returned from an official trip. His biggest haul was made near Fiddlers' Elbow where he seized six sets of gill nets and four sets of hopp nets.

So far this season he has captured 63 sets of gill nets, two sets of trap nets and 17 gill lines, measuring eight miles.

NEARLY ALL TUBERCULOUS.

Sir William Osler Startles Audience In London.

LONDON, Eng., July 9.—Sir William Osler, regius professor of medicine at Oxford University, yesterday startled the huge audience attending the conference of the Association for the Prevention of Consumption by telling them that they were practically all tuberculous. He said: "If with the aid of radium and a microscope I could look at the chests of the audience I am addressing, in 50 per cent. of us I should discover a small focus or area of tuberculosis."

Sir William demanded in the interests of the state the establishment of rigid control over consumptions.

SARNIA NOT SURPRISED.

Revelation Concerning Smuggling of Chinamen Not New.

SARNIA, July 9.—One of the biggest Chinese smuggling syndicates in the country is reported to have been unearthed at Saginaw Tuesday in a ramshackle laundry building. Sarnia officials say there is no doubt but that such exists and that large motor boats and powerful autos are used to get the Chinamen from Canada to the United States by way of Port Huron.

It is well known here that this city is one of the three shipping points in the Celestial traffic. The other two points are Windsor and Niagara Falls. For instance, Lee Sing will arrive in Sarnia and start a laundry. Inside of a week's time a party of five or six Chinamen will come and visit him. They hang around two or three days and then disappear. Later Lee Sing sells his laundry to another Chinaman, and he, too, disappears. Lee Sing is none other than one of the many Chinese agents of the smuggling syndicate which has its main headquarters in Hong Kong, China.

The Sarnia authorities are more or less familiar with the traffic, but it is not Canada's business to prevent a Chinaman from leaving the country. In fact, it is a source of satisfaction, and, although any number of Chinamen may be under suspicion, the Canadian merely shrugs his shoulder and pays no more attention to the matter. It is alleged that Point Edward, or more particularly Sarnia Bay, is a locality from which more than one Chinaman is taken across to Port Huron in launches.

CHARGED BY DAUGHTER.

Guide Accused by Girl Arrested After Hard Fight.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 9.—Charged with crime by one of his daughters, David Green, 60, who lives at Bedford Mills, 30 miles from Kingston, and who is employed as a guide for fishermen and hunters, was arrested at his home yesterday morning by County Constable Robert Smith and City Constable Marshall Armstrong and brought to the police station. The accused was regarded as a desperate character and officers went well armed. Under a ruse they wanted him as a guide. They got Green to row them from his home across Buck Lake, and there they placed handcuffs on him. Although an old man he put up a lively fight and swore that, had he known they were policemen, he would have shot them. It is stated that for nights he has been sleeping near his door with a shotgun and revolver handy, he having got wind that the police were on his trail.

Accused has a family of eleven children and there are four girls.

WHOLESALE THREATS MADE.

Friend of Krafchenko Sends Letter To Chief Justice Howell.

Winnipeg, July 9.—The following is a copy of letter, written in red ink, received by Chief Justice Howell yesterday morning: "To the Criminal Judge: I herewith wish to notify the judge and everyone connected with judgment due to criminals, that should J. Krafchenko be hanged for the crime he is charged with that there is at this present moment a secret society with 2,053 members (citizens) who are determined and will physically ruin the street constables, shoot the executioner and give due punishment to all connected in the case, besides other city destructions, if the sentence be carried out.

VOTE STILL IN BALANCE

With a Scant Lead of Four Conservative Government May Be Unable to Muster a Majority After the Deferred Elections and Re-counts Are All In-Turnover Is Huge.

WINNIPEG, July 11.—Reports received thus far have not definitely decided the standing of the parties in the next Legislature, but they indicate clearly enough that the Government will have a small majority, may be increased to a working efficiency by the three bye-elections yet to be held in the deferred northern seats.

The Liberals claim a tie of 21 seats each, with four to hear from. These four are claimed by the Government, who also claim several of the seats placed by the Opposition in their own column. A detached estimate might put the final standing at 25 Conservatives and 21 Liberals, with three deferred elections, making the total of 49. What the Government side now claims is 27, as against their opponents' 19. Liberals claim that results in six seats now standing in the Government columns are so close that recounts are inevitable, such seats being Kildonan and St. Andrews, where Hon. Dr. Montague has at present a majority of but four, whereas at the recent bye-election it stood in the hundreds.

The Liberal sweep in Centre and South Winnipeg is one of the most surprising things of the campaign.

DYNAMITER RELEASED.

