HOW OUR CURLERS WON THE TANKARD

Music and Supper and Speeches. By telegrams in THE TIMES of Thursday evening the inhabitants of Port Hope were made aware that the curlers of Port Hope had nobly sustained their reputation, and had won the Ontario Tankard, although there were pitted against them the Caledonian Club, of Toronto, and the Bowmanville Club, said to be really the best in Ontario.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

The competition for the Ontario silver tankard took place at Toronto on the Adelaide street rink, on Thursday, between two rinks of the Caledonian curling club of Toronto, and the same number of rinks from Port Hope and Bowmanville. The Bowmanville team held the tankard last year. The contest was first between the Toronto and Port Hope rinks, after which the successful rink was to play the Bowmanville one. The ice was in splendid condition, and, as will be seen by the scores, the competition was very keen. The Caledonians and Port Hopers were the first to take up the "besom and stanes" against each other, and from the following score it will be seen that the latter came out successfully by Majority in favor of Port Hope, 1. The Orillia club had entered for the contest, but withdrew. Port Hope, having come out successful so far, then proceeded to "soop' out the Bowmanville team, which they did.

THE TROPHY.

The Ontario silver tankard was purchased out of the balance which came to the Ontario club after it had separated from Quebec. It has now been won five times: Twice by Toronto; once by Hamilton; once by Bowmanville, and now by Port Hope. The tankard is made of solid silver, beautifully chased and embossed. It is surmounted by a silver man, flourishing a pair of silver stones and a bonnet in his hand, as if he had just completed the winning "tee high shot." Depending from the rim of the tankard are silver representations of icicles. On the tankard are three plates for inscriptions, and between each of these are golden brooms, in the form of a St. Andrew's cross. The whole is enclosed in a beautiful rosewood case, lined with blue silk.

TREATMENT IN TORONTO. Our curlers are loud in their praises of the treatment they received from the Toronto and Caledonian Clubs of Toronto, the former for finding such excellent ice, and the latter for the splendid refections supplied. They are also glad to acknowledge the kindness they experienced at the hands of Mr. Hodge, of the Mr. Gamble has informed us that he never saw play to equal that of the Rev. Mr. Abrahams, of the Caledonian club.

THEIR TRIUMPHANT RETURN. The Port Hope curlers arrived home on the eveniug G. T. R. train, bearing the evidence of their great victory. An immense crowd of admirers met them at the station, where they formed into procession in the following order:

The 46th Band. Mr. C. Nixon, carrying tankard. The victorious rinks, Comprising Messrs. Renwick, Hall, Gamble, Clemes, Roddick, Burton, and Philp, carrying brooms aloft. CITIZENS.

THE AFTER CLAP. Among the crowd were the members of the Port Hope curling club, who had concluded to testify their regard to their victorious representatives by giving them a reception worthy of their valor, and the rinks which the trophy were therefore escorted to the Queen's Hotel, where an impromptu supper was spread for their delectation. The spread was one which reflected much credit on Mr. Adams, who lost none of the prestige he has gained as a caterer, although he had such short notice to prepare. Some sixty persons sat down, and after the tables were cleared, charged 30 per cent. On pianofortes the toast, song and sentiment appropriate for such an occasion had full swing for

CHANGES IN THE TARIFF.

Immediately after Sir Leonard Tilley had made his financial statement in the House on Tuesday night, the following changes in the Tariff were telegraphed to Collectors of Customs all over the Dominion, the new duties to come into force immediately.

A duty of 25 per cent. to be collected on the following: Artificial flowers and feathers, chromo cards and valentines, braces and combs, china and porcelain ware, silver plate glass, gloves and mitts, and all materials medicinal, malt extracts, ruled paper, watches and watch cases, slates all kinds.

A duty of thirty per cent. on the following: Bird cages, blank books, fishing rods, milk food, collars, cuffs, fronts of all materials, trunks and valises. An an valorum duty on the following has been raised to fifteen per cent., while the specific duty remains the same : Billiard tables, piano fortes, and organs. Bagatelle tables, thirty-five per cent. duty. Books bound, fifteen per cent. instead of 24 cents per pound. Cans containing fresh fish, one and a half cents each. Grapes, all kinds, twenty per cent.

Fire proof paint, dry, quarter cent per pound. Grapes, two cents per pound. The duty on drawn boiler tubing is repealed. All wrought iron tubing, fifteen per cent.,

Export duty on sugar to be charged in all The explanations in regard to these changes, trivial a matter." made by the Finance Minister, are as follows: The amendments that I desire now to submit to the consideration of the House will show that there are no radical changes whatever to submit for the approval of Parliament. There are many of them framed rather with the view of removing the difficulties in the working of the tariff than as changes of policy. In the working out of the propositions of last session, there necessarily was a good deal of precantion. In the first place, it is proposed, as it was found that the duty on demijohns. when they were brought into the country, should be charged ten per cent. ad valorem instead of twenty per cent .: asphaltum, used in making varnish, ten per cent. ad valorem instead of twenty per cent; bagatelle tables, or boards, with cues and balls thirty-five per cent. ad valorem; billiard tables raised from ten to tifteen per cent. ad valorem; the same will apply to pianos; bird cages of all kinds will come under uniform duty, no matter of what material they are composed. Shoemakers' ink is placed at twenty-five per cent. Books are changed from six cents per pound to fifteen per cent, in consideration of our hon. friends opposite, who advocated that course last session. After a year's experience by gentlemen interested in the trade, it is proposed to change the duty from six cents per pound to fifteen per cent. including British copyright works. Account books, twenty-five per eent, instead of thirty; valentines, chromos, and cards generally, a specific duty of thirty per cent. They were classed under different heads before. Some paid twenty some twenty-five, and some thirty per cent., and it led to confusion in collecting the duty. Braces and suspenders were placed on the 25 per cent list, they having previously been charged different rates, according to the materials of which they were made. Cans containing fish, under the Washington treaty, would be charged 11 cents per quart can, and the same price for each additional quart. This duty was imposed in order to counteract the effect of the American action in imposing a duty of that amount. China and porcelain was increased from 20 to 25 per cent. Combs were placed at 25 per cent., instead of a duty being charged on materials. Crapes were placed at 20 per cent.; fishing rods at 30 per cent.; fire proof paint, & cent per pound; flagstones, dressed, $1.50 per ton. Artificial flowers were reduced from 30 to 25 per cent. Grapes were increased from 1 to 2 per cent; mattresses of all kinds, 35 per cent; Silvered, plated glass, imitation porcelain, shades, decanters, &c., 25 per cent.; gloves and mits 25 per cent.; wrought iron tubing plain, not threaded, coupled or otherwise manufactured, 15 per cent.; slabs, bloomes, loops, or billets were reduced from 121 to 10 per cent. Liquorice, was placed at 20 per cent.; when in extract or confection, 1 cent per pound and 20 per cent. Malt, extract of, or for medical purposes, 25 per cent.; potted poultry and game, 20 per cent.; milk food, 30 per cent. The duty on cabinet organs was increased from 10 to 15 per cent. Bismuth was placed on the free list. Ruled paper was charged 25 per cent. All collars would be the duty was increased from 10 to 15 per cent. Quicksilver was placed at 10 per cent. In regard to the duties on champagne, it would be provided that the quarts and pints in each case should be old wine measure. Steel and manufactures thereof were placed on the free list for another year. In regard to sugars, syrups and mollasses, it was provided that the duty should be charged on fair market value, including the export duty or other Government tax. Trunks were increased from 25 to 30 per cent. The duty on cigars and cigarettes was increased from 50 to 60 per cent. Tomatoes in cans were placed at two cents per pound. Watch actions, movements and cases were made 20 per cent, Hubs and spokes were reduced from 20 additional per short ton shall be charged on sixty cents per short ton. "The Tail End of Journalism." On the 2nd inst. the Guide contained the following: "Rufus Stevenson, M.P., Conservative whip, gives his immaculate chieftain the following certificate of character in his paper, the Chatham Planet: 'Personally, he (Sir John) is a charming companion, brilliant in conversa-tion, a splended diner-out, and an unequalled judge of whiskey. He can go off on a spree of the most collossal dimensions in perfect cold blood, and return to his business with a clear head after making whole counties howl.'

"We allow that Mr. Mackenzie has never had such a eulogy from any of his friends, or enemies, neither has any prominent man of his party."

A DENIAL AND EXPLANATION. The Chatham Planet, Rufus Stephenson's paper, of the 11th inst. says: "The Port Hope Guide, which is a small paper in more senses than one, gives new evidence of the faithfulness with which it reads and re-echoes the statements of its dictator the Hamilton Times, for it ferrets out the few sentences the latter journal lately attached to the tail of one of its leaders and falsely credited to the Planet; and these it reprints with all the gusto of one who has made an important discovery. The paragraph quoted is from the Detroit Evening News, being part of some racy correspondence to that journal from the Capital a year ago the present session. The Times did well to salt it down for a whole year before charging a western Conservative paper with its authorship; but the Times has served a long apprenticeship to the business of lying, and is therefore well up in the art. The item having got into the columns of the Guide has certainly reached the tail end of journalism, and we need not waste more space in discussing so

MILLBROOK.

