

The mark of quality in Shirts and Collars

AN indefinable air of style and gentlemanly comfort is the requisite of the wearer of distinctive linen. Shirts and Collars marked W. G. & R. are cut and tailored in line with fashion's newest hints—but are never freakish—never commonplace.

Shirts in with stripes, with or without figures, are prominent this year. W. G. & R. Shirts show them best.

That close front collar above, the "Savoy," combines ease, style, wear, as few collars do. A word by the way to the W. G. & R. Shirt—50c. for 3.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT GONE

Neshbit Man. News. The remains of the late Mrs Thos. Cory, beloved wife of Thos. Cory, who died on Sept. 29th, were laid to rest in the Methven Cemetery on Sunday, Oct. 4th, the services being conducted by the Rev. D. R. Clark, of Wawanassa.

The late Mrs. Cory was born on June 2nd, 1838, in the Parish of Milton Damrell, Devonshire, Eng., and was married in the year 1858. She emigrated to Canada in 1862, and lived in the Township of Clarke near Port Hope, Ont., for 11 years. Then she moved with her husband to the Township of Tuckersmith in the County of Huron, where they resided for seven years, after which they moved to Manitoba in the spring of 1880. At that time there were no railways west of Winnipeg, and they had to make the trip west up the Assiniboine river by boat up to Mayer's Landing to the west half of sec. 30-7-17, where they have made their home ever since.

Mrs. Cory was the mother of eight children, two dying in England and two in Ontario. She is survived by her husband and four children, viz.: Mrs. A. Kelly, Estevan, Sask.; R. F. Cory, oldest son, of Methven; W. S. Cory, second son, is living on and working the old homestead; and the youngest son, Milton, of the Chesley district.

The schooners Charlie Marshall and J. B. Kitchen arrived in the harbor yesterday from Oswego with 1000 tons of nut coal for Geo Plunkett. The Kitchen will make two more trips this season.—Cobourg Star.

INTERESTING LETTER

From Miss Edith Holdsworth—
Detained in Germany After War Broke Out

The following very interesting letter has been received from Miss Edith Holdsworth by her brothers, Messrs Robert and Charles. Miss Holdsworth has been making a tour of the continent and was in Germany when the war broke out. Her story of the difficulties encountered in reaching English soil will be read with much interest:—

October, 6th, 1914.
St. Ermins Hotel,
St. James Park, S. W.,
London, Eng.

MY DEAR BOB AND CHARLIE:—I know how glad you will both be to see this, and know, I am again on English soil. We arrived last night, and oh! to feel ourselves out of the enemy's country.

We heard this morning, there was a ship sailing for Montreal from Liverpool, and do hope it will not be cancelled, they say they often have to take them for the troops.

Now I will tell you, from where our troubles began, for you may be sure had we had any idea of war we would have turned back, but, of course, having a "guide," and he never said anything, how were we to know such a calamity was coming to us.

We had reached the border of Germany and Switzerland when we were met by a crowd of German soldiers, who told us the train couldn't go on, and we were sent back to a place Freiburg, we stayed there four days, then a placard was put up, all persons under the British flag were to be sent to Baden, Baden, it was there the "guide" left us, saying he was afraid if he were seen with us he might be shot as a spy; there were eight shot while we were in Freiburg—one a woman.

Well, we very nearly collapsed, for not one of us could speak a word of German.

We were taken to the station, and oh, such a scene I will never forget. A regular mob of men and soldiers, the man, who was caring for us, asked us not to speak. We were pushed on to the train through the crowded gate-way.

All the way along there were lines of German soldiers, and when we were half way to Baden, Baden, a soldier reached into our compartment, and ordered us to put out our baggage, we did so, you may be sure, then he said "put it on again."

We had only gone a short distance when another appeared and said in German "one of you women have a spear". I did not know what he said so I asked a boy who had come on at one of the stations, and he told me—we were awfully frightened, but did not want him to see we were—I asked him if he could speak English, he glared at us and said "yes", so I said, you say we have a spear, where is it? and what do you think it is—my umbrella with the silver handle, the light had shone on it as we passed the station. About ten at night we came to a place where we had to change trains, and just such another mob; we said, now let us all stay together, for there were so many trains and we did not know which one to take. I saw a man who looked rather kinder than the rest, and asked him if he would tell us which one the English were to go on, and fortunately he understood me and he said he would—when I turned I saw the others of the party climbing on what looked like a cattle train, so I ran and got on too, found myself crushed in with a lot of French and Russians, so screamed to the man if this was going to Baden Baden, my dear the door was slammed and locked and off we went, oh! such a ride. When we arrived at our destination we were taken off in instalments, ours coming last; it was now nearly twelve; we then had to give our name, birthplace and occupation, all our baggage turned out and sent on to Mr. Wosslers, where we were to stay.

His son was there and asked us what kind of a journey we had and if we had any money; we said we had a little; we then went to bed feeling awful, but I must say, we found ourselves in kind hands, for they were very good to us, of course we had to give them our money, but in other ways they were kind. We were not allowed to write or receive any letters, we could only walk in certain places in the town and never stop and talk to anyone on the streets. When we went to church, a policeman walked up and down outside to see if we spoke to anyone on our way in or out, at first, we were allowed to have books from the church library, but that was stopped.

The clergyman had to leave out all parts of the service where the Royal Family were mentioned and he could not preach a sermon, as a German, who understood English, was there to hear what was said and report.

Our recreation consisted in walking and knitting for the dear German soldiers; this went on for eight weeks, when we heard they were going to let the women go and give them a train through Holland, but the men were to be put in the barracks.

We waited day after day, no train, then we heard there was such a battle going on we could not pass through, one place the French had got in, but if we liked to risk going through the border by Switzerland they would let us try.

Mamy said not to go, so I went and called the clergyman, and he said "go, do not lose one hour, the Germans are being driven back by the French and English troops and your lives are not safe here, so I advise you to take the risk."

When I told the others, they did not know which to do, but I said, well, off I was going, if I went alone, then they decided to go the next morning, but you may imagine our feelings until we were over the border. The clergyman was at the station to see us off and gave us twenty dollars each. We saw when we reached Switzerland all their troops were out and in France, of course, everything was guarded, about half a mile apart, soldiers and the bridges lined with them. At Paris we found there was no train going out that night, so had to stay there all night and over Sunday, the whole time there are zeppelins flying over the city watching for the German ones who come and drop bombs, the same here. Oh! how thankful I will be to get safely home once more. The Germans are very near France and there is a great battle being fought now. I wonder who will win, they are very confident here, but it is dreadful the men they are losing. The Germans have a grand army, there is no doubt, and are great fighters but very brutal.

With much love to all, your affectionate sister

A GENEROUS RESPONSE

To the I. O. D. E. for the Destitute and Suffering Belgians

The Col. Arthur Williams Chapter I.O.D.E. are much gratified at the hearty and generous response of our citizens to their appeal on behalf of the destitute and suffering Belgians. All classes of the community contributed of their best; no old, worn-out garments were thus easily disposed of, but everything was in good condition, warm, and, in many cases, handsome. The babies were not forgotten, two entire infants' outfits being donated, besides little hoods, stockings, warm underwear and even toys.

In order to ensure the goods reaching Halifax before the ship should sail, it was thought expedient to pack them on Wednesday evening, seventeen cases being required to hold all the clothing which weighed over 3,000 pounds. The ladies in charge were greatly assisted by Messrs. Wm. Walker, T. G. Watson and W. Haskill, who kindly gave their services in doing the packing. The clothing sent included:—

WOMEN'S CLOTHING

Suits, 48; skirts, 53; underwear, 100 pieces; coats, 158; boots, 40 pairs; dresses, 33; dresswaists, 65; shawls, 13; stockings, 115 pairs; scarfs, 10; capes, 9; sweaters, 20; quilts, 3.

CHILDREN'S

Children's wear, 75; hoods, 35; mitts, 4 pairs; furs; many small articles too numerous to mention.

MEN'S

Suits, 25; sweaters, 20; overcoats, 60; trousers, 4; socks, 63 pairs; underwear, 52 pieces; waistcoats, 72; coats, 60; boots, 50; hats and caps, 35; shirts, 20; braces, 5; ties, gloves, furs, &c.; 1 bag potatoes.

Mr. Henry Clarke very kindly did all the carting free of charge.

A belated case of clothing for the Belgians was sent through the Canadian Express which included the following articles:—

WOMEN'S LIST

5 coats, 1 sweater, 1 pair of mitts, 5 caps, 5 waists, 2 skirts, 1 pair of scarfs, 6 underwear, 1 pr boots, 5 babies under vest, 5 babies booties, 3 babies jackets, 2 babies shawls, 1 babies bonnet.

MEN'S

5 overcoats, 1 suit, 1 coat, 1 dressing gown, 2 vests, 2 shirts, 4 caps, 1 night shirt, 1 underwear, 3 pr boots, 1 boy's overcoat, 1 pr mitts, 1 sweater.

The ladies wish to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Honey for his kind assistance in addressing all the cases sent from here.

TO TEST THE BY-LAW

Relative to Serving Lunches on the Sabbath

The Port Hope Candy Works opened their place of business on Sunday and served lunches to their customers. About 9.30 the Police ordered them to close. When interviewed on Monday, the proprietor informed the Guide that he thought he was quite within his rights to feed hungry ones on the Sabbath and was willing to test the by-law.

POTATOES TOOK A DROP

And Will be Cheaper Yet—Other Offerings Remained About the Same

There was a large attendance at the market on Saturday and prices remained about the same. Eggs held fast at 30c per doz., butter 28 to 30c lb., chickens 18 to 20c lb., ducks 70 to 90c each. Potatoes started off at 90c per bag but sold very slowly and they were later carted about the town and offered at 75c and 60c per bag. In several of the surrounding towns we learn that potatoes are in abundance at 50c.

Port Hope Horticultural Society

The bulbs from Holland have been a little delayed this year on account of the disturbance to shipping caused by the war. However they have now arrived and have been distributed to the members of the society. Each member gets, 3 Hyacinths assorted of 1st size, 4 Hyacinths assorted of 2nd size, 5 Narcissus paper white, 5 Narcissus poeticus biflorus, 5 Narcissus giant princeps. Of these the paper white Narcissus may be planted two or three bulbs in a five inch pot and they will come on nicely for Christmas. The Narcissus princeps and the larger Hyacinths should be potted in 4 or 5 inch pots and well watered and placed in a cellar or other cool dark place till after New Year's in order to made good roots. They may then be brought into the light and will bloom during February and March. The Narcissus poeticus does not do so well in pots and they are better planted in the garden. The second size Hyacinths are also good for garden planting although they may also be potted if desired but they do not have as fine a bloom as the larger size.

LATE SANFORD HASKILL

The funeral of the late Sanford W Haskill took place from the family residence, Lakeshore Road Sunday afternoon and was very largely attended. Deceased, who was 82 years of age, was one of the pioneer residents of the township, being born on the farm where he died. In addition to his widow, he leaves two sons, Shuter and Henry and one daughter Edith to mourn his loss.

The Rev. Washer conducted services at the residence and cemetery and the following gentlemen acted as pall bearers.—Messrs Malcolm Brand, Richard Dinner, William Dinner, Henry Sculthorp, Wm. Lingard and Wm H. Nicholls.

Automobile Burned.

On Thursday evening last an automobile belonging to a gentleman from Toronto caught fire from a back fire from the engine, and was totally destroyed with the exception of the engine and two front wheels. They had been black squirrel hunted at Harwood, and were coming over Hogg's Hill when the accident happened. The auto was a $6,000 machine.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS CRUELTY CORROBORATED

The harbor these days presents a very busy appearance and a new and up-to-date dock will be constructed from a point near the Standard Ideal to the old canning factory. This is a distance of six hundred and forty-five feet and all this portion of the harbor will be dredged. The timber to be used is 10x12 and is all spiked together and sunk in the water. The cost of the timber alone is $10,000. On top of this wood work are one hundred and ten huge cement blocks each weighing eight tons and these are two feet below the surface of the water. The blocks are constructed right on the dock and the operations are quite interesting.

Messrs. Tomkins & Steward have the contract and Mr. C. A. Hagerman is acting as overseer. A large gang of men are employed and the contractors have until the end of next year to complete the job.

KINDNESS APPRECIATED

Mrs R. A. Mulholland has received the following letter of appreciation from Mr Hector Prud'homme, Hon Treas for the relief work for the war victims in Belgium.—

Montreal, Oct 16th, 1914.
Mrs. R. A. Mulholland, Regent, Col C Williams Chapter, I.O.D.E. Port Hope, Ont.

DEAR MRS. MULHOLLAND:—We have received your two letters of October 15th, and B.L. of the Grand Trunk Ry for 17 cases of clothing consigned to ourselves.

