NON-JURY SITTINGS

Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, Chief Justice of the Kings's Bench, presided at court in Cobourg last week. In re. Estate David E. Inglis (Inglis v. Inglis)—It appeared from the evidence that David E. Inglis. a farmer of about fitty-seven years of age living in the township of Cramahe, in the County of Northumberland, made a will on the 4th of July 1911, bequeathing all his tributed nearly nine hundred votes. property consisting of 100 acres, perty of an aggregate value of about 60000 to a young lad of about fifteen years of age, Percy Inglis, a second cousin, whom he appointed sole executor of the will. In view of the fact, that he had a wife and two brothers tiving, as well as nephews and of the further fact that he had become deranged to such an extent as to make an attempt to commit suicide by cutting his throat in the month of March following the will and died in the Insane Asylum at Kingston, the relatives filed a Caveat against the admission of the will to Probate when application was made on behalf of the Executor. The Plaintiffs proved the due execution of the will in accordance with the formalities of the Wills Act of Ontario in the office of Mr. George Drewry of Brighton and proceeded to call a number of witnesses, neighbors and others resisting the will. At the conclusion of the case, the Judge heard argument after which he delivered judgment sustaining the will but directing that the costs of the Solicitor for the defence, fixed at S150, should be paid out of the Estate, because he considered there was some ground justifying the investigation of the matter before the

HUNTING BEAR IN NORTH HARVEY

Mr Louis Parker, Jr., had two traps out for bear this season, on the Tye ridge, but they were not productive until a short time ago. He decided to have a run round to the traps and take them up, and the first traps he came to had a bear sure enough. It was a two year old, of the lady variety, and say she was in the height of fashion. Tight skirts, thin as a rail, weight 80 lbs. She was the limit of ultra tashion all right. Louis carried her out on his shoulder to Phil Boucher, a distance of halt a mile. When the pelt was removed the rest of the lady was about ready for a natural museum. Dressed she was a fashion plate, and undressed an xray plate. She must have been in at the home of Mrs. G. Wragg on floats, the White Swan, the Seaspoor condition last fall when she went into retirement, and the feeding since she came out this sprin; could not have been of the Mulin's baby description. A GROWING SUCCESS

Grand Trunk Will Extend "Safety First" Movement This Month

The "Safety First" Movement, introduced on the Grand Trunk about one year ago, has been found, after a thorough test, to be such an effective means of preventing injuries to employees, patrons and others that it has been decided to extend the work to the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Mr. Geo. Bradshaw, Safety Engineer, who has had charge of the work since its inception will exten'd the organization to the new system under the direction of Mr. Morley Donaldson, Vice-President and General Manager, who is sparing no effort to give employees and patrons of the System the benefit of every approved method of modern railroad operation.

The remarkable success of the Movement on the Grand Trunk has been due in large measure to the hearty co-operation of the employees who have become not only interested, but really enthusiastic, in carrying on the "safety campaign." There is a most commendable disposition prevailing on the part of employes to see how careful they can be in the discharge of their duties and to see which Division, Terminal or cord. Speed With Which Probe Has Been Conducted Constitutes a Record For Big Marine Disaster Inquiries-Lawyer For Sailors' Union Argues For Seamen

Enough to Man All Boats. QUEBEC, June 26 .- After a day spent mostly in the consideration of technical evidence from John Reid, a naval architect from Montreal, the Empress of Ireland Wreck Enquiry yesterday afternoon exhausted the long list of witnesses summoned to give testimony before it concerning the ramming of the liner by the col-Her Storstad on May 29 off Father Point, and heard the address of one of the counsel, George Gibson of Quebec, representing the National Sailors and Firemen's Union of Great Britain and Ireland. Yesterday morning the first and only woman to give evidence before the commission, Miss end, of Australia, was called.

Mr. Reid, called br the Storstad lawyers, gave testimon, consisting principally of flat contradictions of that put forward by Percy Hillhouse, connected with the Glasgow shipbuilding firm which constructed the Empress. He contended that the angle a' which the ships came together was 40 Jegrees, Listea of 80 degrees as laid down by Mr. Hillhouse and that only one watertight compart-ment was penet ated by the collier's nose as against two claimed by Mr. Hillhouse to have been opened up. while he believed the water reached other parts of the ship through open watertight doors and portholes. That portholes admited water was claimed in statements of passengers read during the day.

The enquiry looks like creating a record for investigations of its character, being much shorter than the Titanic and a number of other probes into 'ig marine disasters.

Lord Mersey commented to the rep ters yesterda; on the speed with which the enquiry had been carried on, and also on the fairness with to see if they were alright. Fire tion with the excellent service offer- which unsel have acted towards each other.