Luke Dillon, Alias Carl Dullman, Is Set Free and Departed.

KINGSTON, July 13.—"I'm a lucky man all right." This remark came from Luke Dillon, alias Carl Dullman, as he passed out of the big gate at the penitentiary Saturday afternoon after being given his release. Dillon was a life convict. Release came about after a fight lasting two years. He was the leader in the Welland Canal dynamite outrage of 14 years ago. Since May, 1909, he has been in the penitentiary, having been given a life sentence. Dillon belonged to Philadelphia, Pa., and there was engaged in the shoemaking business, and with two other men, Nolan and Walsh, he aimed to strike a blow at Canada on behalf of Fenian organizations in the United States. Their game went wrong and all three landed in the penitentiary. Dillon's plans were foiled, but had they been successful there would have been great loss of life and Canadian shipping would have suffered a great deal. After entering the penitentiary, Dillon declared his sole object in making the attempt on the canal was not to cause loss of life, but to lead a blow at England, which the Clan-na-Gael hates.

For the past two years great efforts were put forth to secure his release, and the sum of $50,000 was subscribed. Dillon's part against the murderers in the celebrated Dr. Cronin case, Chicago, won a long way in influencing the Canadian Government to free and deport him.

During his long stay in the penitentiary his conduct was good and this was reported to Hon. C. J. Doherty.

The ex-convict was taken on the steamer America by two guards and a local clergyman accompanied the guards as far as Cape Vincent, where Dillon was placed on American soil and allowed to go his way. He is in fine health; his long stay in prison has not affected him much.

STORSTAD AT FAULT

First Officer Tuftens Responsible For Wreck, Says Report.

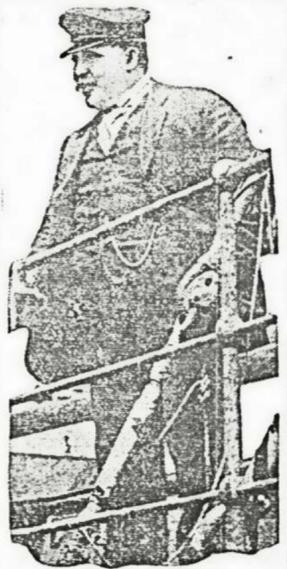

CAPT. ANDERSEN IS ANGRY

He Says an Action Will Be Entered Against the C.P.R.—Commissioners Find That the Storstad's Action in Altering Her Course in the Fog Is to Blame For Collision—Reforms Asked.

QUEBEC, July 13.—The whole blame for the disaster to the Empress of Ireland in the St. Lawrence on May 29, when the C.P.R. liner sank after being rammed by the collier Storstad with 1,074 souls on board, was placed upon the shoulders of Alfred Tuftens, the first officer of the Storstad, which investigated the disaster and which delivered its findings in the court house here Saturday morning. The commission found that Tuftens was wrong and negligent in changing the course of his ship in a fog. Captain Kendall of the C.P.R. liner was found blameless, and his actions up to and after the disaster approved of by the commissioner.

The passage condemning the action of First Officer Tuftens was as follows:

"We regret to have to impute blame to any one in connection with this lamentable disaster, and we should not do so if we felt that any reasonable alternative was left to us. We can, however, come to no other conclusion than that Mr. Tuftens was wrong and negligent in keeping the navigation of the vessel in his own hands, and in failing to call the captain when he saw the fog coming on."

CAPTAIN ANDERSEN (Of the Storstad who says damage action will be begun.)

The report further argued that the accident was not caused by special characteristics in the St. Lawrence river route and might have happened under similar circumstances in any other river.

An interesting part of the report was the suggestions made for safeguarding life at sea in future. It was found that portholes were open and that the vessel sank so rapidly that watertight doors could not be closed, and it was proposed that in future all ports and as many watertight doors as possible should be closed in a fog. The use of rafts that would float away when a vessel went down and a change in the system of taking on pilots at Father Point were also suggested.

The court room was again crowded by Quebec people and many Canadians and Americans now on a visit to the city. The dramatic touch lent to the enquiry when Captain Kendall and the officers and men who had escaped from the vessel were present was lacking, as they had returned to England. Mr. Tuftens was also absent, but Captain Andersen of the Storstad and his wife were in the court room.

Captain Andersen was wrathful as he left the court. "I did not think Lord Mersey would be such a fool," he angrily exclaimed, "and you can say so in your paper if you like. He may be Lord Mersey, but I can tell you if he ever had any reputation he is going to lose it over this case."