We shall do all we can to have this clothing shipped straight to Halifax in order to join the steamer of the Nova Scotia Government, which leaves there the middle of next week. If it does not reach us in time for the steamer we will send it direct from Montreal before the end of this month.

We intend to keep on shipping during the coming months from time to time.

Will you do us the favor of thanking the contributors very kindly in our name for their splendid help. With very special thanks for yourself, I am,

Yours very truly,
H. PRUD'HOMME,
Honorary-Treasurer.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Allan Adamson Victim of Painful Injury

Allan Adamson, the fourteen year old son of Mr Joseph Adamson, Dale, met with an unfortunate and painful accident while out with a number of boys one of young lads accidentally discharged a gun and the bullet entered Adamson's leg just below the hip. The lad was taken to the General Hospital in Toronto for treatment.

Commencing last Monday, the Nicholson File Works will run five days a week and nine hours per day.

The annual Thank-Offering Services of the Garden Hill Methodist Church, will be held on Sunday, November 1st.

Mr. J. G. Jackson Received Letter From His Brother in Leeds

Mr. J. G. Jackson, of Cobourg, a former well known resident of this town, has a brother residing in Leeds, England.

Seeing the story in a Leeds paper of a little Belgian girl, with her right hand cut off by German soldiers, having arrived at Leeds with other refugees, Mr. Jackson wrote to his brother, asking him to ascertain if the cruelly barbarous story was correct, and received a reply corroborating it in every detail. The little girl was being cared for at a house there with other of her country people. Such cruelty stirs the righteous indignation of every person and will do its part in reckoning vengeance upon a country capable of such barbarities.

Fatal Accident

Mr. Smith Burd, of Belleville, a G. T. R. brakeman, was fatally injured at Colborne station last Monday morning about 6.30. Owing to a hot box, a car was to be cut off here and Mr. Burd jumped from the locomotive, which was moving quite fast, and on striking the platform his feet slipped and went under the wheels. The right foot was taken off and the left leg was crushed from above the knee down to the foot, besides other severe bruises. Dr. J. A. Brown was called and rendered first aid, after which he accompanied Mr. Burd to Belleville hospital, where the unfortunate man died that afternoon. Deceased who was 47 years of age, had been in the service as brakeman for twenty years, and had always appeared to be careful.—Colborne Express.

OUR STORY

"Oh, how much misery might have been spared if Florabel had but told me," groaned Max, burying his face in his shaking hands.

"The poor child believed you would leave her if you knew her to be the daughter of a criminal and the sister of a forger," replied Arthur; "and on her knees she begged me to keep all knowledge of that from you, although she wanted to tell you I was her brother. But this I made her take a solemn oath not to do, for I dreaded lest, with your fine notions of honor, you would hand me over to the authorities."

"I bade her good-bye and left her. The next thing I knew she came on to New York to me, telling me with sobs and tears, of your cruel suspicions, and begging me to go back with her and set the matter straight. I put the poor child off from week to week, for, as I said before, I feared lest you would give me up to the authorities if you knew all, and it would be sure to come out."

Then, with face flushing and paling with shame, he told the story of the diamonds which he had taken from Florabel, and not being bold enough to face her, had deserted her, leaving her alone, penniless, in the large, strange city.

Max Forrester's emotion was so great he could hardly withhold his terrible wrath at this point, on listening to the pitiful desolation of poor, beautiful, hapless Florabel, his wronged, innocent darling.

"From the hour in which I left her to take out the diamonds to sell I have not looked upon her face," concluded Arthur.

Slowly Max drew from his breast pocket a pencil and memorandum.

"What is the name of this firm whom you have wronged, and who are hunting you down?" he asked, abruptly.

Arthur told him, also the amount of his defalcation.

"You stand clear with the world all save this?" Max asked.

"Yes," replied Arthur.

"Then, for Florabel's sake, you shall walk amongst people a free man once more. I will send the fifty-a check to cover the amount. Let me; I cannot look upon your face, remembering how you left my darling—so heartlessly at the mercy of the world. Go!"

He would listen to no thanks, no regrets.

"Go!" he said. "You have brought about all the trouble between Florabel and me. Never let me see your face again."

"I swear to you I will reform. The time shall come when Florabel will have no need to blush for me," declared Arthur. "Let me prove my gratitude for what you have done for me by trying to find her. If I were to put a personal in the daily papers, asking her to come to me, she would do it."

Max eagerly caught at the suggestion.

Despite all their efforts they could find no trace of Florabel. As Gerald Thorndyke had said:

"If the earth had opened and swallowed her, she could not be more completely lost to the world."

The golden summer waned; the first fall of snow heralded the approach of winter. Where was Florabel? Max wondered, with a deep groan, as he stood watching the blinding snow-flakes. Ah! had he but known.

Inez Clavering had heard the wonderful story of poor Florabel's complete vindication with a beating heart. Her hopes were dashed forever now in regard to Max's applying for and obtaining a divorce from Florabel.

to Boston to see Florabel, for the old nurse had written her that before midnight in all probability the crisis would be past.

Florabel held out her little white hand to her as Inez approached the couch, with the most wan, pitiful smile that ever was seen.

"Is he with you, Inez?" she murmured, in a fearful whisper. "Did you tell him how ill I was? and would he not come?"

"I told him," replied Inez; "but he made no reply as to whether he would come or not."

"He must come! oh, God! he must come!" cried Florabel, starting up, and wringing her hands wildly.

"I am going to die, Inez," she wailed, piteously. "I am sure I am. When the dark shadows close around me, let his face be the last I shall see. Let me die with my head on his breast. Oh, Inez, I cannot rest in my grave, no matter how deep they bury me, until I have seen him."

"I will telegraph him to come on at once," assented Inez.

All through the long hours that followed, Florabel was asking: "Has he come?"

The answer was always "No."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"MY HEART AND MY ARMS ARE EMPTY."

"He will not come! he will not come!" groaned Florabel, turning her white face to the wall.

She grew so alarmingly ill by midnight that the doctor was sent for in all haste.

"I will leave you now," said Inez, in a whisper to Mrs. Burgoyne. "If any great change should occur let me know at once."

The first streaks of early dawn were piercing the dark clouds of the night sky, when Mrs. Burgoyne hastily entered Inez's room.

"You told me to awaken you if any great change occurred," she said. "I have come to tell you that the beautiful young stranger has a lovely little daughter."

"I will go to her at once," you remain here and take a little rest. I will take your place by the bedside."

A few moments after Inez reached Florabel's apartment the doctor left. Florabel had fallen into a deep, dreamless sleep.

Inez drew her cushioned chair close to the couch and sat down, watching, with frowning brow, the sweet little face turned toward her on the pillow.

"I shall always hate you," she muttered, turning abruptly away.

Suddenly as she sat there, the greatest temptation of Inez Clavering's life came to her—a temptation that made her faint and dizzy, and almost cry aloud in horror, for it led to a sin.

The child would surely be the link which would draw these two estranged hearts together. Ah, if it had but died!

"I could not stain my hands with its life blood, but I could take it away," muttered Inez. "Place it where she could never find it. She would not know but what it died."

The thought of Florabel being happy in the future in the love of husband and child drove her to madness.

"It shall not be," he cried. "It must not be."

"I am here on quite a delicate errand," said Inez, flushing, as she unwound the shawl, adding, without a tremor or a blush at the terrible falsehood that burned her lips; "I found this on our doorstep this morning, and not knowing what to do with it, as I am a poor woman, I have brought it to you."

"Poor little thing!" exclaimed the kind-hearted matron, taking the little creature in her arms. "What a horrible night for it to be left on a doorstep! I wonder you did not find it frozen to death. It seems to me the vengeance of God ought to follow a woman who so wrongs a helpless little child," she said, feelingly.

A deadly pallor shot over Inez's face, but she vouchsafed no answer. After the usual formula was gone through with, baby was received into the asylum, and Inez Clavering, with a sin on her soul that the angels up in heaven must have wept over, took her departure.

"The poor little thing must be given a name," said the matron, as she handed the baby over to an attendant. "With a face so sweet, she should have a very pretty name."

It must have been the very irony of fate that suggested itself to her to call baby "Flora"—Flora Winters.

Inez reached the house, and gained Florabel's chamber without being missed.

It was quite half an hour later ere Florabel opened her eyes. Inez bent quickly over her.

"Is it a dream, Inez," she whispered, vaguely, "or was there a little child? Have I really a—little child?"

"Try to forget it, dear," murmured guilty Inez. There was a little child, but it is no more, and it was taken away. You must forget it."

Florabel sobbed aloud.

"Taken away before I had time to kiss its little face!" she sobbed, piteously. "Ah, Heaven, why must I lose everything I love? I should have loved it so much."

"You must be content," returned Inez, hoarsely.

"How can I be content with my heart and my arms both empty?" moaned poor Florabel. "Oh, Inez, it is hard, very hard. I wish I had died, too, with poor baby. It was a little girl, wasn't it, Inez?"

"Yes, but you must not talk about it; you will make yourself ill," declared Inez, nervously. "Here, drink this; it is a quieting draught."

Florabel quietly obeyed.

An hour later Mrs. Burgoyne came to relieve Inez.

"Why, where is the baby?" she cried out, in amazement, as she turned the coverlet down.

"Hush!" whispered Inez, cautiously. "The child died and the doctor took it away with him."

The steady gaze of the cold, hard, brilliant eyes that met Mrs. Burgoyne's never flinched.

"The child died!" muttered Mrs. Burgoyne, when she found herself alone. "A likely story for you to attempt to make me believe, Inez Clavering. You have made away with it in some fashion. I will make it my business to find out where it is; then I will have you in my power. You shall pay me handsomely for holding my tongue, or I will go to this girl and tell her all."

Wearily life had commenced again for poor Florabel; death would not come for the asking.

The day came at last when she told Inez she could consent to be a burden upon her no longer.

"I will never make another appeal to Max to take me back to his heart, now that baby is dead," she said, her lovely eyes filling with tears.

"The time has come when I must do something for myself."

"What could you do?" asked Inez, curiously.

"Whatever I can get to do," responded Florabel, bravely. "I was speaking to Mrs. Burgoyne about it yesterday, and she was telling me of a vacancy in one of the large dry goods stores. I might try there."

In all working places, wherever there are a number of young ladies employed there is always one who reigns supreme over the other girls; and in this mammoth dry goods house Aletha Van Horn, a pretty, dark-eyed brunette, was the ruling spirit.

"How do you like the new-comer?" chorused the girls, gathering around their leader at lunch hour.

"I hate her, muttered Aletha Van Horn, in a low voice.

"One of her companions laughed aloud.

"That is because she has a pretty face, and you are afraid your lover, the floor manager, may fall in love with her, Aletha, she declared.

The rest all tittered, for they knew it was truth.

"If he should fall in love with her pretty pink and white face, I would make her rue the day she came here. I can tell you that much."

As Aletha glanced in the direction of the handsome young floor manager, Charlie Whitney, she turned deathly pale. He was watching Florabel with his heart in his eyes. Ah, if Florabel could have foreseen the horrible end of his affair.

CHAPTER XXV.

HUNTED DOWN BY HER FOE.

The first day of Florabel's life at Messrs. Wallingford & Co.'s was one of many trials. Intuitively she felt that she was not liked by the young girls about her, and that was a cruel experience to one as sensitive as Florabel. She little imagined their dislike was caused by envy of her beautiful face.

Charlie Whitney, the young manager, had fallen in love with her at first sight; that was clearly apparent to every one; and in proportion to his admiration Aletha Van Horn hated her.

There was no end of petty annoyances that she did not subject poor Florabel to, until at last life became almost unendurable to Florabel. She found buffeting with the world pitifully hard.

And, to add to her trouble and alarm, the young manager became marked in his attention to her.

He insisted upon calling at her boarding place, and became bitterly angry because she refused repeatedly to go riding with him.

And at last that which she began to dread came about. At last young Mr. Whitney asked her to be his wife.

"You are very kind, said Florabel, with tears in her eyes, "and I shall always thank you for paying me this honor; but indeed, Mr. Whitney, I can never marry you."

"Why?" he demanded.

"In the first place, I do not love you," faltered Florabel.

"You will learn to love me in time!" he cried, eagerly. "I am willing to marry you without love and trust to the future for you to learn to care for me."

No, no, faltered Florabel. "It can never be."

"Many a girl—Miss Van Horn, for instance—would jump at an offer of marriage from me, declared the young fellow, vainly.

"I repeat that I appreciate your offer; but, though you were King Olaf himself, I would not marry you. I could not."

"Take care, Miss Dean!" he cried. "The warmest love can cool; the most ardent passion turn to hate. Do not make an enemy of me. Remember I have it in my power to discharge you if I will."

"I shall not make that necessary, returned Florabel, proudly. "I intend to leave. I can endure the persecutions I receive there no longer."

Young Whitney was furious.