It is expecte- that these sessions will last about two weeks. It is thought the decision of the commission will be delivered at Quebec, although this is not yet decided upon.

With the exception of Capt. Kendall, First Officer Jones and Engineer Brennan, all the C. P. R. witnesses were allowed by the commission to go home on the Vir, inian, which sailed for Liverpool yesterday afternoon. The Storstad wit lesses were given a similar permission yesterday. Counsel Gibson in his address p. inted out that there had been no cowardice on the part of the crew, and contended for a larger quota of able-bodied seamen, at least two men for each boat, The Empress had only 19 A. B.'s to 42 boats.

RIMOUSKI, June 26 .- With steam up and all ready to resume their search for the 800 dead, and incidentally the two million dollars in silver and copper encased in the sunken Empress, the divers were deterred from starting out by the strong wild, which made it useless for the Marle Josephine to start dut from Rimouski wharf. Her convoy, the Strathcona, had just returned from Quebec after a foggy run with Captain Staunton, commodore of the C. P. R. fleet, and Captain Haakon Kjerlande, of the Quebec Salvage Co., on board.

The new diving apparatus has not yet arrived, said Captain Staunton, but it is on the way from England and should be here soon.

Butler Aspinall Delivers Three-Hour 'Huerta and Carranza Are Expected to Summary of Evidence and Insists T' t Hard Porting of Storstad's Helm Brought About Collision -None of Crew of Empress Derelict, He Claims.

QUEBEC. June 27 .- Because her wheel was first put to port and then, without the authority of the officer in charge, put hard aport when she had steerage way, Butler Aspinall, K.C., in the course of his address to the Empress of Ireland Wreck Commission yesterday afternoon, contended that the Storstad was responsible for the disaster on May 29, in which 1,014 people lost their lives. Mr. As-pinall asked the commission to find that the crew of the Storstad were inaccurate when they claimed the collier did not answer her helm and reasoned that the change in the course of the vessel on the port helm took her into the side of the stationary liner at right angles and at sufficient speed to cause the wound from which the Empress capsized. If no such change had taken place, he said, the two ships would have passed

Mr. Aspinall further declared that to find that the Empress starboarded her helm, as assumed by the Storstad legal battery, would be to charge perjury to Captain Kindall, who claimed no alteration took place in the heading of his ship, and that she was stopped like a log in the water, as indicated by the signals heard on the collier.

In his address, which occupied three hours, only while scoffing at the idea of Captain Kendall telling a deliberate lie when he only recently faced death, did Mr. Aspinall become at all dramatic. For the rest he was calmly and coldly argumental, reliev-ing the tedium of such an extended Clort o the court-room by touches of humorous or cutting sarcasm. The c-owd broke into a laugh when he described the unanimity with which the Storstad's officers recalled that they had ascertained that the vessel's heading was not altered by the porting or the hard aporting of the helm as "a remarkable affection for the compass under most unusual circumstances.

The first definite suggestion of personal responsibility for the disaster during the hearing of the commission was Lade by Mr. Aspinall when he held that Third Officer Saxe, who had taken the collier's wheel from the helmsman and put it hard aport, was "the culprit in the case." Saxe's argument that his action did not affect the ship, he said, "was an attempt to clear himself with his Norwegian clientele."

Mr. Aspinall said that no passengers had come forward to suggest that any of the officers or crew of the Empress had been derelict in their duties, while many had praised them for what they had done. There was no suggestion either that the officers and crew of the Storstad had failed to render all the assistance within their power. He was not arguing that there was not confusion after the collision, but he claimed there was no panic. The evidence showed how men of the Empress had stuck to their posts. Chief Justice McLeod, who has been acting on the commission with Lord Mersey and Sir Adolphe Routhier, will leave with the Canadian and British assessors on Sunday for Montreal, and will on Monday make an examination of the damaged bow of the Storstad. Consul to Make Inquiry. MONTREAL, June 27 .- It is stated that an inquiry into the collision by which the Norwegian collier Storstad sank the C. P. R. liner, Empress of Ireland on May 29, will begin in Montreal to-day by the Norwegian consul in this city, W. N. Johannes-son, with a view to obtaining an ac-count of the accident to be submitted to the Government of Norway. It is not proposed to place the blame but merely to get the information. Only the Storstad's crew will be witnesses.

This is the largest of all bats. Specimens have been found measuring as much as four feet from tip to tip of extended wings. They inhabit India, Ceylon, the "alay Archipelago and eastern Australia. Some of the fruit growers of California are so apprehensive of this creature, and so fearful that they might be "introduc-ed," that they have secured the passage of a law by which the importation of the flying fox is prohibited so ricidly that not one specimen can be imported, even for exhibition in a zoological garden.