From our own Correspondence. There is great agitation in our newly incorporated village over the question of hotel licenses. It appears that our population does not warrant the granting of more than four licenses, and there are six claimants therefore, and as it is a mathematical definition that two into one can't go, it follows that there must be two soreheads out of the crowd. It is pretty generally conceded however, that Steeles tavern has no show, and that the three brick hotels, Crokers and Reynolds, down in the village, and Mark Rapers at the station, are sure to get the licenses. The contest then is between the Frame Hotel on the middle line kept by Stewart and owned by Mr. James Collins of Port Hope, and that at the station kept by John Raper, and it is amusing to see the wires that are pulled and the leaves used to effect the desiredr esult; nationality, color, politics and religion being all made to do duty towards influencing the commissioners. It appears that the John Raper place is owned by a little lawyer from Peterboro', who is nick named after an industrious but diminutive member of the insect kingdom, to which in person and character he is supposed to bear a strong resemblance. It is a curious fact, that this little man who was the champion of the temperance cause in Peterboro' and endeavoring to suppress the liquor traffic license for the retailing of liquid damnation by the dram. THE LATE HON. MR. HOLTON.

The Mail correspondent says: There is absolutely nothing in political circles of the slightest consequence compared with the subdued excitement of the sudden taking off of Mr. Holton. It was understood that the House would adjourn on this occasion, and so it turned out. The scene in the House was impressive. Members felt unequal to business in the pre-sence of so sudden a calamity. The utmost silence prevailed. The routine business was put through in subdued haste. When Sir John Macdonald rose, a pin might have been heard drop, to use a conventional phrase. The Premier's speech was sincere, manly, touching and without the slightest oratorical effort. The tribute to Mr. Holton's worth was delivered in a manner eminently befitting the occasion, and no word was calculated to excite any other feeling than one of friendly acquiescence in the minds of the Liberal party. In seconding Sir John Macdonald, Mr. Mackenzie, who was evidently feeling the stress of personal affliction of the loss of his friend, completely broke down in tears, after struggling for a moment or two to keep his strength to express his feelings. No eloquence could have been more effective on the House. None could better have expressed a great grief. Many members who had felt simply a great regret for Mr. Holton were moved to a much deeper feeling at the sight of Mr. Mackenzie's great distress. The "tears of bearded men" are not often seen in the House of Commons. The House adjourned at four o'clock.

Ottawa, March 16 .- A number o fgentlemen were entertained to dinner at the Russell House, last night, by Hon. Mr.

Norquay, Premier of Manitoba. The pointed attacks of the Montreal Gazette and other leading organs of the conservative party on the bungling policy of the Engineer-in-chief of the Pacific Railway. Sanford Fleming, are looked upon as very significant, and Mr. Fleming's resignation is looked for every day, if it is not already in the hands of the Premier.

-Appletons' Journal for April contains a paper giving an inside history of the Suez Canal, that is likely to create no little sensation at the present moment. The figures given of the cost of the canal are in themselves startling, but the revelation of the means taken to secure the completion of the work, of the disaster it brought upon the Khedive, and the ruin upon the trade and finances of Egypt, affords a very extraordinary chapter of history, which at the present juncture should be well pondered. The other contents of the number are of varied interest. Appletons' Journal is published monthly, at 25 cents per number, or $3.00 per annum Da Appleton & Co., Publishers, New York.

-We are pleased to observe that Mr. W. Green, of this town, has received an appointment as one of the assistant masters in the Ingersol high school.

-The schooner Edward Blake, which was damaged in the autumn of last year by going ashore at Presqu' Isle in a storm, and was taken to Mill Point and repaired, is now loading ice at that place.

-A correspondent says that the howling and barking of dogs in the west part of the town has become a perfect pest. Hounds, setters and spaniels, have nothing else to do but bark, snap and render night hideous. Cannot the owners of such animals have some respect for the sick, as well as for those who avoid keeping anything that would annoy a neighbor.

-The Registrar-General's report shows during the year 1878, the registrations of 40,236 births, 12,729 marriages and 17,808 deaths in the Province of Ontario. Of twin births in the Province, there were 425, as against 411 in 1877; of these 850 twin children, 456 were male and 394 female. The County of York returned 45 cases of twin births, the highest number from any country. Nine cases of triplets are reported. The number of illegitimate births is reported at 575.

The guests and frequenters of the Royal Hotel will doubtless remark on the absence of Mr. Richard Harcourt, the sometime affable and obliging clerk of that excellent hostelrie. They will doubtless be sorry, too, inasmuch as for the time he occupied the position he gave most excellent satis faction to the proprietor, the guests, and the casual caller. His friends, however,

-We have received from a friend at Kinmount a specimen of the iron ore from the Myles mine. Judging from its appearance and weight the percentage of metal must be large, and it seems to be very pure. Other mines are being prospected in the neighborhood, some with much success. The Victoria mine on the Devil's creek, two miles from the Myles mine, has commenced operations, which are being energetically pursued under the management of Mr. Ivatts. A number of men and teams are now employed and their force will be largely increased as soon as the weather renders it profitable. They intend to take out 500 tons a day, and to despatch the ore to Cleveland, where it sells for $6.50 a ton .- Peterboro' Review.

-The hold man's faithful friend, the dog, gets on the affections is seldom discovered until the death of the animal. Especially this the case when the deceased animal has been the playmate of a man's children for for years. Dr. Corbett found his large, black Newfoundland dog dead, and on his little son being told he showed his sorrow for the loss of his Gone Crazy.

A Puzzle Over Which Some People Have play-mate in tears, of which he does not need to be ashamed, for we have seen strong men weep in similar circumstances. It was thought at first that the animal had been poisoned, but the Doctor's explanation upsets that theory. He says the dog, which was very fat, had a long run with him a day or two since, and that he died from fatty degeneration of the heart, the unwonted exercise bringing on the end sooner than it would otherwise have occurred.

"GERMAN SYRUP."-No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities as Boschee's German SYRUP. In three years two millions four hundred thousand small bottles of this medicine were distributed free of charge by Druggists in this country to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, severe Coughs, Pneumonia, and other diseases of the throat and lungs, giving the American people undeniable proof that GERMAN SYRUP will cure them. The result has been that Druggists in every town and village in the Canadas and United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to your Druggist and ask what they know about it. Sample bottles 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. eow-d42-w51-ly

Sparrows have built their nests, robins are beginning to chirp in the suburban groves, the grass is assuming its familiar verdancy upon our lawns, and the crocusses and the narcissuses are foreshadowing an early pushing of their spears up to the sun that already begins to blaze with much of the warmth and splendour of the spring. If we are indeed to have no more wintry days; if the mild weather that has delighted us for so many days is to step forward into the period of apple blossoms and honeysuckles and roses; one of larks and linnets, and the bluebird and the turtle dove, then indeed will the past winter take rank with the most remarkable that this northern country has ever known. But we fear us

-A young lady-killer of Port Hope has informed us that there is a demand for leap year items in our local columns. We are willing to do anything to make our paper interesting, but in this matter the ladies of Port Hope are so modest and womanly that wé hesitate. However, as there is a demand for such locals we suggest the ladies hold a leap year ball, and make the following rules absolute:

1. Gentlemen are requested to conduc themselves with lady-like propriety, therefore no gentlemen will promenade alone or leave his seat unless escorted by a lady.
2. No gentleman shall invite a lady to

3. Ladies will await the pleasure of the gentlemen at the door of the dressing room in order to escort them to the dancing hall. 4. Gentlemen are requested not to wear too long a train.

-Perhaps the Orillia Times knows more about the Port Hope curling club than do the | Ont. members of it. We were inclined to think that it did not without special enquiry, but ! as it repeated its statement that the Port Hope club had violated the rule in the Ontario tankard competition which provides that any club competing should play half its members, we have informed several of our curlers of the Times' allegation, and have gained this in-formation: That the club did play half its and indulges them with a handsome party in the regular members, and more than that number of its playing members. Last season, in the same competition, Port Hope club made the highest average score, playing at least two thirds of its playing strength, but unfortunately thorough a mistake in making the returns to the "Annual" the regular and irregular members were sent as one; besides a number of names which did not be spiretor. sides a number of names which did not be-long to the club. The most ridiculous part of the affair was that had the committee of management at Toronto added sufficient names to hour?" the Port Hope score and counted them nothing, even the average was high enough to give them not last place by any means. This grumbling by the Orillia Times does not affect the Port Hope club. The Times simply saying that they are not gentlemen does not mar their reputation. It seems, now that Orillia finds it cannot get the tankard without fight- man's face, and he says sternly :

thinking. The item stated that our town fathers were soon to discuss the advisability of erecting an addition to the town hall for the purpose of raising a revenue for the town. I believe the project to be a good one, because the exits from the halls now used are not the safest (in any dangerous emergency) that might exist. But that is not the point I thought of, and so I will not say any more regarding it. Perhaps, for the full understanding of my thoughts and their applicability in the erecting of a new hall or addition to the old one, I had better sketch myself as the type of a large class of women who live in Port Hope. I am a young married woman with a tolerably liberal education, but who married before sufficient time elapsed to allow the pleasures of the theatre and concert those lives which use them aright. In the ordinary course of things baby came along, and although I would rather never go to an entertainment in my life than lose the dear little creature, I often wish that I could go to the best of the theatres and concerts that ever come to Port Hope. My husband, I ought to have said before, cannot afford to keep a nurse, and I would not trust my dear little one to the tender quite comfortable homes, but as soon as the inevitable baby puts in an appearance we are tied down and soon-aye, sooner than most people are really aware of-we are not is that when they build an addition to the hall they devote a small portion of it to the use of babies—to be called the Baby Room. Here the young mothers, like myself, could leave their children in the care of one or two experienced nurses for a small per capita fee, for which we would receive tickets as in the cloak rooms in all cities. Gentlemen leave between the acts to get a we, the mothers who have not lost the love

Of all the puzzles ever invented few have in so short a time created such an immense amount of excitement as the game of "fifteen." Every place where it has been introduced the most profound interest has been caused, and it is even said that some people have gone crazy over it. The puzzle was invented by a deaf-mute somewhere in the States only a few weeks ago, and since that time people all over the country have been cudgelling their brains in the endeavor to solve it correctly. The puzzle consists of a small square box in which are placed fifteen round blocks of wood, numbered from 1 to 15. These being placed irregularly in the box the solution consists in moving them about until they are all in order. The most difficult position is the one given below, from which it will be seen that the numbers 14 and 15 have to be transposed in order to get the result :

5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12
13	15	14

It will be observed that there is one vacant space, the sixteenth square, which of course affords facility for moving the pieces about. It is an easy matter for any one to make a box and set of blocks. Having done so the mind can be exercised in the work of transposing the 15 and 14

IN COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY.