"But," declared Captain Andersen, "don't you imagine that this thing will stop here. We people in Norway are too much interested in seeing it through. There will be plenty of work in the courts, both in Canada and Britain. We shall start a suit for damages against the C.P.R. here at once."

Hunter Sues For Libel. GODERICH, Ont., July 13.—John B. Hunter, the chief witness in the Elliott Macklin election conspiracy, who was before Magistrate Kelly on Thursday last, has instructed his solicitor, Mr. L. E. Dancy, to take action for libel against The Toronto Globe, The Toronto Mail and Empire and The Goderich Star for statements made in connection with the trial.

Hay Overheated; Barn Burns. PRESTON, July 13.—The large barn, near Doon, of John Shee caught fire yesterday afternoon through the heating of 30 tons of hay, just put in the barn. On account of no fire protection, the barn and the contents were destroyed, with three horses several cattle and some chickens.

IS HUERTA LEAVING?

Rumor Says Provisional President Will Resign To-day.

VERA CRUZ, July 13.—The resignation of Provisional President Huerta may be placed before Congress to-day, the general departing immediately thereafter for Puerto Mexico, or Vera Cruz, under British escort, according to reports in circulation here last night, which originated from a source that is usually well informed. Odolfo de la Huerta, Minister of Finance in Huerta's Cabinet, who arrived here yesterday en route to Europe, while refusing to confirm these reports, said that Huerta's retirement at an early date was not unlikely, and that from now until Monday was "but a short time to await developments."

Reports from the Mexican capital also state that Francisco Carbajal, the newly-appointed Foreign Minister, replacing Esteva Ruiz, the acting Minister, who will arrive here to-day on his way to Europe, will be named Provisional President.

Secret Senate Session. MEXICO CITY, Jan 13.—The Senate held a short session yesterday afternoon behind closed doors. It is believed that the Niagara protocol was discussed, but if the Senate took any action with reference to it, this is not known.

The remnant of the garrison at Guadalupe arrived here yesterday. The officers report that Gen. Jose Maria Mier, the Governor of Jalisco and commander-in-chief of the Federal forces at Guadalupe, was captured by the Constitutionalists, and they fear, was shot.

Federals Hold Guaymas. SALTILLO, Mexico, July 11, via Laredo, Texas, July 13.—Previous reports that the seaport town of Guaymas had been evacuated by Federals were in error, according to advices yesterday from Gen. Alvarado, commanding the Constitutionalists besieging that city. Alvarado reports he has moved his forces so as to surround Guaymas completely on the land side.

"TWELFTH" HONORED.

Celebrations Held In Many Parts of Ontario on Saturday.

TORONTO, July 13.—Many Orange celebrations were held Saturday throughout the province and others will be held to-day. In every case the attendances have been large. Prominent men spoke all over the province.

The celebration in Toronto was the largest in history. Ten thousand men paraded, among them a contingent of 1,000 from Hamilton as well as lodges from the surrounding country towns and villages. A big program of speeches was provided at Exhibition Park.

London Orangemen at Church. LONDON, Ont., July 13.—London Orangemen, 1,000 strong, observed Religious Freedom Sunday yesterday afternoon by marching to divine service at the Church of St. John the Evangelist, where the sermon was preached by Rev. Harry Ashby, a member of the order. Rev. Canon Craig assisting. A large delegation of local Orangemen are taking in the big district celebration in St. Thomas to-day.

"Hands Off Ulster." MARKDALE, July 13.—"Hands off Ulster" was the burden of all the speeches at the big Grey county Orange celebration here Saturday, which was attended by 1,500 Orangemen of fifty lodges. The chief speakers to the Orangemen were Hon. T. S. Sproule, M.P., Hon. I. B. Lucas, M.P.P., and Rev. R. M. Phalen.

Five Thousand at Huntingdon. BELLEVILLE, July 13.—On Saturday at West Huntingdon upwards of five thousand people took part in the Orange celebration. After the parade speeches were delivered by officials of the order and Messrs. E. G. Porter, M.P., W. B. Northrop, M.P., Sandy Grant, M.P.P., R. J. Cooke, M.P.P., and others.

SIX PERSONS DEAD.

Cloudburst In Lebanon Valley Followed by Flood.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 13.—Six dead and many injured is the known result of a flood which swept through Lebanon Valley on the heels of a cloudburst. Damage to the extent of many thousands of dollars was done in the mining and farming region. Many miners, caught in shafts and cross tunnels narrowly escaped. One of the men who perished near Lebanon stepped on a high tension wire and another was killed by lightning. Overflowing of a creek in the Lebanon district flooded thousands of acres of corn and wheat, while hail that accompanied the storm destroyed much of the fruit crop. Twenty-five men were caught in a mine 200 feet below the surface at Archbald, near Scranton, when a dam burst and flooded the mine workings. They all managed to escape to the surface.