"You must not—you shall not leave. Why do you know I could prevent you from obtaining employment in any other place, if I wanted to?"

"Would you be so mean, so cowardly, as to interfere with my chances of earning a livelihood? If that is the case, you disgrace the word gentleman; your love is an insult."

"You shall have cause to bitterly rue these words, he answered, with a taunting laugh.

Florabel turned and left him.

It was a relief to Florabel to hand in her resignation, even though she was to face the horror of finding another position that day.

earth, she would sob out, wildly, to herself, in the secrecy of her own room. "The world has narrowed down to a grave. Oh, if I could follow poor baby! If I knew where its little grave was, I would go here, part the long grass as I went upon it, whispering: 'I am coming, baby. Open the gates of heaven with your little hands for me!'"

Her utter desolation, one morning, he met a group of merry girls just entering a straw hat factory. One of them called to her:

"You are losing your hat and gloves, she said. "And there is your pocket-book, too. If you carry it about so carelessly in your jacket you will be sure to lose it."

"There is not one cent in it, so it could not matter much," sighed Florabel, with a little sob.

"Are you looking for work?" asked the young girl, curiously.

"Yes," said Florabel, with quivering lips.

"Suppose you come right upstairs with me. We're overrun with work. I'm sure the foreman will take on an extra hand. The pay is good, too—four dollars a week while you are learning. But if you are smart, you can pick it up in no time. After you learn, you can go on piece work. That pays big. Why, you could be earning in a month's time as much as seven or eight dollars a week."

Florabel followed her guide into the work room and through the influence of her new found friend, was engaged.

"A lovely girl," thought the foreman; "with an uncommon face like that of poor Annie Boleyn, the hapless young queen. There is a tragedy in it."

He could see the innate refinement of the lady in her every action.

As he stepped down to the street that afternoon, some one touched him on the shoulder.

"Why, Whitney, is this indeed you?" he exclaimed, extending his hand. "I thought I saw you from across the street. A pretty lot of girls, and as nice girls as there are in Boston," he declared emphatically. "I was watching for you. I want to have a word with you. Let's walk down the street."

Half an hour later they parted.

"Who would have thought it?" muttered the young foreman to himself. "The girl has the face of a saint. As the case stands, of course Miss Dean will have to go. She would pervert the other girls, and that would not do at all."

Mrs. Price very willingly took Florabel in, for, like every one else, she liked Florabel at first sight.

"It is not every girl in the emporium that I like my daughter Fanny to associate with," she said. "There seems something so refined and ladylike about you that I should choose you for her companion above all others."

"Thank you for those kind words, Mrs. Price," said Florabel, gratefully. "You shall never rue your trust in me."

That same evening a handsome stranger called at the house, requesting to see Mrs. Price privately and alone. The name on the card read:

"CHARLES WHITNEY."

"Oh, mother! cried Fanny, who admitted him flying all in a flutter to Mrs. Price's room, "the handsomest young man I ever saw is down in the parlor, and wishes to see you. If he wants to come here to board, do take him. Oh, he's so very polite. He took off his hat and bowed to me as though I had been some great lady."

"No doubt he is some book agent or pedlar," declared Mrs. Price. "They are the ones that know how to make them bows. I've read all about 'em."

"Indeed, he is no agent or anything of the sort," declared Fanny. "You can see that at a glance for yourself. Ugh! what a cold snowy night! I'll have the walk from here to the gate very carefully swept while you, in the parlor."

Half an hour later the handsome young gentleman took his leave.

"Ha! my pretty Florabel," he muttered, twisting the ends of his curling mustache, and fastening his fur muffler closer about his throat, "you will be glad to come to my arms yet, accepting my offer of marriage. 'All is fair in love and war.'"

Meanwhile Mrs. Price fairly flew up to her daughter's room, where Florabel was sitting before the sea-coal fire.

"You must leave here, Miss Dean!" she broke out, abruptly and vehemently. "I know you; I've heard all about you. I wouldn't have you under my roof, associating with my Fanny, for the whole world. I'd turn you to-night into it's storming. We are poor people, but I'd have you understand we are respectable. Hush, Fanny! Not a word from you. I know what I am talking about, so does Miss Dean here. Don't interfere."

Florabel had risen to her feet, white as death.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"THOU ART SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR."

A long, bitter sob fell from Florabel's lips; she clutched her white, trembling hands tightly over her heart.

"Will you tell me what it is that you have heard, Mrs. Price?" she cried, piteously. "I—I—do not understand."

"If you would know, certain timely hints have been given me that it would be wise to get rid of you as soon as possible," declared the woman, bluntly. "You shall have supper and stay overnight, for I wouldn't turn anybody from my door in a storm like this; but to-morrow I must have my room."

Florabel reached for her bonnet and shawl at once, turning a face so pale and strange upon Mrs. Price that the woman never forgot it while her life lasted.

"I will go now," she said. "I could not eat a mouthful in your house; food would choke me. Better face the storm than remain under this roof another hour."

"Oh, mother! surely you won't let her go out into the storm?" pleaded Fanny Price. "She is so slender, so fragile; she is not warmly clad, and she looks so ill."

"Will you hold your tongue?" demanded her mother, sharply. "If Miss Dean chooses to go to-night, I'm sure I shall by no means try to prevent her. You have not a word to say in the matter, Fanny."

The girl, moved by a sudden impulse, turned and held out her hand to Florabel.

"No matter what they may say against you, I shall not believe it," she declared.

"Thank you," sobbed Florabel; "those words bring me great comfort. I shall always remember you for them."

Passing from the room, Florabel walked quickly down the stairs and out into the streets.

A clock from an adjacent belfry tolled the hour of nine.

Oh, God! the world was so big, so cold, so desolate, where should she go? Which way should she turn?

As she walked along in the intense cold she thought of poor Gretchen, who had crept up between the gray, cold walls, and died there, on just such a bitter night. There they had found her the next morning, frozen cold and dead, her young face upturned to the morning light, the white snow on her long, dark hair, and enfolding her like a shroud.

How often in her childhood, which seemed so far back, she had wept over the story of poor Gretchen. Would her own fate be the same?

Suddenly she became aware that she was followed; footsteps which had kept pace with her own were close beside her.

The next instant a familiar voice whispered in her ear:

"Well, my dear Miss Dean, haven't you had enough of this?"

Drawing back with a start, she found herself face to face with Charles Whitney.

A wild, bitter cry broke from her lips; she turned to fly, but he caught her arm in a firm grasp.

"Listen to me, my dear," he cried. "I'm not an ogre, am I?"

The stifled cry had reached the ears of a gentleman passing. Wheeling about abruptly, he saw by the flickering gaslight the slender figure struggling in a man's grasp.

In an instant he had sprung to the rescue.

"You villain!" he cried, "release that unprotected girl."

"Move on and attend to your own affairs. I'm attending to mine," cried Whitney, angrily.

Before he could gather his senses together he found himself measuring his full length in the deep snow on the pavement.

"You may go on your way in peace, madam," said Max Forrester (for it was he), raising his hat respectfully to the shrinking figure cowering back amid the shadows.

But the whisper died away on her lips, making no sound. Then she had reached out her fluttering hand to him.

Oh, how she tried to call him as she saw him turn away; but Heaven seemed to have taken her voice from her—stricken her dumb.

Lifting his hat pleasantly again, Max Forrester walked hastily down the street, and in a single moment was lost to sight in the impenetrable darkness beyond.

With eyes blinded by tears Florabel raised the bill to her lips, covering it with passionate kisses. She would have died rather than part with it, because he had given it to her.

Ah, how kind he was to every one—even a passing stranger on the street—this handsome young husband who had been so cruel to her.

She had meant to tell him of the life and death of that little one—of whom he had never heard the existence—on whose grave the snow was falling to-night. Would he take her back to his heart, to the shelter of his arms, for that poor little baby's sake?

Max Forrester had passed on with a strange, unaccountable sensation at his heart.

The impulse was strong within him to turn back, and conduct her from out the storm to a place of shelter.

But when he turned and retraced his steps to put this thought into execution, she was nowhere in sight. She had fled down the street; and thus, two lives, so incomplete without each other, drifted apart again.

Winter was over at last, and once more the early spring flowers dotted the hills and vales, and it happened that business brought Max Forrester once more to Boston.

The beauty of the morning tempted him beyond his hotel, to take an early ride through the suburbs.

"What place is that?" he asked the driver, indicating a tall, red brick building, the dome of which was just visible over the tall cedars.

"That, sir," responded the man, "is the Orphan Asylum. If you like, we can drive through the grounds. It's an interesting sight to many to see the little waifs at play."

Max signified his intention of wishing to go through the grounds—he could never have told why.

It was just after the breakfast hour, and most of the children were out in the grounds.

Max looked pityingly at the poor little creatures, who knew not the blessings of a home—knew not what it was to be fondled and caressed like other children in loving parents' arms.

One little waif attracted Max's attention particularly. She was a sweet little creature, with great, wistful brown eyes, and crinkled golden curls framing one of the prettiest of dimpled faces.

The little one could not be much more than two summers. It carried in its hand a little painted toy balloon.

The nurse sprang down the path after it, crying, shrilly and angrily: "Floy! Floy! I say you must not fly your balloon; you will frighten the gentleman's horses."

"Ess, I will," pouted the child, "me doin' to fly my b'loon—me is."

HOPE COUNCIL

The Municipal Council of the Township of Hope met in the Clerk's office Port Hope, on Saturday, October 17th, 1914 at 1.30 o'clock.

Present, J. N. Grennaway Reeve presiding, G. Edwards Deputy Reeve, M. Wilson, R. F. Beatty and J. Dickinson Councillors.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and special meeting were read and on motion confirmed.

Communications were read from the C. N. O. R. acknowledging receipt of Clerks letter and stating in reply that tickets can be purchased and freight billed as formally at Osaca station.

From Judge Huycke stating he was pleased to act as sole arbitrator in the W. H. B. Dickinson claims for damages case vs Hope Township.

These communications were on motion filed.

Mr. Wilson reported that Mr. Eagleson and he had let contract to repair bridge north of Dixons, new sleepers were provided and bridge recovered, two culverts were also put in on Hamilton Boundary.

Chas. Spicer has a grievance of graveling on a road near his place. Also the cedar for the Gist bridge has not been secured yet, it will be supplied soon.

Mr. Beatty said Mr. McMillan reports a bridge on the Clarke Boundary in condition. Mr. Beatty was on motion appointed to have this in conjunction with Clarke Council repaired, also to have needed repairs made to Powells Bridge.

Mr. Dickinson reported that several parties have complained about some trees that interfere with the view of the Railway west of Newtonville station. The Clerk was directed to write the C. P. R. and ask for their removal and also to ask Clarke Council to do the same. Mr. McElroy asked Council to have hill near his place repaired at once as it is impassable and very dangerous. The Reeve promised Council's attention.

Mr. Edwards reported that the claim for damages re W. H. B. Dickinson and Hope Township had been settled largely through the good offices of Councillor Dickinson.

The Clerk to notify His Honor Judge Huycke that his services as arbitrator will not be required now. The following bills and accounts were read in detail by the Reeve and ordered to be paid.

On motion of Messrs Edwards and Beatty, Geo Gist was given a contract to clean out ditch and change culvert so as to dispose of the water complained of, near his place, this work only to be undertaken if it does injure any other ratepayer, and to be under the supervision of Mr. Wilson, total cost not to exceed $10.00.

The Clerk reported having received $3.38 from Jno Bosnell for cement tile, which he had paid the Treasurer.

Moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Dickinson, that Mr. Edwards be appointed to purchase additional land for gravel pit from Miss Douglas on the best terms possible.

A communication was read from the Warden asking Council to interest themselves in securing donations for the Overseas Patriotic Relief Fund, Railway and steamship transportation to be free.

It was moved by Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that we hold two public meetings, one at Campbellcroft, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 21st, and the other at Welcome, Thursday evening, Oct. 22nd, for the purpose of making further explanations and appointing committees to undertake the soliciting of donations of wheat, oats, apples, potatoes, butter, beans, cheese, etc.; bills to be printed and circulated at once, shipments to be made at C.N.O.R., Osaca, and by G.T.R. at Garden Hill and Port Hope on the 29th Oct. next. On motion Council adjourned to meet the third Saturday in November, 1914.

Patriotic Pledge by Manufacturers

Walkerville, Ont., Business Men Start Campaign to "Keep Dollar at Home"

"Keep the Dollar at Home" is the keynote of a patriotic campaign instituted by the Board of Trade, Walkerville, Ontario, which in its practical results, bids fair to be of considerable importance.

The Walkerville Board has entered on this campaign in a thoroughly business-like manner, adopting a pictorial trade-mark, also a patriotic slogan, which they invite other Boards of Trade throughout Canada to adopt.