Sir Leonard Tilley moved the House into Committee of Supply, and after the vote for the Governor-General's office had been passed the Committee reported. THE BUDGET. Sir Leonard Tilley, the Finance Minister, was received with loud applause when he arose and moved the House into Committee of Ways and Means, and said he desired to make his financial statement. He began by a very natural reference to his speech of last year, in which he had placed before the House the financial condition of the country, and promulgated the policy for which the country had hall to pall upon my young life—if really called. The Finance Minister pointed out that good entertainments ever do pall upon his Budget Speech of last year had met with general acceptance in the House and in the country. The difficulties the Government had to meet were two-fold-one touching trade and one touching finance, and these difficulties were made greater by the fact that the late Government had made engagements which it was asserted that this Government should carry out. At the same time an increased debt was inevitably to be faced, making a larger expenditure per annum, but it was felt essential to mercies of the maid-of-all-work. He has the honor of the country that the engagements often said "I will keep baby and allow you | made should be carried out. To accomplish to go to the play to-night," but of course I all this, additional taxation was necessary, scouted the idea. What do men know taxation which had been so denounced, but about babies anyway? The women of my | which would have had to be imposed by the class, and I believe it is a large one, have | Opposition if they had remained in power. If it had not been for the additional taxation thus imposed, the deficit on the year ending the 30th June, 1879, would have been $3,400, 000, instead of $2,400,000 as estimated. will be glad to know that he has returned to his former position in the extensive nurseries of Mitchell Bros.

the real companions of our husbands we would like to be. Now, what I would like to propose to our town fathers year would be $14,000,000. All signs pointed to an increased revenue during the balance of the year, for which no statistics were yet possible. Only one important item was showing a decrease, and that was the article of spirits. The whole revenue for the year would probably be $24,455,000. The expenditure, even in addition to the supplementary estimates, would but amount to little more than that, if account was taken of the items which are of breath of fresh air; if this plan was adopted you would see the ladies leaving the hall between the acts for the purpose of seeing that all was well with their little ones. Thus could at the most, the deficit could not be more than $500,000, and but for the circumstances detailed more fully in the speech, the accounts would probably have balanced for the first time in five or six years. The revenue for next year was estimated to be $25,517,000 as compared with an estimated expenditure of $25,007,000. The Customs revenue would probably be $15,300,000 and Excise $5,213,-000, being an increase over last year, based on the increased prosperity of the country. The Government would propose that the amount sary to hold dollar for dollar in gold, should be extended from twelve to twenty million of of Dominion notes above which it was necesdollars, which would give them about four millions and prevent us from going into the English market for some time to come. The amount to be held in gold is stated more fully in the speech itself, as well as other details of the propoals. The Finance Minister dwelt with some force on his estimate of the effect on the trade of Great Britain with Canada as compared with our trade with the United States. In iron, free goods and in duti-able goods of the same character, there had been a large increase in the trade from England, while, on the other hand, there had been a falling off of a very decided character in the trade with the United States. In cotton goods the same result had arisen in the most marked manner, our trade increasing with England and decreasing with the United States. In glass manufactures, in leather manufactures, in sugars particularly, in teas, in woodware, and in a considerable variety of staple articles, the trade had altered in favor of Great Britain and against the United States. The total result for the six months was that while our trade with Great Britain had decreased 7 per cent, our trade with, that is our imports from the United States, had decreased 33 per cent. This fact, when fully impressed on the House by the details given by the Minister was warmly applauded. The Minister was able fully to claim that his estimate of the effect of the tariff on British goods had been fully and most satisfactorily carried out. It had been contended by the Opposition that prices would rise, and revenue would decline. It has also been said that the manufactures were dissatisfied. Not one of these statements had been carried out in fact. No decided rise in price had arisen from the tariff; the revenue had not been ruined, and he had himself taken the trouble to visit the manufacturers to find out whether they were dissatisfied or not. Beyond the increased cost of raw materials, not attributable to the tariff, there had been, in articles of mannfacture, no increase at all. It had been stated that the tariff would produce ill-feeling in England. Two circumstances disproved this-the first was that never before did Canada occupy so favorable a place in the eyes of the people of Great Britian as a possible home for them and their children. The second was that when he had occasion to go to England he had been able to get $750,000 more for his last loan than Sir Richard Cartwright had been able to obtain for the same kind of loan on a former occasion. These two facts showed that the people and financiers of England had not responded to the opportunity afforded them of getting angry with Canada. The diversion which the Finance Minister here made to reply to some of the charges made against the tariff regarding New Brunswick was an unusual but nevertheless successful effort. He met every point with great aptness. His statement of the extent to which manufactures were pursued by the people of New Brunswick perhaps surprised the House by its completeness and force. His statement that the duties on corn and flour paid by the people of the Lower Provinces were less that the decrease in the price and duty on molasses alone, was also an effective statement. The general observations made the country were backed up by reference to the figures of imports and exports which appeared the other day, and which proved that our exports were at length greater than our imports, and that our prosperity was so far assured. The changes in the tariff do not at all alter the general effect of the tariff. They are directed to the end of making the tariff work more easily and with less dissatisfaction to the business world. There is a certain fitness in the proposition to make fish cans pay a duty the same as is paid in the United States by ourselves. In cases where a difference exists in the duty on articles of the same kind, such as collars and haberdashery, the duty is made uniform. The imposition of an additional ten cents per ton of 2,000 pounds on coal, and the imposition of three cents per

ACCIDENTS ON RAILWAYS.

The press of the Province of Ontario, especially the Opposition press, is to be congratulated that its representations in the matter of railway accidents has been productive of good results. The Committee of the Ontario Legislature having this important matter in charge has made the following report, which we trust will be put actively in force on all the railways. The necessity for greater protection to railway men is a pressing one, and action has not been taken at all too soon:—

1. That all overhead bridges should be placed so as to have a clear span of at least seven feet from the top of the highest freight car to the lowest member of the bridge

2. That the running board upon freight cars should be as nearly flush with the roof of the car as possible, and not less than from 24 to 30 inches wide, and to extend as far as the deadwood of the cars will safely admit, so as to leave as little space as possible between the ends of the running board on each of the cars; and also that a handrail should be placed along the side of the running board, to be not less than thirty inches

3. That your Committee have examined a large number of automatic and other couplers for freight cars; some of which appeared well fitted for the purpose of coupling, and would go far to do away with the necessity of the men going so frequently between the cars. The Committee would therefore suggest whether, in view of the great loss of life and injury to brakesmen in the coupling of cars, it is not decirable that the adoption of automatic couplers should be made compulsory upon Canadian railway companies.

4. That all frogs be filled with wood, according to the system now in use on the Northern railway.

5. That the letter of C. J. Brydges, as well as the statement of others, strongly favor the adoption of braking by means of vans as used upon English railways, but your Committee were unable to obtain suffident evidence to warrant them in expressing a decided opinion upon this point.

An automatic coupler was shown by A. Cron, pattern maker, Brantford; also a power brake by E. B. Coons, Mount

The supplementary estimates for the year ending the 30th June 1880, that is the current year, amount to $1,511,792, which includes $11,000 for immigration and quarantine, $25,420 for militia, $1,141,560 for railways, $18,700 to cover the damage to the Parliament buildings by fre and the cost of telephonic service; public buildings, $97,500; Geological Museum, $30,000; Indians, $201,000; Irish relief fund, $100,000; repairs and working expenses on canals $42,000; Dominion ands, emigration pamphlets, &c., $19,600. It will be perceived that such items as the Irish relief fund, the fire at the Parliament buildings, the rolling stock for the new Rivere Du Loup branch, the expenditure and many items of miscella- TIMES," said we. meens expenditure are accidental, and will not be repeated, and those, when added togethe, greatly reduce the amount of the supplementary estimates.

AN INDEPENDENT OPINION.