The bat goes into hibernation in the late autumn, coming out again in the early spring. Its hibernation is very complete. It is an astonishing fact, which has been scientifically proved, that respiration absolutely ceases. Such a state is almost unthinkable to a creature like man, who cannot survive the cessation of the action of his lungs for more than a minute or two at a time.

These creatures of the night have often been tamed, and though one would instinctly somewhat shrink from making a pet of a bat, yet all who have ever kept them are unanimous in giving them an admirable character, saying that they will become so attached that they will fly sects all night, and be found in the morning hanging by the same window waiting to be taken in.

Autograph hunting sometimes proves a profitable pursuit. A French-man of the last century, Ludovic Picard, made a steady income out of it for some years. His most successful coup was accomplished with a letter in which he posed as "one of the un-appreciated who is meditating suicide and seeks for counsel and aid in this hour of sore distress." OUR STORY

"The poor ones," she vouchsafed; "not those that have money. I have money, plenty of money -

"Money you stole!" the lespector "Oh, dear, no!" Mary cried, with a fine show of virtuous indignation. "What about the thirty thousand dollars you got on that partnership swindle?" Burke asked, sneering. "I s'pose you didn't steal that!"

"Certainly not," was the ready reply. "The man advertised for a partner in a business sure to bring big and safe returns. I answered. The business proposed was to buy a tract of land, and subdivide it. The deeds to the land were all forged, and the supposed seller was his confederate, with whom he was to divide the money. We formed a partnership, with a capital of sixty thousand dollars. We paid the money into the bank, and then at once I drew it out. You see, he wanted to get my money illegally, but instead I managed to get his legally. For it was legal for me to draw that money-wasn't it, Mr Demarest?

The District Attorney by an effort retained his severe expression of righteous disapprobation, but he admitted the truth of her contention. "Unfortunately, yes" he, said gravely. "A partner has a right to draw out any, or all, of the partnership funds.

"And I was a partner," Mary said contentedly. "You see Inspector, you wrong me--you do, really I'm not a swindler; I'm a financier.' Burke sneered scornfully.

"Well," he roared, "you'll never pull another one on me. You can gamble on that!"

Mary permitted herself to laugh mockingly in the face of the badgered official

"Thank you for telling me," she said, graciously. "And let me say, incidentally, that Miss Lynch at the present moment is painlessly ex-tracting ten thousand dollars from General Hastings in a perfectly legal manner, Inspector .Burke."

"Well, anyhow," Burke shouted, "you may stay inside the law, but you've got to get outside the city.' He tried to employ an elephantine bantering tone. "On the level, now, de you think you could get away with that young Gilder scheme you've been planning?"

Mary appeared puzzled. "What young Glider scheme?"she asked, her brows drawn in bewilder-

"Oh, I'm wise - I'm wise !" the Inspector cried roughly. "The answer is, once for all, leave town this afternoon, or you'll be in the Tombs

"This," she replied, succintly.
"What's this?" Burke stormed.

But he took the paper. Demarest looked over the Inspecter's shoulder, and his eyes grew larger as he read. When he was at an end of the reading, he regarded the woman at the desk with a new

"What's this?" Burke repeated helplessly. It was not easy for him to interpret the legal phraseology. Mary was kind enough to make the Mary laughed again. But there was no hint of joyoueness in the musical tones. Her answer was frank - brutally frank. She had nothing to conceal.

"His father sent me away for three years - three years for something I didn't do. Well, he's got to pay for it." By this time, Burke, a man of superior intelligence, as one must be to reach such a position of authority. had come to realize that here was a case not to be carried through by blustering, by intimidation, by the was a woman of extraordinary intelligence, as well as of peculiar personal charm, who merely made sport of his tulminations, and showed herself essentially armed against anything he might do, by a court of injunction, a thing unheard of until this moment in the case of a common crook. It was Demarest who gave a official touch to the tragedy of the moment. "There's no mistake," he -said

There was authority in his state ment. "There is, I tell you!" Dick cried horrified by this conspiracy of defamation. He turned his tortured face to his bride of a day. "Mary," he said huskily, "There is a mistake."

Something in her face appalled him. He was voiceless for a few terrible instants. Then he spoke again, more beseechingly. "Say there's a mistake."

Mary preserved her poise. Yesshe must not forget! This was the hour of her triumph. What before all else. He found himself it was as ashes in her mouth? She spoke with a simplicity that admitted no denial.