The secretary of the local Board of Trade has received from the Walkerville Board of Trade a copy of their trade-mark, a cut of which appears herewith, also copies of the patriotic Proclamation, which has been sent broadcast through Canada by the Walkerville manufacturers and wholesalers.

This Proclamation is very handsomely printed in four colors and is headed as follows:

"The Dominion of Canada has a clear duty and well defined course in defending the Mother Country; What is your patriotism worth? Remember that Canada's best contribution to the defense of the Empire is to keep hard at work providing food and other necessities of life. Let's forget our little quarrels and show our patriotism by hard work."

Such well known firms as the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., Hiram Walker & Sons, distillers, Parke Davis & Company, Peabody's Company, Limited, and others, have sent these Proclamations at their own expense to their dealers throughout the Dominion with the request that they be posted simultaneously in the windows of retail stores and elsewhere.

This campaign is a purely unselfish one and is based on the theory that it is the patriotic duty of the manufacturers to keep their employees at work, full time if possible, during war time.

Also that the manufacturers can do this only if the consumers in Canada will spend his money for Canadian made goods.

RELIEF CONTRIBUTIONS

At the request of the Warden of the Counties, a special meeting of Hope Council was held on Saturday, when it was decided to call meetings at the following places for the purpose of appointing committees to canvass Hope Township for contributions of Potatoes, Apples, Wheat, Butter, Cheese, and other food products to be sent overseas to the suffering and destitute. The meetings will be held at 7.30 in the evening at the Women's Institute Hall, Campbellcroft, Wednesday, October, 21st, 1914, and Roberts' Hall, Welcome, Thursday, October 22nd, 1914.

Prompt action necessary as it is proposed to make a shipment of produce on Thursday, October 29th, from Garden Hill and Port Hope stations by G. T. R. and Osaca C. N. R. The railways are providing FREE transportation. Farmers! don't wait to be called on, but volunteer quickly what you will give.

PARTRIDGE SEASON IS NOW ON

Thursday was the first day of the open season for partridge shooting and although not as sunny as one could wish, a number of sportsmen took the opportunity to roam through the woods with their guns in search of the tasty wild fowl. The season now is from the fifteenth of October to the fifteenth of November inclusive. No person is allowed to shoot more than ten birds in one day and in the Counties of Haldimand and Halton no shooting at all is allowed till 1917.

Those who have been watching the woods this summer should be in a position to know whereof they speak state that the partridge are quite plentiful.

DISARMAMENT

"Put up the sword!" The voice of Christ once more
Speaks, in the pauses of the cannon's roar
O'er fields of corn and fiery sickles reaped
And let dry ashes; over trenches heaped
With nameless dead; o'er cities starving slow
Under a rain of fire; through wards of woe
Down which a groaning diapason runs
From tortured brothers, husbands, lovers, sons
Of desolate women in their far-off homes,
Waiting to hear the step that never comes!

O, men and brothers! let that voice be heard
War fails, try peace; put up the useless sword!
Fear not the end. There is a story told
In Eastern tents, when autumn nights grow cold,
And around the fire the Mongol shepherd sit
With grave responses listening un- to it;
Once, on the errands of his mercy bent,
Buddha, the holy and benevolent,
Met a fell monster, huge and fierce of look,
Whose awful voice the hills and forests shook.
"O, son of peace!" the giant cried,
"thy fate
Is sealed at last, and love shall yield to hate."
The unarmed Buddha looking with no trace
Of fear or anger, in the monster's face,
In pity said, "Poor friend, even thee I love."
Lo! as he spake the sky-tall terror sank
To hand-breadth size; the huge abhorrence shrank
Into the form and fashion of a dove;
And where the thunder of its rage was heard,
Circling above him sweetly sang the bird,
"Hate hath no harm for love," so ran the song;
"And peace unweaponed conquers every wrong."

A CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR EVERY SOLDIER

London, Oct. 15th. — Princess Mary has issued an appeal, in which she says:
"I want you all to help me to send a Christmas present from the whole nation to every sailor afloat and every soldier at the front. On Christmas eve, when, like the shepherds of old, they keep their watch, doubtless their thoughts will turn to home and loved ones left behind. Perhaps, too, they will recall the days when as children themselves they were wont to hang up their stockings, wondering what the morrow had in store."
"I am sure we will be happier on Christmas morning to feel that we have helped by sending our little token of love and sympathy—something useful or of permanent value, the making of which may be the means of providing employment in the trades adversely affected by the war."
It is hoped that the appeal will result in the raising of $500,000 for the provision of gifts taking the form of an embossed tobacco box or cigarette box, pipe and tinder lighter, and candies for the Indian troops.

ESCAPED AUTO, THEN ALMOST DROWNED

To be almost run over by a motor car, and, when the driver avoided killing him outright, to be almost drowned as the result of said avoidance, was the unique experience of one small boy named McCleary, of 41 Peter street, Toronto, who tried to cross the road at the corner of Peter and Adelaide to-day.

Dr. Cuthbertson, of Madison avenue, was the driver of the car concerned. The boy tried to run across in front of the car, but tripped and fell. The doctor swerved sharply and struck a hydrant. The hydrant, not having been built to withstand shocks of that nature, snapped off short, and a stream of water ascended fifty feet into the air. Much of it came down where the boy was lying, and in such quantities that he was half drowned before aid came.

POULTRY AND PET STOCK

A meeting of the Poultry and Pet stock fanciers will be held in the Board Room of the Dept. of Agriculture, Ontario street, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 28th, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing an association for the town and vicinity. All interested are earnestly asked to attend.

WORRYING OVER HIS INVESTMENT

A Port Hope youth is worrying about twenty-five dollars he spent last week. He entered into partnership with some men who were selling patriotic songs and twenty-five dollars was his share of the investment. He thinks the profits will be slow.

"TOO YOUNG, SONNY," SAID KITCHENER

London, Oct. 20.—Eager to join the army, Reginald Smith, a Rams-gate lad, whose father and uncle served with the colors, ran away from home and walked to London, where he called first at Buckingham Palace and then at Scotland Yard and asked to see Lord Kitchener. By chance the Secretary of State for War called at the yard and was stopped by the boy. Patting the youngster on the shoulder Lord Kitchener said: "You are too young, sonny; wait until you get older." The lad, whose father works at the Rams-gate Railway station, is to be sent to a military training school in order that his ambition may be realized.

OIL COMPANY VIOLATED LAW

Alliston Herald:—The Columbus Oil Company of Ohio, six or eight weeks ago sent some canvassers through this part of the county and booked orders for a large quantity of coal oil and a large number of galvanized oil tanks. Last week a tank-car arrived here by G. T. R. and one A. C. Davy, representing the oil company, proceeded to fill the orders and take the money for the oil on the G. T. R. property. A summons was issued and Mr. Davy charged with selling oil in violation of the transient traders by-law. The case came up on Tuesday before Magistrates Mitchell, Lee, Elliott and Moore. John Birnie, K. C., of Collingwood, was present for the defendant and Mr. G. E. J. Brown acted for the prosecution. Frank Mullen was the only material witness, his evidence proving the manner in which the sale was made. There was much fine legal argument, the case hinging on whether taking an order or delivering goods and taking the money constitute a sale. The magistrates reserved decision for an hour and consulted authorities. They found this defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $50 and costs.

FIRST BATTLE WAS SCOTCH VICTORY

The following official report of the first engagement of the war is not supplied by the press bureau, but by a Galston George Washington, who has the best authority for his details of the combat: "In one of the compartments of the evening train from Troon just after the declaration of war between Britain and Germany were an old gentleman and his wife and a young fellow from Troon, while in a corner sat another young chap reading a paper. The three unoccupied passengers entered into conversation about the war, and the Troon chap remarked that the Germans would be wiped out. Hardly had the prophecy crossed his lips, when the passive newspaper reader, without any declaration of war or other indications of bellicose fever, made a demonstration in force, swooped down upon the unsuspecting Troon man and smote him a mighty swipe on the cheek, accompanying the blow with the remark: 'You will not say about my country that you like.' For about the time of a midge's wink the Scot was stunned, but he rallied, collected his forces, and, making a brilliant charge, welled the German such a powerful one on the snout that the Troon head stotted back and broke the window, while the blood from his nose dyed his shirt front. The German again advanced in force, but again the Troon man met him with a swift swipe on the jaw, which put the aggressive Troon to sleep. So Scotland won the first battle of the war."—Glasgow Evening Times.

FREQUENT FIRES

The burning of four barns within two weeks in this vicinity, has aroused considerable suspicion. About one o'clock Monday morning Mr. F. H. Lazier's barn was burned. His tenant, Mr. Frank Murney, upon discovering the fire made haste to the scene, but the fire had gained such headway that he only managed to save the horses, pigs and some harness. The season's crop was in store, and Mr. Lazier suffered heavy loss as he had only a small amount of insurance. Wednesday night last Mr. Sam Stanton's green-house, on the lakeshore road, was discovered to be on fire, but in time to save the building. Whoever had planned the job returned the following night and again set fire to the green-house. This was again discovered and put out before much damage had been done. Failing in both attempts to destroy the green-house the fire-bug tried his art on the barn about 3 a. m. (Thursday) and succeeded in its destruction. The building was so greatly enveloped in flames when discovered that the rescue of the contents was impossible. The barn contained the season's crop, and Mr. Stanton is a very heavy loser, not having any insurance. Readers will recall that on Friday night, Sept. 25th, Mr. John Brown's barn was burned, and on Monday morning, Sept. 28th, Mrs. Robert Hewitt's.—Brighton Ensign.

Took Carbohc Acid After Police Court

A woman who in the Peterboro police court the other morning was fined, when convicted of assault and was also bound over to keep the peace, took a quantity of carbohc acid shortly after the court proceedings, and her condition was so serious that she was rushed to the hospital for treatment. She will recover.

The Queer British Empire.

What a queer, queer thing the British Empire is when you come to think of it! In ordinary times you would naturally judge from the way Ireland and the dominions and colonies talk about Great Britain that the poor old country didn't have a friend on earth. In ordinary times some part of the British Empire is always berating the Home Government. In times of peace everybody feels at liberty to assume a possible revolution in India; separation of the dominions, and all sorts of other disastrous things. In times of peace the Empire is always more or less "doomed," according to the statements of many gloom-laden British subjects. But in time of war how suddenly things look up in that queer, queer British Empire. "I haven't a thing to take back," says Ireland, "but under the circumstances kindly show me the enemy as soon as possible. I want to get at him." "Yours of recent date received," says Canada. "Am sending men as fast as they can be gotten ready and transportation secured. Reserving for a more auspicious time any hatred a part of our population justifiably bears to England, says South Africa, "we are prepared to do our utmost in the present war. Serious local dissatisfaction will arise, sahib, unless Indians are permitted to give their lives for the honourable Empire, now that it is at war with a foreign nation." says India. It's everywhere the same story. In peace it's "Confound your stupid, unreasonable, fat-headed, doomed, arrogant soul!" In time of need it's "Count on us to the limit!" Which is why we say that the British Empire is a queer, queer institution!

REAL SOLDIERS RARE.

Volunteers and Landwehr All Germany Has Left.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—An official communication issued by the War Office last night says:
"The following are extracts from a letter found on a German prisoner, dated Dusseldorf, Oct. 4:
"With us officers and soldiers are becoming rarer. We have no more men than are adequate. Volunteers and men of the landwehr are all we have to-day. If you saw these soldiers you would turn your head. Everybody is being taken. It is Germany's last hope. All the aged men are becoming soldiers. Have you bread? Many complain they have none."

MINE PLAYS HAVOC

French Retire and Destroy Germans on Disputed Position.
ENEMY SHORTEN ITS LINE

They Are Trying to Rest Their Right Wing Further West Along the English Channel, But Without Much Success—After Long Battle for Point of Vantage French Destroy Whole Battalions.

FROM THE BATTLEFRONT, Oct. 21.—(Via Paris.)—The German invaders in their efforts to shorten their lines and rest their right wing further southwest upon the English Channel are meeting with a vigorous offensive by the allies. A good part of the fighting is being done in the obscurity of fogs.

French marines on Monday put forth a fine effort against the Germans. The troops of Emperor William had tried a surprise attack on the marines Sunday, but they had held the field works against superior numbers. The fight lasted all day, and then the Germans contented themselves with cannonading the position of the marines.

A thick fog covered the entire region Monday, and the marines, accustomed to such weather conditions, crept toward the German trenches. "No shooting," was the order; "use the bayonet!"

The marines got within thirty feet of the trenches before they were seen. It was too late for the defenders, who were bayoneted in the trenches and beyond the trenches as they ran. Four hundred German prisoners were taken.

One of the places where the French had been most harassed is near the elbow of the western line. The important position there had been taken and retaken frequently during the last three weeks. Every time the Germans had been obliged to abandon the position they returned in greater force and pushed back the French by weight of numbers.