It is extremely refreshing to find the organs of the Grit Government of Ontario | neighborhood." speaking out against the sins of their political godfathers. Notwithstanding the fact that the Lindsay Post is the home journal of the Hon. S. C. Wood, we are inclined to believe that it is sintere when it expresses the common sense opinions it does in the following:

"But above all a firm hand should be put apon gabernatorial 'tours.' It is question-able if the trip under discussion should ever have been undertaken in an 'official' capacity; but if so undertaken it should not have gone beyond the boundary of the province, and should not have been made use of for the exercise of private hospitality at the public expense. By this means the expenditure would have been kept within reasonable bounds; and the people of the older 29th.

a thousand or two for the purpose of giving the settlers and voyageurs of the new territory an opportunity of beholding the gracious representative of the queen, and for the gratification of reading a paragraph in the speech from the throne about the beauties of the explored sections. That is about what it all amounted to. The exploit has received the general and more or less severe condemnation of the Reform press, and is not only not likely to be repeated but will in all probability result in some considerable economies and some decided rules for the observance of his honour, not merely as to the public and private sections of his winecellar, but for the governuce of his 'tours.' By calling attention to their expensiveness it may also strengthen the feeling that is obtaining in many quarters to the effect that lieutenant-governors may be dispensed with altogether. Why could not the speaker the house or the chief justice of the province discharge shoulders, weakness across the kidneys, wind galls all the actual duties devolving upon "his honor," while several of the functions he is supposed to discharge by time-worn constitutional fictions could go by the board altogether. Let the whole matter be arranged upon a common sense basis, and then the mace, the millinery and the lieutenant-governors could be abolished without the slightest loss of dignity or efficiency, and a considerable annual saving Wonders will never cease. The Bowmanville Statesman claims credit for Dr. McLaughlin on the ground that he strongly opposed the grant of $30,000 to the Upper Canala College in the Ontario Legislature. Now, if he had only begun his economical policy earlier in the session it might have resulted in the $5000 grant for the guzzling trip, and the $500,000 one, for the parliamentary buildings being voted down. The one he did oppose must have been very bad, Possibly there are no such toadies as within one hundred thousand feet of one of them down the Rep. gets on his knees, and not all the French barbers, who, as Counts, marry the daughters of their most distinguished and oldest families teach the Americans the difference between the shoddy and the real article. Because, forsooth, the loyal people of Canada do not beccome as servile in their manners to Royalty as their Yankee cousins would do if they had the chance, they are everlastingly attributing to H. R. H. the Princess Louise the most nonsensical estimate of the Canadian people from a social point of view. They have not yet learned, apparently, that our Princess has the art of distinguishing the nickle from the gold, the paste from the diamond, and the true, honest devotion of a Canadian's loyal heart from the sham and fawning which characterizes foreigners with a title, or their newspapers would not write and publish such unmitigated nonsense and false statements as is contained in the following from a recent American journal:—"The disgust which the sensible people of Canada must feel over the attitude which the representatives of here."

The Princess Louise made no secret of her unwillingness to return to Canada, while on a visit to Eugland a few months ago. She openly declared, it is said, that the Canadians were wanting in everything which constitutes the refinements and high pleasure of existence, and that she would just as soon die in England as attempt to live in Canada. The Queen's positive order was necessary to induce her to take ship back again. It is now stated that when thrown from her sleigh, a few weeks ago. thrown from her sleigh, a few weeks ago, Louise was so seriously injured that her life was despaired of. The sympathy

"Wnat's the price-a cent?" "Three cents, sir," we replied. "No harm to look at it, is there?" he enquired. "Certainly not," we answered.

And at this he scats himself upon a chair, launched his hat on the back of his head, and calmly unfolded the paper. After he had "looked over it" for about two hours, he arose, gave the paper a twist and laid it down, covering up some

"Well, yes," we answered; "we are not quite finished looking over it yet." CAUTION.

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

Sir,—As some of our jealous imitators are circulating false statements by handbill and word of mouth, and by their adver-tisements, hoping to gull some "innocent," we must ask for a little space to repeat a few "home truths." "The Singer Manufacturing Company, of New York," found, from twelve to eighteen years ago, that a single factory (at Elizabethport, N. J., and one of the largest in the world) could not supply the demand for "The Singer" Sewing Machine. Deciding, therefore, to erect a second one in Europe, Glasgow was chosen as a site, Scotchmen being prominent among the officers of the Company as they are to day. Since that time the two factories have interchanged shipments as one or the other would be behindhand in filling orders. Now both are so pushed to keep abreast of the enormous sales of "genuine Singer" (356.432 in 1878), that we understand a third factory is contemplated in Germany. All one great company, however, making the one original 'Singer" machine, and proving the old maxim, "honesty is the best policy," by its unprecedented and unequalled success. One or two questions and we are done. Why is the "Singer" the only machine imitated? Why is the word "Singer" made so prominent in the advertising of bogus concerns, and the actual name of the maker kept in the background? The answer is:—The word "Singer" had to become a household name before it was worth imitating. We have machines here in Canada 20, 26 and 28 years old, still in sewing order. All honor to a manufacturer who builds up his own trade, but all -something else-to one who steals his way into business he could never achieve alone. The only office in Port Hope where the genuine Singer can be had is in Fraser's Block, Walton Street.

Physiological Action of Malt Liquors. From the British Medical Journal.

Mr. Coleman having lately been a sufferer from a serious illness, a prominent symptom of which wa mability to digest food, was ordered to use malt liquors—a large wine glass full (half tumbler) twice or thrice a day. This was taken with the result that food, which had hitherto escaped undigested, was assimilated, and the power of producing animal heat and storing up fat was increased. THE COUNTRY'S PROSPECTS.

We apprehend that the Budget Speech of Sir Leonard Tilley, delivered on Tuesday, will be acceptable to the great majority of the people of this country. Throughout the speech there is a hopeful tone which augers well for the future of the country, and in addition to this buoyant feeling the evidence justifying its expression is ample. The beginning of the speech was devoted, as it should have been, to explaining and describing the difficulties which beset the Finance Minister round about in carrying out the expressed will of the country at the polls. But it was clearly shown that notwithstanding all these difficulties, which were augmented to the fullest degree by an unpatriotic Opposition, the present Government had been enabled to frame a tariff-a revenue-raising and protective tariff at the same time-which had proved acceptable to the supporters of the Ministry in and out of Parliament. Not only was it acceptable, but it accomplished in a great measure the end designed. Of course, it was not perfect, and the amendments now to begin will have the effect of making it run considerably smoother than it did during its first nine months of trial. The announcement that the changes proposed will not add to the taxation of the country will be hailed with peculiar pleasure, and incidentally furnishes evidence that the framers of the National Policy thoroughly believe in the system as a means to balance, on the come of the country. Another year and, notwithstanding the deficit of $3,000,000 left by Sir Richard Cartwright as a legacy of difficulty to this Government, this desirable result will be accomplished. The benefits which were alleged would flow from the adoption of the National Policy, therefore, have become patent facts, and we have not the slightest doubt that time -one short year more-will show our income exceeding our revenue, and that too without increasing the taxation of the people of this Dominion. The speech also demonstrated that the tariff had not injuriously affected our trade with the mother country, that it had not alienated English public opinion from Canada, but rather the reverse; that it had not injured, as the Opposition alieged, the national credit, that it had not increased the cost of goods to the consumer, that it had not operated more injuriously on some of the Provinces than on others, and, finally, that it had in creased the general prosperity of the country. Not one of these points were in any way shaken by the intemperate speech of Sir Richard Cartwright, who boastingly informed the Finance Minister that if he had left the tariff as he (Sir R.) gave it over to him there would have been a surplus instead of a deficit. Now, we all know that Sir Richard Cartwright was never a good prophet, that he prophesied surplus after surplus, and that he announced in their place deficit after deficit. Consequently so reckless a statement as this defeats its own object, and the speech of the great "mixer and muddler" fails in the effect intended. We believe Sir Leonard Tilley has proved his claim on the affections of the people, and we believe, further, that the country is in safe hands, hands which should be upheld in their great work of building up the

All lovers of the British Crown will pray earnestly that success may crown the efforts of the Conservatives in the election campaign precipitated on Monday by the brilliant Earl of Beaconsfield. In a manifesto which has never been surpassed for brilliancy, conciseness and pith he places the issue fairly and squarely before the people of Great Britain. The overthrow of the schemes looking to the disintegration of the component parts of the Empire, the peace of Europe, and the power of England depend on the issue of the election. The struggle therefore will be watched with much more than usual interest by the colonies, because it will affect their ultimate destiny. The first plank of the platform sharply defines the policy of the Conservatives with regard to the Home Rulers and those onies to shift for themselves; the second the lot of $44,400. Also, sixty made little difference to Mr. Helm, as discovers the importance of British ascendancy in the councils of Europe, if a lasting and beneficient peace would the hearts of all Britons, and therefore it is that all loyal Canadians will pray for the success of the Conservative cause in Britain. The Liberals have never cared for us; they are too like the Grits of this country, they care more for their own ascendancy than they do for the true welfare of the whole Empire. From the information we have received already by cable we doubt not that the Beaconsfield party will be returned once more, though possibly with a decreased majority. Let us hope that the only fear expressed, that the Home Rulers may to do as he likes with his own property, secure such strength as to hold the and so he has; and if he will take our balance of power, may not prove correct, advice he will lose no time in putting a but that men who give the dangers glass case round his car works, for after

CAR CONTRACT WITHDRAWN FROM PORT HOPE.