"It's all quite true." · The man who had so loved her, so the boy all his life. If he really trusted her, was overwhelmed by the revelation. "See," he said, and his heavy voice was for once thin with passion, cusation. "What is that compared to what you have done to me?'

Gilder stared at her in honest amazement. He had no suspicion him and her. "What have I done to you?" he questioned, uncomprehending. Mary moved forward, passing beyond the desk, and continued her advance toward him until the two

The man to whom she spoke had gone gray a little. He began to understand, for he was not lacking in intelligence. Somehow, it was borne in on him that this woman had a grievance beyond the usual

Mary felt a thrill of fear through her very'soul. "You can't!" she cried harshly.

'You are his son!' "She's a crook!" Burke said. "I don't care what you've been!"Dick exclaimed. "From now on you'll go straight. You'll walk the straightest line a woman ever waked. You'll put all thoughts of vengeance out of your heart, because I'll fill it with something bigger -I'm going to make you love me."

Burke, with his rousing voice spoke again: "I tell you, she's a crook!" Mary moved a little, and then turned her face toward Gilder.

"And, if I am, who made me one? You can't send a girl to prison, and have her come out anything else." Burke swung himself around in a novement of complete disgust.

"She didn't get her time for good ehaviour." Mary raised her head, haughtily, with a gesture of high disdain.

"And I'm proud of it!" came her instant retort. "Do you know what goes on there behind those stone walls? Do you, Mr District Attorney, whose business it is to send girls there? Do you know what a girl is expected to do, to get time off for good behaviour? If you don't, ask the keepers."

600th ANNIVERSARY

Of the Battle of Bannockburn-On June 24th, 1314, Scotland Became an Independent Nation .

Breathes there a man with soul so dead

Six hundred years ago, June 24th, 1314, on the field of Bannockburn, upon which the tourist to-day may gaze from the walls of Stirling Casile, Scotland became an independent nation. When Edward I, had tasted the oys of conquest by subduing Wales and annexing her to England, his ambition led him into an effort to add Scotland to his realm. Nearly thirty years before the battle of Bannockburn, Alexander III., King of Scotland, died, and left his kingdom to his little grand daughter, Margaret of Norway. There was talk then of a peaceful union of the two counmasterful quality, which seemed tries, to be brought about by the marriage of this Princess and the son of Edward I. Unfortunately, the tiny Queen, overcome by the stormy trip from her old home in Norway to her new kingdom in Scotland, fell ill and died. She was the last of

There was a silence that seemed The rivals could not settle the quesong, though it was measured in tion, so invited Edward 1. to act as watchers dared not interrupt this claimants were already vassals of drama of emotions, but, at last, the English King, they were acquiessituation, and each hoping for preference, acceded to his demand to acknowledge him as their feudal suzerain. Balliol was crowned king, but because of Edward's unjust demands he soon threw off his illegiance and war began.

The English King succeeded in capturing Balliol and carried him off to England. At the same time the English took with them that famous Stone of Scone, known as the "stone of destiny," upon which the Scottish Kings had been crowned from time immemorial, which was incorporated into the English coronation chair, and which militant suffragettes in London nearly shattered with a Phoenix, Arizona, and her entire bomb only a few days ago. There followed years of hardship and disaster, skirmishing, and desperate fighting. Finally, in 1313, every fortress-castle except Stirling had been wrested from England. Bruce lay siege to Stirling, Edward II. bestirred himself then, and with an army 100,000 strong, consisting largely of cavalry, marched North to defend the castle. Bruce's army numbered 30,000, mostly infantry, yet by clever strategy at Bannockburn the English completely overcome. Edward himself barely escaped with his life. Not since the battle of Hastings had the English suffered such a sweeping defeat. With that victory of Bannockburn was born the independence of Scotland, and the people joyfully crowned as King their hero, Bruce.

MOTOR CAR WAS BADLY DAMAGED

Skidded on Keene Road on Saturday Night, Collided With Post and Put Completely Out of Commission

An automobile accident which resulted in the wrecking of an automobile and endangered the lives of the occupants of the machine, took place Saturday evening about halfpast seven o'clock, several miles from the city, on the Keene road.

The car in question was the pro perty of a local Company and driven by one of their employees. It was coming at a high rate of speed toward the city, and up to the time of the accident was closely followed by several autos that were returning from the Auto Association's shore dinner at Indian Village. The two young men in the car occupied the front seat and the rear seat was empty, and this is given for the reason that the car skidded while passing between the two railings that are on guard each side of the road from some distance each side of where the accident occurred. It seems that while passing along the road at this point, the auto skidded to the right, the front wheel striking a post, and which was torn loose from the machine. The car proceeded as far as the next post in the railing before the breaks could be put into operation, and striking it,' the radiator, mu'd guard, and front axle were bent and twisted The car recoiled when the breaks were put on and struck'the railing on the other side of the road. Fortunately the railing is a very strong one, and kept the motor from going over backwards into the ditch, and upsetting on top of the occupants.