The French took the position for the twelfth time and held it for ten hours. Then came a shock of the human battering ram, and the French gradually gave way. The Germans began fortifying the place, but while they were engaging in this task the earth heaved and a deafening explosion occurred. The ten hours the French had held the point had been sufficient to mine every rod of the ground.

It is estimated that three German battalions were annihilated.

BESIEGERS HARDEST HIT.

Japanese Losses at Tsingtau Out-number Those of Germans.

PEKIN, China, Oct. 21.—Refugees who have come out of Tsingtau, the fortified position in the German possessions in Shantung province are authority for the statement that up to the time they left the Japanese had lost several thousand men before Tsingtau, while the casualties of the Germans had not amounted to more than several hundred.

Reliable information obtained in Pekin is to the effect that a British detachment sustained a number of casualties while crossing land that had been mined by the Germans in Kiaochau.

Arrivals at the Chinese capital from Siberia say that Russian troop trains are traveling westward over the trans-Siberian Railway hourly.

An uncensored letter received in Pekin from a reliable correspondent within the Japanese lines, dated Oct. 9, says that the Japanese attacked Tsingtau on several nights, but invariably were repulsed. Once, the correspondent says, the Germans followed the Japanese successfully for a short distance.

DUCHESS OF SUTHERLAND WEDS

Nuptials Interrupt Labors of Red Cross Worker and Soldier.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Millicent, Duchess of Sutherland, who recently went to the war zone as head of the Red Cross Hospital, and Major Percy Desmond Fitzgerald of the 11th Hussars, were quietly married last week at Rosehampton. The duchess has returned to her Red Cross work in France.

The Duchess of Sutherland is the fourth daughter of the Earl of Rosslyn. She was married in 1884 to the Duke of Sutherland, who died in 1913. She is deeply interested in social questions.

Major Fitzgerald was born in 1873 and he served in South Africa. He was decorated for distinguished service in Ladysmith and the Transvaal.

You Get Bilious
Because Your Liver is Lazy

You get a bilious attack when your liver refuses to do its work. The bile does not flow. You become constipated. Food sours instead of digesting. You have that "bitter as gall" taste. The stomach becomes inflamed and inflated—turns sick—vomiting, and violent headache.—The best preventative and cure for biliousness is Chamberlain's Tablets. GOING INTO CAMP

First of Canadians Have Probably Reached Salisbury.

ENTHUSIASM AT PLYMOUTH

The Disembarking of the Contingent Leads Off With the Landing of the Strathcona Horse, But Process Will Be Slow Because of Low Tides—Great Liners Crowd Plymouth Harbor.

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 16.—(Via London.)—The Canadians received a debarcation order from the War Office unexpectedly last evening. Despite the rain crowds of people turned out to watch the landing and entraining of the troops, which began with a contingent of Strathcona's Horse.

The various contingents were headed through the streets by their bands and pipes. Owing to the difficulty of berthing the transports, in consequence of the neap tide, the debarcation of the Canadians is expected to be slow.

Extensive preparations have been made for the Canadians on Salisbury Plain. The first contingents are believed to have reached there during last night. The movements of the troops have been conducted during the night time in order to avoid delays to other railway traffic.

Plymouth is agog with excitement over the landing of Canadian troops. Right up to the estuary transports are steadily discharging their cargoes amidst scenes of the keenest enthusiasm. The surprise in this famous port was unbounded when the transports suddenly came into this harbor.

From south to north the eye travelled up the Hamoze following what seemed an almost unending line of masts and funnels until it faded away in the dim light of the higher waters before taking a turn for Saltash bridge.

It was an unprecedented sight, one indeed without parallel in the history of the great western port. Never before has there been such an assemblage of this class of ship in these waters, and it was altogether a most inspiring scene. The rigging and decks of the ships were masses of khaki-clad figures and the company of each ship appeared in the happiest of spirits. Little steamboats, dwarfed almost into insignificance beside these great leviathans, passed in every direction and added to the din of welcome with sirens and whistles.

As the small passenger steamers passed, those on board waved and cheered to the smiling faces high up above them and acknowledged the greeting in true British fashion. One of the ships had on board some of the little regiments, and as each of the ships passed along, the skirl of the pipes came over the water and was cheered to the echo by the inhabitants of the three towns. Folk only were allowed to see them at a distance, for much to the disappointment of the public, none of the Canadians was allowed freedom ashore.

Military necessities render it impossible to say anything concerning the many matters upon which the Canadian public will be eager for.

The voyage to England was a delightful one, and on every transport there was maintained the same eagerness and fine spirit which were shown on the days before sailing.

It is understood that there is a clean bill of health, but many horses have died on the voyage. The task of disembarking such immense numbers of men and material is naturally a tremendous one, but the arrangements are working with complete smoothness.

Strathcona's Horse came in for a gratifying reception. They could be distinguished by a special banner displayed on the liner's bridge.

ELEVATORS ROBBED.

Grain, Said To Be In Large Quantities, Stolen at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—A large quantity of grain, said by some to be more than would fill two of the biggest "tramps" plying out of Montreal, has been stolen from elevators owned by the Montreal Harbor Commissioners. The figure is set by some at 750,000 bushels.

The Harbor Commissioners state, however, that only a few hundred bushels have disappeared.

The first intimation of the thefts was received from England, where a cargo was reported about 10,000 bushels short. An investigation followed and the deeper those conducting it go, the more they are amazed.

Austrians Using Dum-dums.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 16.—The general staff of Kiev has given out a statement alleging that dum-dum bullets are being used by Austrian troops. Eight cases of those bullets have been secured in the theatre of war. The packages in which they are put up bear this inscription: "Uebungspatronen M. T. Wolf S. 1914."

According to advices received here many Roumanian deserters are presenting themselves before the Roumanian consul at Odessa and demanding that they be sent home.

Portugal Reinforces Garrisons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Two expeditionary forces of Portuguese troops sailed from Lisbon on Sept. 19 to reinforce garrisons in Portuguese possessions in Africa, which adjoin those of Germany. This was made known yesterday by C. Rangel de Sampaio, Portuguese consul-general at New York, and is the first news to reach this country of any actual military preparations by Portugal for the eventuality of that country's participation in the war.

Dutch to Raise $20,000,000.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 16.—(Via London.)—The First Chamber yesterday passed the measure providing for the second war credit of $20,000,000.

NOT OVER BY CHRISTMAS.

War Will See More Than One Christmas Thinks Curzon.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Earl Curzon of Kedleston, formerly Viceroy of India, in a speech made at a war meeting at Harrow School last night, said that the taking of Antwerp was a deliberate part of the German plan.

"Germany has taken Antwerp to fortify it, to keep it, to make a great naval port of it, to use it as a great jumping-off place for her future attempts upon this country. It is no temporary occupation unless we make it so."

The speaker added that by fortifying Antwerp Germany would secure a grip on the whole of Belgium, make Holland play her will, and then settle down to her main object—the destruction of this country. He said Britain was in for a long war, and declared he was shocked that some people should think the hostilities would be over by Christmas. In his opinion more than one Christmas would roll by before the ending of hostilities. In conclusion he advised his hearers not to begin to divide up the German Empire "before you have got hold of it."

Britain's need of more fighting men was emphasized by the announcement last night that the infantry standard, which had been raised to check the great rush of recruits at the outbreak of the war, has again been lowered. The minimum height for recruits, which formerly was 5 feet 6 inches, has been placed at 5 feet 4 inches, and chest measurement from 35 1-2 to 34 1-2 inches.

An appeal has been issued in Glasgow for 2,000 recruits to replace the naval men interned in Holland.

PARIS IS SCARED.

Two Visits of German Bomb-Droppers In 24 Hours Causes Panic.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Paris was attacked again yesterday by a German bomb-dropping aeroplane, the second aerial raid over the city within twenty-four hours, and as a result of the flight the population is in terror and is demanding that the French aerial blockade be strengthened.

The ease with which the German aviator penetrated to a point over Paris and dropped two bombs on the Northern Railroad station, so soon after Saturday's raid by two machines which scattered twenty bombs, killing three and wounding fourteen persons, has roused the people to a realization that their overhead danger is constant and unprevented by the French Aviation Corps.

Following Sunday morning's raid by two German aeroplanes, when the Cathedral of Notre Dame was struck by one of the falling bombs, all of the aerial craft defending Paris was made ready for instant action. Despite these preparations a German aeroplane swooped over Paris at 9.15 yesterday morning and dropped two bombs between two crowded railroad trains which were leaving the Northern Railroad station.

SAN GIULIANO NEAR DEATH.

Passing of Italian Foreign Minister May Alter Situation.

ROME, Oct. 13.—Minister of Foreign Affairs Di San Giuliano has received the last sacrament and the attending physicians say death is imminent.

Marquis Antonio Di San Giuliano was born in Catania, Dec. 9, 1852. He was appointed senator March 4, 1905. He has served as ambassador in London and Paris several times. He was postmaster-general from May of 1899 to June of 1900 and was Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Cabinet, headed by Fortis, from Dec. 24, 1905, till Feb. 8, 1906. He was again Secretary of Foreign Affairs from the date just mentioned until March 31, 1911, this time in the Cabinet headed by Luzzatti, and again Secretary of the same Department from the last mentioned date till March of the present year in the Cabinet headed by Giolitti, and was again appointed Secretary of Foreign Affairs in the present Cabinet, headed by Salandra.

San Giuliano is strongly pro-German and his death may result in a sharp change in Italy's position.

Ghent Citizens Flee.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 13.—A despatch from Ghent states that the skirmishing which took place Sunday was more southerly and westerly than it was on Saturday. A Zeppelin appeared over Audenarde Sunday and proceeded in the direction of Brussels.

Five hundred Germans encamped at Sottenhem have destroyed the railway bridges at Audenove, St. Marie, Lierre and Grammont. The inhabitants of Ghent are commencing their flight toward the Dutch frontier.

Three Lives Lost.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—Three men were killed and two injured in an accident which occurred about eleven o'clock Sunday morning on the National Transcontinental construction work northwest of La Tuque. The scene of the accident is remote from here, the nearest communication point being Harvey Junction, where the National Transcontinental line crosses the Canadian Northern on the way to Quebec. One of the men killed was Mr. A. H. Johnston, a railway engineer, of Westmount.

Russian Campaign Veiled.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 13.—The battle which began Saturday on the western border of Poland equals the battle in France on the Aisne in extent and may equal it in length of time. The numbers of the opposing armies are as great as in the western theatre of war.

Semi-official intimations that success of the Russian operations have been published and no information as to the tremendous conflict now taking place has been given out.

RECRUITING AGAIN

Canada Starts to Raise 30,000 Men For Service at Front.

PREMIER ANNOUNCES PLAN

Thirty Thousand Men Will Be Kept Constantly In Training and Ten Thousand Will Go at Intervals and Their Places Filled—First Quota To Be Ready In December—Home Defence.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—An official statement given out last night by the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, announces that the Government will proceed at once with the organization of Canada's second expeditionary force, the first installment of which consisting of 10,000 men, is to be despatched in December. Sixteen to twenty thousand men are to be immediately enlisted, under the supervision of the commanding officers of the various military divisions throughout Canada, and as soon as equipment, rifles, etc., are available the Government will keep continuously under arms and in training a total force of 40,000 men, including some 10,000 needed for garrison and outpost duty in Canada. The Prime Minister states that this force will be maintained as long as the war lasts, or as long as the War Office wants them, and a continuous stream of reinforcements will thus be available for service at the front.

The Prime Minister's announcement which follows extensive conferences with Col. Gwatkin, chief of staff, and Col. Denison, adjutant-general, is as follows:

"The first concern of the Canadian Government is the defence of our own territory, including our ports and harbors. For this purpose about 8,000 men are now under arms in Canada, and are serving on garrison or outpost duty from the Atlantic to the Pacific. At important points on both coasts the defences have been strengthened and guns have been mounted. Other coast and harbor defences, the nature of which it is not desirable to publish, have also been prepared. Expert military advisers of the Government advise that this force could be very rapidly increased from the active militia at a few hours' notice, and they consider that every reasonable safeguard against successful attack has been provided.

"As to the organization and despatch of further contingents the following conclusions have been reached:

"(1) From the present time until the end of the war, so long as the War Office shall deem it advisable, Canada will keep continuously in training and under arms (in addition to the eight thousand men above mentioned) 30,000 men.

"(2) As soon as arms, guns and equipment can be provided for a force of ten thousand men that force will be despatched to Great Britain at the first installment of a second expeditionary force. Thereupon additional men will be enlisted, so as to keep the number under training continuously at 30,000. This process will continue from time to time. That is to say, as soon as each force of 10,000 men is armed, equipped and despatched another force of 10,000 will be enlisted to take its place, and to bring the number in training up to 30,000.

"(3) It is anticipated that the first force of 10,000 men will be despatched in December, and thereafter at regular intervals similar forces will be continuously sent forward as rapidly as they can be armed and equipped.