It seems the days of "forty per cent" are not over yet, and we have a very healthy specimen in Port Hope. The Helm credit for the possession of some enterprise and public spirit, but for the life of us we could not think of any instance in which Mr. Helm had done anything in particular to benefit the town. in which Mr. Helm was not the most interested party. However, by referring to his public spirit we hoped we might be on the town, when some one other of the force, a painstaking, energetic as Mr. Hayden was determined not to be than himself was likely to make officer, and by his thoroughly soldierly coerced into paying Mr. Helm so large a surprising, not that it does not make officer. more rapid strides, but that it holds its own as well as it does. > it in the shape of interest. In the recent effort to secure a Government contract in Port Hope for the construction of cars, when the tender of Mr. Thos. Hayden was finally accepted, and Mr. Helm was approached for the purpose of ascertaining upon what terms he would either rent or sell the car-works, Mr. Helm seemed to think his grand opexcessive demands until the contract was finally awarded to other parties, and Port Hope has in consequence suffered a blow from the effects of which she will take a long time to recover. It may be said that Mr. Hayden should have arranged with Mr. Helm before tendering, but had he done so, and Mr. Helm had acted as he has done since, he would probably have saved himself the trouble, expense and anxiety he has been to in connection with the business. Mr. Hayden never once thought Mr. Helm would be so blind to his own interests as to ask an unreasonable rent for the car-works, and knowing the competition for the work would be keen put in his tender, and was greatly pleased at the receipt of the information that the contract had been awarded to him, but on applying to Mr. Helm, was astonished at his demand. He would sell, but he would not rent, and his modest price was $12,000! (afterwards, we are informed, reduced to $11,000). Mr. Helm bought the car-works on the 24th of July last, for the sum of $7,800. He has owned the car-works for about 230 days, and offered to sell at about eighty four per cent advance! That is modest, generous, public spirited, with a vengence. No one could be expected to submit to such an exorbitant demand, and finding it impossible to buy, Mr. Hayden endeavored to rent, offering $100 a month, or $1200 for a year! This was a very liberal offer, and we fancy a great many owners of real estate would be glad of the opportunity to rent their property to a good tenant at such a paying rate, amounting as it does to about twenty per cent per annum! Rather a nice figure, and if Mr. Helm has done his business after this fashion it is little wonder he is rich! We heard a gentleman say the other day he was quite ready to build provided he could get a guarantee for a term of years of six per cent on his outlay. How different from Mr. Helm, whose want of liberality has lost to the town the expenditure of a large sum that would have made quite a difference to the coming summer. Mr. Hayden had awarded him sixty by which would be considered necessary to "undertake" a contract, it would have making a total of $35,220; or a grand total for the one hundred and twenty cars of $79,620! Of this sum, over one half, or say $40,000 would have been while providing remunerative employment for our mechanics and laborers, would have been distributed through the town for the purchase of goods, and everyone would have felt the benefit of it to some extent. This, through the illiberality of one man is lost to the town, and it is little wonder that a very strong feeling is manifested against him by all classes of the community. Of course, it may be said that Mr. Helm has a right | profit.

Such an offer was never Hope, except what they can squeeze out of made to Mr. Hayden by Mr. Helm, and if made to any one else by that gentleman it was never communicated to Mr. Hayden. The only offer made to Mr. Hayden by Mr. Helm was to sell for $12,000, which is too high a price for the works and machinery, considering a great deal would have to be done in he way of repairs. Mr. Hayportunity had arrived, and as though his der was told casually Mr. Helm very life depended on it, he stuck to his | would take $11,000, provided he was permitted to remove certain material on the premi es, which would have left the price very nearly at the original figure asked-$12,000! We very much doubt the statement that, "were Mr. Helm to dismantle the car-works to-morrow, to demolish the buildings, he could at once sell the plant and the site for more than double what he is now asking for the site, plant and buildings all complete!" In fact, we don't believe it. That would be $22,000, and we would just like to see Mr. Helm guilty of any such eccentricity! Throw away $11,000-not much! But we would recommend him to dismantle the buildings, and put the site and machinery in his breeches pocket, where they will be perfectly safe, for we greatly fear it is un likely that any one will care to give much for them as they stand now-idle. The Guide goes on-" More than this, Mr. Helm is prepared, as soon as the gentlemen named can furnish proper security, and can satisfy him that they can command sufficient capital to justify the belief that they can undertake the contract, to offer even more liberal terms than the almost nominal ones stated above." This is about as clear as mud, but we presume the meaning of it can be guessed at. As to the furnishing of proper security," Mr. Hayden's offer to Mr. Helm was that he would give him $1,000 over the price he paid for the carfactory, in addition to paying all expense he had been to in connection with their purchase. This was a bona fide offer for cash, so that the bosh about "proper security" is a malicious attempt to make people believe that Mr. Hayden, independent of the others named, give security could not $1500. Mr. Hayden may not be as wealthy as Mr. Helm, but as he possesses ample means to conduct an extensive business, and has valuable real property, it is not unlikely that he could raise at any time, on short notice, twice the amount of the value of the works; and as to their (the parties named) being able to "command sufficient capital to justify the beour workingmen and merchants during lief that they can undertake the contract," while we do not pretend to know long as he got paid, whether they had sufficient means or not to carry the contract out. If cash had been paid for the place, his interest in it would cease, and if he rented, there would at any time be paid for labor alone, most of which, enough to secure him about the premises. The learned desertation as to the cost of constructing cars we need not refer to, further than () say that it is very likely whoever made the tenders out knew better than the Guide what a car can be built for, and it is not probable Mr. Hayden, who has the reputation of being a shrewd business man, would tender at a lower price than he could build the cars for and make a reasonable

But we hope this case will prove a warning to them, and that for the future they will see that if they ever desire to reap any substantial benefits from their property they will have to change their policy of obstruc-

The Guide's sneer at Col. Williams was quite uncalled for, as that gentleman was probably not aware of the nature of the difficulties which caused the delay. And more than that, we have Mr. Hayden's authority for saying that Col. Williams sum more than he thought the works worth, he did not wish the deposit made. be expected. For failure in this matter Mr. Helm is alone to blame, and on himbeslobber him as it may. Public opinion is decidedly against him, and it will be a, long time before the the strong feeling entertained against Mr. Helm in connection with this matter is allayed.

THE CAR CONTRACT ET AL.

So it seems from our mysterious contemporary, the Guide, that THE TIMES

"will not have to take a long stride to reach communism pure and simple." O course, we are aware this is an almost unpardonable fault in a good Tory journal-that is, if the journal is really guilty of holding such views. Now, we do not their opprobrious sense, will ever reconstruct society and its hydra headed evils. Nor have we at any time ever used the communistic arguments to gain for our constituents or ourselves any point whatever. Yet we are believers in the Christian doctrine "that no man lives unto himself," and if the Guide believes that communism, we are communists. In nothing has this been more prominently demonstrated than in this very matter of the car contract. A wealthy gentleman has it in his power to do an immense amount of good to himself, to his fellow-capitalists, to the merchants, and to the working men of this town, by the simple exercise of his undoubted right to do right, according to the principle laid down above. But that was not the guiding star of his life. His rule seems to have been to make money. He imagined that if he placed the price of his car works at a figure which would preclude the possibility of For convenience, we will follow Mr. Cran-Mr. Hayden going on with the contract | dell's style by pointing out the advantages that he might possibly get it himself. And which Port Hope offers, in a series of so the Guide informs us in this sentence, "He (Mr. Helm) agreed to take the contract, and employ Mr. Wilson for three months at $100 per month, the Mayor for one month at an understood figure, and Mr. Hayden's expenses were to be paid.' A very nice arrangement truly—for Mr. Helm; but a very unfair one to Mr. Hayden, who had been at all the trouble of securing the work. This statement fully justifies our previous estimate of Mr. Helm, which, however, did not contain the information that the Guide alleges it did, to this effect: "He prefers shaving notes and embarrassing poor farmers and struggling tradesmen, with ruinous mortgages. We never said Mr. Helm had done that; it was none of our business. Our contemporary, in its article of Saturday night, too, attempts to array class against class, but we do not suppose for one moment that capitalists will take any stock in this really communistic follower of the ex-Minister of Finance, who in his speech on the budget said, "Men have risen in rebellion for less cause than the oppression inflicted upon the people of this community by the hon. gentlemen opposite." There's communism for you, pure and simple, and we will not find this organ of the aforetime "fly-on-the-wheel" Ministry writing down Sir Richard Cartwright for this expression. If we had advised the despoiling of Mr. Helm's car works as the Guide darkly insinuates then we would have been guilty of communism in its notorious sense, but we did nothing of the sort. We advised that he encase his works in a glass case. The inference is obvious. We do not know that any public good will be served by a prolongation of this discussion and therefore we will say once for all, that the tender for the cars was awarded to Mr. Hayden; that the alleged offer of the works for $11,000 was never made to that gentleman, if it was made at all; that it is not "doing as one would be done by" to ask an advance of eighty-four per cent. on a bargain; that Col. Williams, M.P., is entitled to credit in the matter because, rather than see the contract go elsewhere, he offered to put up a sufficient guarantee; and, finally, that the whole reason of our contemporary's animus in works in this place, being convinced that the matter, notwithstanding it knew it you would be treated with a degree of had the wrong side of the story, is shown in the concluding paragraph of its Saturday's article, in which it drags in and beslobbers Mr. Lawis Ross, ex.M.P. for this Riding, who, it insinuated, would have "done wonders?" The whole blame rests with Mr. Helm, not particularly because he would not sell at a reasonable price, but because he would not rent at a high price, in order to get the car-works started, for once in working order and running we have no doubt they would have been kept going for years. By doing this, Mr. Helm would really have enhanced the value of his own property, and indirectly have been the means of providing employment for a great many of our mechanics and laborers who

THE Dominion Government, in sending a.C. E. to survey and report upon the feasibility of the Trent river, with its rocks and falls, as a route for a canal with an outlet at Trenton, has been spending a large amount of money unnecessarily. If we do not prove this statement we will submit to stand up and be drowned in the deep waters of the Trent river, between Campbellford and the falls a mile below that village. Let us pause. What have we been saying? Drowned! Let us think. Drowned! Ah! ha! Eureka! we wont be, either-for two reasons furnished by the last issue of the Campellford Herald. It contains the proof that will save us; although we wouldn't be afraid anyway. Who would be afraid to stand up in a stream like that? Not we. But we have the other alternative; and perhaps it may be best to prove the statement we started out with. Now, we don't want to get out of our depth, so we will only produce the proof . gently, by easy stages, as it were; and not by rough, roaring rapids of nine or ten miles at a stretch. The Herald said, in writing of the proposed Trent Valley