Heir to the Throne of Austria and His Morganatic Wife Are Victims of Bomb Outrage Which Proves a Failure and Are Later Shot Down by Youth on Return Trip Through the Streets.

In the province of Quebec, making an apparently triumphant the prospects for the native Ameri- progress through the city on their an-cana varieties are good. Nova nual visit to the annexed provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovins

The archduke was hit full in the face, and the princess was shot through the abdomen and throat. Their wounds proved fatal within a few minutes after reaching the palace, to which they were hurried with all speed.

Those responsible for the assassination took care that it should prove effective, as there were two assailants, the first armed with a bomb and the latter with a revolver. The bomb was thrown at the royal automobile as it was proceeding to the town hall, where a reception was to be held, but the archduke saw the deadly missile coming and warded it off with his arm. It fell outside the car and exploded, slightly wounding two aide-de-camps in a second car, and half a dozen spectators. It was on the return of the procession that the tragedy was added to the long list of those that have darkened the pages of the recent history of the Hapsburgs. As the royal auto mobile reached a prominent point in the route to the 'palace, an eighth grade student, Gavrio Prinzip, sprang out of the crowd and poured a fusillade of bullets from an automatic pistol at the archduke and the prin-cess. Both fell mortally wounded.

Prinzip and a fellow conspirator, a compositor from Trebinje, named Gabrinovics, barely escaped lynching by the infuriated spectators and were finally seized by the police who af-forded them protection. Both men are natives of the annexed province of Herzegovina.

The first attempt against the archduke occurred just outside the girls' high school. The archduke's car had restarted after a brief pause for an inspection of the building when Gabrinovics hurled the bomb. This was s. successfully warded off by the archduke that it fell directly beneath the following car, the occupants of which, Count von Boos-Waldeck and Col. Merizzo, were struck by slivers of iron.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand stopped his car and after making enquiries as to their injuries and lending what aid he could, continued his journey to the town hall. There the burgomaster began his customary address, but the archduke sharply interrupted and snapped out: "Herr Burgomaster, we have come here to pay you a visit, and bombs have been thrown at us. This is altogether an amazing indignity."

"It is gratifying to find that, nob withstanding the whole weight of the Government forces, aided by the or ganized liquor interests, we have improved our position in the House For the sake of the policy for which we were fighting I regret that out gains were not numerous. FIRE AT WINDSOR

Heavy Damage Done to Rink and Other Buildings.

LOSS IS PLACED AT $75,000

Exciting Episodes Occur at a Blaze Which Destroys Curling Rink, Supply Sheds, Stores and Dwellings-Ten Shops Are Wiped Out In Niagara Falls-Parliament Hill Gets a Scare.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 25 .- Fire of unknown origin, breaking out at three p.m. yesterday totally destroyed the Windsor curling rink, the big supply house and barn of the Cadwell Sand & Gravel Co. and a number of barns and houses, and badly damaged the newly-erected $30,000 Oddfellows' temple, and a number of houses and stores in the vicinity. In a number of instances persons were compelled to leap from second storeys. The firemen going to a wrong address allowed the blaze to get a good start. Fortunately the wind was not strong.

The scene of the fire is just off Dullette avenue, four blocks from the Detroit River dock. The damage is estimated at $75,000. William Belson, 97 Goyeau street, was one of the first to go to the aid of the firemen. He rushed into the burning barn of the Cadwell Sand & Gravel Co. on Dufferin place, and, placing his coat about the head of a pony, led it to safety. Bucket brigades and battering rams were used to advantage. Low pressure from the waterworks seriously handicapped the firemen in their work. In many places the water could not be thrown ten feet from the nozzles. Firemen working on a two-story barn were forced to carry hose to the roof order to play the stream into the Small Fire In Senate Wing. OTTAWA, June 25 .- The quiet of Parliament Hill was suddenly broken yesterday afternoon by an alarm of fire. A gasoline stove in use by some electricians in the Senate wing of the Parliament Buildings exploded, and started a fire and considerable excitement. Officials hastily put valuable Parliamentary re ords in vaults. Meanwhile a chemical engine from the nearest fire station dashed up, followed by other clanging fire reels, hook and ladder wagons, etc. The blaze was speedily extinguished by the first firemen on the scene. The damage was slight.

BILL IS GENEROUS.

One-Tenth of Electors In Ulster Counties May Secure Poll.