Two Fatally Injured.

KINGSTON, July 13.—Two persons here are near death's door because of injuries sustained in falls.

John Marshall, a convict at the penitentiary, fell off a wall there on Saturday and received probably fatal injuries. Workmen have been building up a wall, and Marshall was helping them. Peter McLeod fell from the attic of his house, a distance of 30 feet, and had two ribs broken and a lung punctured. He will likely die.

Huge Gathering In Glasgow.

GLASGOW, July 13.—Twenty-five thousand West Scotland Orangemen held a demonstration at Blythra, Lanarkshire, Saturday afternoon. The grand master of Scotland, Rev. David Ness, declared that their policy regarding Home Rule was "no surrender." Great crowds witnessed the procession through the streets, and lively skirmishes occurred, but only four persons were arrested.

SURPRISED THE CAPTIVE.

An Incident That Aroused Varied Emotions All Around.

In his "Reminiscences" General Basil W. Duke of the Confederate army tells of an incident he witnessed just after the close of the war:

"One morning about 9 o'clock I was sitting on the platform of a station waiting for my train when my attention was attracted to a squad of Federal soldiers who had evidently been on guard during the night, but were now getting their breakfast. They were well supplied with rations and seemed in high spirits.

"Just then I caught sight of a lank, hungry looking fellow who was unmistakably an ex-Confederate. He wore a ragged, faded gray jacket, with the buttons cut off, a pair of most dilapidated blue trousers and an old canvas haversack, as empty as extra-sidereal space, hung around his neck. If he had eaten a square meal within six months' appearances were deceitful. He was partially hidden behind a cotton bale, whence he watched the Yankee spread with eyes that threatened to protrude across the intervening distance.

"About the time I saw him the 'Yanks' also caught sight of him. They held a short consultation; then one of them sprang up, started toward him and shouted out:

"Hello, reb! Come this way; we want you!"

"For some reason—perhaps because I was sick and peevish—I conceived the idea that they wanted to arrest him, and my blood boiled with indignation at so totally an unprovoked act of oppression.

"The 'Johnnie' evidently entertained the same opinion, for he began a rather rapid retreat. A fresh summons, however, re-enforced by a volley of threats, induced him to turn and approach the party, with an attempted dignity of demeanor that was ludicrous compared with his hasty retrograde movement.

"When he reached the spot where the 'grub' was the Yanks seized him, made him sit down and began to exert themselves to appease his manifest hunger. I have known some extraordinary feeders, but I honestly believe I have never seen any other two men eat as much as that fellow did. He kept at it steadily for not less than an hour, while the Yanks aided and encouraged him to the utmost. He drank six tin cups of coffee. He swelled visibly, and I wondered how his frail garments stood the tension.

"When at length he finished his captors crammed his weatherbeaten old haversack full of hard tack and bacon and sent him on his way rejoicing. "It is scarcely necessary to say that my own feelings in regard to the incident had very materially changed during its progress."

The Gallery's Verdict. In the old days the proprietor of a music hall always used to walk up and down the center gangway during the performances and restrain the exuberance of his patrons. One night a lady singer began a doleful ballad in a still more doleful voice, and at once received "the bird" from the gallery. "That'll do, boys," said the proprietor. "Order, please! Give the artiste a chance." But when the performance was finished he took off his hat, bowed to the gallery and remarked, "I beg pardon, you were quite right."—London Express.

Life.

In certain of its essential respects, a madhouse; in others, a pageant; in still others, a commonplace succession of humdrum incidents. At times you are quite sure it is all a gray monotony; again it begins to arise and spread itself like an Arabian night. And the unexpected breaks loose—a series of strange encounters, flashes of vivid color, bright eager personalities jostling and strutting in excess of vitality. —Harper's Weekly.

Hats and the Sexes.

A woman can take a dime to the ever counter of the butcher's shop and strike a better bargain than a man could make; but a man can wear a two dollar hat till it turns green, while a woman can wear a twenty-five dollar one only till her friends know it by sight.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Favor She Won't Ask.

"Aunt Clara," said four-year-old Flossie, "I want to ask a favor of you." "Well, what is it, dear?" asked her aunt. "When I grow up," continued the little miss, "will you lend me one of your long skirts until I can have mine let down?"—Chicago News.

How to Tell.