"(4) Including the forces on garrison and outpost duty, we shall thus have under arms or in training about 40,000 men in Canada, and until the end of the war, or until the War Office advises that further expeditionary forces are not needed, a steady stream of reinforcements will go forward from our shores to the seat of the war.

"(5) If the expected communication from the War Office should make any modification in the above arrangements necessary, that modification will be announced at a later date.

"(6) The Government is informed by its military advisers that it would be impossible to supply arms, guns and equipment on a larger scale than that laid down in these proposals.

"(7) Pending advices from the War Office as to the composition of the second contingent, which have not yet been received, infantry to the number of 16,000 or 20,000 will be immediately enlisted, and the organization and training of infantry units will be proceeded with throughout the Dominion from Halifax to Victoria.

"(8) As soon as the expected instructions arrive from the War Office immediately arrangements will be made for enlisting such cavalry, artillery, engineers and administrative units as the War Office may advise."

More Stringent With Spies.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The authorities are taking more stringent measures against alien enemies who remain undetained in England. Yesterday afternoon the police raided a large restaurant owned and managed by Germans and Austrians. These were taken to a detention camp.

The agitation against permitting natives of hostile countries to continue their vocations here is growing as reports come in of alleged operations of German spies in Antwerp before that city fell.

Caronia Takes Tank Steamer.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 19.—The steamer Caronia has arrived here with the oil tank Brindilla, from New York, with articles supposedly contraband of war.

The Brindilla formerly was a German steamer. The Washington Prize Court will decide on the contraband question.

CONVICTS GET AWAY.

Central Prison Inmate Hits Guard Over Head, and Four Escape.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Slashing a guard at the Central Prison over the head with a piece of gas pipe and leaving him unconscious, four men escaped from the prison yesterday afternoon and are still at liberty. Their names are Mulhall, Schwier, McLaughlin and Spence. The first three are "repenters," Mulhall having a bad record all over the province, Spence was serving his first term.

The plan of escape was devised by Mulhall. On the pretext that he wished to replace a pane of glass in the northeast tower he gained permission from the guard to ascend the ladder leading upwards to the top of the stone wall which surrounds the prison. He took glass and putty and mounted to the tower, which is situated on the top of the wall almost directly opposite the city stock yards. Then waiting until the guards were looking the other way he struck him over the head with a length of gas pipe covered with one thickness of canvas. The guard dropped his rifle and fell.

When they saw that the way of escape was open Schwier, Spence and McLaughlin, who were watching, made a dash for the wall. All four took the eighteen-foot drop from the wall to the cinder road running between the railway tracks and the prison. Mulhall carried the guard's rifle. The prisoners ran westward through the Parkdale freight yards, and lost themselves in the labyrinth of cars.

It was not until the guard had regained consciousness at three o'clock that the alarm was raised. Two attendants were immediately despatched to search for the prisoners. They traced the fugitives to the C. P. R. freight yards.

When the pursuing guards arrived, the C. P. R. officials remembered having seen the men whose clothes resemble laborers' jumpers. The guards telephoned from the C. P. R. freight office for assistance to the jail, and the search was maintained throughout the night.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

A patrol of Cossacks, while hidden in a forest near Warsaw, brought down a Zeppelin airship by well-directed fire. The crew of the Zeppelin were saved.

The Paris Figaro announces that the harvest has been completed in the Champagne district despite the German gun fire, that the vines suffered very little.

Cases of cholera are multiplying rapidly in Galicia, Transylvania and North and East Hungary. The fear is expressed that the disease will prove a serious menace to military operations.

The Haytian Government forces were defeated by the rebels in a battle in the vicinity of Limonade, on the northern side of the island. The President of Hayti is reported to be retreating.

Despatches received here from Sofia, Bulgaria, and other points, report the appearance of the former German cruisers Breslau and Goeben, which fly the Turkish flag, in the Black Sea.

Advices from Berlin state that the German Emperor has approved the suggestion of the Archbishop of Cologne, to treat all captured French priests as officers, though they be serving as privates.

Details of the seizure by British cruisers of the American steamship Rio Pasis, and her detention at Hong Kong as a prize, show that the vessel was charged with endeavoring to supply German cruisers.

The Jones Philippine Bill, which declares the purpose of the United States to recognize the independence of the islands "as soon as a stable government can be established there," passed the House of Representatives yesterday by a vote of 211 to 59.

URGES CANADIAN BUYING.

Mayor of Maisonneuve Makes Representations to Great Britain.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—On motion of Mayor A. Michaud, the Maisonneuve City Council yesterday passed a resolution protesting against the alleged action of the Imperial authorities, whom the council accused of sending orders to the United States for material which may be procured in Canada at prices which defy competition. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to Ottawa and to the Imperial authorities in London.

Mayor Michaud referred to many of the local industries which had all but closed down as the result of the stagnation in the business world. This stress, the mayor said, could be relieved to a very great extent by the Imperial authorities giving Canadian companies a chance to supply the present requirements of the Home Government.

"Le Royal Canadien."

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—The official authority to proceed with the organization of a French-Canadian Regiment, with headquarters in Montreal, was given yesterday morning at a meeting of the Militia Council, presided over by Hon. J. D. Hazen, acting Militia Minister. The regiment will be commanded by Col. F. M. Gaudet, who is given control of the organization, including the nomination of his officers. It will be called "Le Royal Canadien." If official sanction can be obtained, and will form part of Quebec's contingent.

Force Goes After Maritz.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—According to late official reports from South Africa the rebellious commando under Col. Maritz numbers about 500 men, including a number of Germans who have joined him.

Gen. Botha, the South African Premier, has sent a strong force against Maritz, who has near Uptinton a large number of German cannon, rifles, ammunition and stores.

ATTACKS ALL FAIL

Germans Are Defeated in First Stages Along the Vistula.

SOUGHT TO CROSS RIVER

Eighteen Efforts to Traverse Stream Which Shelters the Russian Army Are Repulsed With Heavy Losses and Austro-German Troops Are Put on the Defensive—20,000 Lost at Niemen.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 19.—The London Telegraph's special correspondent says: "So far the battle of the Vistula has gone in favor of Russia. The Austro-Germanic armies at all points have failed to force the passage of the River Vistula. Everywhere the enemy has been compelled to assume the defensive. There is nothing to justify the assumption that anything like a finally decisive result has been attained. The enemy retired in god order, without forfeiting any integral portion of his strength. The Germans made a very determined and pertinacious fight to get a footing on the right bank of the Vistula. With an enormous mass of artillery they kept up a terrific bombardment day and night. Under cover of an incessant rain of projectiles attempts were made to throw pontoons across the river at no fewer than eighteen separate points. However, all efforts were in vain. The Germans were repulsed everywhere. Large quantities of bridging material were destroyed. The enemy's losses must be very heavy.

"The attempts of the Germans to cross the Niemen, near Druskeniki, cost them about 20,000 men. On the East Prussian front the operations have taken the character of a siege, the Germans offering a stubborn resistance along a carefully prepared line of retrenchment. They had been reinforced from East Prussian garrisons. The recent fighting in this region has been of a most determined and sanguinary nature. The difficulties of the troops had been rendered much more severe by the torrential rains which fell during several days and nights almost without intermission. Many bogs, in which the region abounds, have been transformed into lakes. Those portions of Suwalki government which were occupied by the Germans were completely denuded of all means of subsistence, so it is impossible to rely on local supplies."

POSITION IS INSECURE.

Germans Are Reported To Be Retiring From Ostend.

NORTHEAST FRANCE, Oct. 19.—A report is current in this district this morning that the Germans are retiring from Ostend and its neighborhood. It is added the town was not occupied in great force. It is impossible here, and at the time which this message must be despatched, to obtain any verification of the report, which, however, comes from what I think is a fairly reliable source. I am informed in another quarter that the Germans now regard their general position in Belgium as a not quite satisfactory one.

It is straggling and open to attack, and in great danger owing to the continuing progress of the allies. Farther south good progress, it is added, is being made by the allies in Belgium, and in military circles high hopes are entertained that a notable advance will be registered during the course of this week. It, indeed, is confidently anticipated that the advance will be achieved by a victory which will also have considerable effect on the position elsewhere.

BED FOR BIG GUNS.

German Factory Raided In Edinburgh Was Built By German.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—"A large factory owned by Germans was raided by the military in Edinburgh last night," says a despatch from the Observer's correspondent in the Scottish capital. "It was built ten years ago, and although capable of accommodating 50 hands, never more than six workmen, all Germans, were seen about the place.

"According to information supplied by the builders, £150,000 was spent on magnificent concrete foundations, the proprietor explaining that exceedingly heavy machinery would be required for the factory. The machinery never arrived, the factory never started, and no workers came, but the situation dominates Edinburgh and the prepared position, jutting on the sea, would enable big guns to hit the Forth bridge."

Germans Dislocated.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Lt.-Col. Roussel, the French military critic, says in discussing the position of the opposing armies in Northern France: "I see in the change of front operated by the enemy only an admission of increasing embarrassment. German strategy is at the present time a little disconcerting and I believe that the directors of this strategy are themselves completely disconcerted. They have tried to force both of our wings. The engagements in the region of Roy and Lassigny have put them in the Homerie. They have not procured for the Germans any benefit, nor have the combats which have taken place on the other extremity of our front."

Earthquake In Greece.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Athens says that at eight o'clock on Saturday morning and again at noon there were continuous seismic shocks in the Grecian provinces of Attica, Boeotia and Peloponnesus. At Thebes hundreds of cottages were overthrown and many persons injured. The shocks are continuing, and have been felt in Athens.

SUNDAY WAS BUSY.

General Liveliness Pervaded Canadian Camp at Salisbury.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Sunday has been anything but a day of rest on Salisbury Plains. The camp begins to wear the aspect of a great liveliness. The weather has been rather chilly so far. There has been no rain, thanks to its situation, though even weeks of downpour would not render the camp permanently uncomfortable. The general health among the contingent is excellent. A few minor casualties have been reported, chiefly among the men handling horses. The steeds were all tethered in the open and badly needed grooming.

Every department is working smoothly, the men having an ample supply of wholesome food and comfortable bedding.

The Sunday papers contained many appreciative references to the arrival of the Canadians as well as photographs, though the photographer so far has had a rather lean time among the Canadians where the man with the camera who ventures near the dock approaches has about as short a life as a rat in a crowd of terriers. A small regiment of camera fiends journeyed especially to Plymouth, eager to glorify the first Canadian to step ashore, but all such hopes were dashed by policemen impregably supported by the inexorable attitude of the superintendent towards press representatives of every kind, despite the official intimation that descriptive accounts of the landing of the Canadians would be welcomed.

The Weekly Despatch cartoonist has a happy effort yesterday depicting Germany and Austria as babes in the woods with the Canadian robin bringing a maple leaf to assist at their burial.

One Sunday paper writer observes: "When the troops were landed, one of the things that struck the onlooker was the freedom of good fellowship among them. On the shore the officers and men fraternized, and some were seen arm in arm, but when on duty the discipline is of the strictest kind."

HONORABLY MENTIONED.

Gen. French Calls Attention to Consipicuous Work of Individuals.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Gen. French in his report to the Minister of War gives a long list of officers, non-commissioned officers and men who have been recommended for special mention by army corps commanders and heads of departments.

Gen. French expresses his agreement with these recommendations and draws attention to the valuable service rendered by Generals Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien, Sir Douglas Haig and Wm. Fergusson-Baker, commander of the First, Second and Third Corps respectively.

Of Major-Generals E. H. H. Allenby and Hubert de la P. Gough, Gen. French says: "The undoubted superiority which our cavalry has attained over that of the enemy has been due to the skill with which they have turned to best account the qualities inherent in the splendid troops the command."

Mention is also made of Gen. Sir David Henderson, commander of a flying corps, Gen. Sir Archibald Murray, chief of staff, and other officers. Capt. Frederick Edward Guest of the East Dorset Regiment; Lt.-Col. H. C. Lowther of the Scots Guards, former secretary to the Duke of Connaught, Capt. T. R. Traill, Lieut. Prince Maurice of Battenburg and Major Prince Arthur of Connaught also come in for honorable mention.

Of Prince Arthur of Connaught he says: "His intimate knowledge of languages has enabled me to employ him with great advantage on confidential missions of importance."

FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE.

Britain To Issue Medal For Notable Work In Lower Ranks.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Official Press Bureau last evening issued the following statement from the Admiralty: "King George has been pleased to approve the establishment of a medal, to be called the Distinguished Service Medal, to be awarded to chief petty officers, petty officers and men and boys in all branches of the service of the royal army, to non-commissioned officers and men of the Royal Marines and to all other persons holding corresponding positions in His Majesty's service afloat, for distinguished conduct in war, in cases where the award of conspicuous gallantry medals would not be applicable.