LONDON, June 25. - The Irish amending bill which had now been issued shows that the Government proposes to be rather more generous than might have been at first inferred from Lord Crewe's statement. This refers to the provision of the first clause, which cays that if within three months after the date of the passing of the act a petition is presented to the Lord Lieutenant from any county in Ulster demanding a poll with reference to the question of temporary exclusion from the operation of the act, and the Lord Lieutenant is satisfied that the petition is signed by not less than one-tenth of the Parliamentary electors in the county, he shall cause a poll to be taken. The question shall be submitted to the electors in the following form: "Are you in favor of exclusion from the operation of the Government of Ireland act of 1914 for a period of six years?"

An Early Election Prophesied. LONDON, June 25. - The Dublin papers yesterday mostly follow the usual party lines in discussing the Home Rule amendment bill, though The Independent is suspicious that the Government is weakening. The Irish Times declares a general election is assured within a few weeks. The Belfast News Letter says the latest move is a bid for a bargain, but that Unionists must refuse to haggle. The Northern Whig insists on total exclusion for Ulster for an unlimited period.

Ex-Alderman Goes To Trial.

MONTREAL, June 25 .- Ex-Alderman Judge was committed yesterday by Judge Leet for trial at the Court of King's Bench in September on a charge of perjury. The accused was a member of the City Council of Montreal last year, and the alleged perjury was in connection with evidence given by him before Justice Fortin last fall at the judicial inquiry into the city's land deals. It was on Justice Fortin's report that the charge was laid.

TO SELL RAILWAY.

West Shore Backers Will Advertise For Tenders.

GODERICH, June 26 .- At a meeting yesterday at Kintail of repre-sentatives of the municipalities involved, it was decided to advertise the sale by iender. The Attorney-General is also to be asked speedily to endeavor to apprehend J. W. Moyes, the promoter of the defunct road, and to take steps to extradite him if necessary. The solicitors were authorized to proceed against the Toronto General Trusts Co. and the brokerage firm of A. E. Osler & Co., Toronto, to recover moneys alleged to have been paid out by them illegally. These claims amount to $33,000.

There was some suggestion of the municipalities completing the road and linking it up with the prospective hydro-radial system, which is by no means an improbable outcome. The proposal at present is to sell the road by tender as all present laid and the charter, which includes a rightof-way to Owen Sound. The condition is that the purchaser must finance the

Mrs. Annie Besant, president of the Theosophical Society, author and lecturer on religious subjects, in a recent lecture in London on the suffrage question, made an eloquent appeal to the militants to consent to a truce with the Government on condition that the Ministers promise to introduce a bill in the next Parliament. Miss Wylie, presiding at a meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union, declared yesterday that the militants would not dream of a truce. The trial yesterday of the suffra-

Burning embers, carried by strong northwest wind, started fires in two other sections; the fashionable residence district adjacent to Lafayette street and a manufacturing and tenement house district on the penisula bounded by Palmer's Cove, South river, and the waterfront. "The House of Seven Gables," was also in the danger zone. The fire burned a semi-circular path. Originally driven in a southeasterly direction from the foot of Gallows Hill, the place where witches were hanged two and a half centuries ago, it spread to South Salem and then changed its course and crept steadily in a northerly direction toward Town House Square, the centre of the city's retail business life.

For a time the whole city seemed doomed. Then the firemen concentrated their energies in a single point of defence near the Boston & Maine Railroad station. Several buildings in this vicinity were dynamited, every available line of hose was directed against the approaching flames, and late last night the fire had been checked.

Hon. Mr. Peletier Announces Increase

on Papers. OTTAWA, June 27-The Postoffice Department announced yesterday that, to meet the cost of the increased subsidy to railways for carrying the mails, the postage on newspapers and periodicals will be increased. The present charge is one-quarter of a cent per pound. It is proposed in the future to charge one cent per copy for papers delivered by letter carriers. Where there is no letter carrier system the charge will be one-quarter of a cent per copy.

In the recent session of Parliament, the Postmaster-General, while not admitting that he did not already have the power, sought the right to fix certain raies. After prolonged discussion the bill was so amended in the Senate as to be unacceptable to the Department.

According to the postal authorities there is now nothing to do but to en-force the law as it stands under section 71 of the act. A circular to the publishers issued by the Department points out that the law as it stands requires one-quarter cent for each pound weight, or frac-age, this question of one-quarter cent for each copy must now be met.