"How can you tell when a woman is only shopping?" "When they intend to buy they ask to see something cheaper. When they're shopping they ask if you haven't something more expensive in stock."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

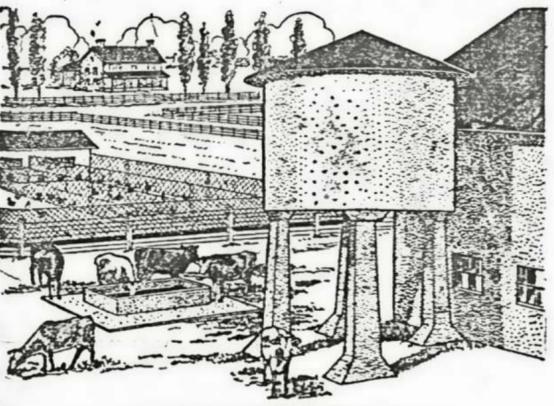

Its Moral Advantage.

"Aviation is usually conducive to the control of one's temper." "How so?" "It would never do when several hundred feet up in the air for one to get put out, would it?"—Baltimore American.

Settlement Work.

"Did you hear about Muggins taking up settlement work?" "Yes. He usually works his creditors for 50 cents on the dollar."—Town Topics.

Your own words and actions are the only things you will be called to account for.—A Kempia.

Concrete Tanks and Troughs Never Rot or Leak. THE most practical tanks, whether for water or sewage, are built of concrete. They never rust, rot, dry out or leak. They never need new hoops or paint. They last a lifetime and seldom require repairing, which makes them the cheapest tanks that can be built. Clean, Sanitary Watering Troughs are just as necessary as the animals that drink from them. The farmer's best interests are being served when his stock is insured a plentiful supply of clear, clean water from a trough that is permanent and sanitary. "What the Farmer can do with Concrete" is the name of a handsome free book that tells all about concrete tanks, watering troughs and other uses of concrete that will save every farmer many dollars. LIBERAL LEADER NORRIS, Who has shaken long-standing power and can only be attributed to a hostile Orange and church sentiment.

The election was fought almost entirely on two issues: the Coldwell amendments to the education act providing Roman Catholic teachers for Roman Catholic children in the public schools, and the abolition of the bar. The lining up of the Orangemen to "save the little red school-house" is believed to have been the most potent influence.

VERY LITTLE TO SPARE.

Roblin Will Do Well If He Has a Majority of Two.

WINNIPEG, July 13.—The standing of the parties in the next Legislature of Manitoba still remains in doubt, two days after the elections. Liberal and Conservative claims still differ, and the Government forces still believe in a 25 to 21 standing, which includes the two doubtful seats in St. George and St. Rose. Last night, however the Liberals, while conceding St. Rose, claim St. George as a Liberal victory, giving St. George, Liberal, over Hamilton, Conservative, by a majority, with three polls to come. Of these three polls, two, they declare, will go Liberal and the Conservative, leaving the final result a Liberal victory.

Should the Liberals really be successful in taking the St. George, the standing would be 24 to 22, the Conservatives having formerly claimed both these seats in arriving at the 25 to 21 standing. The result cannot be settled with any degree of accuracy, however, until the returning officer's official figures are turned in.

STEAMER GOES ASHORE.

The Canada Strikes Rocks at Cape Chatte In Fog.

RIMOUSKI, Que., July 13.—The steamer Canada, of the Gaspe and Baie de Chaleurs Co., Ltd., on her return trip from Montreal to Campbellton, N.B., struck the rocks off Cape Chatte Saturday night in a dense fog, a half mile east of Cape Chatte Light-house. The Canada carried about one hundred passengers for Quebec and Montreal, and several cargo. The weather was calm and the grounding caused little excitement on board. All the passengers were placed in boats and landed on shore, about half a mile from the stranded steamer.

The steamer Strathcona left Rimouski wharf late yesterday to try to beat the Canada. As the Canada went on the rocks at high tide it is anticipated the work will be difficult. Cape Chatte Light-house is seventy-five miles east of Rimouski.

Mob Lynched Negro.

ORANGEBURG, S.C., July 13.—Rosa Carson, a Negro, was taken from the jail at Ellmore, near here yesterday and lynched by a mob. She is said to have confessed to beating to death the 12-year-old daughter of D. F. Bell Saturday.

PORT HOPE, JULY 17, 1914

Canadian Express money orders for sale at The Guide office.

Mr. Leslie Thomas has opened a Boat and Shoe repair shop on Mill street, one door north of Royal Hotel. All work neatly done.

JULY 29th.—Keep this date in mind. The Annual Congregational and S. S. Picnic of St Paul's Presbyterian Church will be held in the Town Park.