"We think our readers will give us credit when we state we are not many feet from being a 'six-footer'. Well, we have been taking our customary summer baths at different parts of the river between Crow Bay and Meyersburg, therefore, we are acquainted with the depth of the river between these places by ocular enough for this village scribe to take his "customary summer baths," or else he is a very hardy creature to go so boldly exploring the hidden mysteries of a river supplied with water from lakes the ice is not off yet. We will believe him-when we shall see him face to face, and not as now through the columns of a newspaper. Again, make a note on't: He is "acquainted with the depth of the river by ocular demonstration." That puzzles us. Stay, hold, we have it. We see. He dives with his eyes open; or shall we say it? he sees high water mark just below his knees. So far this is satisfactory; we are not much in danger of drowning yet. But let us not forget our starting peg. A man constructed on such a splendid physical model as our Herald friend should be able, at the least calculation, to explore the depths of all the rivers in Ontario in one year. His paper cannot be worth more than $2000 a year profit to him; besides newspaper work is much more trying to some systems than bathing is. Therefore the Government would save money by appointing him surveyor of rivers, in this primitive and original fashion of his, at a salary double that amount. After taking a few dives in, he would be able to report on the feasibility of any route as confidently as he has done on the T. V. C. one, and without ever getting out of his depth. We nominate him for Chief Diver of the Dominion.

THE TRUE SPIRIT of ENTERPRISE

The letter to Mr. Thomas Hayden from Mr. George Crandell, of Lindsay, given below, to a certain extent explains itself. Still, as it furnishes evidence of the true spirit of enterprise, it may be as well to comment upon its contents, and point out certain lessons it contains of value to the people of this town, and correct certain errors which Mr. Crandell very naturally falls into when writing of the place, which, to him, is the first in all the universe. numbered statements, similar to his:

1. Our railway accommodation is superior to Lindsay's, and in addition our shipping facilities by water are also much better than those of Lindsay.

2. The timber used in the construction of cars may be procured via the Midland for the same price as it can be bought in Lindsay, with the freight added, a charge which works both ways, and if anything would be even more on the manufactured article than on the raw.

3. We have just as good facilities for storing cars as may be had at Lindsay;

witness our wharfage. These are the only points which may be noted as errors in Mr. Crandell's communication. But there is another phase of his letter which strikes us as giving Lindsay some advantage over Port Hope. The enterprise and liberality, both of the people and their representatives in Council, displayed is certainly greater than has been manifested in Port Hope for some time, and which lack receives its just rebuke in this foreign epistle. It is not necessary to multiply words over the matter; the fact remains, if such enterprise and liberality had been shown by Port Hope capitalists as is demonstrated in this letter Port Hope would have had several manufactories going in full blast, and we would have been on a fair way to be the city nature intended this place to be. Read the letter, and then ask yourself how long is this apathy, lack of the true spirit of enterprise, and illiberality to continue to shackle down the march of progress, success, and wealth of this town? Here is the communication:-

Thomas Hayden, Esq., Port Hope: DEAR SIR,—Having heard through the Port Hope press and privately the difficulty which you have encountered in securing shop, wherein to build the cars for which you lately received the contract, and the cupidity which has been displayed by some of your leading citizens in connection with the matter, and feeling that you have be badly used, as a Councillor of the town Lindsay, and having the interests town at heart, I beg to place before your notice some of the advantages possessed by our town as a manufacturing point, with magnanimity unknown to some of you fellow townsmen, and which the important of the work you propose doing demands knowing well the advantages which work accrue to any town by having a manufactor of the kind established within its borders. Note carefully the advantages possessed by Lindsay, and what you would gain by coming here: 1. The town of Lindsay has superior railway accommodation to all town of its size in the Province, railway running in all directions, north, south, east and west. 2. Lindsay is the head of a chain of navigable waters many miles in extent on which are situated many saw mills where you could obtain any quantity timber, used in the construction of your cars, at the shortest notice and at cheaped rates. 3. The Town Council lately authorized the giving of free sites and en emption from taxes for a number of years of the necessary buildings. 5. You would have abundance of room for storing cars which you have not in Port Hope, which is a serious matter. 6. Owing to the present cheapness of machinery and the aid you would receive from the town, you would be enabled to build for far less than the $12,000 Mr. Helm wants, and for even less than offered him for the works. To sum the whole matter up you would have a new factory, which you would not have to put any repairs on like Mr. Helm's, for far less cost, free from taxes for a long number of years, besides being located in one of the best situated towns for the purpose. Let me know how the above strikes you, and if you view the matter favorably, I will take the earliest opportunity of putting your matter before the Council, who I might say, are a unit as to the importance and desirability of establishing and inducing parties to establish manufactories in our midst.

Yours truly, GEORGE CRANDELL. Lindsay, March 15, 1880.

A FIGHT is going on between the Peterboro' Review and the Peterboro' Examiner which interests the people of Port Hope to a certain extent. It arose out of certain remarks the Review made with reference to the sudden want of a railway policy developed by the Mowat Government just before the death of the session. The Examiner, in reply, stated that Mr. Mowat had "not refused" aid, and claimed that its contemporary should not find fault until he had. We think that ened "taking into consideration" of the claims of the railways is tantamount to a Methodist or a Dutchman. "refusal." But that is not the point which interests us. It is to be found in the Review's answer-and it is a very complete one-to the Examiner. The pith of the matter is found in the following excerpts from the Review: "Although Mr. Mowat has had this matter under his consideration for years, and is unable to say yes, and the Examiner is perfectly satisfied because he has 'not refused' to aid it sometime in the future, yet it proceed with the Trent Valley Canal. Pray when did it refuse to do so? The first session since it has been agitated is only now being held, and if it takes that 'great statesman' Mowat years to decide whether he ought to 'assist' the Toronto and Ottawa railroad, surely the 'pigmies' at Ottawa might be allowed the same time-not by us, or we don't intend to quietly allow it to them, or find excuses for them or our representatives, as the So far at least the Dominion Government have not only not refused to undertake quite time enough to find fault with the Ottawa.Government not doing their duty in this important matter, as we shallunlike the Examiner do if no step forward be taken during the present session.' The lesson conveyed in this from the Review, and which should be taken by the people of Port Hope, is plain. The peop'e there are in earnest. In its adthinks it will benefit the town of Peterthat it will do just as it says. We are sorry that it has not yet given the weight of its influence to aid in saving the country some millions of dollars, the navigators a large number of miles, and the giving to its own people the best double (Canadian and American) market on the lake, by coming out in support of the Port before it we believe, because the best inat large would obviously be served by the adoption of the Georgian Bay and Rice Lake Canal, with an outlet at Port Hope. But we can wait, so fully confident are we that our scheme is the best and cheapest, and all we ask is that it receive its due measure of consideration from both the Government and the people of Canada.

PLURABUSTI POINTS.

A PAILURE OF JUSTICE IN WESLEYVILLE. Wesleyville, the virtuous, has fallen from grace, and this little burgh the pink of propriety, and the quintessence of quietness, has a first-class scandal hanging fire at present. A shameful outrage was perpetrated on a hitherto respectable and virtuous maiden, and as yet no effort has been made to bring the lothario before his betters. Where is Squire Gifford?

A QUESTION FOR MR. MOWAT Can you, or any of your readers, tell why the town of Cobourg can get Scott free of paying either principal or interest on her M. L. F. indebtedness? By late parliamentary returns I see that the Government still hold $42,826,52 worth of debentures that were issued by Sleepy Hollow, and the unpaid interest amounts to the nice little sum of $12,847.92. Why is Port Hope compelled to pay promptly, both interest and principal? Is it because the people of West Northumberland are wise in their generation, and manage to "wheel about and turn about, and jump Jim Crow," or in other words, keeps on the blind side of the powers that be! Was the monies borrowed by our sister town expended in such a wise and judicious manner that the Province can afford to forget and forgive, or was ti sunk in Rice Lake? Let those who can remember the railroad on stilts that staggered across Rice Lake, rise and explain. Why make ish of one and flesh of another? Was not wiped out, Port Hope is the place. Is it reasonable, or is it right, that because Cobourg can Hoodwink Mowatt's menagerie, we will "never mind the why and wherefore" that Phlebotomy is practiced on Port Hope as a punishment for his philanthrophy, and must the poor old poverty-stricken bush pay out her last ducat to please the Provincial Parliament, because it is so "nomenated in the bond."

All that we ask is to be put upon terms of All that we ask is to be put upon terms of equality with our sister-town, and we willnot be satisfied with anything else. Our motto is equalization—or repudiation.

A FORGETFUL LORD. Would you be surprised to learn that the children of the late Mrs. McNall, who you will remember was killed in Port Hope by the Governor General horses, have never heard a word since that sad day from the Earl of Dufferin. It was generally understood that the noble lord was going to do something handsome, for those children that he was the innocent cause of their being left motherless. If the facts were properly laid before the Government, there is not a doubt but that their case would be taken into consideration. It is really too bad that a "heavy men."

home should be thous broken up and an excellent wife and mother one "none knew her but to love her," none named her but to praise, should be thus struck down in the prime of life, and without a moments warning be hurried into eternity by the pomp | second only to Martin Griffin's. parade, and glorious circumstance of a Governor-General's visit, and no more notice taken of it. than if she had been run over by a butcher's cart, or a brewers dray.