JUST DRIFT, SAYS CARSON. Ulster Leader Criticizes Policy of

Government. LONDON, June 27 .- (C. A. P. Cable.) - Sir Edward Carson has issued the following statement regarding the Home Rule amending bill: "It is the old offer, which is described as hypocritical sham, and which was only allowed and offered us because it was known we could not possibly accept it. Moreover, the bill demonstrates during all these months that no progress has been made by the Government in framing details for the separate Government of Ulster. It is somewhat ludicrous to provide that Ulster is to accept any administration that the Lord Lieutenant, who will be subject to the advice of Dublin Ministers, desires to set up. The whole thing shows in every line a policy of drift. It looks to me as if there was to be no effort at statesmanship to solve the present situa-

BUILDER ON THE STAND

Percy Hillhouse of Firm Which Built Empress of Ireland Says a Foot Was Added to the Liner's Rudder After the Accident In 1908 In Order to Improve the Vessel's Steering Qualities.

QUEBEC, June 25 .- The explanation of all the suggestions that have been made during the enquiry in the wreck of the Empress of Ireland about the vessel's steering gear came out yesterday afternoon at the enquiry of the Dominion Commission, when Percy Hillhouse of the Fairfield Shipbuilding Co., which constructed her, explained how, after an accident to it in 1908, one foot was added to the Empress' rudder area to improve her steering qualities.

Mr. Hillhouse gave the first adequate explanation of the actual in-juries to the Empress and his telling of the water rushing through a wound of 328 square feet at the rate of 260 tons a second gave a clear cut impression of how it came about that the liner listed over quickly and shortly afterwards capsized.

Another noteworthy feature was the evidence of Gunner Wilfrid Whitehead, the diver from H. M. S. Essex, who, in addition to inspecting the hull of the Empress risked his life in an effort to save that of Edward Cossboon, the American div-er, who died from injuries received at the wreck. The announcement that Whitehead was to appear brought hundreds of women to the court, including several from the entourage of the Duchess of Connaught and Princes Patricia, one of whom

Whitehead was very modest and beyond mentioned that he had "gone down to the wreck on Sunday in an emergency" made no reference to his courageous, if unsuccessful, effort to raise Cossboon before it was too late. Whitehead and other divers from the wreck were ordered from the court to the scene of the wreck after a conference between Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the C. P. R., and Captain Watson of the cruiser Essex, when it was decided to make one more attempt to get the 500 bodies entombed in the Empress'

The Labor party to the number of 34 abstained from voting for the amendment in accordance with their previously expressed conviction that the Chancellor of the Exchequer should have given some poor relief from taxation instead of reducing the income tax.

MME. MONTESSONI'S SYSTEM HAS WORKED A REVOLUTION.

talian Woman Who Teaches Children While They Are at Play Has Accomplished Marvels In the Development of the Young Mind and Her Method Is Being Copied In Every Part of the Globe.

The title of "the most interesting woman in Europe" has been bestowed upon Mme. Maria Montessori, the Italian lady doctor whose system of teaching children has astonished the educational world.

She became attracted to the problem when, as assistant doctor at a Roman clinic, she noticed that feeble-minded children were herded with those who were actually insane. The sufferings of the fairly intelligent infants so impressed her that she threw up her medical work to take charge of an asylum for deficient and feeble-minded children, intendcal park, Major Leonard, Dominion ing to conduct it on new principles Transcontinental Railway Commis- she had thought out. The result was dramatic. One of her pupils, originally supposed to be half-witted, was sent, after her training, to the ordinary public school and passed in with higher marks than any of his companions.

This happened several times, and Mme. Montessori realized that her system must be considerably superior to the one followed by most prepara-tory schools. She decided to apply it to normal children, and re-entered the University of Rome for three years to supplement her knowledge. It seemed to her the whole world of children were crying for help.

In 1907, in one of the poorest districts of Rome, inhabited by the vicious and criminal, she opened her first school. To all appearance it is just a large nursery, where children either sit in little chairs or sprawl at wooden blocks, pieces of colored silk, buttons and other fascinating objects to the child mind.

One of them is engaged in a new and absorbing game. He has in front of him smooth pieces of cardboard on each of which is a letter in raised sandpaper. His eyes are blindfolded, which is part of the fun, and his chubby finger traces over the sandpaper outline, of which he has been told the name. He follows the outline again and again, until he hardly needs the rough surface for guidance. He is learning to write! few days hence, when the letter is called, the muscles of his little hand will instinctively move in the right direction. If he feels bored, which really means tired, he will tear off his bandage and ask for something elso to play with. That is the whole secret of Dr. Montessori's system. She develops the infant mind naturally, encouraging it to awaken from within rather than learn from with-to know what the words meant. Rough and drunken parents who neir evenings in wine shops stayed at home in the evening to learn for themselves the lessons which their children brought from school. Mothers became interested in the mysteries of writing, and timidly visited the school to acquire the art themselves.