THE OFFICIAL AUTOMOBILE ROAD GUIDE of Canada for 1914, containing maps, road routes and general information on laws and regulations just issued, and now on sale at THE GUIDE OFFICE.

HEARD ON THE TRAIN.—They say celery is a splendid thing if you require sleep. Not in my case. I have to get up at four o'clock in the morning to take it to market.—Judge.

Splendid! Well worth the money! Is the universal verdict of every house-keeper who buys Campbell's Varnish Stain for staining and varnishing Floors, Woodwork, Chairs, etc. Easily applied. Dries hard. Wears well. G. A. Outram sells it.

KEEP DATE OPEN.—The ladies of Cobourg will hold a Kermess in the Armouries at Cobourg on July 22, 23 and 24. This is in aid of the hospital and no doubt will receive the liberal patronage it deserves. Keep the date open.

OPEN CONFESSION.—Father—Come my son, I cannot allow you to stay out so late at night. When I was your age my father had me in every night at 7 o'clock. Boy—very queer father you must have had, then. Father—A jolly sight better father than you've got, you young rascal!

GOOD NEWS.—Street surveyor Thompson and his gang of men are engaged putting down a cement walk on Barrett street, from the railway track to Cavan street. This will be much appreciated by the hundreds of our citizens who pass that way daily.

LEE JIM LAUNDRY.—For first class work the Lee Jim Laundry opposite the Guide Office leads. Orders called for and delivered. Phone 209. Satisfaction guaranteed. Prices on top shirts reduced to 8c; blouses 10c. Kee Chun is the new proprietor of the Canada Cafe.

AUTO ACCIDENTS.—A partial list of automobile accidents which occurred last Sunday includes eleven disasters in which sixteen persons were killed, four fatally injured, and at least ten others seriously and probably permanently injured, and every one of them due to high speed.

A BRAVE OFFICER.—As the officers of the British squadron, that has been visiting Reval, Russia, were assembled on deck prior to leaving for Kronstadt, on a recent Sunday, a boat occupied by peasants capsized a short distance from the British cruiser, Blonde. An officer in the cruiser plunged into the water in full dress uniform, and rescued the occupants.

TAKEN AT HIS WORD.—A suburban minister, during his discourse one Sunday morning, said: "In each blade of grass there is sermonee." The following day one of his flock discovered the good man pushing a lawn mower about, and paused to say: "Well, parson, I'm glad to see you engaged in cutting your sermons short.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

VERY FOOLISH.—At Bannock, O., Friday, John Duha, a miner, aged 25, lusty and strong, won a bet there by eating three gallons of red cherries. Shortly after the feast a doctor was required. The physician left the gourmand some medicine to be taken at intervals during the night, but Duha swallowed the contents of the bottle all at once, and was found dead in bed in the morning.

NEW PROPRIETOR.—Mr. Edward Wolfram has purchased the baking business of Mr. George V. Hughes. His baking is for sale in all the leading stores, and phone orders to 26b will receive prompt attention. Mr. Wolfram is prepared to cater for banquets, dinners, &c. Wedding cakes a specialty. Mr. Wolfram is one of our youngest business men and with the enterprise he is showing is bound to make a success. Give him a trial.

Every ending is also a beginning. When a man sees his finish, it usually gives him quite a start.

OH, GIRLS.—If any woman still has a sleeve of the 1897 model, she could use it as a skirt this year by making a little slit in the wrist.

MARRIED.—The marriage took place last Monday evening at the Methodist church of Hilda Arkless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Arkless, Barrett street, to Mr. Melville Kemp.

ST. THOMAS' TITLE TO FAME.—The largest tank in Canada is located at St. Thomas. The capacity of the tank is 600,000 gallons. The largest tank in Mexico is Huerta, capacity unknown.

POLICE COURT.—Two young lads were arrested yesterday for breaking into the bakeshop of George V. Hughes. They were kept in the lock up over night and this morning sentence was suspended until July 18th.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.—When you see a man and a woman sitting together in the theatre, solemnly reading the jokes on the program between the acts, you don't have to be a mind-reader to know they are married.

A New York nerve specialist declares that alcohol, high heels and corsets are driving many people crazy and turning the United States into a big insane asylum. Yet they say the Suffragettes wear neither high heels nor corsets.

GRANTED A DIVORCE.—On Saturday, June 13th, before Judge Hosmer in the Wayne County Circuit Court, Detroit, Mich., Mr. William George Mephram of Cobourg was granted a divorce from his wife, Rose Hannah Mephram, for desertion. The case was uncontested.