THE WHEAT OUTLOOK. The fall wheat in this vicinity, has a very consumptive appearance at present-and the clover seeds look sick. Nevertheless, nil desperandum, - taters are plenty. BABY FARMING.

Just on the dividing line between Hope and Port Hope, the above business has been successfully carried on, a female who was neither maid, wife or widow, gave birth to a give it the nourishment that nature pro- the bush, and succeeded by hard work and vided, and as a natural consequence, the little pledgelet of love had to climb the property. He leaves a wife and family in golden stair. This is an instance of what patience, with perseverance, water and Paregoric can be accomplished.

AN EQUIVOCAL ANSWER. At a revival held in the Township of Hope, quite recently, the resident minister discovered in the congregation a staid and solemn-looking stranger, so he walked up to him and bluntly asked him if he was a christian. The startled stranger astonished the Good Shepherd who was looking for lost sheep, by replying: "No thank'ee, I'm a Presbyterian. This answer was about equal to another that I heard of in Hope. A inso far as that was concerned the length- quired of B what countryman C was, and B said he was not sure whether he was a Methodist Revival in Millbrook.

DEAR MR. EDITOR.-Knowing your interest in religious matters, I am sure that you will be glad to give a place in your waxes eloquent about our local interests, columns, to the following imperfect account of and calls upon us to condemn the Ottawa our Methodist Revival in Millbrook. The Government because it 'has refused' to Rev. Newton has been conducting revival services in the Methodist church here for five weeks with the happiest results. A large number of converts having been added to our already large and powerful society; Mr. Hill has evinced a most liberal spirit cordially inviting members of other bodies to attend the services and disclaiming the slightest wish for them to leave their own churches, and though a few of our converts have come over from other bodies, it is well known that in doing so they have acted against the desire of our excellent pastor. Examiner is doing for Messrs. Mowat and Mr. Hill has been most ably assisted by Blezard but-by the Examiner, to make several members of the congregation as well up their minds whether the country as by some esteemed brethren of the Preswould be justified in spending $3,000,000 byterian church, sister Mitchell and Miss on the T. V. C. or not * * * * * Mary Burnham have been especially earnest amongst the ladies, while brothers Windrem and Might of our own people with brothers Mills and Cosgrove of the Presbythe T. V. the present session has closed, and noth- enteresting services which deserved record. ing whatever has been done, it will be brother Windrem's story of his conversion in his father's barn, was told with such modest simplicity that it was most affecting, and when he described himself as stooping down in after years and kissing the blessed floor on which it took place, the whole assembly was thrilled. So, too, the account of Brother Anderson's spiritual conflicts -produced a most remarkable effect upon the audience, and won the sympathy of all. Brother Harry Might, a student from vocasy of the canal the Review, because it | Toronto, surprised even those who knew his powers best, by the graphic picture which boro', has dropped politics, and from its he drew of the contrast between the conpast consistent career we have no doubt | verted and unconverted man; so life-like and striking was the portrait that an involuntary exclamation escaped the lips of a gentleman present, who in this instance spoke the mind of the whole assembly; he is indeed a young man of much promise. Mr. Mills also gave us several excellent addresses, and he touched the hearts of all when he described in touching language the by coming out in support of the Port lifting of the dark cloud which at one time Hope and Rice Lake scheme. That it will do so when the expert testimony is dency and gloom. The Methodists of Millbroak will not soon forget the help given by terests of Peterboro' and the Dominion this liberal Presbyterian gentleman who, though a constant attendant at the servicee, has not in the lease neglected his duties as head-teacher in our common school. Mr. Cosgrove was also very helpful by stating the great benefits he had received during the revival. we cannot conclude this brief account of this "time of rerfeshing" without saying how much we owe to the Rev. Mr. Hill for bringing back to us once more the old fashioned Methodism which almost seemed to have vanished from these parts, nor can we easily forget the earnest efforts of his able coadjutor Mr. Windrem. This promising young evangelist who is pursuing his studies under the guidance of Mr. Hill, gives promise of making his mark in our church. His learning for so young a man is very remarkable, while to eloquence of a high order, he adds

> Brother Brandon, our worthy caretaker of the church, should be mentioned, not only for the light and warmth which | cheered us, but for the urbanity and kindness with which he discharged his duties, while he kept the boys in order, yet by his cool and amiable temper, he was able to do so without giving the slightest offence. We are glad to hear that there is a movement among the young converts, numbering about 200, to present a testimonial to Mr. Brandon who speaks of visiting his natal place shortly. The best wishes of our society will follow the worthy brother to Kibbereen, in the County of Cork, when he takes his dea commanding presence, and a great flexi-bility and power. May his future be bless-parture from among us. I remain yours &c., JABEZ MIGHT.

Mr. Ryley is also doing a nice, safe, business, and his son, Mr. T. G. Ryley, druggist, has succeeded beyond his most sanguine expectations.

The other drug store, formerly managed by Mr. Windlow, is now conducted by Mr. Leach, of Millbrook. Mr. Hetherington, the young man in charge, is very attentive to business, and feels confident of working up a paying business.

Mr. Richard Henders, one of the old settlers, living near Yelverston, died last week, at the advanced age of 80. Like most 'winsome little wee thing," and refused to of the early settlers, he commenced life in close economy in accumulating considerable very comfortable circumstances, and occupying a good social position. Though neither orilliant or officious, he leaves behind him the noble record-He was an honest man !

But motionless as I wait, Like a Bishop lying in state Lies the Pen with its mitre of gold, And its j wels inviolate.

Then must I speak, and say That the light of that summer day In the garden under the pines Shall not fade and pass away. I shall see you standing there, Caressed by the fragrant air, With the shadow on your face, And the sunshine on your hair. I shall hear the sweet low tone Of a voice before unknown, Saying, ' This is from me to you-From me, and to you alone.' And in words not litle and vain I shall answer, and thank you again For the gift, and the grace of the gift, O beautiful Helen of Maine! And forever this gift will be As a blessing from you to me,

DR. SMITH.

BY MARY KYLE DALLAS.

About nine o'clock, upon a bright May day, a boy in a linen suit, ornamented with daubs of all the oil colors ever mixed, rushed violently up the stairs of No. 9 -st. and rang the bell. He had, under his arm, two parcels wrapped in brown paper.

The door was opened instantly, not by a servant, but by a young lady, in a severe-looking dress of black cloth, with a very stiff linen collar fastened by a small ivory pin in the form of a skull, and wearing her hair cut short and parted at the side.

Into her hands the boy thrust the parcels and darted down the steps again. The young lady carried the parcel into the hall, laid it upon the hat rack, opened it, and disclosed a small sign, bearing these words: "Jesse Smith, M. D."

"Oh, how stupid," ejaculated the young lady. "They have spelt my name incorrectly. I'll send it back to be altered." She paused a moment.

"No, I will not," she said. "It shall remain just as it is. Why should I pub- ranged about it. There was milk and lish to every passer by the deplorable sugar, cream-cakes, cheese, bread and fact that I am a woman? Why should sex be remembered in the profession?" and she waved her hand to an imaginary

Then, seizing hammer and tacks, which lay ready for use, as the stair carpet had just been put down, she, with her own hands, hung her sign upon the outer wall, a feat not accomplished without some disaster, as she hit her fingers oftener than she did the tack heads.

Meanwhile, the youth in the linen suit, had betaken himself at full speed down the street to the steps of No. 19, where he once more rang the bell. This time the door was pulled open by a young gentleman, in a suit of glossy black.

He received the second parcel with solemn dignity, and tore the paper from it on the spot. When he had done so a second small sign was revealed, bearing upon it the words: "Jessie Smith, M. D." "Hang it, they've spelled my name wrong," ejaculated the young man. "Here boy-" But the boy was gone.

"Perhaps I can alter it myself," said the young man. "The sign ought to be up."

He walked back into the office at the end of the parlor. It was the May day carnival of New York. People were moving in and moving out of most of the houses. Within them they were plastering, papering, and painting.

On the hearth of the doctor's office stood certain paint-pots. This rash young doctor dipped a brush in a pot of black paint and carefully converted the i in Jessie into an e.

The alteration gave the sign a very smeary effect; but we are generally blind to the defects in our own artistic efforts. Dr. Smith looked at his work proudly, and soon placed it upon public view on the right hand of his street-door.

Fifteen minutes afterward the bell rang furiously, and as Dr. Jesse Smith was still his own porter, and opened it and stood face to face with an old servant:-

"Miss Primmer-wants Dr. Smithat once. Oh, dear me-I've run all the way-she's-slipped on an orange peel-

"Be there at once. What number?" asked the doctor.

"Oh, she knows-160-street," gasped the servant, and departed. In a brief space of time Dr. Smith flew up the steps of 160-street.

"The doctor for Miss Primmer," he explained, "Walk straight up, sir," replied the "You're not! Go away! I won't have you! Jesse Smith is a woman!" squealed the lady. "Oh, my ankle! You're an imposter! It's a trick of the faculty! Go away! Send Jessie Smith! Shut the door, Jane!" "My name misled her, I suppose," said the mortified young doctor to himself. "Why didn't they name John or

"Singular," said the waiter to himself. Then walking to the door of a room whence a good deal of noise issued, he said: "The doctor for Mr. Chubb," and Miss Smith entered a room where ten or fifteen men were assembled about a sofa, on which one lay with his eyes closed.

" Disgusting!" cried Miss Smith, as she hurried homeward. On the way, however, she paused to order from the | tor." restaurant certain refreshments for a party of ladies whom she had invited to celebrate her public entrance into the medical profession.

Meanwhile at number nine, Doctor Jesse Smith welcomed a number of fellow students.