Pupils began to despise playthings because they gave no chance to ex-ercise their reasoning faculties, but they would preserve any odd scrap of paper that contained food for thought. Most marvellous of all was the improvement in the health of the children. They grew plump and vigorous, and looked like the offspring of healthy parents living in the country rather than mites from the heart of the slums. A happier school never existed, and it is now being copied all over the world. Teachers of all nationalities visit Mme. Montessori to learn her system, and the Franciscan schools and orphanages propose to adopt it.

After the Messina earthquake the Franciscan nuns at Monteverde hous-ed and cared for three hundred wild and half-civilized girl orphans who had been saved from the wrecked villages, and ultimately turned them into well-mannered young ladies. If, with all their experience, the nuns deliberately adopt a new system of education, there must be many exceptionally strong points to recommend it.

The Poet Defined.

Somebody was remarking on the number of poets who are mentioned by the daily papers.

"Why," he declared, "I never heard of one in twenty of them. What is a poet, anyway?" And the newspaper man gravely replied: "A poet is a writer who rarely gets into print."

Drawing the Line.

"I don't mind listening to a man who is paying for my dinner tell me the story of his life," said the woman. "Men's lives are generally interesting, but I won't stand to hear a woman tell everything she knows; even if she does pay for my dinner. I'd rather pay for my own dinner and get an occasional shy at the conversation."

A Consistent Course.

A railroad president was writing to an underling regarding a matter of improvement the other man wished to inaugurate without loss of time, but of which the president did not particularly approve.
"Dear Blank," he wrote, "don't do anything until you see me. 'P. S .- Then don't do anything!"

BANQUET: IN LONDON |

Dominion Day Is Celebrated by Canadian Colony.

PRINCE OF TECK PRESENT

Hon. Mr. Perley, Presiding at Dinner, Warns British Investor Against Blaming Canada If Land or Oil Speculations Turn Out Wrong

-Henri Bourassa Expresses View of Confederation.

LONDON, July 2 .- (C.A.P. Cable.) -Dominion Day was generally celebrated by the Canadian colony here. Hon. G. H. and Mrs. Perley gave a reception in the afternoon. The customary dinner in the evening was at-tended by about 500 guests. Mr. Perley presided and the printipal guests were: Prince Alexander of Teck, Colonial Secretary Harcourt, Henri Bourassa, Sir Thomas Skinner, Lord Emmett and John S.anfield, M.P.

Messages of greeting were read from Premier Sir Robert Borden and Sir Charles Tupper.

Mr. Perley, in proposing the toast of the "Dominion," opened his remarks with a graceful reference to the late Lord Strathcona and passed on to review the general conditions in Canada. He claimed that the Dom-inion had passed through the period of depression as well as any other part of the world. He added: "I stand up for Canadian business honesty and probity as being as great as anywhere in the world, but at the same time the investor, should exercise his usual wise care and caution

PRINCE ALEXANDER OF TECK. before deciding what he had better invest in. If you buy town lots in outside subdivisions or make purchases of oil shares, you are really entering into a speculation rather than investment, and the country should not be blamed if it turns out wrong. (Cheers.)

Hon. Mr. Perley dealt briefly with the railway situation, citing the re-cent advances to the C. N. R. and G. T. P. as ample proof of Canada's confidence in her future and her good faith with investors.

"With regard to the future and pessimistic 'suggestions which I understand are put forward by some here, that our growth has been too rapid, I only wish that everyone could travel through Canada and see the tural resources are still there unaffected by any financial condition. There have been reports lately of lack of employment in Canada, but these reports are a good deal exaggerated. At the same time, we feel for the resent that it is not well that any should emigrate without means.

Prince Alexander in responding. followed his usual practice of reading his speech. In it he briefly re-viewed some non-controversial aspects of Canadian life and character, assuring, the gathering how eagerly the princess and he looked forward to life in the Dominion.

Henri Bourassa, also responding to the toast, alluded to his connection with the Dominion, and said, in part:

"There are many ways of serving the crown, there are many who thought that the glory and strength of the British Empire rested upon the unity of parties, but I venture to point out that I belong to another school which consider that the greatest'glory, the most enduring strength of the British Empire lies in the fact that it first in history found the secret of allowing individual liberty and national aspirations to grow unfettered and free."

It was found that a whale had its head jammed between the two blades of the propellor and the upper part of the stern post. Preparations were made to place a wire round the whale, with the object of hauling it away. Before this could be done the whale, which was 30 or 40 feet long, and struggling violently, slipped clear of the pro-