SHOE SHINING BUSINESS FAILURE.—The "shoe-shining king" of Ottawa complains that his line of business is particularly bad just now, and he fears that some of the stands may not be able to hold out till next spring. But this does not necessarily mean hard times. People who take to riding in automobiles get out of the way of the shoeblack.

MONEY PUT TO A GOOD USE.—It is said that Ford, of Detroit, is going to devote some of his millions to cancer research. They could not be better employed. A lot of money appears to be directed in this way just now; but still the physicians continue to make discouraging reports. Knowledge is something which money cannot always buy. Still it can release an increased number of experts for research work; and the more people there are hunting—intelligently—for a thing, the better is the chance of finding it. Certainly few boons could be conferred on the human race which could equal a cure for cancer.

COBOURG'S TANGLEFOOT.—John Flaherty, an Irishman, thirty-seven years of age, was seized with an epileptic fit at the station here on Wednesday night, and for a time his condition was considered serious. Dr. Hayden succeeded in bringing him around after working for some time. He claims to have been one of the firemen on the Empress of Ireland when it sunk off Father Point a few weeks ago. He was on his way to Toronto and got off the train to get a drink at the station bar. He drank not wisely but too well, resulting in the fit coming on him.—Cobourg Star.

THE CIVILIZED BOY.—It is a curious circumstance that civilized men and women living in highly civilized communities where youth is surrounded with unusual perils and temptations pay less attention to the training of youth than the rude barbarians, who do their utmost to promote individual efficiency. While the boy savage is always carefully trained in the art of making his living and fulfilling his duty to his tribe, the civilized boy, in spite of his better home and the benefit of schools and churches, is permitted too much liberty in the choice of his surroundings and associates. While society seems to be busily engaged in rescue and reformation work, it is apparently doing too little preventive work at the source of the stream of humanity, and so the boy bandit has become a public menace through the neglect of corrective training which should have shaped him for some useful and honorable career.—Detroit News.

WOMEN ARE KILLED

Misses Louisa and Mary Starr Meet Death at Crossing.

TRAIN HIT THEIR BUGGY

In Extreme Haste To Get Across the Track Before C. N. R. Express Near Mount Albert, Sisters Rush Into Danger—Growth of Bushes Hid the Approaching Train From View of Girls.

NEWMARKET, July 15.—A tragedy was caused at the C. N. R. crossing at Mount Albert yesterday morning by the apparent haste of the Misses Louisa and Mary Starr, who lost their lives, when the C. N. R. express crashed into the buggy, in an attempt to pass over the tracks in front of the on-coming train. Two horses were also cut to pieces, and the vehicle completely demolished.

The accident occurred at 11.40 a.m. The girls were driving into Mount Albert from the east, and the train was proceeding north. The danger at this point is enhanced by a thick growth of bushes, which precludes the railway traffic from the sight of those approaching the crossing.

In this particular instance it appears that the two girls were aware of the presence of the train in the vicinity, but thinking they could "make" the crossing, continued on their journey, which had such a tragic result.

The train, which was moving at a high rate of speed, reached the crossing as the horses and buggy were squaring on the tracks. Death was instantaneous, the bodies were cut to pieces.

Coroner J. H. Wesley and jury visited the scene of the accident shortly after noon and adjourned the inquest for a week. The Misses Starr had managed a farm at Whitechurch since their father's death nearly two years ago.

"FOURTEENTH" IN FRANCE

Entire Nation Turns Out to Celebrate the Fall of the Bastille.

PARIS, July 15.—Half a million Parisians, celebrating the fall of the Bastille, were thrilled yesterday at the opening by the President of the republic's annual review of the Paris garrison, when twenty military aeroplanes rose at the far end of the Longchamp's race course and in perfect alignment of fours swished at full speed past the Presidential stand. A mighty roar of enthusiastic cheering swept over the ground and this was kept up as the 30,000 troops, comprising cavalry, artillery, infantry and other branches marched in close order before the reviewing stand.

Another minute of excitement was provided at the close of the review by a charge of 2,000 cuirassiers in bright steel breastplates and brass helmets, waving their swords, who galloped at full speed in a single line to within 30 paces of the President. Fireworks displays, military bands, public dancing, free performances at theatres, both afternoon and evening, in Paris and all the other cities, towns and villages of France, are all provided at the expense of the Government.

RESTITUTION TO BE ASKED

Southampton Railway Will Be Made to Refund $40,500.

OTTAWA, July 15.—When the report of A. R. Pringle, K.C., who investigated the cost of the Southampton Railway of New Brunswick, is made the Government will take steps to force restitution of the subsidy which the commissioner states was fraudulently obtained from the Dominion.