"His Majesty has further approved of an award of the Conspicuous Service Cross, to be designated in the future the Distinguished Service Cross, to all officers below the rank of lieutenant-commander, in addition to the officers previously eligible for this decoration."

Opening For Canadians.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Imports from Germany to South Africa amounting to $17,000,000 per annum are cut off by the war, according to the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Cape Town, and some of the things Canada could now supply South Africa are asbestos manufactures, brushware, clothing, cotton manufactures, hosiery and underwear, condensed milk and fencing wire.

German Mines In Scheldt.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 19.—(Via London.)—The Germans, according to The Handelsblad, have laid mines in the River Scheldt, near Antwerp. Skippers bound for Antwerp have been requested to ask instructions how to proceed at Haskweert, a port in the Estuary of the Scheldt.

Austria Calls On The UNITS.

VENICE, Oct. 19.—(Via Paris.)—The Austrian and Hungarian Governments have decided to summon to the colors all men between the ages of 24 and 36 liable to service in the Landstrum who hitherto have not served owing to physical disability or other causes.

Winter Tents For Soldiers.

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 19.—Acting under instructions of the officer commanding the third division at Kingston, Col. MacDonald, Cornwall Canal, has purchased twelve large tents, ninety-three double-decked iron cot, and fourteen Quebec heaters, which will be utilized in housing and making comfortable the troops now protecting the Cornwall Canal during the winter.

Hospital at Dinard.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—The Government has received a cablegram from Hon. Geo. H. Parley, stating that the French Government has decided to establish a hospital on the west coast of France, the hospice Canadian, which is to be provided and maintained by Canada.

PERLEY SENDS MESSAGE

After Two Weeks Trip During Which There Were No Mishaps the Transports Have Arrived and Men Are Likely to Be Sent to Salisbury Plains—Sir Edward Ward to Represent War Office.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—A brief cable was received by the Government yesterday afternoon from Hon. Geo. H. Perley, Acting High Commissioner in London, announcing the safe arrival yesterday at Plymouth of the Canadian troops.

No details were given in the cable, but the fact of the landing at Plymouth is taken here to mean that the Canadians will march straight to the training camp at Salisbury Plains. Previous detailed announcements as to the arrival of the Canadian troops at Southampton were unauthoritative, and, as events have shown, decidedly imaginative.

The trip across the Atlantic has taken practically two weeks, which is about the time expected by the officials here when the transports started. The landing of 32,000 Canadian troops in England takes place within two months from the time the mobilization orders went out from Ottawa.

So far as is known here there were no untoward circumstances connected with the trip across. Shortly after the transports started a few of the horses on some of the ships had to be shot in consequence of being hurt through stampeding in the close quarters in which they had to be confined.

A Canadian Associated Press despatch from London, received yesterday, was as follows:

The Canadian troops arrived today. Sir Edward Ward has been appointed to represent the War Office in all matters connected with the general comfort of colonial contingents, and in administrative action in connection therewith communications should be sent to Scotland House, New Scotland Yard, London.

An Anonymous War

London Daily Express

Officially this is still an anonymous war, and even when we are told of striking acts of heroism we are not allowed to know the names of the heroes. A British officer, for example, who has never been up in an aeroplane, volunteered to help one of the French Generals by acting as the observer in an air scout. He ascended 5,000 feet, made the required observations, and in addition had a thrilling duel with a German aviator! It is quite impossible to understand why the authorities should conceal the name of this officer. The country that honors his courage surely has the right to know his identity.

INDEPENDENT ON EUROPEAN WAR

All Belgium must become German, and no other language used. That is the order of "Me und Gott." There will be no bilingual shenanigans with the Kaiser firm, so the Quebec bilingualists had better get into the firing line.

The first aid to the injured is all very well, but in these times of soaring cost of living, first aid to the budget would be much to the point.

A second contingent will be let loose in the woods, on Nov. 1st, to war against the deer, and the allies will console themselves that there are places more dangerous than Belgium, the Ontario woods for instance.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

There is still talk of a General Dominion election. It would be a German trick void of political honor. The Borden party would win, of course, for the opposition could not decently oppose them under existing conditions. It would be a plain steal, while the opposition is in honor bound to support the Government.—Bobcaycon Independent.

CURE FOR OLD AGE

Easy and Pleasant and Costs but Little to Try It.

A GOOD WAY TO CHEAT DEATH.

The Prescription is to Mix Open Air and a Hobby, Shake Well and Take as Many Hours a Day or Night as Possible—The Cure in Real Life.

Old age can be cured. The prescription is a simple one. Mix open air and a hobby, shake well and take as many hours a day as possible. No one begins to age until he is bored, and the first gray hair comes when a man suddenly thinks to himself, "What's the use?" Then is the time when a hobby makes life interesting again.

There was an official on one of our great railroads who was retired at seventy. "He'll die now," said his friends kindly. But he didn't. Instead, he became interested in the wild flowers, and now he is too busy in looking for the ram's head orchid and trying to find a new station for the hart's tongue fern and tramping around in the woods and fields in all kinds of weather even to think of dying. Anyway, he would not have time until he's finished his monograph on the willows of the United States.

There is a woman in Baltimore, seventy-two years old, who years ago sought to forget a great sorrow by learning the butterflies. Her city home has become a rendezvous for entomologists all over the world and houses a famous collection. While her contemporaries are dozing their lives away in caps and easy chairs she spends her summers in the mountains and her winters in Florida with a butterfly net. Twenty-one new species to identify are her contribution to the lepidoptera, and she plans to live until the last goal of an entomologist is reached—the using of her single initial species.

An octet of men in Philadelphia, all well past their threescore years, some in business and some foot loose, belong to the same ornithological society. They are aided every day of the year, rain or shine, to watch the ever changing bird life. In the spring each prepares migrant sheets showing the arrivals of the hundred odd migrants that pass through every place every year. There is great rivalry as to who shall score the most warblers or identify the largest number of birds in one day. At present writing the oldest of the eight holds a record of seventy-five different kinds of birds seen or heard in one day between dawn and dark—one for each year of his age and one to go down.

A man in North Carolina by the sudden death of two of his family was left alone with but little money, no friends and the cheering dictum from his doctor that he had only a year to live. To while away the few months still left to him as well as to help out his household expenses he took up the study of edible mushrooms. At the end of a year in the open he notified his indignant physician that he had become too much interested in his hobby to confirm his diagnosis. In ten years he has discovered, classified and tested 170 kinds of edible mushrooms and has published a book which is one of the standard authorities for mushroom eaters of the world.

Another septuagenarian attributes his long life to the stars. Confined to business during the day, he sought the open air at night and began to study the changing constellations and the perplexing planets. Then he found that with an opera glass he could detect their colors and revealed in the blue light of Vega, the green glare of Sirius, the rose red of Aldebaran, the flame color of Betelgeuse and the strange shades of other gleaming sky kings. Finally he bought a small telescope. Now, at seventy, he has published a monograph on the double stars, besides a quaint little star guide that has interested thousands in his hobby.

None of the nature studies requires much money or time. A cheap illustrated guidebook, an opera glass and, if possible, some walks and talks with an expert, and you will learn almost immediately to identify a score or more of flowers, or birds, or constellations, or mushrooms, and you will have found a hobby on which you may ride away from Death.

Try it, young men, lest you grow old. Try it, old men, before you grow tired. Escape into the open from these narrow indoor days and learn the way to where the wild folk dwell. In their land you will find the help of the hills and hope wide as the world, and strength, and youth, and happiness. Try it.—Samuel Scoville, Jr. in Lippincott's.

Across the Atlantic. The narrowest part of the Atlantic is between Brazil and Guinea, where the ocean is only about 1,800 miles wide. From Newfoundland to Ireland, the narrowest breadth north of the equator, is nearly twice as far. From New York to the nearest point of France is nearly three times as far.

The Lesser Evil. "It's Mr. Boreleigh. I think I'll send him word I'm out." "Won't the still, small voice reproach you?"

"Oh, yes, but I'd rather listen to the still, small voice than to Mr. Boreleigh's."—Boston Transcript.

The most deadly foe to success in the future is the inertia which springs from self satisfaction in the success of the past.

FOUR DESTROYERS SUNK.

British Fleet Wins Signal Victory Off Dutch Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The British navy has accounted for four more German destroyers, which were encountered off the Dutch coast Saturday afternoon by a British cruiser and four torpedo-boat destroyers were engaged and sunk.

According to a statement made by the Secretary of the British Admiralty, the British vessels in the action were the light cruiser Undaunted and the torpedo-boat destroyers Lance, Lennox, Legion and Loyal.

Thus the British sailors have taken a quick revenge for the sinking by a German submarine on Thursday of the British cruiser Hawke.

The sinking of the warships Saturday makes six torpedo-boat destroyers that have been sent to the bottom of the sea by British gunfire since the beginning of the war, and seven of the torpedo-boat destroyer which was sunk by the submarine E9 is counted.

In this number and without counting the converted merchantmen, such as the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and the Cap Trafalgar, the score now favors the allies, they having sunk six German and one Austrian cruiser and seven German torpedo-boat destroyers, while there have been unconfirmed reports of the sinking of several Austrian destroyers in the Adriatic Sea. The Germans have sunk the British and one Russian cruiser, while Australia has lost a submarine by accident. The Russians also claim to have sunk two German submarines, but this the Germans deny.

Up to this afternoon Berlin had not heard officially of the sinking of the British cruiser Hawke, which indicates that the submarine which accomplished it has not yet returned to port.

The cruiser Undaunted was commanded by Capt. Cecil H. Fox, who commanded the cruiser Amphion, which, after sinking the German armed cruiser, Koening Luise, was itself destroyed by a German mine on Aug. 6. The Undaunted, a vessel of 3,800 tons, carries two 6-inch and six 4-inch guns.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The steam trawler Ajax, out of Grimsby, has been blown up in the North Sea by a German mine. Nine members of the crew lost their lives.

The Westmount Rifles, a new regiment for Montreal, was authorized by the Militia Department Saturday. It will have eight companies of 67 men.

Five men—a civilian and four soldiers of the United States cavalry—were wounded yesterday at Naco, Ariz., by Mexican bullets that flew far over the international boundary. The French Government, pursuing the campaign against German-owned business, Saturday seized six concerns. One was a department store and the others wine establishments.

The British steamer Kwara, from Montreal, before reported as arrived at Sierra Leone with bunker coal on fire, and was beached, has been floated. Cargo in No. 2 hold is destroyed.

Sixty-four Germans, between the ages of 18 and 25 years, were arrested in Paris Saturday. Two more groups of Germans, Austrians and Hungarians were sent to the provinces.

Senegalese Soldier Shot Down Entire German Patrol.

FROM THE BATTLEFRONT, Oct. 19.—(Via Paris.)—As an instance of individual courage among the native troops, a French Senegalese sharpshooter, acting as the servant of a French general, was ordered to proceed to a certain place near the front at a certain time within the general's automobile. He arrived at the stated time with the machine piled with lances, swords, accoutrements, saddles and helmets.

The native had encountered a German patrol in the road, stopped his machine, jumped out with his rifle and killed the entire party.

No Details of Contingent.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Details of the composition of the second contingent have not yet been received from the War Office. The Canadian Government is urging that these details be furnished without delay, in order that organization, preparation and training may proceed immediately. It is expected that the War Office will forward these details within a few days.

Relief Fund in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Belgian legation announced that the American relief fund for the stricken people of Belgium now on hand totals $13,000, and that new branch relief committees have been formed in San Francisco, St. Louis and New Orleans. They are also about to be established in Portland, Maine, Richmond and Louisville.

Berlin Claims 260,000 Prisoners.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—The Minister of War publishes the following list of prisoners up to and including Oct. 1: French, 2,950 officers and 123,000 men; Russian, 2,150 officers and 92,000 men; Belgian, 470 officers and 30,550 men; British, 180 officers and 8,600 men—a total of 4,850 officers and 254,450 men, or 259,300 in all.

H.M.S. HAWKE SUNK

German Submarine Destroys British Warship in North Sea.

THESEUS ESCAPES INJURY

Sudden Attack With Torpedoes on Patrol Off Coast of Scotland Results in Loss of 471 Officers and Men—Four Officers and Sixty-Nine Men Are Saved—Consorts Steamed Away.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Like a bolt out of the blue came the distressing announcement yesterday that another British warship has been sunk by a German torpedo boat. The Hawke, with a complement of 544 men was struck some time Thursday afternoon at a point in the North Sea, thought to be not far distant from the coast of Scotland. Three officers and 49 men were landed at Aberdeen by a fishing trawler. Later, the Admiralty announced that Lieut.-Commander Rosoman and 20 men had been picked up on a raft, making the total number of survivors 73.