"We'll have a jolly good time," he said, rather dolefully. And cigars were lit and chat began. Soon clinking and clattering was heard in an inner room. "Our little bite," said the now fledg-

An astounding bill for cigars came to number nine, and the collector being informed, with scorn, by Dr. Smith herself, that it was an infamous attempt to cheat her, launched forth into a declaration of his opinion of women doctors. The husband of a certain dressmaker, being entrusted with a dress and cloak for number nine, appeared at number nineteen, and being somewhat intoxicated, refused to believe that the young doctor had not a wife. Dr. Jesse was bidden to a suffrage meeting to which ladies only were admitted, and Dr. Jesse was asked to a stag party. And matters were in this condition when, one stormy night, Doctor Jesse, coming home from a visit to a patient, who sent for both doctors constantly and never paid either of them anything, actually passed

A grate fire burnt brightly, more brightly than he had hoped it could at that hour. He tossed his hat on the table, and, without lighting the gas, sat down and fell into a troubled reverie, from which he was aroused only by the opening of the door and the entrance of a female figure. It was too dark to see who it was, but probably some one sent in haste to summon the doctor. It advanced, threw a hat upon the table, and was about to seat itself in the very chair which Dr. Jesse Smith occupied, but recoiled with a little exclamation, and a-

An alarm of fire was sounded last night between 7 and 8 o'clock, for a fire in the second flat of Joyce & Son's sleigh factory, Duke street, Chaudiere. The fire had gained considerable headway when the brigade arrived, and it was some time before it was subdued. Owing to the inflamable material stored in the building the flames spread to the blacksmith shop, destroying a quantity of unfinished work, lumber, and tools. The loss, amounting probably to $1,000, is covered by an insurance of $1,250 in the Victoria Mutual Insurance Company. The building, which is owned by Mr. Lyman Perkins, was also badly damaged. A day or two ago detective Skeffington was informed by the Sherbrooke chief of police that a young man named James Doonen had left Sherbrooke in the last week of February, taking with him $103, and a watch, belonging to his father, and was supposed to have joined "B" Battery. Doonen left with a Mr. W. H. Bently, Brazilian Consul, is in the city on business with the government, father, though anxious to recover his property, declined to prosecute. Detective Skeffington at once proceeded to look after the case, and repaired to the citadel, where he found a recruit answering accurately the description given to him of Doonen, but who said he was Dolan, and that Doonen had left him at Richmond, after which he knew nothing of him. Noticing that he wore a watch, the detective took its number and the maker's name, in order to communicate with the father in Sherbrooke. Apparently fearing arrest, it seems that the young man on Tuesday deserted the Battery and citadel, and has not been heard of since.

The subscription books of THE TIMES are at all times open to the in-

We do not regard them as such, and our charge for each insertion is 50 cents. In future, we will not insert such notices if not accompanied by the CASH, unless they are from parties with whom we have regular accounts, as it necessitates the opening of a new account in the ledger, and the item is too small to pay for the trouble.

Craig & Son, of Port Hope, was mentioned. It will be seen from the following the statement was untrue:-

To the Editor of THE TIMES.

DEAR SIE,—We wish to state that the reference to us in a Montreal telegram, which appeared in your issue yesterday, is not correct. We have had no wool detained for undervaluation, neither have we been the "victims" of the U.S. custom house officials in any sense whatever.

WM. CRAIG & SON. -It has leaked out that G. F. H. and J G., two of Port Hope's recently victorious curlers in the Ontario tankard competition, had a contretemps in Toronto which demonstrated their excessive modesty. Two of the figures generally heard in connection with the celebrated fifteen game play a prominent part-the 13 and 14-numbers of the rooms assigned to our friends at the hotel in Toronto. The curlers started for their rooms, at about the usual hour for them, and entered them. Lo and behold! they were occupied; two ladies had possession. They did, but not in 13-14.

Everything of course passed off satisfactorily, the lecturer staying over night with a prominent gentleman of the locality. After drinking, Mr. Callender's horse started off, while he was yet putting on his gloves preparatory to getting into the buggy. He grabbed for the lines, but instead of catching them, the Horse knocked him down and put a hoof into the unfortunate young man's face. Mr. Callender dropped insensible, but after a while he recovered sufficiently to be able to crawl to his home two miles away. DEATH OF MR. JAMES ANDERSON.

It is with sincere grief that we announce the demise of this highly esteemed gentleman, whose sudden seizing with epileptic fits, we chronicled on Saturday. He was one of the most intelligent and well read gentlemen in Port Hope, and his integrity, honesty, and singleness of purpose endeared him to a large number of the inhabitants of this place. Mr. Anderson was born in Logie, Perth-shire, Scotland, in December, 1813, and consequently he was in the 67th year of his age when he was so suddenly and unexpectedly cut off. He emigrated to Canada when he was about eighteen years old, and settled in the London district, where he farmed for a short time. Leaving there, he) settled in the Township of Hamilton, where he bought a farm, situated between Port exposed places last winter, turned out heavy -We clip the following from the Smith's | Hope and Cobourg. While engaged as an agriculturist, on this farm, he married Miss Joblin, of the same township. Shortly afterwards he came to reside in Port Hope, and entered into the business of a baker, in the premises which he bought, along with the business, from the late Mr. Joseph Newman, on John street. For several years he continued in this stand, and then he went home to the old country, where he resided in the border counties of England and Scotland for nine years. While in Barnstaple, Durham, England, he lost his first wife by death. She left three children, two of whom have since died. The eldest son, John, by this wife, is in the United States, and is the only surviving member of the first family. In 1850, while in the old country, he married Miss Price, who still survives him and lives here. She had seven children, and two of them are dead. They had only one daughter, who is married, and is living in Rochester. The eldest son of this marriage, George, is also in Rochester, and there are three boys at home, the oldest 13 and the youngest 7. When he returned to this counthe John street store, and after seven years he | with stories of the N.P., raise in prices, &c., sold it to Mr. John Stevens, who still carries for in groceries and dry goods every small it on. There is much growling here—the result of a letter from the canal stating that loaded vessels will not be able to pass through it before May. Nearly all of the vessels here are loaded with ice for Lake Erie, and will suffer great loss if they are prevented from getting it forward while the weather is cold. In a period of ten or twelve years, it is surprising to note the large and varied improvements which meet you on every side. On many concessions, what were once wild wastes of bush, are now wide extended clearings on which are erected fine comfortable homesteads, flourshing orchards, with other improvements, adding each year to maternal wealth and prosperity. This is notably the case in Cartwright, but Manvers in this respect is not far behind, for although in many sections not favored with such prolific and genial soils, or like farming facilities, this deficiency is made up by pluck and go-ahead-ativeness, with an amiable desire for knowledge in everything appertaining to agricultural and domestic economy. I have in many instances been surprised at the yield of some extremely poor farms, which by proper "feeding" has realized fair returns. In stock, also, a laudable desire is shown to mprove the breed, and many farmers have intimated their intentions to invest largely in sheep, which of late years afford a steady and remunerative return. Of course the hard times have been keenly felt, but thanks to good prices and the benefits resulting from the "N. P.," the future is looked forward to with hopeful anticipations. Fall wheat is considered only a partial failure. It has been noticed that many crops. In fact none can as yet form a correct opinion, and many pros and cons are indulged in as to final results. Like Darlington, Manvers is favored with a few small embryo villages, which I am sorry to state show no signs of advancement. Jennettville, Newry, Bal'yduff, and Lotus enjoy a daily mail, and the usual amount of store and blacksmith advantages; the latter has a fine water power, which runs a carding, saw and grist mills, but from lack of enterprise and business aptitude, these industries are not doing a profitable business. I understand it is the proprietor's intention to sell out, and it is to be hoped with the infusion of new blood the village will assume a more lively aspect. Girls, Grits, groceries and groggeries, as usual, engross a large share of winter chitchat. Some of the girls have, I presume, taken advantage of leap year to enforce their rights, and as a natural consequence many marriages-about one-half being runaways

-were consummated. The Grits look abashed at the exposure of the late drinking boat of the Lieut-Governor and his party-at the public expense. Of he re-assumed the old business in course, as a set off, the public are duped keepers in many parts of the country. I trust the ladies will take note of these facts, Mr. Anderson has occupied several public and duly inform their sweet hearts and husbands when exhorbitant prices are demanded.

Having patronized but one hotel on my route, I came to the conclusion no groggeries were permissable. A tavern is certainly needed at Ballyduff, being the main route to Millbrook, Orono, Newcastle, &c. Time will accomplish the desired object, as I understand one is about to be built. We are not aware if the clerk of the weather is a favorite of the boys or not, but one thing we do know, that they have always, as to having a good evening, been thus far very fortunate, notwithstanding there was a social at Zion, a concert at Morrish, and other counter attractions the same evening. The Temperance Hall was filled, (we were going to say crammed.) The chair was taken by Dr. Oliver, who, after a short address, called in the band to give the opening piece. The music given by the boys on their new instruments was well worthy of the applause it received. The duets by Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Welsh, Misses Strong and Lockhart, were well rendered. Frank, in his solo, brought down the house, while Prof. Harris, of Hope, pleased not a few with his comic songs. A reading given by Mr. Gibbs, on music, (original) was really excellent. The rest of the programme, which was lengthy, was all (tres bon), but we think we should be derilict in our duty if we should not mention in particular the singing of Miss Truscott, of Port Hope. A Newtonville audience has had the pleasure of listening at various times to several of your Port Hope "warblers," but one and all join in saying that Miss Truscott carries off the palm.