The ordinary subsidy is $3,200, but where the cost of the road runs up to $21,000 a double subsidy is paid. In the case of the Southampton Railway the figures of cost were padded so as to make it appear $21,000 a mile and $6,000 a mile on the recommendation of Mr. Johnson was paid the road. The road is some 13 miles long, and the total subsidy paid was $81,000. The Government will take force restitution of half this amount, or $40,500. The Department of Railways and Canals accepted the recommendation of its engineer, E. V. Johnson, who has been suspended.

Arbitrator Agreed To

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 15.—The Swiss Government has officially acceded to the request made by both sides for the appointment of an arbitrator to settle the differences between these two countries in the event of the negotiations which are now going on at Smyrna failing. A Graeco-Turkish commission is endeavoring to reach a settlement on the emigration question and an exchange of property belonging to Greek and Turkish refugees.

Dragged By Horses

GUELPH, July 15.—A serious accident occurred yesterday morning when Mr. Robert Caulfield's farm near Arkell, almost lost his life. He was mowing in one of his fields, touching the highway. Something went wrong with the mowing machine and the horses ran away. Mr. Caulfield was thrown to the ground and dragged the length of the field. He was badly hurt, and is in a critical condition.

Master Painters Convene

BELLEVILLE, July 15.—The eleven annual convention of the Canadian Association of Master Painters and Decorators was opened in this city yesterday with a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the Dominion. President George Metcalfe, of Hamilton, delivered his annual address and a number of papers were read. The convention will last until Friday afternoon.

OUR TERMS—Strictly cash and one price to all.

REASONABLE REQUEST

—Fifty men who work in the sewers of London and who were engaged at the Cock-lane Depot have gone on strike. "We don't ask for warm baths, but we do look for a little soap and water when we've finished work," said one of the strikers.

A YOUNG HERO

—A young boy named Sherwood was seized with a cramp while bathing in the river at Rye Sussex, Great Britain, and a friend named Underdown, aged nine years, went to the rescue fully dressed. He succeeded in pushing Sherwood to the shore, but lost his own life.

LARGE CANNON

—There is testing at the Krupp range at Neppern, Germany, what is claimed to be the largest cannon in the world. The barrel of the gun, from breech block to muzzle, is sixty feet long, and with it a shell can be thrown fifteen miles. The cost of the weapon is in the neighborhood of $100,000.

A STRANGE FUNERAL

—A dog received a full dress funeral at the Strawberry Vale Home For Dogs, Finchley, G. B. A barrow covered with crepe was the hearse, while a deep black cloth covered the coffin. A dog which had been a playmate of the dead animal came to the funeral with a wreath in its mouth and acted as chief mourner, carrying the wreath to the graveside.

DELIGHTFUL OUTING

—Those who were fortunate enough to take in the ride to Cobourg, Wednesday, July 8th, in Capt McMahon's gasoline launch, to hear the Rochester Park Band, which come over with the Annual outing of the Rochester City Council, can only say that they wished the trips were more frequent. The trip down and back was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

—What near came being a fatal automobile accident happened on Monday morning when Messrs. W. Douglas and Roy Taylor were on their way to the Keene station. The car skidded at the bottom of the hill near the station, and turned a complete summersault. Mr. Douglas, who was driving the car, escaped with a few injuries, while Mr. Taylor was less fortunate, being severely cut about the head and face.

ESCAPED PRISONERS

—The police have received word from the Central Reformatory authorities at Whitby to keep a lookout for 3 prisoners who escaped from there on July 2nd. One is James Wilson, convicted of larceny at Lindsay; described as 18 years, 5 feet, 4 inches tall, 144 lbs. in weight, light brown hair, fair complexion, tattooed Indian on arm; also Edgar V. Sutton, convicted at Toronto for indecent assault, described as dark brown hair, weight 145 lbs., tattooed nose and butterfly on right arm, scar on left eyebrow, and deep sunken eyes; Sydney Woods, convicted at Port Arthur for burglary, 147 lbs., 5 feet, 7 inches tall, dark complexion, tattooed Indian's head on left arm.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

—Is capital punishment a deterrent to crime? Is it civilized or human? Once in the history of war the conquered were slaughtered wholesale. They still shoot the surviving officers in Mexico, but this custom has fallen into praiseworthy desuetude elsewhere. Barring unusually depraved forms of crime, would it not be better to make the offender work out a living penance for his deed? If not it is doubtful whether a study of execution will do other than present a series of phenomena which, while differing in their outward manifestations, present nothing on which to base any definite conclusions as to their relative desirability in the matter of a "painless" death.