Sydney Austin, a boatswain of the Hawke, who was saved, apparently bears a charmed life. He was one of the few survivors of the cruiser Hogue. After the sinking of this vessel he was transferred to the Hawke. Early yesterday morning the Admiralty issued the following statement, which has followed by two hours a despatch from Aberdeen stating simply that the Hawke was lost:

"His Majesty's ship Theseus, Captain Hugh Edwards, was attacked by a submarine in the northern waters of the North Sea yesterday, but was missed."

"His Majesty's ship Hawke, Captain M. P. Williams, was attacked about the same time and was sunk."

"The following officers, with forty-nine men of the crew have been landed at Aberdeen by a trawler: Boatswain Sydney Austin, Gunner James Dennis and Acting Gunner Harry Evt. The remaining officers and men are missing."

"Further particulars will be published as soon as available."

The Hawke, in company with her sister ships, the Theseus and Gibraltar, was on patrol duty. So far as can be learned the first intimation they had of an attack was when a torpedo was launched at the Theseus. The projectile missed its mark, and the submarine immediately dived. In a few minutes it rose again to the surface and fired a second missile at the Hawke, which simply shattered the vessel. Evidently the German was but a short distance away from the doomed ship.

Following the orders of the Admiralty that the safety of vessels be considered before the lives of those on board a distressed craft, the Theseus and Gibraltar steamed away at once. By this action they undoubtedly missed a debacle such as overcame the Cressy, Hogue and Aboukir a few weeks since. But the crew of the Hawke were left to their fate.

It is believed that in the short interval between the torpedoing of the Hawke and the sinking of the boat that the men making up her complement had time to throw tables, spars and other pieces of ship's furniture overboard. It is probable that a good many of the men secured pieces of this floating wreckage and maintained themselves for some time. However several hours must have elapsed before either of the Hawke's sister ships could safely return to the scene of the tragedy. The water being at a freezing temperature, few survived the exposure. Nor can it be stated whether their rescue was effected by the Theseus and Gibraltar or by the fishing trawler which brought them to Aberdeen.

The Hawke is the sixth warship to come to grief in the North Sea as the result of German submarine activity or by the action of floating mines. There is some doubt as to whether the Pathfinder, lost Sept. 5th, was sunk by a mine or submarine, and the same applies to the Amphion, blown up Aug. 6th, off the Dutch coast. The Cressy, Hogue and Aboukir went to the bottom Sept. 22, torpedoed by the German submarine U-9.

Many British Officers Killed, Wounded and Missing Since War Began.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—An officers' casualty list, which embraces the losses from Sept. 29 to Oct. 5, shows a total in killed, wounded and missing of 118 men.

Added to the previous totals up to Sept. 29, and deducting for wounded men who have died and missing men who have been accounted for, the record shows that since the beginning of the war Great Britain's casualties in officers amounts to 1,203 men, of whom 280 were killed, 625 were wounded and 298 are missing.

Murder at Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 17.—The badly mutilated body of Michael Franco, an Italian resident of this city, was found by John Scott yesterday in a cave near the Maid of the Mist landing on the Canadian side and near-by was an ear bespattered with blood, indicating murder. On the face are cuts supposedly inflicted by a blunt instrument, the blow having fractured the skull. There are indications by a trail of blood stains that the body had been dragged over the rocks in an attempt to remove it from the cave.

THE COMPANION IN CANADA

One of our Canadian subscribers writes us: "No other paper or magazine coming to our house is so highly prized as The Youth's Companion. It is welcomed by every member of the family—and our ages run from seven to eighty-seven."

Some of Canada's best-known writers of fiction are contributors to The Companion, besides many of the most prominent figures in politics and literature in the old country. The whole world is scoured for the best that is to be said on any subject of general interest.

The Boys' Own Page, the Girls' Own Page, the Family Page treating of farming, gardening, domestic economy, cockery, the use of tools, etc., the doctor's weekly health talk—these and a score of other features make The Companion almost indispensable when it has once found its way into a home.

If you do not know The Companion, let us send you one or two current issues with the Forecast for 1915. Every new Canadian subscriber for 1915 who sends $2.25 for the fifty-two weekly issues of 1915 will receive free all the issues of the paper for the remaining weeks of 1914; also The Companion Home Calendar for 1915.

DOG DAYS FOR NEWSPAPERS.—The Voorwats at Berlin has been suppressed for being too peace-loving, while at Toulouse, in France, L'Homme Libre has undergone a temporary suspension for being, it would appear, too virulently bellicose. TERRIFIC STRAIN ON THE SOLDIER'S NERVES.—Although that tactician has discovered ways of protecting infantry from rifle fire, it must not be supposed that the soldier of to-day is less brave than one of Napoleon's veterans. Indeed, he is put to a severer strain; for he is under fire sometimes for more than twelve hours at a time. To crumple in a trench or a covered bomb-proof from dawn until dusk, to hear the incessant whistle of thousands of projectiles, to mark the little clouds of dust kicked up by bullets as they strike the ground near the trench or shelter, to start at the bursting of shrapnel shells, each containing 200 or 300 bullets which are scattered over many yards, is a test of human nerves which Napoleon's Old Guard was never called upon to withstand.

LATE MRS SMITH

The news of the death of Mrs. R. Smith, King street, was received with sincere regret on Wednesday. Mrs. Smith had been in failing health for several months and a short time ago went to Buffalo to visit her daughters. Her condition gradually grew worse and she passed away Tuesday evening.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved husband and family. Notice of the funeral will appear later.

RECRUITING ON HOLIDAY.

Trafalgar Day Is Being Celebrated By Campaign for Soldiers.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—To-day is Trafalgar Day and it will be made the occasion of a great effort to recruit men for the army.

Hundreds of wreaths and bouquets have been banked at the base of the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square, where great crowds were present throughout the day. Canada, New Zealand, Australia, Japan and South Africa sent mammoth floral offerings, which are displayed beneath the monolith, which is surmounted by the statue of Admiral Nelson. Nearly all the British ships also sent flowers.

Numerous pathetic notes accompanied the wreaths sent by relatives of the officers and men of the British cruiser Pathfinder and other ships destroyed recently by German submarines or mines.

In addition to the flowers the entire base of the Nelson monument is enveloped with recruiting banners bearing the words: "Your King and your country need you."

SERIOUS AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.—Mr. A. A. Gould and wife, and Mrs. Scripture, of Colborne, met with a serious accident while motoring on Wednesday afternoon at Colborne. The auto was stopped on the road, when another car, driven by a young fellow named Coyle, came tearing along and pitched into Mr. Gould's car, turning it completely over with damaging effect. Mrs. Gould had a bone in her hip broken and sustained other painful injuries, while Mr. Gould and Mrs. Scripture were also painfully injured.

SAD DEATH.—The news of the death of Cora May, only daughter of Nathaniel Greenaway, of the Township of Clarke, will be learned with sincere regret by her many friends. Deceased had been ill for a week with inflammation of the bowels and despite the best of medical care she passed away. She was a bright sweet child, twelve years of age and the bereaved parents have the sincere sympathy of their large circle of friends.

Mr. Chas. Cullum, our leading shoemaker, has just received a letter from his mother, Mrs. M. Cullum, England, in which she says that two of her sons have gone to the front. Frank was with the first Regiment to go, and Ernest is with his Regt. at Shoreham, Sussex. Another son is very keen to go to the front, but is not able to. In the same letter is a picture of seven sons of Mrs. M. A. Clabbon, of Norwich, who are at the present time in Norfolk Regts. They are: Walter and George, Sergts. 1st Norfolk; Dan and Wm. 1st Norfolk; Thos. and Robert 4th Norfolk, and Richard, Norfolk Territorials. Surely these good ladies deserve great credit for giving so many sons to help in upholding the cause of liberty and justice, for which Great Britain stands.—Millbrook Mirror.

WAR AND BARS.—Saskatchewan has just passed an order in council forbidding the discussion of war in bar-rooms. Apparently the government feels that a discussion of the war by the polyglot westerners might result in a series of miniature combats which would rival in intensity, if not in magnitude, the great battle now being fought on the Aisne. It is undoubtedly a wise restriction to make. Men befogged by liquor are never any too friendly, and it would only add to the difficulties of race assimilation if a lot of ill-feeling were engendered because of the war. Canada is the melting pot of the races, and we are anxious that the different people who come to our shores would develop into good Canadians and not keep up the racial and religious differences which characterized them in the old lands.

Nine Tenements and Three Stores Blown Up in Montreal.

MISCREANTS ARE KILLED

A Dozen Occupants of the Buildings Have Been Injured as the Result of an Explosion in Frontenac Street—Witness Saw Two Foreigners Place Bomb—Body of One Is Still Missing.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—Two men who are believed to have blown up a block of nine tenements and three stores in Frontenac street, about six o'clock last night with a bomb, met death in the ruins of the explosion, in which a dozen others were injured, according to the information that Inspector McLaughlin gathered last night in an investigation that he started at the Frontenac street police station, following the explosion.

The body of one of the men believed to have thrown the bomb is thought to be in the ruins, while that of the other is in the morgue.

Paul Belanger and Joseph Lefreniere, who say they were passing up Frontenac street at the time of the explosion, told Inspector McLaughlin that they had seen two men who looked like foreigners, carry a big, round, black object into one of the doorways of the block of tenements in which the explosion occurred. The moment they deposited it on the stairway there was a loud explosion, and the entire block appeared to rise from the ground. They both said that one of the men they had seen carry the object into the doorway was buried back on the sidewalk, but the other man did not appear and must have been buried in the ruins.

The two young men were detained as witnesses for the coroner's inquest that will be held.

The explosion occurred while the majority of nine families and their boarders, who occupied the premises, mostly Russians, were at supper. The interior of the building was wrecked from cellar to roof, and how anyone who was inside escaped is a miracle. The explosion not only shattered the block of nine tenements, but it smashed the windows in houses on both sides of the street for some distance.

So far as the police were able to learn last night from the Russians who occupied the tenements in the buildings, none of those who resided in the building were missing. The police were of the opinion that if there was a body in the ruins it was that of one of the men who are said to have deposited what was evidently a bomb in one of the hallways of the building.

Many of the occupants of the tenements of the house were blown through the windows by the force of the explosion.

So far as can be learned there are two men dead, two women supposed to be dying, one man in a critical condition, four men in hospitals with good chance of recovery, four known persons whose injuries were not severe and probably half a dozen persons more or less injured who were not taken to any hospital.

Late last night the police came to the conclusion that only one body was in the ruins, that of the unidentified second boom-thrower, hence the search for bodies was discontinued.

The dead man in the morgue is thought to have been an Austrian, and mean to have caused the death of the occupants of the building because they were Russians. There are Austrians and Germans living in the vicinity of Frontenac and Ontario streets, where the explosion took place.

HE ALWAYS RETIRES.

Von Kluk's Attacks Are All Parts of a Strategic Retreat.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Daily Telegraph publishes the following from W. T. Massey, its correspondent in Northern France.

The British army is going ahead steadily, persistently, and irresistibly. Nothing can stop it. Gen. Von Kluk's pretence of getting to the sea is shattered, and probably he would want half a million men to reinforce him before he made another attempt. He is still trying a make-believe game, and wishes the allies to understand his objective is one, or may be two, French seaports, but all the time he is making his attacks, and they end in strategic movements to the rear.

News from the districts which are extremely important supplements what has been told in the official communiques. It is consistently good. Some of our lines are just where they were Monday. They could have been pushed farther east and north-east, but there were sufficient reasons why they should remain stationary.

GERMANS ADMIT TERRIBLE LOSSES.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 21.—The latest lists of casualties published in the German papers clearly indicate that the claims of the British and French troops to have wiped out whole battalions are absolutely true. Reserve infantry regiment No. 17 lost in one battalion 800 men wounded, apart from the dead, and in another battalion of the same regiment 740 were killed at the battle of the Marne.

Reserve infantry regiment No. 69 is said to have had unassessable loss, and such words as "innumerable losses" and "tremendous number of dead and wounded" follow the names of several regiments.

SEASON'S CROPS BURNED.—The barn and contents, containing the season's crop, on the farm of Mr. Hugh McBride, north of Baltimore, were burned on Tuesday afternoon, and totally destroyed. The origin of the fire is a mystery. The barn was insured for $350 in the Liverpool, London and Globe, but no insurance on the contents.

The very best medicine to arouse the liver to healthy action is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They are compounded of purely vegetable substances of careful selection and no other pills have their fine qualities. They do not gripe or pain and they are agreeable to the most sensitive stomach.

THE TEST OF GERMAN TEMPERAMENT.—The Kaiser and his satellites dare not let it be realized that they are not infallible and that their resources are more than matched by their opponents. They cannot indefinitely keep the power of events at bay, and when their fetish is broken we shall see German temperament exposed to a test which it has not known for half a century. It may still be some distance off, but it is awaited with curious interest by all who concern themselves about the psychology of nations.—(Pall Mall Gazette.)
